Hey, Coach!

Eddie Pogor, small, but powerful, stumped Mike Casteel, as well as most of his teammates, Thursday night prior to the exhibition put on by the Michigan State football team for the farm-in the locker room, Casteel was attempting to round out the first team. When he came down to the guard positions he easily spotted Lyle Rock-

Casteel turned to Pogor, asking "What guard do you play?"

Peeping Tom

Excitement reached a new peak over at North Hall Thursday night, when one of the girls discovered a peeping-tom on the hill outside of her window. She informed Curtis Beechman, "house-father," who immediately established an observation post at one of the windows. He soon spotted the intruder making his way to a more convenient spot, so grabbing his trusty .38 he rushed out after him. The villain took to his heels, and with the help of several bullets, cleared a six-foot hedge at the bottom of the hill and disappeared into the night.

Real Bull

The other day Bill Johnson of the Phi Delta Theta gang was driving his car amid the pine trees across the river when he suddenly came upon a huge animal which had the characteristic horns and wild look of a real wild-goose-bull.

Without thinking, he grabbed at the lever which blows every one of a dozen horns on his car. The bull, instead of trembling and kicking so and so high it was all the excitement boy who was leading the crowd, he was too dumb to say. Bill waited until the bull was out of sight before he ventured on.

Mixed Meters

A class in heating and ventilating was reading a manometer, an instrument similar to a thermometer and used to record air pressure, the other morning they were carefully watched by one of the visiting farmers, and when they had completed their readings he stepped up and explained the instrument very clearly. The reading was 10. He turned to the group and said, "Well, boys, it seems warmer in here than that to me."

Fools' Em

Dr. H. H. Kimber of the history department has evidently gone through Farmers' week, before the 2 o'clock section in English history met Wednesday afternoon. He slipped the door lock on a door and member of the class entered the room. About 10 minutes later he came a vigorous yank on the door knob, followed by vague utterances from a disgruntled group of students. Chuckled the professor, "I guess I fooled you this time."

To Keep Dates Straight

The Spartan Women's league will publish every Monday and Thursday mornings, beginning next week, a college bulletin carrying announcements of the time of meeting for all campus organizations for both men and women. The bulletin will include the name of the organization, the date of meeting, and the hour, and the announcements will be listed according to time. Whether the project is continued indefinitely will depend upon the response of the organizations during the first week of its operation, while it is still an experiment.

College Settles Down After Visit From 45,000 Farmers

Crowd Estimated Same as in 1937

Guests From All Over Michigan Present at Annual Event

After playing host to more than 45,000 visitors during the annual Farmers' week, Michigan State prepared to settle into its typical course today.

The program, starting Monday morning and continuing until Friday afternoon, attracted visitors from every part of Michigan. Attendance at this year's program was estimated to be approximately the same as last year by R. W. Tenny, short course director, in charge of the event.

Nearly every department on the campus sponsored either exhibits, demonstrations, or lectures for the visitors. Most of the exhibits were housed in Demonstration hall. However, other exhibits were on display in other buildings.

LIVESTOCK DISPLAYED
Prize winning college livestock and farm produce figured prominently in the displays. The home economics division presented programs in the home economics building for the benefit of women visitors.

Annual meetings were held by 25 farm organizations. At many of these officers for the coming year were elected. Wednesday and Thursday evenings general programs were held in Demonstration hall. These programs, designed to interest all visitors, attracted more than capacity crowds.

During the latter part of the week, sales of livestock and farm produce at auction and private sale were numerous. Most of these sales were made to Michigan farmers in the market for breeding stock.

PLAYS STAGED

Besides the educational part of the program, other features were offered. Plays were staged every evening and the music department presented concerts for the ruralists. During the day a rifle shooting contest, a visitors' amateur hour broadcast, and sheep dog trials were presented. Many visitors also took the opportunity to inspect the college buildings and campus, some even wandering into classes.

Club to Sponsor Talk On Indian Corn

The Sem Bot, botany scholarship society, held its initiation Thursday evening, February 3. The following people were initiated: Elizabeth VanMaren, post graduate; Vesta Green, John P. Reeder, Fred Hough, John P. Limbach and Bertil A. Krantz. Monday, February 14, the Sem Bot is sponsoring a talk by Professor Paul Weatherwax, of Indiana university, in the chemistry lecture room. Professor Weatherwax will give the Darwin University lecture on "The Origin and History of Indian Corn." The lecture is open to all who are interested.

OES Will Sponsor Lincoln Party

A Lincoln birthday party will be held in the East Lansing Masonic temple Friday, February 11, under the sponsorship of the Red Cedar chapter O. E. S. Bill Porter and his orchestra will furnish music for dancing from 9 to 12. Refreshments will be served during the evening. The following committee is in charge of the event: general chairman, E. F. Eldridge; refreshments, Mrs. Leo B. Tobey; favors, Mrs. George Whitton; publicity, W. E. J. Edwards; decorations, E. F. Eldridge.

J-Hop Tickets Remain

Few More Will Go on Sale at Accounting Office

Because of the great demand by juniors for J-Hop tickets when they went on sale last Wednesday afternoon a new block was thrown open to them. There still remains a few tickets of that new block that will be put on sale at 12:30 Monday at the accounting office.

Bill Carpenter, junior class president, said that with the tickets of the new block and the original 250, nearly 300 tickets have been sold. All committees are now at work completing arrangements and plans for the 1938 J-Hop. According to chairmen of the various committees, this year's hop will be bigger than any previous junior class party in history.

Herbie Kay will bring his orchestra to supply his sweet swing music in the Lansing Masonic temple February 11. He will feature numerous entertainers, such as Kay Wire, the Three Kays, the Kay Quartette, Fuzzy Combs, scat singer, and last but far from least is King Harvey, featured vocalist.

Whether or not Herbie Kay's wife, Dorothy Lamour, screen actress, will accompany him here for his J-Hop engagement, is not known as yet.

Herbie Kay has been invited to a party before the J-Hop by the local Beta Theta D chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Kay is a member of that fraternity.

Cherry Week Girl Chosen

Annabelle Jones Tries for Title

Annabelle Jones, a freshman home economics student from St. Joseph, was chosen yesterday to represent the state of Michigan at the National Cherry festival in Chicago the week of February 22. Miss Jones was selected from a group of three girls by the National Cherry week committee, and will compete with representatives from each state on February 22 in a national cherry pie baking contest.

The judges have been selected from the home economics association. The first prize is $100, second prize, $50, third prize, $25, fourth prize, $15, and fifth prize, $10. Each girl will have full transportation and hotel expenses paid and will stay at the Morrison hotel while in Chicago.

Secrets of Campus Politicians Bared

BY NORMAN KENTON

The jeer and gyp season is now at hand. Nominations for the positions come up Monday. In view of the fact that there will be many neophytes trying their luck at a bid for glory, we were instructed to track down James G. Hays III on his gum-peddling circuit and see what the old maestro had to say on the subject. Jimmie, present student council prexy, has held more offices in his meteoric college career than a Tammany section boss. The greatest aid towards becoming a successful politician, says James III, is to know how to be a "glad-hander." Know the names of the people in your class, and then give 'em the old Y. M. C. A. approach, he advises. "Don't be afraid to smile and give a hefty little pat on the back. Call them

Board Plans Pre J-Hop Dinner Dance

Before the J-Hop next Friday the Union board will sponsor a pre J-Hop dinner dance in the Union ballroom from 7:30 to 9:30. The party will be limited to 100 couples who will proceed to the J-Hop at the close of the dinner dance.

Frankie Prindle and his orchestra have been signed to supply the music for dancing between the dinner courses. In order to make reservations for the party it will be necessary that persons asking for reservations present their J-Hop tickets at the same time. Reservations can be made for any number of couples up to five. The price per couple will be $1.75. Tickets will go on sale at the Union desk Monday.

Last year was the first time that the party was held and 83 couples attended. Ed Flowers, Union board president, is in charge of the arrangements of the party.

Air Travel Safety Aim of Physics Experiment

New factors adding to air travel safety may soon be announced by the Michigan State physics department and weather bureau, if present experiments are successful.

W. A. Horning, of the physics department, is working in cooperation with the weather bureau, to reduce the snow hazard in flying. Regarded by pilots as one of the most serious problems facing commercial aviation, the snow problem has been credited with causing many airplane disasters.

Snowflakes, according to Horning, while they may all look alike, are somewhat different. In falling from various heights, greater pressures are exerted on the flakes, causing them to shrink to varying degrees.

Mr. Horning says that snow falling from higher altitudes shrinks more than that falling from low altitudes. By using this fact, he hopes, through instruments developed for the purpose, to be able to tell the height from which flakes fall.

These findings Mr. Horning plans to report to the weather bureau. The report will be broadcast to air pilots so they may fly above the snow clouds if possible. By use of these calculations, the weather bureau will be able to plot routes over which planes may clear the snow at the lowest altitude. If the snow falls from too great a height for the planes to clear, they may be warned to avoid that area or be grounded altogether.

Ellinwood to Speak In Seminar

Dr. L. Ellinwood, instructor in the music department, will speak informally on the subject, "Music in the Liturgical Service," in the Seminar of Worship, on Sunday, February 6. The Seminar meets at 12 noon in the student parlors of Peoples church.

On preceding Sundays, Catholic and Episcopal services have been attended by the group. The significance of the music which is a part of these services will be discussed in tomorrow's meeting. All interested students are invited to attend.

Ann Arbor Man Fined For Drunkenness

Harold N. Nelson, Ann Arbor, paid dearly for a night's entertainment. It was very late Wednesday evening when Nelson, slightly befuddled, pulled into a gas station and announced that he could not locate the room which he had rented earlier in the day.

A student volunteered to help him, and they cruised around together, until a local squad car picked them up. Despite repeated protestations concerning the medicinal nature of his stimulants, Mr. Nelson was fined $25 and costs Thursday morning. Her Heart's Desire — Flowers, Valentine Day — Jewett's Flowers. Noted Author Snow Bus Will Leave To Talk Here On First Northern Trek Sunday

Alan Villiers to Offer Two Illustrated Lectures

Alan Villiers, author and adventurer, will give an illustrated lecture Tuesday night, February 8, in Peoples church, as part of the regular student lecture course. There will be two lectures, one at 7 and one at 9 o'clock.

Mr. Villiers is the author of Wandering Windjammer, the Voyage of the Joseph Conrad, Last of the Windships, By Way of Cape Horn, and many other books on the sea and sailing ships.

His lecture will be about his adventures sailing a full-rigged ship in the tracks of the great circumnavigators of the past. He will tell about his experiences after he bought an old Danish square-rigged training ship, manned it with youths eager to gain nautical experience, and made a cruise of nearly 60,000 miles.

Along with his talk he will show motion pictures taken both at sea and ashore.

Mr. Villiers made his first American tour in 1931. Since then he has appeared at many colleges and clubs throughout the country. He proved especially popular at Stanford university and the University of California. At the latter school he has spoken seven times.

Classes Will Nominate Three Meetings Sated For Monday: Fresh To Pick Officers

Political activities will get under way on the Michigan State campus Monday, when three classes will hold nominating meetings. Under the guidance of Jimmy Hays, student council head, freshmen will gather in the horticulture lecture room to name candidates for class president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and student council and Union board members.

According to Hays, girls must be chosen for vice-president and secretary. The freshmen are entitled to one position on the student council and one on the Union board. Sophomores, led by their president, Ted Mackrell, will nominate candidates for two positions to the student council and a man and a coed for the Union board. Nominations for class officers will not be made until a later date.

Howard Swartz, substituting for Bill Carpenter, will direct junior nominations. The class of '39 will name three of its members to the student council and will also pick a coed and two men for Union board posts. Junior class officers will be nominated later in the year.

To be eligible as candidates, freshmen must have 42 credits or less, sophomores from 42 to 92, and juniors from 92 to 142. Eight hours failure or condition or eight honor points deficient will disqualify prospective candidates. Primary election will be held on the afternoon of February 16, and final election on February 24.

Washington Accident Results in Injury

Prof. H. S. Patton, head of the economics department, was injured when knocked down by an automobile in Washington, D. C., Thursday. Professor Patton is on leave of absence to assist the federal government in shaping its economic program. First reports were that he was severely injured, but it was learned yesterday that his injuries were a broken shoulder blade and several broken ribs. Professor Patton will be out of the hospital about a week, and there is a possibility that he and Mrs. Patton will return to East Lansing for about two weeks during his convalescence. For Better Farming

Farmers' week is over now, or at least almost over. That it was successful is evidenced by the large crowds and their expressions of satisfaction. But in the confusion of it all, perhaps the value of the event has been somewhat overlooked.

Not only at Michigan State college, but throughout the state Farmers' week is an institution. The thousands of progressive farmers who come to East Lansing for these annual activities not only have a good time, but also derive a great deal of profit from their visit here. The large number of departmental and other programs presented during the week are sources of useful information which helps the farmers become more efficient in their work and raises their standard of living.

Do they use this information? They must, else why would they spend their time here? The results of the continuous efforts of educators and research workers in the field of agricultural science are placed at the disposal of all who wish to partake.

Farmers' week is not something that the division of agriculture handles alone. It is an all-college affair. From the military department, which provides police service, to the waiters in concession stands, from the feature lecturers to the men who lead animals in stock exhibitions, students, faculty, and staff of all parts of the college take part.

Those who arrange the programs and details of Farmers' week, and all those who have a part in carrying out these plans, may feel satisfied that they have done a good job; they have provided a service which is of much benefit, directly or indirectly, to everyone in Michigan.—J. C. S.—SN

Red Fingernails

For a long time we've wanted to say something about red fingernails for women, but with such disturbing secondary and passing matters as wars and supreme courts irritating us, we haven't had a chance. But last week an incident in Illinois gave us the opportunity.

At a high school game, a woman was ejected by the school principal from the section where his school's rosters roared, for appearing with scarlet nails—the school color of their opponents. The woman, who had the audacity to defend herself, declared that the nails were only a "robin red" which, she declared, is the height of fashion today.

But the principal, brave man, was equal to the occasion. "Slaughter house red," sneered he, in appraising the hue of her nails. "And there we have a man among men, a courageous, spirited individual who isn't afraid of calling things by their right name. Should he ever run for President or try out for the role of Rhett Butler in

"Gone With the Wind," we intend to give him our enthusiastic support.

Red fingernails to us, have always been reminiscent of some carnivorous animal lifting its bloody claws triumphantly from the carcass of its victim. Who among us has not trembled in fear to suddenly see a bloody-hued hand thrust before his eyes, and when looking up in expectation of viewing some maddened beast, beheld instead a sweet and beguiling feminine face?

A colleague suggests that women guilty of such conduct should be liquidated or sent to Siberia, where red is, according to rumor, a rather popular color. But we have always been against harsh and unreasonable punishments at any time, and suggest instead that a law be passed calling for the chopping off of all offending fingers.

And we would like to form a Society of American College Men Who Abhor Red Fingernails—this SACMWARF to work for the passage of such legislation. Perhaps that Illinois school principal could be our first candidate for President.

—Creightonian.

Where Does Your Money Go?

"Just what are class dues for?" That's a question asked in resentful tones because of the annual formal season row between class officers and the treasurer's office concerning the hiring of bands for formal parties.

Rather than let the classes decide what band will play for their parties and whether or not the money will come from class funds to bring bands here, the college-treasurer determines how much the class can pay, and often what band will be hired. Even though class officers may protest, their objections are vetoed, and it apparently never occurs to anyone to give the classes as a whole a voice in the matter. In fact, class meetings, except for seniors, are practically unheard of except when caucuses are held before winter and spring term elections.

Because this practice has now become customary, the right of the treasurer to dictate concerning class funds is never questioned. The money is contributed by the members of the class, and it seems logical to suppose that it majority vote of the members would make the funds available.

Supervision by the treasurer was instituted about three years ago, to prevent misappropriation of funds by class officers. But supervision is something different from dictatorship, which extends to withholding names of bands from publication, contrary to the wishes of the students involved.

It can not be that the treasurer is haunted by thoughts of deficits, considering the sizeable sums that accumulate, untouched, during four years. It is difficult to imagine a class voting itself into the red, especially when prices of parties are kept unnecessarily high in order that classes make money they are not permitted to use. Just what is the money for, anyhow? Is it to be kept for a class memorial, when the people who paid it might have enjoyed it in better parties at lower cost? If so, it's a rather poor memorial that has to come unwillingly from students.

St. Aubin has the reputation of being one of the toughest streets in the toughest part of Detroit. According to folklore and legend, the East Side—which is that portion of Detroit to the East of Woodward avenue—is only partly civilized, and certainly only a fraction Americanized, as far as East Chene.

Hastings, Adams, Vernon, Brush, St. Antoine, Ripelle, Chene, Dabow, that's where you don't want to be come dusk. St. Aubin is the farthest west of the streets mentioned—on the dividing line between Little Harlem and Little Sicily.

Joe Bogotti runs a little restaurant on St. Aubin a couple of blocks or so north of Grand. Although we didn't ask him, we figured out that Joe has an even dozen little Sicilians, a wife, probably named Maria, and a 1922 Dodge truck.

Joe runs his little enterprise in a decent manner, serves a mean dish of spaghetti for forty cents a dish. With the spaghetti you get chunks of coarse Vienna bread, and your choice of beer or red ink to drink.

The boys—just the neighborhood boys—whose most frightful deed is getting a little stewed of a Saturday night—sit around a wire-legged table and play hearts during the evening. They play a loose game too.

It's a long example of "Dead End," a sociological paragon. The intermingled ethnic groups are harder to figure out than the percentage of a mongrel cat. And once you're there, you'll want to go again. There's something about pumbeled and spouted humanity that will drag you back again and again, will make you think deeply, thank the gods of the Medes and the Persians that you aren't one of them.

Cops is Cops

Spartan, business manager Fred Arnold was burned to end when a car drove along side of him Thursday night just out of New Hudson, dashed a state police stop signal, directed him to the road shoulder.

The charges were (1) passing on a hill, (2) going thru town (New Hudson) at 40 m. p. h., (3) driving in the third lane all the way.

Guess we'll just have to take you back to the judge and have you fined—maybe sent you to the bag in Pontiac for a 90-day sentence," said the copper. "Just follow us back."

So back we went thru New Hudson, at a forty mile clip, by the way. Then we waited at the Justice's house until they could round him up.

The fine came to $1.25—the instantly cash, much higher.

Skiing Terms Explained

This is the last in a series of articles by James Husted, instructor in recreational forestry.

By JAMES HUSTED

Fundamentals, rather than speed, should be the beginner's first objective. Christies, telemarks, stem-christies, and other skiing fundamentals are learned on the nursery slope, not on the downhill trails.

It will be impossible to discuss here very much about skiing technique. However I shall try to identify and describe the terms you have heard in connection with skiing.

In climbing uphill the steps used depend on the steepness of the grade. In order, one would start up the grade straight, then shift to traversing, then herringbone (named after the pattern left in the snow), then half side-step and finally side-step on the steepest part of the hill.

The stem is a basic element of ski control. The double stem, or snowplow, accomplished by holding the toes of the skis together and heels far apart, is the easiest means of checking speed, and the basis for the numerous stem turns. Hence mastery of the stem is the beginner's first forward step in the study of real control.

The Christians, usually abbreviated to "Christies," is the basis of fast controlled skiing, and in its various forms (pure Christie, open Christie, stem Christie and the jerked Christie) is more consistently and frequently used than any other turn. It is executed by swinging the heels of the skis to one side or the other of the runner's line of travel, and forcing the heels to skid faster than the tips, thus producing a turn in which both speed and direction are controlled by the character and direction of the skid.

The telemark is a Norwegian turn which is used in deep snow or when a wide long radius turn is desired. It is executed by extending the outside ski so that the tip of the inside ski is ahead of the ankle of the outside ski, and forcing the heel of the leading ski outward at an angle across the path of the trailing ski.

Every skier should familiarize himself with the technical terms used in skiing. A few of them are:

Gelembespung—A jump over an obstacle with the use of the poles while running downhill.

Skiing—A downhill race against time, controlled by pairs of flags between which the runner must pass.

Langlauf—Cross country ski racing.

Schuss—A straight ski run, usually at high speed.

Sitzmark—A backward tumble. Ski Heil—Skiers' traditional greeting.

Ski Tow—Endless rope hoist to which skiers cling with hands to be pulled uphill.

Ski Trailway—Retirement of a ski tow in which skiers sit on metal brackets attached to cable.

Trail Ways—Series of "S" turns made by jerked christies.

Tempo—High speed turn in which skiers lunge with shoulders in direction of turn, with skis close together.

Voidage—A forward lean from the ankles up with heels kept flat on the skis.

FUTURE VETERANS: Mussolini and Hitler have long advocated more babies for the sake of better wars. In Washington at a conference Better Care for Mothers and Babies, two prominent men shouldered the cause of better babies for similar patriotic reasons.

Said James Roosevelt: "The best national defense we can have are proper children growing up under proper care."

Said Fiorello LaGuardia: "Take the patriotic approach . . . The nation has an interest in every expectant mother because her child may be a boy. Even if it isn't, it at least is the potential mother of future boys."

MILLIONS FOR ARMS: CUTS FOR EDUCATION. Despite the fact that many students at M. S. C. find their education threatened by President Roosevelt's curtailment of the N. Y. A. (he has only allowed about half of the Congressional appropriation) there seems to be little concern about the President's request for a 20% increase in current authorizations for replacements in the Navy—plus additional grants for two new cruisers and two new battleships—not to mention an additional mere $15,000,000 for "experimental purposes."

Representative Vinson, chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee immediately introduced a bill authorizing an $800,000,000 program to carry out the Presidential recommendations. In the light of existing world conditions, Mr. Vinson declared, it is "absolutely imperative that we have and maintain a navy second to none."

Though observers believed that the Presidential recommendations would be followed, immediate Congressional reaction to the message varies. Democrats tended to approve, though Rep. Maverick asked just what American foreign policy was—whether it was isolation, collective security, or protection of the Western Hemisphere. Senate Republican Leader McNary gave the defense program his approval. Senator Vandenberg asked for facts to justify the arms expenditures. Peace organizations meanwhile spoke critically of the President's message.

OVERHEARD ON THE CAMPUS: From an R. O. T. C. student whose parents grumble about heavy taxes: "My uniform doesn't cost me anything, the government gives it to us."

U. S. MAKES PROGRESS—BACKWARDS! In all respects the Naval situation today is back where it was in 1922. Not only are we sinking a lot of money into a project whose value is dubious and whose purpose ill-defined, but we have lost certain other gains made by the Treaties of 1922, namely:

- 1. Heavy, unlimited building.
- 2. No limit to size of ships.
- 3. Reversion to secrecy.

Who said peace is cowardly, lazy, passive and quiescent—it must be striven for and zealously maintained every single moment. Peace, like democracy, cannot be inherited. It must be attained anew and afresh in the experience of each generation.

If you go to Lewis Institute of Technology you can hire someone to think for you.

One student there has started a card index of students who complain they forget such vital details as their sweetheart's birthdays or when they last had a haircut.

All that embarrassment is now eliminated. Instead of running around with their fingers tied up in strings they call their remembering service. The service thumbs a card and presto, up comes the dope.

Engineers Feature T-Square Setting At Annual Ball

Robert Madill, Eleanor Finch Lead March as Frankie Master's Band Plays; Three Winter Term Formals are Listed Saturday Night

The engineers illustrated the versatility of the "T-square" at their ball in the Masonic temple last night by dressing it up in black and silver and using it for lining up dance programs instead of blue prints. The maestro Frankie Master's personal use, they set up on the stage a large T-square, "grandpappy" of all the program T-squares.

Robert Madill, general chairman of the event, led the grand march with Eleanor Finch, Lansing junior. Miss Finch wore a dress of ice-cream satin, with narrow straps over the shoulders, and a flowing skirt.

Joseph Lash, ticket chairman, escorted Mina Hahn, home economics junior, who was dressed in a cream-colored satin gown with white sleeves and slightly flared skirt.

Patrons for the engineer's annual party were Prof. and Mrs. L. Muller, Prof. and Mrs. L. Hill, and Mrs. E. B. Hill, and Mr.

Catholicism Is Opening Subject

Speakers for Three Faiths to Appear in Peoples Church

Contributions of the three great religious faiths to present conditions is the theme of the third annual religious lecture series, opening Sunday. The series is sponsored by the Michigan State college Y. M. C. A.

Representatives of Roman Catholicism, Judaism, and Protestantism will speak on three consecutive Sundays at the Peoples church.

Father J. R. Day, speaking for Catholicism, will open the series tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock. He will be followed by Rabbi Leon Fram, who will lecture on February 13. Dr. Edgar DeWitt Jones will conclude the series when he presents the Protestant viewpoint February 20.

The lectures are of an all-campus nature, with several groups assisting the Y. M. C. A. A different fraternity group will usher each Sunday, and members of the Newman club, a Catholic student organization, and the Hebrew student club, will also take part. The college music department will furnish the music for each program.

Students are invited to share in an informal discussion with each of the speakers on his respective Sunday evening at the meeting of the Student Christian union in the student parlors of the church at 7 p. m.

Roger P. Wilcox, president of the Spartan "Y," will serve as chairman of the opening program. Pat Gormely, president of the Newman club, will introduce the speaker. The MSC a Capella choir, directed by William Kimmel, will sing Kyrie from "Missa Aeterna Christi Munera" by Palestrina; "Agnus Dei" by Kalinnikov, and "Berchu Es Adony," from Jewish liturgy. Margaret Kelley will play the organ prelude. Ushers for this Sunday will be from Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity.

Father Day, who opens the series, is from Three Oaks. He is a European traveler, having just returned from a trip abroad. He is chairman of the Michigan Welfare commission and chaplain of the Michigan Legion. During the world war he served as a private in the ambulance service. Father Day's topic tomorrow will be "Catholicism's Contribution to the Present Day."

Tank Squads Rated Even for Second Meet of Year

Second and Third Places Expected to Decide On Inactive List as Two Men Recover Winner: Mac Gorton Only Spartan Regular

Facing their second Big Ten rival in a row, State's swimming forces are prepared to meet the invasion of Purdue set for 8:00 o'clock tonight in the Spartan pool.

Advance notices of the strength of the invaders indicate the teams will be evenly matched. Purdue does not boast the power possessed by Michigan, and for this reason hopes for a State victory are high. The results of the battle with the Wolverines served to give the State tankers an idea of what they are capable of, and this knowledge is sure to aid them in their clash with the Boilermakers. The mistakes made against Michigan have been carefully ironed out, and in time trials held this week plenty of pep was displayed.

State's mermen will be at full strength with the exception of Mac Gorton, who is still on the inactive list. Al Sims, free stylist, and Ladd Loomis, breaststroker, have returned to harness after periods of illness.

As usual the Spartans will depend on proven performers to bring them a victory, although there is a chance that others will find themselves. Those counted on to win their events are Al Brightman, breaststroker; Bill Bell, Preston Bell, Lynn Williamson and Bob Tossar, free style; George Callahan, diver; and Al Black and Bill Carr, backstroke.

With a close meet in prospect, the team that can take the measure of seconds and thirds should win for it appears doubtful either one will make a runaway of the first places. Bleachers for students will be erected downstairs, and the pool will again be cooled as it was for the Michigan meet.

In Block 4 the Delta Chi and Pi Kappa Phi battled for second place with the Delta Chis winning three straight games. W. J. Seniors Lead In Track Battle

Woodstra, McDurmon Tie Meet Record in High Hurdles

With the seniors pulling steadily into the van the nineteenth annual interclass indoor track meet enters its final day of competition. Taking four firsts in four events run yesterday the seniors swelled their total to 59 5-6 points to lead their nearest rivals, the juniors, by 25 points.

Harvey Woodstra and Claire McDurmon, both seniors, tied the meet and varsity records by running the 40-yard high hurdles in 5.4 seconds. McDurmon tied the record, which he already held jointly, in one of the elimination heats. Woodstra's record-tying effort came in the final heat in which he was first and McDurmon second.

PLENTY OF TIES

The 440 turned out to be a headache for the scorekeepers. The first four places were shared by seven men. Bob Hills, senior, took a clean first in 37.3 seconds, but there were ties in all other positions. Ed Lautenschlager and Roy Fire, both sophomores, split second and third, and three men shared in the one point for fourth place. The seniors' sweep of first places was completed by Art Jenkins and Loda Habrie. Jenkins won the shot put with a heave of 43 feet 4 1/2 inches. Habrie soared over the bar at 12 feet even to take the pole vault.

The only event run Thursday was won by Dick Frey, sophomore. The other three scoring places went to seniors, with Waite Grantman and Green finishing in that order.

With but three events left in the meet, the seniors look like sure winners. Only six points separate the second-place juniors and the sophomores, who now occupy third place. The high jump, two-mile, and the relay are the sophomores' last chance to slip into the runners-up position.

Farmers' week activities in the gymnasium of Demonstration hall has been analyzed freshman basketball activities this week.

Had the yearling basketballers insisted on practicing they would have found themselves dribbling between aisles of grain and shooting from behind cornstalks. After several attempts to procure a satisfactory gym had failed, the "freshies" swallowed their disgust and confined themselves to their modern expanse.

However, despite the lack of drills, the first year men swing back into action Saturday night against Flint Junior college in the motor city. Previously defeated by the Spartan yearlings, the revamped Flint quintet have won their last two games and promise to give the Spartan yearlings a better battle than they displayed in Demonstration hall two weeks ago.

Coach Tom King is coping with that ever-present disease of any winning team, overconfidence. Its previous 33-15 victory over the Flint team has established the yearling quintet as overwhelming favorites. It is the fear of the coaching staff that perhaps it has gone to the "freshies' head.

King has announced that he will take from 12 to 15 players and that the squad will leave the gym at 2:30 Saturday afternoon. A previously scheduled game for Thursday with General Motors Tech quintet at Pontiac has been rescheduled for Saturday, February 12, at East Lansing.

Spartans Counting on Him

Dick Frey, sophomore distance runner, is expected to score more than his share of points during the coming indoor track season. State opens its dual meet campaign facing Michigan Normal at Ann Arbor next Saturday.

Deadline Nears! Boxing Entries Close Today

The punches will begin punching and the boxers will begin boxing next Tuesday. The occasion will be the Annual All-College boxing tournament.

With a record number of men signed up, Coach L. D. Burhans is looking for a tournament that will produce plenty of action and probably some good boxers. The entry deadline is Saturday at 5 o'clock, and the pairings will be posted Monday on the bulletin board in the gym. The preliminaries will start at 5:00 Tuesday afternoon in the gym.

Varsity Mat Team Wins

Defeats Yearlings, 21 to 9; Faces Northwestern Next

Now that the Varsity has defeated the frosh wrestling team's baloon, they can settle back into the routine preparations for their next match with Northwestern next Saturday.

Thursday night before a large and enthusiastic Farmers' week crowd the Varsity matmen defeated the strong frosh team, 21 to 9. The meet, with the exception of the first two bouts, was much closer than the score would seem to indicate. In the 125 pound division Crowe of the Varsity and Eiler of the Frosh wrestled to a draw. Lloyd Russell, freshman, lost the decision to Cliff Freiberg, Varsity 145 pounder, by one point.

Bill Martin, colorful frosh 155 pounder, won an easy decision from Paul Kellog, nearly pinning him on two occasions. Charley Hulson, defeated Steve Slezak, varsity light heavyweight, by a decision. Dale Stevenson pinned the inexperienced frosh heavyweight, Art Faggon, in 5:00. Gordon Major of the Frosh, and Dave Pletz of the Varsity, wrestled to a draw in the 165 pound class.

The varsity won the 118 pound class by default and Gordon Purdy, frosh 126 pounder, pinning him in 3:10. The Frosh travel to Dearborn today to meet the strong Dearborn Boys club, while the varsity are idle over the weekend.

State Awaits Game With Badgers

Spartans Rated Favorites to Topple Wisconsin Five Tonight

By VIC SPANIOLO
Rated the best chance in recent years, Michigan State's basketball team awaits its tilt tonight at Madison.

The Spartans pin their hopes of victory on a fast improving front line which has played the leading role in all of State's wins games so far this season. Although only sophomores, the trio composed of Frank Shidler, Marty Hutt and George Falkowski provided the spark as well as the sharpshooting that has enabled the Spartans to win eight out of 12 contests.

Coach Ben VanAlstyne is said to stick to the same lineup that he has started in the previous game. Leo Callahan and Howard Kniffel will be at the guard posts, Shidler at center, with Hutt and Falkowski holding down the forward positions.

Although the State five will enter the game a favorite, Wisconsin has demonstrated against Minnesota and Michigan that the Badgers can play a great brand of ball. It will be remembered that Wisconsin is one of the two Big Ten teams which boast victories over the vaunted Wolverine five. Wisconsin, though not having the scoring power that the Spartans display, boasts one of the strongest defenses in the Middle West. Pinned by the work of Mannie Frost and Lee Mitchell at the guards, the Badgers have checked the scoring of the opposition.

From Madison, the Spartans move on to Lexington, Kentucky for a game with the University of Kentucky Monday night. This will be the second meeting between the two.
