

Juniors Will Present Annual J-Hop At Masonic Temple Tomorrow

ALPHA CHI OMEGA—The Alpha Chi's are celebrating the tenth anniversary of the founding of the local chapter Saturday. A luncheon will be held in honor of visiting members from Ann Arbor and Albion chapters. The winter term formal will be Saturday night at the Olds hotel. Irene Nelson and Ruth Baker were pledged last Friday.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA—The district president, Mrs. "Rock" Williams, was here Tuesday and was guest of honor at a tea. Dean Elizabeth Conrad and Madame Sara Conrad were dinner guests Wednesday night.

HESPERIAN—Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Wilkins, Dean and Mrs. F. T. Mitchell and Dean and Mrs. R. C. Hutson will be patrons at the annual pre-J-Hop dinner.

Decorations To Feature Maytime

Not to be outdone by old man weather's recent spurge of spring sunshine, the decorations for the 1938 J-Hop in the Lansing Masonic temple tomorrow night, will glorify the "season of all seasons" in an even more extravagant fashion.

In the center of the dance floor a raised platform banked high with palms, ferns, forsythia, and bright spring flowers will support a huge white swan.

Directly above this centerpiece, an enormous cellophane ball, flanked by two smaller balls, will rotate in an array of rainbow lights.

Highly polished metal giving a mirrored effect will cover the band shell on the stage, furnishing a background for Herbie Kaye's music. On either side of the foreground will stand a tall silver panel decked out with top hat and cane. The latter effect will be reiterated in circular disks suspended from the balcony.

Mexican Art Explained

Katherine Winkler's Displays Illustrate Lecture

Miss Katherine Winkler, art re-partment, gave an informal talk on "Art in Mexico" to the Y. W. C. A. handicraft group, Wednesday afternoon. She also displayed many pieces of Mexican handicraft which she brought back from her trip in Mexico two years ago.

She stressed the fact that whatever type of art the Mexicans do is merely a natural expression of their joy of living. Back in the native village where she was fortunate enough to visit, people who had never heard of commercial trade, were making wonderful pieces of pottery in which to bake beans. Women working in the fields were wearing richly embroidered costumes, dresses on which hours of labor had been spent, and merely because of their love of beauty.

"Another point stressed was that all their designs are original. A Mexican, until he is thoroughly industrialized would not think of using another person's design. It is a common sight to see small children walking along the street, weaving patterns into scraps of cloth. Practically everyone in Mexico does some sort of art work, the speaker pointed out."

College Bulletin

The Junior Farm Bureau will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in organization room No. 2 of the Union.

Student club will have a Valentine party at 8 p. m., Friday, February 11 in Peoples church. Evelyn Dawe is general chairman. Refreshments will be served.

All official independent candidates for the coming elections are asked to meet at 2 p. m., Saturday, in the Little theater, home of building.

Alpha Gamma Delta

Marion Roberts was pledged recently.

The Alpha Gams are holding a rummage sale Friday and Saturday to provide money for summer camps at which under-privileged children stay.

Two men and one woman will be chosen from this group.

Students Give Three Plays

Woman's Club Entertained by Students

Three one-act plays were presented by advanced dramatic students of Michigan State college under the direction of Dr. W. F. Thompson and Donald Buell before the East Lansing Women's club Monday afternoon.

The first play, "Little Prison," centered around a stalled elevator in a department store. Students taking part were Shirley Townsend, Eleanor Jackson, Catherine D. By June Laing and Peggy Fox.

The second play had a Russian setting and was given by Shirley Cove, Mary Deanda and Edmond Hudson.

The last play was an amusing sketch of an actress, no longer young, who deeply regretted having signed a contract revealing her age. Students in this play were Lucy Shepherdson, Marston Busch, Mary Ida Austin and Robert Elomons.

Piano duets were played by Mrs. Malcolm Trout and Mrs. Forrest Musselman. Chairman of the program was Mrs. Jackson Towne.

24 Names may be added to the lists already nominated by a petition signed by 75 members of the class to be represented and handed in to the dean of men by 5 p. m., February 14.

A. W. S. ballots are not yet tabulated. The results will be announced later.

Two checkers will identify the corsages by comparing the applicant's ticket number to that recorded on the ticket stub along with the color of the woman's dress and the type of corsage.

William Carpenter, junior president, has asked for the cooperation of the guests in the corsage distribution in order that it may be carried out smoothly. Couples are requested to check their coats beforehand.

If anyone has neglected to fill in the specifications for the corsage on the ticket stub, he is urged to telephone Magrieta Gunn immediately.

TO LEAD MARCH

Leading the grand march at the party will be Bill Carpenter, class president, and his guest, Margaret Pemberton, liberal arts freshman from Lansing.

Again there will be a pre-J-Hop dinner dance from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. in the Union ballroom, with dancing between courses to Frankie Frenck's music. Attendance will be limited to 100 couples who plan to attend the party.

All corsés will have 4 o'clock permission for the J-Hop. No special action has been taken on cuts on the Saturday morning after the hop.

Two sets of patrons will chaperone the party. Prof. and Mrs. L. L. Frenck and Prof. and Mrs. B. R. Froulx will attend from 9:30 to 12:30. From 12:30 to 3:30 Prof. and Mrs. C. S. Dunford and Capt. and Mrs. O. M. Barton will chaperone.

There will be free parking at a service lot and in a parking lot across from the Masonic temple.

CLASS ALLOTTED TWO

Sophomores are to be allotted two Union board representatives, one man and one woman. These will be chosen from the following nominees: Patrick Roach, West Branch; Jane Hazen, Ann Arbor; Martin Hurt, Schenectady, N. Y.; Wilson Scates, East Lansing; Jim Kelley, Cooperville; Jean Shearer, Grand Ledge; Janet O'Hara, East Lansing; and Doris Scherer, Lansing.

Sophomores also nominated for two Student council posts Ted Mackrell, Snyder, N. Y.; Dick Nahstoll, East Lansing; Bob Fichtel, Calumet; Richard Frey, East Lansing; George Cooe, Dearborn; Lyle Rockenbach, Crystal Lake, Ill.; and Charles Scribner, Lansing.

The primary election will be Wednesday, February 16, and the final election will be held February 17.

MSC Alumna Honored

E. R. Johnson Attends Syracuse U.

Elizabeth R. Johnson of 619 Evergreen, who was graduated from M. S. C. in 1935, is one of 12 students named to the honor roll in the school of literary science at Syracuse university for the first semester. It has been announced by Wharton Miller, director of the school.

Miss Johnson has resumed her classes after spending two weeks gaining practical training in the Trenton, N. J., public library, fulfilling a course requirement.

She was also one of the 36 library students who left the campus January 17 for the annual four-day trip to New York where she inspected such libraries as the Pierpont Morgan library, New York public library, Municipal Reference library, and the libraries of Columbia and Fordham universities.

Semifinals Are Listed Today As Boxers Exhibit Class

By CHARLES DUTTON

After two afternoons of fighting, the preliminaries of the all-college boxing tournament have been run off with the usual number of knockouts and green fighters throwing wild punches all over the place.

Of the two nights, Tuesday night's bouts showed the better boxing. While there were only two knockouts, compared with three on Wednesday night, there was more real boxing on the first night.

Semi-finals are on top today, starting at 5 p.m.

Herb Sayers, freewheeling welterweight, lived up to advance notices and won his bout from Sheerhorn on a decision. Another man who looked especially good was Robert Stout, a freshman 145-pounder, who won over Kelly on a technical knockout in the second round. Stout showed a hard punch and a cool head.

Gordon Dovey, another frosh, won the crowd's approval although he did lose. His opponent, John Heman, a hard-hitting 145-pounder, was too good but Dovey kept coming in throughout the fight and was still swinging when the last round ended, although he could hardly see.

Jack Wagner, inexperienced welterweight, started slowly but in the third round put Jack Kalp down for the count.

On Wednesday night the feature bout was between Leo Bruckner, burly Spartan quarterback, and Julian Pregelman. Going the way of all heavyweight bouts, both boys went at it at a furious pace for the first two rounds. Bruckner gained the upper hand by virtue of his long powerful right and left hand punches that did a great deal of damage. In the third round both boys moved around at a snail's pace with Bruckner gaining whatever advantage there was.

- Results:
- 126 Pound Class: Hamilton defeated Sheerhorn. Bruckner defeated Stout. Stout knocked out Kelly. Wagner knocked out Kelly.
  - 115 Pound Class: Zindler knocked out Kelly.
  - 136 Pound Class: Jack defeated Kelly.
  - 145 Pound Class: Brummowski knocked out Ellis.
  - 165 Pound Class: Costello knocked out Jacobson.
  - 175 Pound Class: Dunn knocked out Kelly.
  - Heavyweight: Bruckner defeated Pregelman.

Trojans Win Close Game at Owosso

East Lansing basketball team nosed out a stubborn Owosso high school Tuesday night at Owosso when they stayed off a last-minute Owosso rally to win, 30-29.

Max Phillips was both the hero and the goat of the game, for after he had made the basket that sent the Trojans out in front, 20-28, he was caught fouling Mike Scriba, which gave Owosso an opportunity to knot the score.

Trojan rosters held their breaths as Scriba strode calmly to the free throw line and neatly dropped the first shot through the hoop. His second shot rolled lazily around the rim and then dropped off and the Trojans retained possession of the ball the remaining half minute of the game.

Ty Anderson and Max Phillips led the Trojans in the scoring column, Anderson counting 11 points and Phillips 10.

SPORT INTERLUDES-

No Wonder

By GEORGE MASKIN

The annual late season cry of "What's wrong with the State basketball team," again fills the campus air.

Once more it is the old story of the Spartans getting off to an auspicious start and then striking a snag from which they are unable to emerge during the balance of the season.

The State cagers, who won seven out of their first nine games this winter, now have dropped four decisions in the last five times out to avenge an earlier defeat at the hands of the Wolves.

On past performances, Michigan is rated the favorite because of Jake Townsend, Wolverine key man. In their last meeting, the Spartans gave Michigan quite a tussle before bowing 43 to 40. But

Limited Period

Not only does State engage some of the crack teams of the nation each year, but it must battle these foes in a limited period, shorter than that of most leading basketball quintets.

The Spartans lose possession of their floor in Demonstration hall February 15, giving it up to the military department. Without the court, State obviously has no place to stage games and practice, thus the curtailing of the season.

Since the strenuous part of the season generally doesn't start until the opening of winter term, Coach Ben VanAlstyne is faced with the task of cramming the greatest part of his team's schedule in the six-week period from January 1 to February 15.

VanAlstyne has succeeded in arranging top-notch schedules. But in doing so he has forced his team to suffer.

Was Too Much

The present Spartan five hasn't recovered from the seven games it played in 17 days last month. During the two and a half weeks, State met Missouri, Case, California, Kentucky, Hawaiian All Stars, Buffalo and Syracuse—all ranked high in the collegiate cage world.

No team could withstand that schedule program without paying for it. The Spartans showed none of their class in the Marquette and Butler tests here, and still were off their game against Wisconsin and Kentucky on the road.

The future, as far as this season is concerned, doesn't differ much hope for State. The Spartans must meet Michigan, Marquette and Notre Dame before calling it quits for the year.

Picked to Win

Michigan and Marquette already have defeated State this winter, and will rule favored to repeat their victories, especially the Toppers, who take on State at home.

Notre Dame again is moving at a fast pace, and even the most ardent State rooster can't vision a Spartan victory on the South Bend court.

The Spartans have a strong basketball team, one capable of holding its own against any opponent, were it not for the cramped schedule. Given until the first of March, a privilege enjoyed by other basketball teams, State wouldn't have to kill itself by playing seven games in 17 days.

At present, the Spartans close their year in the heart of the season. Basketball is a forgotten sport here as Big Ten and hundreds of other teams are battling it out for victories and championships.

Four Athletic Attractions Booked Here Saturday

Michigan State's gymnasium and Demonstration hall will be busy places this Saturday.

Headlined by the basketball game between the Spartans and the University of Michigan, two other varsity teams and the frosh cagers are scheduled to see action Saturday.

Loser in the last two games, State's varsity five will attempt to regain their winning stride against the ever-powerful Wolverines. In addition State will be out to avenge an earlier defeat at the hands of the Wolves.

On past performances, Michigan is rated the favorite because of Jake Townsend, Wolverine key man. In their last meeting, the Spartans gave Michigan quite a tussle before bowing 43 to 40. But

The Michigan State track squad opens its intercollegiate season when it meets Michigan Normal Saturday at Ann Arbor. The Spartans should repeat their victory performance of last year. The meet is being held in the Waterman gym which has a track similar to State's. However, it is a longer circuit, and this means fewer turns in the longer races. A full squad will compete. Following the meet with Normal, State will have seven intercollegiate meets in as many weeks. Greer in the 50-yard dash, Woodstra in the hurdles, Frey in the mile, Waite in the two-mile and Habrie in the pole vault are favored to win their events. The 890 looks like a toss-up between Lautenschlager of State and Wyble of Normal, and a three-sided battle in the shot is expected between Jenkins and Bremer of State and Hathaway of Ypsil.
