Low Bridge

The man who built a boat in the basement of his house and couldn't get it out without tearing down a wall has nothing on the girls at Concord house. Taking part in the annual water carnival, the 18 girls living at Concord eagerly went about the business of building a float.

No Trespassing!

Whether they know it or not, several starchy-eyed Romeo and Julietts have been either unconsciously violating tradition or have been rushing in where you couldn't hire an angel to tread.

Splat!

It was tomatoes at forty paces for two valiant gladiators on the banks of the Red Cedar Tuesday noon.

Doff

When the tomatoes ran out and inventory was taken, the boys were forced to doff their nice clean (?) shirts in favor of sweatshirts.

Pageant Set To Open Friday

A dramatic presentation of old fairy tales and legends, "A Night in Fairyland," on the Red Cedar river, both tomorrow and Saturday nights, will climax the efforts of the Water Carnival committee to make the fifteenth traditional pageant the most colorful of all.

Athletic events open the carnival both evenings, beginning at 7:30 with preliminaries on Friday and finals on Saturday.

Before the first float starts at 9 p. m., Friday, Frank Gaines and Jeanne Beukema, king and queen of the carnival, will be escorted to their places at the throne by Joe Ruhe and June Olive, president and vice-president-elect respectively, of the senior class.

MURPHY TO ATTEND

Robert Ritter, Dundee junior, has been selected as commentator for the water show in which 43 organizations have contributed floats.

On Saturday night, Excalibur will tap new members and R. H. Young, director of athletics, will present the athletic scholarship to the senior athlete with the highest scholastic honors.

Found: Wearers For Your Old Clothes

Seldom do college students, many of whom are under continual financial stress, have an opportunity to contribute to charity or to aid certain of their fellow men who may be suffering for want of food and clothing.

But this week Saturday the Student Council is offering students of Michigan State college that opportunity. The council's project requires no outlay of money from students who want to contribute. Instead of cash, castoff clothing will be collected. This clothing will then be taken to the school for the blind in Lansing, where it will be a highly prized and much needed gift.

So why not dig back in your trunk or to the bottom of your dresser drawer and see if you can find at least one article of clothing that is still usable but that you would have discarded had it not been for this Student Council project.

It may be a shirt with a slightly frayed collar, or a dress whose lines do not conform with this year's styles, or a hat that refuses to go with your new suit, or a necktie of unfortunate hue.

Whatever it is, there is a blind student who would welcome its entrance into his wardrobe. He will appreciate it greatly if you turn the article in to your house social chairman or phone Dean Mitchell's office that you have a contribution. Saturday noon is the deadline.

The Readers Speak: Of Shylock

To the Editor:

The "Merchant of Venice" does not portray a state of innate cruelty, of inherent sadism, of natural inexorable hate. Its purpose is to show the logical result of persecution and spurning, the perversion of a human being into a warped channel whose walls shriek "Revenge," and to show the logical result of abuses and spittings heaped upon a person and his race for reasons never clearly defined in all of history.

Shylock, through birth's accident, was a Jew, a Hebrew, defined by law to definite costumes, habits and possessions; one of a race not allowed to own land or to possess position on penalty of confiscation, torture and imprisonment. Thus he turned to money, to his "ducats," as a substitute for what a heritage of Christian despising had taken from him. He, a remnant of the warrior Maccabees; a member of a cultured, noble and great nation; blood-kin to a Jesus Christ whose doctrines Shylock's persecutors professed to practice (the golden rule and brotherly love); became a usurer. He entered a trade now practiced by the most respected men, regardless of religion and race, a trade then despisable because of his association with the Jew.

This play does not wish to give an exonerated of Shylock's acts and deed in pursuit of his monomania but it does hope to explain how contempt, disdain and hatred heaped upon the shoulders of a man because of his ancestry for no logical reason, aided by a person loved and trusted, a person (Jessica, his daughter) who violated two sacred tenets of the Ten Commandments: "Thou shalt not steal," and "Honor thy father and thy mother." It does hope to explain how these things were the final straws to crack a man's emotions into shattered pieces with each shrieking "Revenge."—EDWARD R. GEWIRTS.

Quotable Quotes

—By Associated Collegiate Press

"I assume that vocational and professional training, weighed in and rightly proportioned with other phases of education and daily living, is worth doing. But I do quarrel with overstressing such training to the exclusion of all other life values." University of Minnesota's Dean Malcolm MacLean okes vocational education — with reservations.

—The answer to an ever more-complex civilization and increasing numbers of students, is a type of education which will lead for the greater number to well-rounded understanding of a field rather than a narrow, if deep, specialty." The University of California's Pres. Robert Gordon Sproul charts a new procedure for higher education.

Professor Answers Questions About City-Manager Government

Editor's Note: East Lansing citizens brought the following questions concerning the city-manager type of government to Professor Caswell, who answers them here in part.

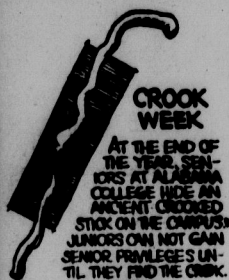

By J. T. CASWELL

1. What will the people vote for on June 15, 1938, in the City of East Lansing?
Ans. 1. On the question of changing the present system of mayor-council type of government to the city-manager type.
2. They also will vote for 9 electors who will be empowered to write a new city charter for East Lansing. This new charter must be completed within 90 days. The people of East Lansing will vote upon the new charter. Those who write the charter will not be the commission to run the government. The members of the city commission will be elected later.
3. What are the particular advantages claimed by the advocates of the city-manager type of city government?
Ans. 1. That the administrative functions of the city will be administered by an expert well versed in the business side of city life.
2. That it separates the political side of the city from the business side.
3. That cities that have adopted the manager form of government seem to be better satisfied with the working of the various activities of the city

- than they were with the mayor-council type.
4. That the set-up resists the pressure of factional or pressure groups better than the mayor-council type.
5. That expenditures of money are more carefully planned. This has been the repeated story of the city government of Cincinnati.
6. What are the general weaknesses of the city-manager form of government?
Ans. 1. Limitations placed upon the city commission to go outside to obtain a city manager to run the city. This limitation is usually political in nature. However, local city managers have been chosen who have done well.
2. Will there be a council or commission under city-manager government, and what will be their functions?
Ans. There will be a commission or council of 5, 7 or 9 men who will be elected for a definite length of time who will determine the policies that are to be carried out by the city manager. This council will have charge of the expenditures and determine how the money is to be spent.
3. Will there be a mayor under the city-manager type of government?
Ans. Yes. Every city in Michigan must have a mayor. The mayor is chosen by the commission from one of its own members. The chief functions of the

Yearbook Grows Slowly From Simple 'Dummy'

Now that the 1938 Wolverine has become history, the staff members have time to sit back, relax and enjoy life. Their thoughts may perchance turn back to the beginning of the year's work and trace the growth and development of the object of their efforts.

Plans for the 1938 book began away back in March, 1937, when Bill Ingleson conceived the "dummy." The dummy is a plan for the book and consists of the same number of pages as a real Wolverine only with sketches and scribbles instead of real pictures and printed matter.

The first important problem, however, was a sales campaign. Perhaps you can remember during freshman and registration week when every student was offered an opportunity to buy a Wolverine.

For the editorial staff the first step was to gather copy and photographs to use in constructing the dummy. This required much work and patience on the part of each associate editor as he needed to have the best pictures available and do his best to see that no one was overlooked. The classes editor arranged appointments at the photographer's for each enrolled student, the organizations editor did the same for each club and honorary fraternity, the societies editor scheduled the time for each fraternity and sorority on campus to be photographed, and the sport's editor gathered as much material as he found.

This took about five months. All this time the business manager, Bennie Core, was paying bills and trying to sell more Wolverines and advertising space.

About the middle of February the dummy was sent to the engraver. It then contained the pictures and copy materials that has been collected. "Proof," preliminary printed pages, soon found their way back to the office and were corrected.

This done, the index was started. The index took a long time to finish as a check was made for each page and the name of every person appearing in a picture there was checked on a file, which later became the index you see on the last few pages of your Wolverine.

The proof was then sent back, and there was little to do but wait until the books arrived. It is a big day in the life of every staff when the books are delivered. With the delivery, another big job presented itself and distribution started. A big crowd was present at first, but as time passed, the crowd grew smaller.

Projectors Used For Research

South Hadley, Mass.—(ACP)—Students of Mount Holyoke, Smith and Amherst colleges will soon be doing their library research work with the aid of a projector reading machine.

Some Schools Favor Term System

By ELMER E. WHITE

Editor's Note: The State News has gathered material from other campuses concerning the advantages and disadvantages of the semester system in regards to the quarter system. This is the second of the two articles which deal with the problem.

Organizing the school system under the quarter plan meets the approval of the college student largely because each term terminates at the beginning of a vacation. Obviously the student doesn't need to study or worry and is free to enjoy himself.

"The subdivision into three terms gets rid of the month between New Year and the first of February when the semester ends, which is generally a useless and confusing interruption in the middle of a busy term," writes Dr. Robt. G. Ramsay of Olivet college. This is another good argument that the year is naturally divided so that three terms are more desirable than two.

The University of Chicago writes, "The four quarter system makes it possible for students to enter at the beginning of any of the quarters and degrees are also given at the end of each of the quarters. The student may take any one of the four quarters for his annual vacation or he may work all four consecutively, and thus shorten the time required for his degree."

The quarter system enables the student who wishes to attend summer school a much better opportunity to make up lost credit or gain extra credit toward his degree.

The plan used by Michigan State also makes possible the full utilization of the buildings during the twelve months of the year.

With all the arguments summed up, there seem to be points on either side. Which of the two systems is better rests upon importance, the judge places upon the various characteristics of each plan. It is up to the student to decide which method he prefers when selecting an alma mater for himself.

New York City—(ACP)—An eight per cent increase in the number of Chinese students studying in U. S. colleges and universities to a total of 2,338 is reported in the new Directory of Chinese Students in America.

Classes will be held in the studios of the art department in the Union annex on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. The group will be limited, and a small fee will be charged for the cost of materials.

Many different kinds of art media will be available to the children, according to Miss Goetsch. June 14 is the last day for enrollment in the class.

Four Receive Permanent Status

'Sentenced' at Mock Trial; S. E. Crow Named New Prexy

Professors E. Mumford, E. H. Ryder, W. A. Hedrick and E. L. Grover were 'sentenced' to life membership in the Michigan State Faculty club at a mock trial held yesterday at the last weekly luncheon meeting of the year.

The trial was staged as a tribute to the four members, who are retiring at the end of the summer. They are the first to receive life memberships to the club.

Prof. S. E. Crow was elected president of the organization for next year. Prof. R. V. Gunn was elected vice-president. Prof. B. G. Grove, secretary, and J. Shepers, treasurer.

Those who will serve on the house committee are Prof. H. J. Stafeth, K. H. McDonel and Prof. W. L. Mallman. These three also served during this year.

Elected to the auditing committee were Prof. E. B. Hill, Prof. W. D. Bates and Prof. O. Ulrey. P. J. Schable was selected to serve on the board of directors.

Tuesday night the final dance of the year was held in the Union ballroom. Bill Porter's orchestra played. Over a hundred couples attended and refreshments were served during the intermission.

The year's average attendance for the Wednesday luncheons was released at the meeting at 110 and the average for social events as 188. Professors O. L. Snow, L. C. Plant and C. M. Neulin served as tellers at the luncheon meeting.

Three Will Go To Convo

Members of the history and political science department of Michigan State college will attend the Michigan-Ontario Historical convention to be held this week-end.

Dr. H. H. Kimber and M. Kuhn will attend the Thursday session at the Hotel Statler in Detroit, and Prof. J. T. Caswell will attend the Friday afternoon session at the Hotel Statler and the Saturday morning session in Ann Arbor.

Betty Dignan: "I can't remember. And besides, I won't tell."

"I'll probably be razed for this, but one thing I'll remember is taking a first place in a swimming meet against Michigan, the first swim for State in 10 years," said Bill Bell.

Not one, but three things, are outstanding in Nancy Farley's memories of college days. "I think my sorority initiation, being tapped for Mortar Board and the AWS convention are on equal par," she said.

"Sis" Harryman remembers her second freshman mixer. "I was a junior, but everyone thought I was a freshman. Did that give me a big kick?"

There they are. What the seniors will remember. Take your choice. What is yours?

Sigma Nus Race Off With Frat Track Relays Setting Mark

By DON PHILLIPS

Led by a record-shattering half-mile relay team, Sigma Nu won first honors in the annual spring Interfraternity Relay meet on the varsity track yesterday afternoon.

The Sigma Nus rang up seven points, two more than the second place Kappa Sigma outfit with five tallies.

Other teams scoring points were Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 4; Epsilon Chi, 3; Phi Delta Theta, 2; and Alpha Gamma Rho, 1.

The Sigma Nu team of Dave Sherman, Gene Ciolek, Gerry Drake and Dick Pablow blazed over the 880-yard stretch in 1:37.2 to win first place by five yards. This was 18 seconds under the old record.

Second to the Sigma Nus in the first heat was SAE in the time of 1:39.6, which was also good enough for second place in the final standings.

The Phi Deltas and the AGR's, winners and runner-ups in the second heat, took third and fourth, respectively in the final results.

Sport Interludes

By George Maskin

John Kobs was discussing batting swings the other afternoon as he speeded his car toward Kalamazoo.

What constitutes a good and bad cut at the ball made up Kobs' informal lecture until Sam Nuznov interrupted by asking what State player had the best form at the plate.

"Johnny Kuk," Kobs came back without wasting a second. "There's no question of that, Kuk is tops on the team, at least in my opinion."

"The record book is conclusive evidence Kuk is our best swinger. He's been well above the 300 mark throughout the season, a distinction not very many members of our team can boast."

.300 Men Scarse

Kobs really emphasized "very." Among the regulars only Red Randall, besides Kuk, today stands in the select class.

"Other factors enter into batting besides the swing, such as timing, stance, and watching the ball," Kobs went on. "But the cut probably is the most important element in batting."

"Without an even swing, one never can hope to become a good hitter. That's what wrong with most of our hitters this year. They're not cutting at the ball properly."

Pictures of players swinging in recent games disclosed obvious weaknesses in their swings. Kobs pointed out:

"Just about every player was doing something wrong, the picture showed," Kobs revealed. "But not Kuk."

"Kuk has a smooth, level swing, one of the smoothest I have seen in my 14 years as a college coach. He's always swinging in the same manner, and not varying his cut common fault of numerous other players."

Calls Kuk Better

The question arose whom Kobs considered a better hitter, Kuk or Milton Lehnhardt, slugging outfielder who completed his collegiate career a year ago and now is with Alexandria in the Evangeline league.

"I would say Kuk," the Spartan coach asserted, "simply because he has the killer instinct at the plate, something which Lehnhardt lacked."

"Kuk is as dangerous with men on bases as when the socks are empty, while Lehnhardt had a tendency to lighten up to some degree with mates' aboard."

The latest Spartan hitting star doesn't specialize in long distance clouting. He's not a fence buster in any sense of the word.

Kuk likes his extra base socks, but his chief aim at the plate is to hit the ball safely, if only for a single. One base knock counts the same as home runs when batting averages are compiled at the close of the campaign.

Tops on Defense

Kuk doesn't confine all his outstanding work to performances at the plate. We have seen few better defensive outfielders than Kuk, both in collegiate and sandlot baseball.

Kuk has the uncanny knack of judging fly balls. He can go after balls in every direction and invariably make the catch. Base-runners have learned to respect Kuk's arm, with the result few do much running when the ball is tagged in Kuk's direction.

We understand the Detroit Tigers may farm Kuk to a minor league club after his graduation next Monday. In such an event Kuk probably would land at Alexandria and have Lehnhardt as a teammate.

The Tigers won't make any mistake in acquiring Kuk. It is worthy of professional ball consideration in the wake of his college play.

Netmen to Oppose Alumni Stars

Michigan State's varsity tennis team will clash with the Alumni in the final meet of the year on the varsity courts at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The grads will be headed by Rex Norris, undefeated in two years of competition here in 1932 and 1933. Other outstanding players appearing are Bob Rosa, Willard Klumzinger, and Louis Stonebreaker. The varsity line-up will remain intact for the meet.

Nine Takes No. 15 State Beats Western on Timely Hits; Only Two Regulars Batting .300

By DON ANDERSON

With their fifteenth victory of the season chalked up in the record books after a 5-1 triumph over Western State Tuesday, State's baseball nine prepared today to make it two in a row at the expense of the Hilltoppers in the return game Saturday.

The victory Tuesday was in the last nine games. State's slump began three weeks ago when they lost to Michigan Normal, this defeat starting a string of five straight losses, which was snapped in the victory over Ohio State last week.

The reason for this let down may be seen in the current batting averages. At the start of the season when the Spartans were going great guns, four regulars were over the 300 mark. Now, with but one game remaining, only two are in this select circle.

Johnny Kuk and Clyde Randall are the 300 hitters, Kuk leading with an average of .354, with Randall barely over the line, hitting .302. George Levagood, who has appeared in nine games, is batting .429.

The other regulars are way down the line. Sam Nuznov is closest, hitting .271, Al Diebold is next with .244, Owen follows with .218, while Harper Scott and Gene Ciolek bring up the rear with averages of .181 and .167, respectively.

The team looked something like itself in beating Western State. The pitching was good and the hitting timely. Ray Dahlstrom made his first appearance in several weeks on the mound and held Western to seven hits.

The Spartans were off to a two-run lead in the fourth and were never headed. Owen led off with a single, Diebold sacrificed, after which Kuk lined a hit to left, scoring Owen. Randall brought Kuk in with a lusty triple over the centerfielder's head.

Western picked up a run in their half of the fourth on two singles and a walk, but State put the game on ice by counting three times in the ninth.

TRACK

(Continued from page 1) men who placed a year ago—Greer, Ken Waite, Dick Frey, and Lodo Habrie. Greer gained points in the two dashes, Waite and Frey in the two-mile, and Habrie in the pole vault.

Woodstra will get an opportunity to race Bill Wolcott, University of Texas ace, who recently raced the 120-yard high hurdles in 13.9 seconds. Wolcott also has covered the 100-yard dash in 9.5 seconds.

Besides Greer, Bill Carpenter and Bob Adcock are entered in the dashes. Dale Springer, Gayle Robinson and John Seales will vie along with Woodstra in the high and low hurdles.

Bob Hills and Roy Fehr constitute State's middle distance entry, while George Grantham, Waite, and Frey go in the distances. Robinson will vie with Claire Graft in the broad jump as Ernie Bremer and Art Jenkins compete in the weight events.

Anita Stuart Gains Final

By DOROTHY MILLER

Anita Stuart defeated Viberta McCane in straight sets yesterday, 6-0, 6-4, to gain the finals of the women's athletic association tennis tournament.

Miss Stuart will oppose Gerry North for the championship, possibly tomorrow. By virtue of her past record, Miss North is favored to carry off the title.

The annual spring term luncheon at which W.A.A. and intramural sport awards are given, will be held Saturday at the W.A.A. cabin. The intramural cup will be awarded to the organization which turned in the best performance this year.

It is expected the Independent will walk off with the cup because of their remarkable display of talent in all sports participated in by girls on the campus. Individual awards also will be given.

To qualify for numerals a coed must earn 100 points. For 500 points a small "S" is given, and for 1000 points a large "S."

Prep Netmen Win Final

East Lansing high's tennis team ended its most successful year with a 7-0 shutout over St. Johns on the Ranney courts Tuesday afternoon. The Trojans played a 10-game schedule with one loss. They also won the state class B championship.

Only Roger Tull in the singles had any trouble downing his foe. He was extended three sets before winning 4-6, 6-2, 6-3. Dick Laycock won the No. 1 match, 6-2, 6-1, while Lynn Penfield and Marcus Schaaf captured their titles, 6-0, 6-0, and 6-4, 6-2, respectively.

In the doubles, Laycock and Penfield triumphed 6-0, 6-1, and two other pairs, Leonard Gardner-Herbert Hoover and Bob Cardinell-Richard Dawe, won by identical scores, 6-0, 6-0.

FIELD COAT

A new idea in sports wear by PALM BEACH

Palm Beach trapped this practical Summer fashion along that gay stretch of azure coast between St. Maxine and Monte Carlo.

The idea stems from the highly serviceable bush shirt worn by British colonials. This is a carefully tailored version, with four capacious pockets, an all-around belt, and a loose, lounging look from shoulder to hem.

For lounging at the club, for covering up at the beach, for marking time between sets of tennis, the Field Coat will win a loyal legion of followers. A swagger companion for slacks of any color or pattern.
