Bufflecow!

A mammoth, black creature pulling a covered wagon, reminiscent of movies depicting pioneer days, Wednesday evening stopped in East Lansing. At 6:30 a crowd of curious residents gathered on Grand River avenue near the Home Economics building to question the middle-aged couple about the strange, buffalo-like animal.

The animal, weighing 2,200 pounds, dehorned and shod with shoes, was a first cross between a buffalo and Holstein cow, the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Leland C. Wilson said. It is the only living male hybrid of these animals, they asserted. Called a "Catalo," the beast seemed gentle and followed Wilson's commands with seeming intelligence.

They claimed to be on a trans-continental tour, conducting an educational exhibit on cross-breeding. The animal has a valuable fur, resists diseases and needs no shelter from cold, and has a 30-year life span, the owners said.

They have traveled over 4,000 miles on this trip since leaving their Grand View ranch, Calville, Wash., on July 3, 1936. One of their stops will be at the New York World's fair.

The covered wagon was equipped with brakes and a 50-gallon water drum under the chassis.

Clear Lines

To protect telephone lines from wind-swayed branches the trees along all telephone lines in East Lansing are being trimmed. The work is at present being done on East Grand River avenue. The entire project will require about two weeks' time.

Thumbing Curbed

In the future all hitch-hikers will be compelled to stand on the curbs and keep out of the streets and driveways under penalty of arrest, said Chief Harold Haun of the East Lansing police.

The regulation, which will be strictly enforced, will cause many a headache for over-enthusiastic thumb travelers.

Cedar Still Winds

Known from coast to coast as the Winding Cedar, our traditional stream will remain the Winding Cedar, in spite of WPA projects. Last week a Detroit paper carried a story captioned, "Unwinding the Winding Cedar." The straightening of the Red Cedar will not take place on campus, Secretary John A. Hannah said.

"The banks may be improved and terraced but never will the river be straightened out," Hannah assured.

NOTICE!

Post session students may get their copy of the Michigan State News at the library or at the Union desk. One copy is left at each home in East Lansing and belongs to the residents.

Otto Speaks To Merchants On Enthusiam

"Community Building" was the topic of C. W. Otto's speech before 25 business men who gathered at Hunt's Food Shop Tuesday evening at 6:30.

"As soon as a community loses its enthusiasm it declines," said Otto, who is secretary of the Lansing Chamber of Commerce. He pointed out that East Lansing had not lost its enthusiasm.

He also pointed out that the big purpose behind the sales crusade was to give business the "lift" it needed after an inexplicable, almost nationwide feeling in April and June that "business was bad." The effect, he said, has been psychological more than actual. It has given both business men and consumers a new lease, he explained.

More Women's Rooms Needed

Favorable response to the college's request that East Lansing homes be opened to women students this fall, to relieve an acute housing problem, was reported yesterday by Miss Mabel Peterson, women's housing director.

Additional rooms for more than 90 women students now are available in East Lansing homes, Miss Peterson said, as result of householders changing from men to women students. Completion of Stevens T. Mason hall, housing 446 men, will make fewer rooms for men necessary this fall.

Still more rooms for women are needed, however, Miss Peterson said, as the dean of women's office has requests for at least 100 more rooms than now are available. The dormitories already are filled, but rooms in town will not be assigned definitely until near the opening of the fall term.

Sabrosky to Visit Europe's Museums

C. W. Sabrosky, instructor in the entomology department, is now in Budapest, and will go to Berlin Sunday. He will also stop in Breslan, and in Berlin he will attend the International Congress of Entomologists.

Sabrosky is studying in some of Europe's best known natural history museums, some of which he visited during a European tour a year ago. He is studying a type of white fly which causes pink eye and fevers, a phase of entomology on which he is an authority.

It was erroneously reported in an earlier issue of the State News that Walter F. Morofsky, of the entomology department, was to spend the summer in Europe. Professor Morofsky is in Michigan, making an extensive study of stream improvement for fish culture and ultimate improved fishing for Michigan residents and tourists.

Tomorrow morning a story hour at 10 o'clock at the city library will feature pioneer stories. Children may come in Indian suits.

Housewives Tell Reporter Thoughts on Bond Issue

By Elmer E. White

Since sidewalk interviews have met with so much popularity on radio stations, we of the State News decided to experiment with a telephone interviews. A number of East Lansing telephone numbers were picked at random and away we went. A short talk with the housewife at each residence and we have our story.

Each person who answered the telephone was asked a similar question. "Do you favor the proposed bond issue for the improvement of the sewerage disposal plant and enlargement of the water pumping system. Below are the results from our efforts."

Three hundred people gathered at Peoples Church last night to bid him farewell. (Story on page 3.)

2 Local Men On Fair Board

Two East Lansing residents, Judge John McClellan, 527 Forest, and F. F. Musselman, 140 Oakhill, are serving on general committees of the annual Ingham county fair, to be held in Mason August 24-27.

Judge McClellan is a member of the general centennial committee, and Mr. Musselman is serving as a district chairman.

The fair will be preceded by a parade in Lansing, beginning at 4 p. m. Tuesday, August 24. Ralph Tenney, director of short courses for Michigan State college, is chairman of a committee to arrange a float for the college on rural electrification.

The parade will be conducted with a centennial theme, celebrating the 100th birthday of Ingham county. About 35 floats will form the parade.

Music Programs Highlight WKAR's Summer Broadcasts

A series of classical and semi-classical music programs, designed for summer stay-at-home listeners, is featured on the August schedule of W. K. A. R., the college's 1,000-watt radio station.

The People's symphony orchestra, sponsored by the National Music Project and directed by Frederick Lewis, is presented twice weekly, at 1:30 o'clock on Monday and Friday afternoons. Works of both European and American composers are programmed by Mr. Lewis, and the orchestra's concerts highlight WKAR's summer music broadcasts.

For the music lover, Saturday afternoon's schedule offers several periods of transcribed music, including an appreciation hour at 1 o'clock, with Rex Naugle as studio

Mrs. G. Dewey MacDonald, 675 Abbot road, "We're in favor of it. We've had quite a bit of trouble here and I think that something should be done about it."

Mrs. Frank Bordner, 214 W. Michigan, "Although we have had no difficulty with our water pressure, I know people who have. A new system is necessary as there is a lot of building going on and we must have water."

Mrs. S. E. Bellows, 1111 W. Michigan, "It seems to me that it would be a good thing. It would probably supply work for a lot of men and be cheaper in the long run."

Mr. W. M. Bennett, 512 W. Michigan, "This certainly ought to go through. If we're going to have any kind of a city we have got to do something about it."

Mrs. S. E. Crowe, 137 University drive, "I am entirely in favor of such a movement. We have taken out our cistern and the city water now is not at all suited to use in washing."

Mrs. Mark H. Smith, 344 Grove, "Our water supply is satisfactory both in quantity and quality. I am able to do my washing with it and have plenty of water at all times."

Out of ten people who were contacted, four refused to make a statement because they lacked knowledge about the proposition.

Horticulture Day To Be Held Sept. 7

The first all-ornamental horticulture field day to be held on the Michigan State college campus is scheduled for Wednesday, September 7.

The entire campus of ornamental planting will be used as a field laboratory. During the morning program, departments will set up booths for consultations on entomology, soils, plant pathology, horticulture, flowers, trees and shrubs and other phases of ornamental horticulture.

Ban on Loose Dogs Placed By Quarantine

Between the dates of August 9 to November 9 all dogs found loose on the streets of East Lansing will be picked up and disposed of in accordance with a new ruling by Commissioner of Agriculture, John B. Strange. This announcement is made by Chief of Police Harold Haun.

Rabies among dogs has become a serious problem in the north end of the county and quarantine of all dogs is necessary, according to Dr. C. D. Barrett, county health officer. He has been in conference with the officials of the State Department of Agriculture, Lansing city authorities and Sheriff McDonald.

In commenting on the situation Doctor Barrett said:

"We have had an unusually large number of dogs definitely diagnosed as rabies. At least 12 have been investigated, and from these 12 there have been 57 people exposed and who are now taking the Pasteur treatment. All of these dogs have been in East Lansing, Meridian and Lansing townships. The city of Lansing likewise has had a considerable number of rabid dogs during the last two or three months.

"It is inconvenient and perhaps a hardship both to hunters and those who may wish to take their dogs with them on vacation, but if we are to protect children from the terrible and incurable disease of rabies, we must stop the spread among dogs. We do not wish to quarantine unless it is absolutely necessary, but since there is to be one, it must be enforced and have full cooperation of our citizens or it will be non-effective."

College Spends $200,000 Sum On Building

Improvements costing more than $200,000 are being made on buildings and grounds of Michigan State college and will be completed before the opening of the fall term on September 20, college officials said today.

Not included in this figure are the two men's dormitories, one of which is nearing completion, and a second structure which will be started in September. Total cost of these men's housing units will be one million dollars, financed by WPA and a self-liquidating bond issue.

Campus improvements, besides the dormitories, include five new classrooms and an office on the top floor of the home economics building, a new parade field south of Demonstration hall for the military unit, new tennis courts, construction of a concrete storage room in the anatomy building, and improvements on campus roads.

Recent WPA approval of a Lansing project to straighten and improve the Red Cedar river will not involve work on college property, it was said.

Approximately 300 employes, exclusive of regular campus employes, are working on the East Lansing campus this summer.

No Play

"This is the dearest place!" Young Miss and Mr. East Lansing speaking. Where is the local youth who has not said that at some time during this summer?

Dearest place? Well, maybe it isn't that bad. True, a good many of our people leave for vacation and even forget to write and, of course, the students are not here. And it takes people to make times, good times and bad times. But even at that there still are many things that young people can do right here in our town. Summer time need not be just a time to spend a couple of weeks vacationing and the time before looking forward to it and the time after looking back at it.

Do you like movies? Then there is our theatre. Do you like to play golf? Courses are near at hand. Do you like to canoe? Deppa still keeps his canoes by the river. Do you like to bowl, shoot pool? Facilities are available. How about roller skating? Well, there is a new rink open on Michigan avenue.

But, you say, I'm broke. Well, there still is some hope to keep you from saying, "This is the dearest place." Did you ever go on a long walk? Around campus, in the sugar bush and up the river? It is nice there, cool and clean. Maybe you would like it.

Maybe you wouldn't like any of these summer suggestions. Maybe you laugh. Maybe you lean deeper in an overstuffed chair or start swinging on the porch swing and say, "This is the dearest place."

Skating to Music
Is Practice
Of Rink

Roller skating to music was the feature of the opening of the new roller skating rink just outside the city limits on Michigan avenue, Wednesday night.

The rink, covered with a tent but open all around for air circulation, is 122 by 50 feet in size. A P. A. system, playing popular music, supplies rhythm as Jack Mabee, who owns the rink in partnership with his father, shows dance steps on skates.

The Mabees came here from Owosso last week. They expect to remain open for business every day from 2:30 to 4:30 afternoons and 8 to 11:30 evenings until the last of October. They will then close and will reopen on May 1.

Arts Division
Adds Three
New Courses

Three changes in the Michigan State college liberal arts division curriculum were announced today by Dean L. C. Emmons. The changes, presenting two new courses and co-ordinated work in public administration, will be effective with the opening of the 1938-39 school year.

The departments of history and political science, economics, sociology and geography will cooperate in presenting a freshman course in survey of social science. Dr. W. R. Fee, associate professor of history, will be in charge of the work, which will offer three hours credits in each of three terms.

Another new course, introduction to the arts, will be presented by the art, music and dramatics departments for students interested in these phases of study.

The public administration curriculum coordinates work of several departments, so students may receive instruction to prepare them for public office or for positions in governmental agencies. This curriculum will be open to undergraduate students and will be available this fall for the first time.

Hixon to Reside
At Marsh Home

Captain Charles Hixon and his family are living in the former home of Colonel Marsh, 336 University drive, East Lansing. Captain Hixon recently joined the staff of the college military department.

Captain Hixon's daughter, Margery, will enter State this fall as a sophomore, having studied her freshman year at the University of Missouri at Columbia. The son, Robert, will matriculate as a junior in East Lansing high school.

Huston to Head
Science Board

Dr. R. C. Huston, dean of the applied science division, will serve as chairman of the recently appointed state board of examiners in the basic sciences this week.

The board was created by the 1937 legislature to examine applicants who wish to practice the healing arts in Michigan. Members of the board are full-time professors, associate professors or assistant professors who teach basic sciences in Michigan universities and colleges. Each institution is represented on the board by one member.

The recent meeting of the group, which elected Dean Huston as chairman, was held for organization purposes and no indication was given as to when the board would take up its duties.

Scoop Says:

By George Maskin

DETROIT, Aug. 12—Dynamic Detroit, the nation's greatest baseball city, is a strange place.

Less than three years ago the fans were singing the praises of Mickey Cochrane. There was no one better. He was tops to them.

Mickey had just led the Tigers to the World's championship.

But today many of those same fans are glad to see Mickey through as Tiger manager. Announcement of his firing was just the thing they have been waiting for all season.

The Tigers weren't winning. It was Mickey's fault, they clamored. He was to blame and the only way Detroit could win once more was for Owner Walter O. Briggs to fire Mike.

Cochrane's firing, as far as we are concerned, was one of the "meanest" of acts. Mean, because it shows up the nation's No. 1 baseball town as one which forgets, and forgets pretty fast.

Detroit is in fifth place today not because Cochrane was incapable as a manager. The team lacks pitchers, a good third baseman, a couple of first class outfielders and a hard-hitting and smart catcher.

The change of managers won't result in the present Tiger team suddenly leaping back into the thick of the pennant fight. Del Baker, we venture to say, doesn't expect anything of the kind.

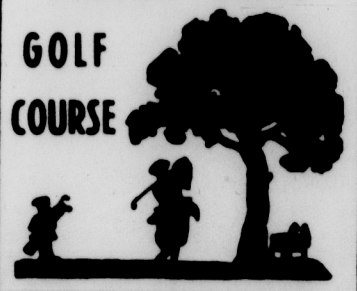

Detroit will struggle along at its present pace until Owner Briggs buys a few good players or the Tiger farm system comes up with another Rowe or Bridges of old, a Goose Goslin and a catcher of the Mickey Cochrane type.

Right now, Boss Baker has only two positions to look forward to—first base and right field. Hank Greenberg has his best years in front of him. So has Pete Fox.

Charley Gehring isn't getting any younger and already has begun to show signs of slowing up. Rogell threatens to quit. Neither Don Ross or Mark Christman can hit, although both are classy fielders.

RAY DAHLSTROM

Here is a pair of last spring's Spartans who aren't doing badly in independent ball this summer. Dahlstrom is leading Lansing's Class A league with a sticking mark of .423. He homered for the All-Stars in their game against Portland Sunday. Rankin is hurling for the Wolverine club in Detroit and last Sunday turned back the favored E. & B. club for the upset of the opening play-offs in D. B. F. Class A.

Retired U. S. Navy Officer Tells New One on Bachman

Lieut. Jack Kennedy, recently retired after thirty-three years' service in the United States Navy, during which he rose from the rank of common seaman to that of a commissioned officer, tells an interesting story of his first meeting with Charley Bachman, Michigan State's head football coach.

Lieut. Kennedy is a native of Allentown, Pa., but since his retirement he is located in Los Angeles, where he is recognized as one of the outstanding boxing referees on the West Coast. It was on a visit to old friends in Allentown that he told the story of his first meeting with Bachman.

"It was during the war, and I was athletic officer at the Great Lakes naval training station," Kennedy said.

"We had a whale of a football team there, a lot of all-America players, but with the all-important game with the Marines of the West Coast only two weeks off, we didn't have a real center. We needed a first class center, and needed him bad.

"We also had Joe Stetcher, then the world's heavyweight wrestling champion at the Great Lakes station, but we had difficulty in finding anyone capable of giving him a workout. We were receiving from 800 to 1000 new recruits daily, and one afternoon I went out to look over some of the new men in the hopes of finding a fellow who could give Stetcher a workout.

"I spotted one fellow with a big neck—I always looked for fellows with big necks when seeking wrestlers—and I asked him if he

With their sponsor on a honeymoon tour to Bermuda, the East Lansing representatives in the Tri-County softball tournament captured win No. 1.

Staving off a desperate last-inning rally, East Lansing Adams came through to a 4-3 win over Dimondale at Mason Monday night.

Going into the last of the seventh, Adams led by a 4-2 score.

But Dimondale wasn't ready to concede defeat. They pushed across their third run in that inning, and it wasn't until the tying and winning runs were on the bases that Bill Kemp, who had relieved Schultz on the slab for the grocery men, was able to retire the side.

Adams collected 14 hits, including Rodney Walters' circuit clout, which provided East Lansing with its margin of victory.

Winding up their regular league schedule last Friday, Adams trounced Valley Farms at Marble school field, 7-5. The Farmers staged a futile uprising in the last inning, in which they scored four of their runs. Adams' second-round record showed six wins against four losses.

name came to my mind first, and I asked him if he could play center like Charlie Bachman played it. I nearly fell over when he answered that HE was Charlie Bachman.

"It usually took two or three days to get a new recruit through the examinations and routine at the Naval Base, but in just five minutes I had Charlie Bachman in the sidecar of a motorcycle headed for the football practice field. He was our new center, and I might add that we went out to the West Coast and walloped the Marines.

All-Stars Bow in First Game

Michigan State College All-Stars, a recently composed team of Spartan baseballers, are pointing for their second game against Portland, Sunday, after losing their first game to the same team last Sunday, 7-6.

George Stark led the State boys with the stick getting 3 for 5. Dahlstrom slammed a home run and a single in 4 trips to the plate.

George Monroe pitched all the way for the All-Stars, whiffing 12 and walking 3.
