MSC To Have Third Women's Dormitory

Local Business District Views Many Changes

East Lansing business is undergoing a spasm of moving, which will be renewed next June, when the building on the corner of Grand River avenue and Abbot street is to be torn down and a new one erected.

Mr. Goodspeed, of Grand Rapids, is the present owner of the building, having recently bought it. He plans to tear the entire corner down as far back as the Muschman Realty Co. office, and dig a basement for the whole building. This will leave the floor level even with the sidewalk. He will then construct an entirely new building in its place. Part of it may be occupied by the College Dry Cleaners, who have not as yet decided where they will move.

O'Connor to Have 2 Stores

College Drug store No. 1, which formerly occupied the building, has moved to where the Sparrow Fruit market, and the Rose Beauty shop were until recently. Among the new fixtures and stock in the drug store will be a 10-foot fountain. The same line of student supplies will be carried in the new location as was carried in the old one. Formal opening will be September 24.

Mr. M. K. O'Connor will open

For Freshmen

A special 12-page edition of the Michigan State News will be mailed today to freshmen who have been admitted for the fall term.

The Michigan State News appreciates the co-operation of East Lansing and Lansing business men who have made this issue possible.

A second store in the corner building, and will continue to do business in both places until June 1, when he will vacate his newer store until the new building is completed. He will then close out the old store, and move the entire stock into the new one, which will be modern in design and fixtures.

Hurd's to Move

During the school year, the new store will handle student supplies, lamps, and will have a soda fountain. The west side will be open today, and the east side, the first week of September.

Hurd's men's shop will also be moved to make way for the new building. The shop will be located at the store now occupied by Marie's. Miss Marie Velez, Marie's, is in poor health and unable to keep the store. She is holding a closing-out sale at the present time. As soon as the store is vacant, Hurd's will move in. There will be many changes in the equipment installed by Hurd's, including new showcases.

Rose Beauty shop, under the management as the Dorothy shop, has been moved to the new location as the latter. The combined shops are expected to be in the care of the customers more (Please turn to page 2)

Lonesome Lady Loses Way; Gets Lift

She was little and lost and bewildered. She said her name was Dorothy Cartwright and that she had walked out from Lansing to stay all night with some friends. So three State News reporters and chief assistant, Jean Holcomb scurried around for two hours trying to locate these friends. The small traveler helpfully suggested that she thought that they lived in the girl's dorm. They were all locked. And the reporters searched and searched. No dice. So the waif was given a lift home by the campus cop. And if the paper is late this is the story.

Tenny Rites Held Thursday In Lansing

Burial Takes Place in Perrysburg, Ohio

Funeral services were held at 10 o'clock yesterday morning for Perry L. Tenny, 938 Huntington road, who succumbed at his home Monday.

The Rev. E. W. Bishop, pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church, Lansing, conducted the services which were held at the Estes Leadley funeral home. Burial was at Perrysburg, Ohio.

Mr. Tenny was sales engineer for the Diesel Division of the General Motors corporation.

He is survived by his wife, Amy, and son, Perry G. Relatives who attended the funeral were his father, Harry O. Tenny, brother, Harry O. Tenny, jr., and his sister Myrta Tenny, all of Alameda, Cal.

Hutson Dooms Leaf Hoppers

New Fumigator is Used For Extermination.

The grape leaf hopper, a creature destructive to grape vines, is having a hard fight this summer.

Prof. Ray Hutson, head of the entomology department at Michigan State college, was the leader of an attack on this destructive insect. Professor Hutson met with the grape growers of Lawton and Paw Paw to conduct an experiment to control the grape leaf hopper.

A new kind of fumigator is being used for the first time in the United States, and the men in charge of the experiment are hopeful that it will be an effective means for the control of this pest.

Representatives sent by the Welsh Grape Juice company and other prominent wholesalers of grape juices were on hand to view the experiment.

MSC Alumnus Will Succeed Delmer La Voi

Naming of E. L. Benton, formerly county agricultural agent of Tuscola county, as an extension specialist in animal husbandry puts a new man in the place of Delmer H. LaVoi, known throughout the state for his work at Michigan State college in the state's livestock industry.

LaVoi resigned recently to accept a position as director of public relations for the National Live Stock and Meat Board which has headquarters in Chicago.

Benton has served Tuscola county from his offices at Caro since 1934. Previous to that he was a teacher of agriculture in the high school at Hudson. He is a graduate of Michigan State college.

Two other changes in the state follow the Benton appointment to the college staff.

Wilbur Succeeds Benton

Norris Wilbur, graduate of Michigan State college in 1929, succeeds Benton as Tuscola county agricultural agent. Wilbur taught agriculture nine years in the high school at Blissfield.

Still another graduate of the college is involved in the changes. To succeed Wilbur, the Blissfield high school has obtained Russell M. Leonardson, who graduated in 1935. He has been instructing in agriculture at Bad Axe.

Dinner Honors LaVoi

Friends of LaVoi staged a farewell dinner a few days ago. Those represented in arranging the program included George A. Brown, R. J. Baldwin, John A. Hannah, and E. L. Anthony of the college; Harold Harwood, Ionia; Reese Van Frankin, Climax; Ralph Helm, Marshall; Delmont Chapman, South Rockwood; Andy H. Adams, Litchfield; and Milton Grinnell, Detroit.

PWA Aid Accepted Spence Brothers To Build Men's Dorm

$417,400 Bid Takes Contract; State Board Also Handles Much Routine Business

Another forward step in Michigan State college's self-financed suden housing program was aken yesterday when the State Board of Agriculture accepted a $225,000 PWA grant for construction of a third women's dormitory.

The Board also let the general construction contract for a second new men's dormitory to the Spence Brothers, of Saginaw, whose bid of $417,400 was low. Construction on this building will start Monday on a site just east of the new Stevens T. Mason hall for men.

PWA approval of the women's dormitory, which will be located west of the Union building and east of Mary Mayo hall on a site not yet definitely selected, was announced yesterday in Washington.

No Cost to State

The half-million dollar structure will be financed by a $225,000 PWA grant, the state providing $275,000 through a self-liquidating bond issue arranged by the Ann Arbor Trust Co.

Bonds will be retired from the dormitory's income, and the building, as have the College's other new dormitories, will be built without cost to the state.

Completed Next Year

Construction of the two additional dormitories—one for men and one for women—will increase the College's housing facilities to a capacity of approximately 2,000 students. Seven hundred women already live in College dormitories or houses, and with completion of Stevens T. Mason hall for men, rooms will be provided this fall for 650 men.

Both the additional dormitories will be ready for occupancy by the opening of the fall term next year.

Besides accepting the PWA grant and approving the men's dormitory bid, the State Board yesterday handled a large volume of routine business, including appointments, resignations and leaves of absences.

New Traffic Rules Listed to Avoid Congestion

Traffic regulations on the campus, to be put in force September 1, will be markedly different from those of former years. A new system of traffic control, according to Chief of Police Harold Haun, has been made necessary by the rapidly increasing enrollment and the lack of parking facilities.

Two major changes have been made in the rules. All students' cars will have to be parked on one large parking lot and the circular portion of the college drive will become a one-way driving lane.

Chief Haun said the new traffic policy has been designed to lessen the number of accidents and prevent congestion on the narrow campus drives.

The single parking lot for students' cars will be located just east of Farm Lane, behind the veterinary clinic.

Students who operate vehicles on the campus are required to register the car with the college police office.

'I Will,' Says Little Red Hen But White Hen Disputes Her

One little white hen has taken temporarily at least the egg laying crown from a little red hen in the 16th annual Michigan egg laying contest now in its 11th month on the M.S.C. campus.

The leading lady is one in a pen owned by the Foreman poultry farm of Lowell, Michigan. The deposed queen, deposited unless she deposits more eggs than her rival this month and next, is a little red hen of R. O. Wagemaker of Grand Rapids.

Interest in these contests continues each year. Unusual this year is the fact that the 17th annual contest, not scheduled to start until October 1, already has attracted more entries than can be accommodated. C. G. Card, contest superintendent, has requested some of the nation's leading breeders to enter but one pen instead of several.

What kind of a record can a topritch hen show? In 10 months the White Leghorn now leading has laid 262 eggs rating 284.25 points. The Wagemaker Rhode Island Red has laid 265 eggs for 283.25 points.

For entire pens the honor roll to date puts the pen of Rochelle hatchery, Rochelle, Ill., in top place with 12 hens left in the pen from an original 13. The records show 3,055 eggs in 10 months for 3,137.65 points. Second place, P. J. Osborne, Holland, Mich., 12 hens still living, 2,768 eggs; third place, Lindstrom Poultry farm, Clinto, Mo. Other Michigan entries near the top include Hamilton Poultry farm at Hamilton; Aseltine farm at Comstock Park; W. A. Downs, Romeo; and Northland Farms, Grand Rapids.

Vet Grads All Get Positions

Veterinarians who received degrees this year have all secured positions, and Dean Ward Giltner is still receiving requests for graduate veterinarians which he is unable to fill.

Facilities are available to graduate approximately 68 veterinarians each year, while over 400 have already filed application for admission next year, the dean said. Applications have come from 39 states and four foreign countries. One hundred eight have applied from New York state and 54 from Michigan, figures show.

Agreements For Practice Teaching Made

Students Will Teach One Term Instead of Two, Emmons Reports.

Michigan State college student teachers of arts and sciences will receive most of their practice training in the Mason, Okemos, and Williamston schools next year. L. C. Emmons, dean of the liberal arts division, announced that the college has signed practice teaching contracts with these schools for next year.

"These arrangements more nearly approximate situations in which the students will actually teach than did the agreement with the East Lansing school system," Dean Emmons said. The schools will be nearer the size in which the students will begin their professional teaching.

Because of the distance and transportation involved, each student will teach half of each day for one term instead of one class for two terms. This, according to Dean Emmons, will give them more opportunity to participate in school life.

This fall will be the first time that there have been no student teachers in the East Lansing schools. The college and the school board severed relations after the college had refused to increase the apportionment for the East Lansing school system.

Vocational agriculture students have taught in the three schools for several years. A few students of arts and sciences will continue practice teaching in Lansing.

Soil Men Survey Dickinson County

Turunen, Senior Student, Makes Farm Study.

John Stone and I. F. Schneider of the Soil Conservation Institute are working on a land survey of Dickinson county. The two men, Mr. Stone, who is a graduate student in the soils department, and Mr. Schneider, have been on this project since the beginning of the summer. They hope to finish it by the middle of September.

Special work is also being done in the same county by Reino Turunen, a senior soils student from the college. His duty consists of studying the relationship between the various types of farms and their success. This is a new study on which Turunen will spend the remainder of the summer.

St. Paul, Minn., courts and charitable institutions will serve as the laboratory for College of St. Thomas sociology students.

Hungarian Prof. Imre de Razzo Stops at MSC; Lauds Campus Beauty

By RALPH NORMAN

Though he's a Hungarian professor of agriculture, Imre de Razzo shares local enthusiasm for the beauty of the Michigan State college campus.

And Prof. Razzo is qualified to have opinions on American college life, for he has visited most of the agricultural schools since last October.

Traveling as a Jeremiah Smith fellow, he is studying agricultural engineering in the United States during a year's leave from his teaching position in the Royal Hungarian Academy for Agriculture in Magyarovar, Hungary.

At Michigan State, Prof. Razzo was associated with Prof. E. C. Sauve, of the agricultural engineering department, and he visited the college farms and agricultural engineering laboratories.

Oregon Nice Too

"The Michigan State campus is much like the campus of Oregon State, at Corvallis," Prof. Razzo said, "only the buildings and farms are much less compact. In natural beauty, your campus and Oregon State's are distinctive. I can see why this is called one of the two most beautiful in the country."

Prof. Razzo began his tour of American colleges in New York last October. He went to Washington, D. C., then on through the South, stopping in Virginia, Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama and Texas. Going on west, he inspected agricultural engineering methods and developments in Arizona and California, stopping off to visit Boulder dam.

He returned to the Middle West by way of Oregon and Washington and the Northwest, and this week was on his way to New York, stopping off in East Lansing for four days. He will sail from New York in October for Europe and home.

But before leaving America, Prof. Razzo has yet to see schools in Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York, where he will visit Cornell university, which shares with Michigan State the distinction of being among the oldest of the land grant schools.

Explaining the fellowship which made his American university and college tour possible, Prof. Razzo said that Jeremiah Smith, an American who advised the Hungarian government on monetary problems after the World War, established a Foundation, and funds from the Foundation are available every year to finance two or three Hungarian engineers in American study and travel.

Couldn't Understand Talk

Prof. Razzo is the second agricultural engineer to be sent to this country on a Foundation grant.

Traveling by bus, Prof. Razzo studied not only agricultural developments and agricultural engineering, but—one suspects when talking to him—American customs and habits and particularly sectional differences. He spoke no English when he came to the United States last October, so he stayed in New York a month to master the language. That, he said, he later found to have been a mistake.

In only one Middle Western state, the traveler explained, had he had difficulty making himself understood. In that particular state he found it necessary to write his orders when ordering in restaurants.

When he returns to Hungary, Prof. Razzo will resume teaching in a building that is more than one thousand years old, and was part of an old Roman camp. Attendance in the Royal Hungarian Academy for Agriculture is limited to fewer than 200 students, but the school is only one of three maintained by the state for advancement of agriculture.

Drouth in Hungary

He made one believe that going to the Royal Academy is not unlike going to Michigan State, and girls, too, study agriculture there, though not frequently.

Prof. Razzo also found Michigan agriculture to be similar to Hungarian farming in many respects, particularly in time of crop maturity, muck crops, diversified farming, soil conservation programs and climate.

Something he wasn't accustomed to, though, were Michigan rains of the kind that fell in East Lansing last week.

"We don't get that much rain in Hungary in two months," he declared.

Prof. Razzo left East Lansing to go to Columbus, O., to visit the agricultural school of Ohio State university.

Having covered most of the United States, he hopes to take a short "vacation" and travel in New England—just for fun—before sailing for Europe.

College Receives New Gear Shaper

A new gear shaper was given to the Michigan State college engineering division by the United States Navy department.

The machine arrived July 15, and has been installed in the shop. It weighs about three tons and will finish straight bevel gears from 3 to 14 inches in diameter.

"Having been used in the Washington, D. C., navy yards, the machine is in good condition," stated W. L. Watt, instructor in mechanical engineering.

The University of Washington has received a WPA grant of $140,730 to "improve recreational facilities."

Plant Announces 32 Scholarships

Thirty-two high school graduates, one from each senatorial district in the state of Michigan, have been awarded scholarships to Michigan State college, it was announced recently by Prof. L. C. Plant, chairman of the Faculty Committee on Scholarships.

These scholarships are awarded each year by the Alumni association of the college and amount to a waiver of the student's tuition for the year. Winners are selected on a basis of their high school record in scholarship, leadership, and all-around ability.

efficiently than the two did separately.

Dorothy K took over the lease of Swain's jewelry store's old location. The shop is being repainted and remodeled. Twelve new dryers will be installed.

Gridiron Expands

Swain's jewelry store and Schram's dry cleaning and pressing shop were forced out of their location by the combination of the two beauty shops. Swain's has moved to the recently vacated Ken Hicks shop. Schram's has moved to 224 Abbot road, downstairs, near the Lyons boarding club.

The Gridiron is completing a dining room downstairs below their present floor space, and it week, according to Howard Gris will be open within the next two weeks, according to Howard Griswold, proprietor. The counter will be turned end-for-end, and a stairway to the dining room placed at the front of the room. The counter change will decrease the seating capacity of the counter from 23 to 22, but the addition of the dining room will bring it up to 76. The dining room will be twice as large as the upstairs, taking in the shoe store basement as well.

Shoe Shop Renovates

Jean's Kewpee has just opened after a complete redecoration. The interior has been finished in rose, with frescos on the walls, replacing the menus.

The MSC Shoe Repair shop has been renovating and redecorating its present place of business. The shoe shine chairs have been moved to the front of the shop and a new waiting booth has been installed. There is some painting yet to be done.

Among those stores closed at the present time are: the MSC Restaurant, Sandy's Grill, Averill's Flower shop, and the Varsity Grill.

WPA Financed Survey Being Conducted By Hayworth in Speech Department

With the beginning of a new year, in January, 1938, a plan began brewing in the minds of Prof. Donald Hayworth and his associates. This plan was to become a reality, for in April of the same year it had grown to the size of a carefully thought out, approved and acted upon project. The federal government had allotted $20,000 for the organization of a new type of WPA program, a speech survey, at Michigan State college.

What is a speech survey? What work does such a survey entail? Well, the speech students of the college themselves have turned out to be guinea pigs in this case for technical data is gathered by observing them in the speech classrooms and by giving them extensive tests before and after the public speaking courses.

As it is carried out now the WPA workers assigned to this project sit in the classrooms and, as students give their speeches and go through their exercises, carefully tabulate the number and variety of facial expressions, gestures and pauses. They also record the student's status in such points as appearance, contact, articulation, voice, bodily action, poise, fluency, pronunciation and grammatical correctness. This procedure is carried on for all the speeches of every student and in addition to this the student is required to answer a list of questions in regard to his personal reactions to internal and external stimuli as he gave his speech.

INFORMATION FILED

All of this information is then recorded and filed along with the results of the initial test taken at the beginning of the course and the identical test taken at the completion of the course. When the complete information is compiled at the end of the term comparisons are made, differences are checked and standards for future ratings are set. The information acquired as a result of this survey will be valuable in the preparation of future text books and in the teaching of speech.

It was at Michigan State college that this speech survey program originated and in the short space of time which has elapsed since April, Jackson Junior college, Wayne university and Albion college all have inaugurated similar programs.

In September a new federal appropriation of $60,000 will be allotted for the continuation of the work and at that time the Grand Rapids College of Applied Science and the Flint Junior college will each open a speech survey department.

Outlook Poor For Thinlads This Season

Only Two Vets Back As Squad Faces Heavy Season With 12 Meets

By CHARLES WELLS, '39

With only two major lettermen and three minor lettermen returning from last year, cross country coach, Lauren P. Brown's outlook is not as hopeful as it was last year at this time.

Captain Harry Butler, senior from New York city, and Richard D. Frey, junior from Buffalo, N. Y., are the major lettermen. George C. Keller, junior from Wadsworth, Ohio; Roy B. Fehr, junior from Royal Oak, Mich., and William B. Mansfield, junior from South Haven, are the minor lettermen returning.

Those numeral-winners who have been invited to return this year are: Fletcher W. Gibson, Haverford, Pa.; Warren J. Anderson, Detroit; Robert C. Beck, Mt. Morris; Joseph J. Martin, Albany, N. Y.; and Edward L. Mills, Arlington Heights, Ill. These men all won their freshman numerals last year. Also invited to come out again this year are: William H. Beck, senior from Mt. Morris; Harvey M. Seelay, of Mason, and Manager William I. Crissman, East Lansing junior.

Practice will start on Sept. 4, and will continue with two sessions daily until Sept. 26, when school begins. Thereafter, there will be only one a day, in the afternoon.

Michigan State has a very tough schedule arranged for this year, says Coach Brown.

THE SCOREKEEPER

By DAVE TEFFT

It looks like that long, lanky rubber-man from Michigan State is going to be the surprise package of the season in the Detroit Amateur Baseball Federation's playoffs this year. Glen "Goofy" Rankin is the boy we're referring to.

Rankin is hurling in class A ball for the Wolverines, a bunch of youngsters who weren't scheduled to "arrive" this year, although they looked plenty good all season. The "Wolves" were figured "out", as far as the dopsters were concerned before the D.B.F. tourney ever got under way.

But, as is usual with Rankin, he ignored the dope sheets and the dopes who make them, and went gunning for the strong E. and B. club, one of the top notch favorites. And, without the slightest ado about it, he got them 9-4. The red-thatched Polish boy didn't hurl any 1 or 2 hitter either. He just went about his business bearing down in the pinches, letting them get hits but few runs.

That numerous-hit, few-run dodge is a favorite one with the tall right-hander. Glory seems to be a word that Webster made up to help fill out the dictionary as far as "Rank" is concerned. Possessed of a blazing fast one, and a hook that breaks over the plate and goes all the way around the bases, he could probably be the strikeout king of the D.B.F. and the college leagues combined if he bore down all the time.

But the big boy knows better than that. So he had his arm left to set back Dr. Dix last Sunday in the second round to keep the "Wolves" in the running. And so he'll have his arm left to help out John Kobs and the Spartans next spring. And if you think the laddie hasn't got a baseball head on those skinny shoulders, come out and watch him when the grass greens and the sun gets to slanting over the trees along the Red Cedar.

Sturgis Hurler Sets State Boys Back With 3 Hits; Miller Stars

Lose to Pemberton's Frigidair, 6-2 on Tuesday; Diebold Connects for Triple, Double

Playing under floodlights for the first time this season the College All-Stars suffered their second straight loss of the week Wednesday night at Sturgis. The final score was 2-1.

Southpaw Bill Miller, brother of the lone lefthander on State's '38 club hurled the distance for the All-Stars, allowing only 3 hits and striking out 12. A tendency towards wildness and the failure of his mates to garner more than 3 hits off pitcher Powers of the Sturgis club proved to be young Miller's downfall. Miller will enter State as a freshman this fall.

Pitcher's Battle

The game was a pitcher's battle all the way with Powers proving a little less brilliant but a little more steady than his opponent. Powers struck out six while issuing 3 gift bases. Diebold, Kovacich and Miller accounted for the All-Stars' 3 hits with Kovacich scoring the only run in the first of the fifth.

Tuesday evening the All-Stars lost to Pemberton's Frigidair of Lansing, 6-2 in a twilight game. Hall and Bill Miller did the pitching for the All-Stars giving up 6 hits and setting 6 refrigerator men down via the strikeout route.

Eddie Fidler, former State star, did the hurling for Pemberton's. Diebold led the State stickers, getting a triple and a double in three trips.

Norris Downs Olson in Two Straight Sets

Rex Norris, of Lansing, and a former Michigan State college tennis star, yesterday won his match in the Michigan Closed tournament from Olson of Flint in straight sets. Norris took the first set 6-0, and the second 6-2. Norris is one of State's outstanding past stars.

Another player who did well yesterday was Robert Bau, of Midland, who played two matches, and won both in straight sets. Leonard Kositchek, another State boy, from Alpena, "Howdy" Carpenter, from Lansing, and Klunzinger, from East Lansing, also won their matches.

Today was the first of three

Stick Jumper

One of the boys that Track Coach Ralph H. Young expects a lot from next year is Starr Keesler who came up from Okemos last year. Keesler is a good student, having won a Sears Roebuck scholarship. He is a pole vaulter and he doesn't carry that long stick to handicap himself when he jumps days of the tournament, to be played on M.S.C. courts. The first and second rounds were played today, and the third round, and the doubles will be played in the next two days.

"Sid" Wagner, State's All-American guard a few seasons back, is the fastest lineman on the Detroit Lions' professional football team. In a trial heat run at the Lion's training grounds at Cranbrook the other day Sid outstepped all the linemen on the squad, and all the backs but two

Tackles Needed to Balance Otherwise Strong State Team

It won't be long before Charley Bachman starts misplacing his hat again.

Just as soon as the football season gets under way in dead earnest and the Spartan mentor begins to have gridiron worries of the direst sort he loses his hat on the average of three times a day.

This week 83 Spartan gridders were invited back for early spring practice which begins September 8. A dearth of linemen is staring Bachman and his assistants in the face, and an immediate search for capable tackles will be the first serious issue on the fall program.

Ernie Bremer and George Garrett, converted ends from last year's team may go a long way toward filling the gaps at tackle according to End-coach Tom King who has been watching them in daily workouts.

A multitude of guards headed by "Rocky" Rockenback and Darwin Dudley will make "Dolly" Dahlgren's job tough, only in so far as making the final decision on who will best fill the bill. Centers are as multitudinous as guards.

Ole Nelson and Mike Kinek, with the aid of Dave Diehl, the former boy from Dansville ought to take care of the ends fairly well.

Prospects in the backfield are rosier than usual as the Spartan gridders, suffered only two losses from last season through graduation. "Black Jack" Johnny Pingel, back from a road job as demonstrator of automobiles, leads a long list of veteran backs back into action.

Among the most promising is Steve Szasz, who looked exceptionally good in the New Year's day game at Miami, Usif Haney, the Tennessee plunger, and his running mate George Kovacich. Gene Ciolek, the boy that made that long punt against Michigan last year, will be in there doing a lot of kicking and throwing again this year.

Abe Elliowitz, who was the Spartan punter on the iron men aggregation coached by Jimmy Crowley, is making a bid for a position on the Detroit Lions this year. Abe has been playing rug by football in the Canadian leagues since he graduated from Michigan State.
