Eight Receive Appointments To MSC Staff

Dr. Thelma Porter To Be In Foods, Nutrition Department

Eight appointments to the Home Economics division staff were announced Thursday by Dr. Marie Dye, dean. The appointments include two assistant professorships, three instructorships, and three assistantships.

Dr. Thelma Porter, M.S.C. graduate with the class of 1921, will become assistant professor in the foods and nutrition department, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Prof. Kathleen Dietrich. Dr. Porter received the M.A. degree at the University of California, and the Ph.D. degree at the University of Chicago.

Comes From Women's School

During the past year she has been associated with the Bureau of Home Economics in Washington, D. C., and she formerly was on the staff of Battle Creek college. Besides teaching, Dr. Porter will do research for the college experiment station.

Miss Laurel Davis, now at Oklahoma College for Women, also will join the foods and nutrition department staff as assistant professor. She holds the B.S. degree from Bradley Institute, the M.S. degree from the University of Missouri, and has studied at Columbia university and the University of Chicago.

State Grads Named

New instructors in home economics will include Miss Winifred Washburn, graduate of the Milwaukee Normal school, clothing and related arts; Mrs. Margaret Christie Ehn, graduate of Purdue university, textiles and related arts; and Miss Evelyn Zwemer, M.S.C. graduate, home management and research assistant.

Mrs. Hearn is the daughter of G. I. Christie, Ontario Agricultural college president.

Newly appointed full-time assistants in the Home Economics division include Maxine McKinley, Mary Mayo resident dietitian; Augusta Holmes, Sarah Langdon Williams resident dietitian; and Constance Majchrzak, Union cafeteria.

Miss McKinley graduated from Michigan State college in 1938. Miss Holmes is a graduate of Kent college, and has completed year's internship at the Women's Industrial Union, Boston. All of the appointments become effective, Dean Dye said, with the opening of the 1938-39 school year.

Miss Evalyn Bergstrand, instructor in home management and child development in the Home Economics division, was acting head of the home management department at Iowa State college during the summer session. She will return to East Lansing for the coming school year.

Forgotten Name Starts Krieger On Career

A newspaperman never forgets a name.

Yet because one newspaperman forgot a name, former State News Associate Editor Jerome Krieger, Michigan State college graduate of 1938 from Stevensville, today has a position on the editorial staff of the Wyandotte News.

Promised Job

It seems that some time last spring a Michigan State college senior journalism student applied for a job at the office of James F. Ostrum, editor of the News. The candidate made a favorable impression and was promised consideration on any future vacancies.

Wednesday Mr. Ostrum wanted to hire this student but he couldn't remember his name. He contacted Prof. A. A. Applegate, head of the journalism department, but the records showed no one of this year's graduates to be from Wyandotte (the town which the applicant had given as his home).

Starts This Morning

The Wyandotte News needed someone immediately so others whose applications were on Professor Applegate's file were considered. Krieger, who has spent this summer putting out a special issue of the Davison Index, was selected for the job.

He was wired at his home and this morning took over his new duties—all because a newspaperman forgot a name.

August Record Set by Library

Book circulation for the month of August from the East Lansing city library set a new record, according to Mrs. E. T. Crossman, librarian. The total of 3,848 books circulated, represents an increase of 21 percent over the August, 1937 figure.

Adult fiction books lead the field in popularity. 1833 were given out as compared to 585 non-fiction books. Juvenile non-fiction books numbered 616. Fiction books given out totaled 814.

Bear, Moose and Wildcats Just a Part of Western Trip

By Roberta Applegate

Sweeping bears off the front door step isn't an everyday occurrence, even in Yellowstone Park. But bears provide only one of many experiences one meets during a month in the West.

During the month which our family spent in the Black Hills of South Dakota and in Yellowstone National Park, we saw big game animals, scenic grandeur, and nature's freaks. We decided that the West is one place that is different, even if it is seen repeatedly, always something different.

Bids Will Be Accepted On New Hospital

Board Awaits PWA Okay; Action Will Speed Up Building

Bids for the general construction contract of the College health center and hospital, to cost $250,000, will be received at the secretary's office after 2 p.m. Friday, Sept. 9, it was announced yesterday.

Board May Meet

Although final PWA approval for its portion of the building's cost has not been received, permission was given the College to advertise for bids, so that its time will be necessary to begin construction after the PWA offer is made.

The PWA's offer of $225,000 for construction of a women's dormitory was sent to the College Wednesday, and it was indicated a special meeting of the State Board of Agriculture will be called next week to accept the grant.

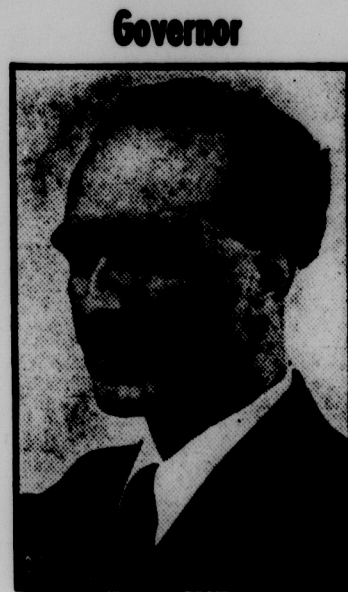

Near Mayo

The new women's dormitory will cost $500,000, PWA providing $225,000, and the College financing the remainder of the cost through a $275,000 self-liquidating bond issue.

The dormitory will be constructed near Mary Mayo hall for women, southwest of the Union building, and the hospital, if built, will be located northwest of the horticultural building, near Grand River avenue.

Wooster, Foster Say Nuptial Vows

Mrs. Edward L. Wooster of Dowagiac announces the marriage of her daughter, Doris Evelyn, to Robert William Frost, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Frost of East Lansing. The wedding took place August 28 at the bride's home and was attended by the immediate families of the bride and groom.

Governor

Frank Murphy

To further the interest of the government in advancing standards of medical care, a public health conference is being held on Saturday, September 10. It is sponsored by the Governor's study committee on social welfare relationships.

Firemen's Union Should Know About This

Dick Huddle, college telephone operator, turned fireman Saturday and put out a fire in the Governor's campus residence. A pan of grease had caught fire in the oven of a gas range and the Governor had called for assistance to put out the threatening blaze. Huddle, who was just getting off duty, grabbed an extinguisher from the telephone office and ran to the house. In a short time he had put out the fire and received the thanks of the Governor.

MSC Graduate Going to UofV

James R. Meyer, Lansing, who received the bachelor of science degree from Michigan State college in June, will study at the University of Virginia next school year on an $800 Blandy fellowship.

Six months will be spent at the University of Virginia, to be followed by five months of study at the Blandy experimental farm at Boyce, Va. Meyer will leave Lansing about Sept. 15.

Meyer majored in botany, and will do graduate study in cytogenetics. He is a graduate of Lansing Central high school, and is the son of Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Meyer, 707 N. Capitol avenue, Lansing.

Miss Beatrice Grant, assistant professor of foods and nutrition, will return to East Lansing September 10 from Europe, where she attended the International Physiological Congress in Zurich, Switzerland. Traveling with her sister, Miss Grant visited their ancestral home in Scotland, and also traveled in other European countries.

Milton E. Dickerson has been appointed graduate assistant in the Economics department.

High Standard Of Medical Care is Aim

Murphy, Waller Listed Among Speakers For Sept. 10 Gathering

Five thousand Michigan doctors, social service workers, labor leaders, hospital organization members and laymen will be invited to Governor Murphy's statewide public health conference, to be held at Michigan State college Saturday, Sept. 10.

The conference will be the third sponsored by the Governor's Study Committee on Social Welfare relationships. Its purpose will be to consider ways of having the government assist the people to obtain through practicing physicians a higher standard of medical care.

Union Headquarters

All sessions will be held in the Union building, a morning, noon and two afternoon meetings being scheduled.

Dr. Don W. Gudakunst, state health commissioner, will preside at the morning session, beginning at 9:30 o'clock, at which Governor Murphy will outline the conference's purpose. Discussions at the morning session will be devoted to the social and economic phases of medical care.

East Lansing Housing Facilities to be Taxed— Say College Officials; Rooms for Women Will be Biggest Problem According to Dean

With new students already accepted numbering over 2,000, indications are that housing facilities in East Lansing will be taxed to the limit, according to college housing officials.

The housing problem for women students is particularly acute. Over 35 women in excess of the number for whom rooms are available now have applications on file at the dean of women's office, according to Miss Elisabeth Conrad.

Sarah Langdon Williams, Mary Mayo, North Hall and the Union dormitory are filled. A few vacancies may occur on Sept. 1 through cancellations, according to Dean Conrad.

More Rooms Wanted

When East Lansing home owners all return from vacations, more houses are expected to be made available for women. Fourteen homes have been approved since a request was made last week for more rooms for women. Approximately 125 new houses have been approved during this summer, according to figures.

The men's housing situation is not pressing as yet, but with the anticipated increase in enrollment the demand for East Lansing rooms will be as great as it was last year, predicted G. R. Heath, housing director for men.

Applications are still being accepted for Stevens T. Mason hall. It is nearly filled but a few cancellations are expected, Heath stated.

"Wells hall has been filled for some time and with Stevens T. Mason hall nearly filled, the majority remaining will have to seek living facilities in private homes," Heath said.

A list of 460 approved rooms for men is available at the dean of men's office. Students have been urged to come to East Lansing to select their rooms before school reopens.

"We request that house holders call the housing director's office as soon as they have rented their rooms so that their names may be taken from the list of rooms available," said Heath.

Lansing Living Inconvenient

Lansing rooms for women are not yet being approved. Dean Conrad points out that living in Lansing would be expensive as well as inconvenient. Transportation cost to and from Lansing would run high. Also it would be difficult to arrange a schedule and college contacts would be limited, she said. However, it may be necessary to approve a few rooms just inside the city limits, she predicted.

There is an especially great demand for places where women can work for their room. Only few such opportunities are available, according to the Dean.

New students accepted are running about 200 ahead of the number at the same date last year. Wednesday at closing time 2,007 had been accepted, according to Miss Elida Yakely.

animals, but sometimes we wondered if they were actually there.

But this time there were many bears—along the road, in the camps, and at the feeding ground. One holdup bear started in the car window as my mother tried to take its picture. We left immediately, without the snapshot.

Park authorities have established a bear feeding ground near the Grand Canyon of the Yellowstone where grizzlies come unafraid to eat because, as the hanger said, "they feel safe as long as the human beings are in the cage." (We had to watch in a fenced-in area.)

Perhaps it sounds far-fetched to say that we swept bears off the porch, but while we were cooking breakfast the last morning, two cubs smelt our bacon and decided they wanted some too, so they tried to walk in. The only way to get out to pack the car was to sweep them off!

Dots in the Sky

We added two moose—a cow and a bull—to our list of wild animals we had seen, as well as antelope. But our real thrill came when we saw mountain goats high above us. They were so high they seemed to be merely dots.

Leaving the park by the Cooke City entrance, we went over a pass nearly two miles high. We looked down on large glaciers and clear glacial lakes. We climbed up to a glacier—it looked small and close—that was at least a half mile high. But even here there were flowers and butterflies.

Although Yellowstone was more beautiful than we had remembered, it was a pleasure to return to the more quiet beauty of the Black Hills. Although Mount Rushmore, where Gutzum Borglum is carving the likenesses of Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson, and Theodore Roosevelt, and the Needles highway draw most of the tourists, we found the more out-of-the-way roads—the roads you can't find on the map—more scenic and more like the mountains that we had known in Idaho.

John Gibbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. Gibbs, 734 Grove street, is expected to return next week from Delray Beach, Fla., where he has been visiting his uncle and grandfather. He will be a senior in East Lansing high school this year.

Museum to Perpetuate Name of Liberty H. Bailey

The name of Liberty Hyde Bailey, distinguished Michigan State college graduate and former professor, will be perpetuated in southwestern Michigan by a historical museum dedicated yesterday at South Haven.

As retired dean of agriculture of Cornell university, Dr. Bailey is one of Michigan State's most prominent alumni. He is a world authority on horticulture and botany, a renowned author, educator and editor.

Presented by Judge

The museum dedication in South Haven yesterday afternoon was part of the annual southwestern Michigan peach festival. The scientist's birthplace, which was converted into a public shrine, was presented to the city of South Haven by Judge Guy B. Findley, of Elyria, O.

Dr. Bailey first developed interest in horticulture and botany as a boy, roaming the fields and woods near the shores of Lake Michigan near South Haven. A hobby, an apple orchard with 195 different varieties, started the young Michigan man on his way to horticultural fame.

Taught at Cornell

Graduating from Michigan State in 1882, Dr. Bailey spent two years as laboratory assistant to a Harvard university botanist, then returned to East Lansing as professor of horticulture and landscape gardening. Under his leadership, the old horticulture building—now used by the psychology department—was built.

After three years at Michigan State, he was called to Cornell university as professor of horticulture, and in 1903 he became dean of agriculture, a position he held until his retirement in 1913.

The retirement was from administrative duties only, for since 1913 he has been active in horticultural research, building one of the largest private herbariums in the country and writing over 50 books. He has made frequent trips to South and Central America, New Zealand and other countries collecting rare botanical specimens.

Lansingite Plans September Marriage

Local Couple Speaks Vows; Leave on Trip

Lovely was the wedding Tuesday afternoon of Miss Katherine Eileen McCurdy, of Okemos, and Willard R. Klunzinger of East Lansing, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Klunzinger of Detroit. The ceremony was read by the Rev. H. G. Gaige before a gladioli, fern and palm banked altar in the chapel of the Peoples church.

For her gown the bride chose delphinium blue corded georgette which was cut into a full sweeping skirt with short puffed sleeves. A row of tiny buttons extended from the high neck line to the hem of the skirt.

The bridal veil was of the same shade of blue and she carried an arm bouquet of lilies of the valley and white brides roses.

Miss Diana Young of East Lansing, maid of honor, wore a gown of coral corded georgette cut on lines similar to that of the bride.

Fred G. Riser, Lansing, attended Mr. Klunzinger, as best man and the ushers were Stuart Bearup of Okemos and Francis Andrews of East Lansing.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. George Bearup of Okemos following the ceremony. A wedding cake flanked by bowls of pastel snapdragons centered the table.

It is well known to all close students of Ingham county government that during his 13 years service on the board of supervisors, his record was outstanding. He always insisted on efficiency, economy and morality in the conduct of county affairs.

He always guarded the interest of the taxpayer but was not penurious in the expenditure of public funds for a good purpose.

He fought for and it was largely through his efforts that a revaluation of Ingham county real estate was made, thus insuring that Ingham county would be more fairly dealt with in state equalization.

At the request of his board of supervisors, he has appeared on numerous occasions with other committee members, before the state board of equalization and argued successfully for more equitable values for his county.

He fought for and it was largely through his efforts that extension work in cooperation with Michigan State college, was retained in this county, thus insuring the retention of I-H club, home demonstration and other character-building agencies within the county.

He has always favored the public participation in enhancing the status of the underprivileged youth and adult, thus insuring a better citizen of tomorrow.

In short—he was always in the open—everyone at all times knew where he stood and his ability is unquestioned.

He is safe, courageous, dignified and would be an able representative of this district.

He is above petty bickering in politics and believes in the maintenance of law and order and fair play for all. We recommend him to the electorate of this district.

THE SCOREKEEPER

By DAVE TEFFT

Mike Casteel, who coaches Spartan backfield men in the fall and hurdlers in the winter and spring, besides doing most of the scouting for the State gridders in his spare moments, will soon be digging out those old pants again. The ones that he has worn every season since he started coaching at State.

Mike thought that he would pull a fast one on the boys last season and discard his time-worn mole-skirts. And he got as far as the field on the first day of practice wearing a brand new outfit. In fact he was the epitome of what the well-dressed young gridders should wear. But it didn't take with the boys.

Inspiration Maybe?

The boys seemed to think that those ragged, moth-eaten pants of Mike's were as indispensable to the life and good luck of the football hopes of Sparta as were halfbacks and tackles. They were sacred like "Red" Grange's "77" or "Dazzy" Vance's red sweatshirt. Mike tried his most persuasive arguments, but faced with a myriad of husky young gentlemen belligerently demanding his hide or his pants, he gave up. The next night Mike came out in the old ones. And if he's aware of his physical well-being, he'll patch them up and make them do again this season.

Ken Yarger used to tell one on Mike and John Kobs back in our high school days that will be a repeating. We won't vouch for it, but you can have it for what it's worth. It seems that Kobs used to pick up a few extra shekels in his off time by going out to one of the baseball towns near Lansing to do a bit of pitch-

Flowers Like A Motorboat On the Greens—Put, Put, Put

By Don Phillips

"Ed Flowers, he's a good golfer but his putting could stand plenty of improvement," so says Ben Van Alstyne, Michigan State's golf coach.

Van Alstyne further elaborated, telling us how Ed could slap a drive off the tee straight down the fairway 267 or 70 yards, approach with deadly accuracy, and then miss an easy putt of three or four feet.

"Flowers apparently loses his confidence when he's on the green. I've seen him play marvelous golf on the fairway and around the green and then completely ruin a score by his faulty putting. Ed isn't always like that, however, for some days he can 'can' a putt from anywhere and think nothing of it. It's on these days that Ed would be a match for anyone in the golfing game," Van related.

"Flowers has played golf most of his life, starting as a caddy in Grand Rapids, his home town. Even then Ed showed prospects of becoming a fine golfer, developing a long, easy swing. His large wrists and shoulders give him tremendous power in his drives and iron shots.

Comes to College

"Then Edward came to college and really began to play some golf. He won his freshman numerals and then settled down to three years of varsity competition. Ed has always played in the number one position for me here at State and has managed to win his share of matches. It was not until this year that Ed's fine golf was backed by a well balanced team. Brand, Nelson, and Tansey completed the lineup that gave us our most successful golf season in history.

"Flowers graduated in June and began entering tournament play around this section of the country. Ed played in the Michigan Open, finishing well up at the top. He then took a turn at a tournament in South Bend and showed the boys some good golf before he was eliminated in the third round.

"Late in July, Ed gained one thing. One day a certain club put in a call for Kobs and asked him to bring along his own catcher.

Mike Goes

After looking around "Gloomy" John decided that it would be a good idea to take Mike along to do the receiving. Mike was a catcher in his college days at Kalamazoo. And in spite of protests that the old legs were gone and that he hadn't caught in years Mike was dragged along by the irresistible Mr. Kobs.

The game got under way and things went along great until one of the opposing players decided that the time had come to try out the new catcher.

The would-be pilferer was off with the pitch and Kobs, with a warning yell to Mike, turned around to watch the play at second. That yell wasn't needed. Mike was all set for the play. With a valiant effort and a half-suppressed groan Mike lined the ball secondward and took the unsuspecting Mr. Kobs right in the middle of the back. There was a large chunk of silence.

of his earliest desires when he won the Michigan Amateur. In this tournament he probably played the best golf of his career. He had all of his shots working to perfection and swept through the field without too much difficulty.

One of Eight

"Now Ed has qualified for the National Amateur with a total of 149, shooting a 75-74. Qualifying for this event doesn't seem to be such a feat, but when one stops to think of the thousands of good amateur golfers attempting it, the affair takes on a different light. Ed was one of the eight out of thirty-five participants from this district to qualify, tying Chuck Koscis and Chris Brinke for second place. Koscis is a Walker Cup Player and Brinke is the Metropolitan champion of Detroit, which gives you some idea of the competition Flowers faced in qualifying," Van Alstyne continued.

"Flowers has now had plenty of seasoning in the grueling test of tournament play and can be expected to go places in this National Amateur—son, don't sell him short," shot Van Alstyne at us as we left.

Well we certainly won't, and we wish him the best of luck and may the birdies and pars flock around him like those good looking girls used to do when he was here at State.

Norris Loses To Fisher In Tennis Finals

Fischer Teams With Rau To Defeat Kazoo Pair For Doubles Crown

Rex Norris, former Spartan tennis star, lost his Michigan closed tournament championship to Carl Fischer, ex-Western Stater, from Detroit in the finals of the Michigan closed tourney here Sunday.

Fischer set Norris back in straight sets, 9-7, 6-2, 6-3. Some of the best tennis of the year developed from the Fischer-Norris match which was much closer than the score would indicate. The new champion showed especially tough at the net with an extremely

Dick Frey

When cross-country coach Lauren Brown calls his harriers into action this fall this slender fellow, like Abou Ben Adhem, will lead all the rest. With Kenny Waite lost to the squad through graduation, bespectacled Dick will have to do a lot of trotting to help bring that national title to rest at State again this year.

strong overhead smash and well-angled volleys.

Fischer Petulant

Norris, though obviously outplayed, held the sympathy of the gallery who became vexed at Fischer for his continual display of temperament. The former champ held leads of 5-4 and 6-5 in the first set, but was unable to best the Detroiter.

After having won the singles, Fischer teamed up with Bobby Rau of Monroe to win the doubles from Buck Shane and Don Worth, the Kalamazoo duo.

The doubles match was featured by heavy, short-quarter exchanges and a constant struggle for possession of the net. The repeated lobbing of the Kazoo pair kept Rau and Fischer away from the net where they are the best, and made the match much closer than it might have been. But it wasn't enough to win the match.

State RobinHoods Coming to MSC Next Week

For the third successive year Michigan State college athletic fields will be the site of the annual championship rally of state bow and arrow marksmen.

Competition will be divided into three classes—men's, women, and children's. A champion will be returned in each class and there will be 22 awards made for high scores, according to Kenneth Palmatier of Kalamazoo, secretary of the association.

Champions will be crowned Sunday and Monday. William Loomis, rural mail carrier from Newaygo, will defend the championship which he won last September.

Visitors will be welcome to watch the competition.
