Paging Jim Farley

Your "Paging Jim Farley" column seems to me a most appropriate public service and I wish to place several of my experiences with the East Lansing post office. On October 15 an important notification was mailed to me from the East Lansing office. Eighteen days later, November 2, the notification, properly addressed, was received by my home. The party had been given six days before the notification was received.

Last year I had given specific instructions concerning my mail during a brief vacation. Instead of directing the mail to be sent to my home, I requested the post office authorities to write the various publications ordering for use a change of address. After returning I wondered why I was not receiving my journals on schedule. After several requests for forwarding postage from the vacation address I realized what had happened.

We often receive with our mail items belonging to other people with names and addresses clearly different from ours. In my opinion post office service in East Lansing has been unacceptably poor.

Sincerely, An M. S. C. Professor.

This is the seventh in a series of Post Office Efficiencies. Suggestions are welcome, but names will be withheld from publication.

Philanderer

Spartans has a date! Yes, and what a date! Spartans not only has one girl, but he has three. Supposedly he was to have it last night, but he became so enamored over the maidens that he has extended it to include an entire weekend.

Spartans, the whippersnapper of the State campus, was detected in a Lansing store window greatly enjoying the company of three beautiful clothing dummies, all a part of a window display.

Welcome Home

Spartan football fans will gather at the Union station at five o'clock Sunday afternoon to give a rousing welcome to members of the team and to the college band.

Tryout Dates Scheduled

Tryouts for men and women's football will be held December 1 and 2 at 7:30 p. m. in room 130 North hall.

Hotel Honorary Initiates Ten

Following their usual swingout custom, when all pledges wear white chef hats, ten new members were initiated into Sigma Gamma Beta, hotel ad honorary fraternity.

Boulware Promoted to Major Rank

Marcus B. Boulware, captain in the infantry division of the R. O. T. C., was recently promoted to the rank of major. The promotion was announced by the war department at Washington.

Unknown Donor Gives Wreath

A wreath given by an unknown donor, was placed under the Armistice day plaque in the Union lounge Friday afternoon. Shown here are Jean Eickland, East Lansing, and Shirley Barlow, Evanson, Ill., holding the memorial. This is the first year that such a tribute has been placed under the plaque listing State students who died in the World War.

First Grange Party Under New Rule Set For Today

The Student Grange organization will hold its bi-weekly meeting and party at 8:30 tonight in room 406, Ag. hall. This will be the first party to be held by an organization under the recent ruling passed by the Student council.

MSC May Have Variety Show

The first definite step toward organizing the Michigan State men's variety show was made last night when representatives of the various organizations decided that the final decision on the issue will be put to a vote of the senior class.

Hill Given Year's Leave of Absence

Prof. E. B. Hill, head of the farm management department, was preparing to leave for Puerto Rico today, following the grant of a year's leave of absence by the State Board of Agriculture Friday.

Mortar Board To Entertain

Women students who work for their room and board in private homes will be the guests of Mortar Board at an informal party "Harvest Holiday" Sunday afternoon from 4:30 until 5:30 in the second floor dining room of the Union.

Van Dusen Offers Aid for Speech Defects

By SHIRLEY BARLOW. Doctor Van Dusen is the man who helps the students at Michigan State correct their speech difficulties.

consequently cannot pronounce them correctly. The speech adjustment indicator which Doctor Van Dusen invented is particularly helpful with rhythmic cases. While the student is speaking a light is flashed behind each printed direction as "relax," "raise gestures," and "slowly." This indicates to the speaker just what he is to improve upon.

P W A Grant Accepted By Ag Board

Plans for further expenditure of over $500,000 in Michigan State college building program were approved Friday at the regular meeting of the State Board of Agriculture. John A. Hannah, secretary of the board, announced.

A PWA grant of $90,000 was accepted as part payment for the proposed $200,000 music center. The building will be located on the site of the old college armory. The deficit on the building, eventually to be wiped out by student music fees, will be carried by a bond issue financed by the Ann Arbor Trust company.

Lowest bid on the livestock pavilion, originally planned to cost $93,000, was offered at $155,336. The college has a PWA grant of 45 per cent of the proposed cost and it was decided to request an additional grant to constitute 45 per cent of the submitted bid. Members of the board will ask the state legislature for the balance of funds.

The contract for excavations and foundations of the new auditorium was awarded the Lansing-Christman company, for $17,529. Work will start immediately on this project.

A PWA grant of $9,818 was accepted for a proposed soils research barn, to cost approximately $22,000, and a gift of $3,000 from the Kellogg Foundation for a bird sanctuary was approved.

C. L. Hoody, President R. S. Shaw and Secretary John A. Hannah were appointed to open bids for construction of the new girls' dormitory, to be submitted November 18.

Also approved was the purchase of a new boiler for North hall girls' dormitory, when it was found that the old one was beyond repair.

Society Heads Installed

At the meeting of Alpha Phi Omega Thursday, Gertrude Oswald was elected to the position of vice president, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Robert Pace. Gertrude Oswald, vice president, and Paul Haxemann, corresponding secretary, were installed by the appropriate ceremony and given the charge of their offices by Dr. Miles, president.

Mortar Board Dance, Play Cards At U P Club Party

The U. P. club will hold its first party of the term tonight in the gym annex. A general social program has been arranged, with dancing, refreshments and games. The first round of the cribbage tournament will also be played.

The club's executive council has issued an invitation for "all you wild Indians and lumberjacks" to attend.

Frolic of the Air Will Feature All-Girl Band

The Michigan State Frolic of the Air will include in its cast this afternoon, Edna Ballas and her all-girl orchestra, Fay Smith, vocalist, Bob Smith, pianist, Censon Torrance, guitar, and Mary Westberg, pretty poetess.

Gertrude Brummelhoff, president of S. W. L., will be interviewed by Doris McMetzen, and an original script by Mary Jeanette Martin will be enacted by Esther Montgomery and Shirley Thornton.

The show will be aired over WKAR at 2 o'clock from the Little Theater, but will not be open to a studio audience.

Dean to Speak To Farmers

Dean E. J. Anthony, Agricultural Division, will speak at a Master Farmers luncheon at Grand Rapids, November 17. The luncheon is in connection with the first annual Michigan Farm Festival, which will be held there all next week.

Dean Anthony will speak on the benefits of the farm festival to future agricultural development in Michigan.

Home Ec Students To Hear Lecture

Leather and Bag will be Betty Haxemann, Project, Home Ec, at the November meeting of the Home Economics club, Thursday, November 17, at 7:30 p. m. in the little theater.

Theatre To Treat State Students

The management of the State theater reopened yesterday, that students might be admitted free to a special showing of The Tempest, at 8 o'clock Thursday evening.

Credits will be granted late permission for this performance. Dean of Women Elizabeth Conrad stated providing this concession of attendance at theater.

Battered Spartans Point for Win Over Traditional Foe

Johnny Pingel Carries State Hopes for Fifth Victory of Season Against Marquette; Radinski and Nelson Still on Injured List

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 12.—It will be Homecoming and Industrial day here today when the Spartans of Michigan State college and Marquette's Golden Avalanche match football prowess in the reawakening of grid rivalry. The Spartans are scheduled to arrive here at noon from Chicago, where they spent the night.

Local Robin Hood Gets His Buck

H. D. HOODMAN

The bow and arrow is more deadly than the rifle in this range, and H. D. Hoodman, extension instructor in the horticultural department, is relating how he shot his deer this season in the Upper Peninsula. Hoodman was one of the first hunters in Michigan this year to bag a deer in this aspect but none manner.

To citizens of Newaygo county, the appearance of these men slipping through the dense woods of the north country must have seemed a flash-back to the days when Robin Hood and his band roamed the dales of Sherwood forest.

Hoodman, himself a citizen of that county, is a well-known sportsman and a well known hunter and other parts of the United States as a sportsman.

With a party of his friends, he set out on a hunt for the White River. There will be roughly men he could stalk the deer and other animals. Game was plentiful and he had no shot at deer during his short stay.

Mr. Hoodman has been active in the promotion of law and order hunting. He believes that the more people who take the rifle to game within the range it would cause the animal to be killed at a more distant. While the rifle may be used a quarter of a mile the deer's effect may drag it well for a long time before being overtaken.

Sophs Will Get Math Prizes

Two new scholarships, one amounting to $30 and the other $25, will be awarded sophomore Liberal Arts or Applied Science students this spring, according to reports received from the mathematics department today.

These scholarships awarded by a faculty member who wishes his name kept secret, will honor the two students in those divisions judged to have made the best record in mathematics during their freshman and sophomore years and who are interested in continuing work in that department.

A Fitting Memorial to Our War Heroes

For the first time since the original armistice celebration, a fitting memorial to those from Michigan State college who died in the World War has been dedicated without glorification of the principles for which that war was fought.

Because of the efforts of the United Peace committee on the campus, the canticle of praise, a lyrical hymn of racial prejudice, has been dropped from the program.

The invocation, as delivered by Dr. N. A. McCune, was simple, yet poignant in its simplicity, as is fitting. At no time were the glory and military prowess of the United States mentioned. The usual display of military equipment from the college R. O. T. C. was omitted.

It is heartening to see that, although war plans are being refined to greater and more deadly perfection in every nation, and European powers have started the barrage of propaganda indicative of the advent of another war, the youth of this country is turning away from the old idea of supremacy of one nation above all others, of hysterical, sheep-like glorification of military patriotism.

Michigan State students are among the first to rebel against the canticle of praise and the use of a memorial to the dead as an instrument of propaganda. Such rebellion is noteworthy in a college with compulsory military training. Let us continue along such lines.—R. M.

They Read Proof at Midnight

"It will be here Tuesday for sure," promise student editors of the 1938-39 Student Directory.

So this year for the first time, the task of publishing the directory, previously assumed by the registrar's office, was carried out from start to finish by student labor. The student who thinks publishing a student directory is easy, has but to imagine himself as someone else trying to read his name and address so hurriedly scrawled out at registration time.

To increase difficulties, many students when registering forgot their telephone numbers which had to be carefully looked up in a telephone book. Later there were printers proofs to be read as a final safeguard against error. One Saturday at midnight after the day's study was done, a group of students gathered to read proofs, but even those early morning hours of indistinct work were not enough as the proofs had to be laboriously checked against original registration cards which had become in more legible with age.

To NWS (News, Wolverine, Spartan), newly formed journal-honorary, goes a word of hearty congratulations for a big job well done.—SN

A Word to the 'Activity Boys'

Dear college boys, and young ladies, are left in the State News, mentioned. This shows that students can get the fun and take up too many extra-curricular activities. The State News lays thoughtfully the road to take in an attempt at a multiplicity of jobs and activities at a which lack time from study.

Reporter Interviews Author Of 'We Too are the People'

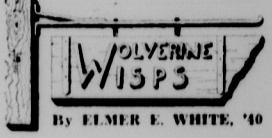

By MARINAN ALKIRE
Sociology students have been getting a lot about a new book, "We Too are the People," by Mrs. Louise V. Armstrong. A State News reporter was granted an interview with the author when she spoke before the Michigan Library association in Lansing recently.

Mrs. Armstrong's book concerns her experiences as an FERA administrator in a county in northwestern Michigan. Descriptions of many of the people and conditions that Mrs. Armstrong discovered are not especially flattering to the county in question.

Mrs. Armstrong said she wrote her book in defense of the less fortunate citizens. She does not believe that these people are responsible for the conditions in which they find themselves. The existing law makes, she believes, has been caused by lack of education and opportunity.

Mrs. Armstrong said she does not think that the people in that county are any worse than those of many other communities. A cross-section of rural and semi-rural America was the way she spoke of them.

Mrs. Armstrong has not changed any of her ideas about the county since she wrote her book. When she was asked if she liked the county in spite of the type of people living there, she replied in the affirmative. She especially likes its beautiful scenery. Mrs. Armstrong thinks that the criticism that has been made of her book, that certain conditions which she describes have hurt both the county and its residents, is silly. She said, "Up there the people consider it all personal. I was writing a story of rural America and only used that county as an example."

Scoop Says:

By George Maskin

Lauren P. Brown, Michigan State's cross country coach, is not an optimist.

He claims too much grief accompanies optimism and recently you can appreciate victory all the more if the triumph comes as a surprise to you.

From his character alone, it isn't difficult to ascertain Brown doesn't rate Michigan State's chances very high in the forthcoming I. C. 4-A championship run in New York next Monday.

But, don't get us wrong. Brown isn't conceding anything in Monday's race.

On paper he figures Manhattan and Penn State, not to overlook Syracuse, the 1937 runner-up to Michigan State, will fight it out for the title annexed by a Spartan harrier team during each of the last five renewals of the classic.

Times Slower

He goes on to prove the present State team is slower than his previous three champions. His conclusions are based on the showings made by the first five runners in the annual Indiana dual meets and the I. C. 4-A.

In 1935 Brown reveals one minute separated the quintet against Indiana, while there was a difference of 59.5 seconds in the I. C. 4-A.

The following year found the five leading Spartans 1.65 minutes apart while running the Hoosiers and 1.01 minutes distant in New York.

Right Together

Last fall, the Spartans virtually ran over each other. Two or three seconds divided the first and fifth men in both events.

Turning to this year's Indiana meet, since obviously no times are available on the I. C. 4-A, Brown finds his No. 1 and No. 5 men crossed the line 1.10 seconds apart.

"The correlation between times in the Indiana and I. C. 4-A runs are almost identical," Brown explained. "Therefore, it would appear our first five finishers Monday will be around 1.10 minutes apart."

"I don't think such a performance will be good enough to win considering Manhattan has five men who recently were 30 seconds apart in a race."

Can't Dope Race

In almost the next breath, Brown then expounded the fact you never can dope out the winner of the meet in advance.

"Back when I was a senior, we figured we had the title in the bag, but as might be expected we came home without it. A few seasons ago, we couldn't see how in the world we'd win the crown, but we did."

Brown stamped his present squad "as one which is playing major league ball when it should be in the minors." To be concise, the Spartans want to win and to do so would far exceed Brown's greatest expectations of their potential ability.

Brown thinks probably the "grand fall" has played a prominent part in the team's rapid improvement. Six weeks ago, he wouldn't have ventured to predict the team would finish among the first six or eight in New York.

State Harriers To Defend National Title In East Monday

Spartans Face Stiff Test as They Gun For Sixth Crown

By JOE SIMEK

Today will go down as a busy one for Lauren P. Brown, cross country coach.

He must round up seven of his best harriers and entrain them for New York city, where they meet the crack teams of the east in the I. C. 4-A championship run Monday afternoon.

But before he does this he will take his junior varsity and freshman squads to Ypsilanti for the Michigan A. A. U. meet.

Frosh Eleven Scores 11-6 Triumph

By HAL SCHRAM

MT. PLEASANT, Nov. 11.—Mixing a brilliant aerial attack with a consistent running game, a powerful Michigan State freshman football team defeated a rugged Central State Teachers college freshman eleven, 14-6, Friday afternoon before a crowd of 1,100.

Striking back in the closing moments of the first period, the Spartan yardlines scored on a pass from Ed Dragg to Jake Speedman to tie the count at six all, and went ahead to stay when Nels Shelly sent the piskin through the cross bars on a perfect kick from placement and the added point.

BEARCATS SCORE

The Bearcats put Coach Kobe gradless in the hole early in the game, stanza when they marched 48 yards to the State 2-yard line, took the ball into the promised land on the next play fumbled, and recovered for them, drove and a very unusual touchdown.

During the second and third periods, both teams displayed a line brand of football, concluding long marches into the enemy territory by very costly fumbles, blocked kicks, intercepted passes, off-side penalties, and other football reverses which make scoring the uncertainty that it is. Typical of this sort of football was displayed in the early stages of the first quarter when Don Bee, Spartan tackle, broke through to block a Central kick on the Bearcat 27.

OFFENSE COLLAPSES

After taking the ball to the 4-yard line, the Spartan offense collapsed and the Bearcats took the ball on down.

The final State marker came in the final stanza when the East Lansing squad took the ball on their own 32-yard line and on five successive plays crossed the Central State goal line.

"It all happened this way," V. B. Beardsell made 20 yards around the right end, Willy Davis added 18 through left tackle. Foket picked up ten more through center, Davis lost five on an run which failed to materialize. Beardsell skirted right end for the necessary 23 yards and a touchdown.

Scoring festivities for the afternoon were officially closed when "Crash" Eckel converted with Beardsell holding from the 10-yard stripe.

Trojans Whip Mt. Pleasant In Finale

By DON PHILLIPS

East Lansing high school's Trojans staged another of their habitual second half rallies and downed a stubborn but out-played Mt. Pleasant team, 26-6 here Friday afternoon.

Midway in the third quarter, East Lansing's running attack began to function and with Max Phillips and Johnny Fabian carrying the ball, the Trojans marched to the one-yard line. "Booze" Griswold crashed over on fourth down for the first East Lansing touchdown. Bill Patch's placement kick was wide.

FUMBLE HURTS

Shortly after this, Jack Dodge recovered a Mt. Pleasant fumble on the 20-yard line. A couple of line plays carried the ball to the 4-yard line from where Griswold cracked the middle of the Mt. Pleasant line wide open to score the second touchdown.

Mt. Pleasant retaliated with a 32-yard run by Buck Miller on the first play of the fourth quarter. Miller was tackled from behind by Bob McCarthy, but on the next play Benford boozed through the center of the Trojan line for six points.

Half of the final quarter remained when the Trojans took possession of the ball on their own 48. A 30-yard gallop by Phillips around left end put the ball on the 27. Johnny Fabian then took over for the Shavermen and slashed 22 yards through tackle for another touchdown. Patch's kick was good.

RESEMBLES TRACK

With the game taking on the aspects of a track meet, Mt. Pleasant continued their ground-gaining and logged the ball to the East Lansing 15 before the Trojan forward wall buckled down to business and took the ball on down. With only a minute to go, Max Phillips took the ball, sliced through tackle and cut back for 72 yards and the final touchdown.

With only a minute to go, Max Phillips took the ball, sliced through tackle and cut back for 72 yards and the final touchdown.

Because of the vast improvement shown by Michigan Normal and Western State the Spartans junior varsity and freshman teams will have a hard fight to finish one-two in the team scoring as they did last year.

FOOTBALL

Marquette, when he scored three touchdowns and sparked State to a 21-7 victory.

Coach Charlie Bachman hopes his charges have shaken the lethargy which gripped them last week at Columbia. He has brushed up on both air and ground attacks this week in an effort to get the team in "clicking" A revived spirit in the Spartan camp has buoyed his victory hopes somewhat.

There is little indication of a change in the Spartan starting front, although Ralph Bennett has been at Mike Kinck's right end post in many of the drills this week. State will probably face Marquette with Kinck and Diehl ends, Bremer and Gargett, tackles, Roskenbach and Griffith, guards, Alling, center, Diebold, quarter, Finney and Devere, halfbacks, and Haney, fullback.

Marquette, after an open date in its quest shape for the homecoming classic. They have worked hard on State plays and hope that they have perfected an offense which will break a touchdown fast. The Hilltoppers have scored only one touchdown all season.

The Golden Avalanche does not let the power of its 7-man of '37 years, many sophomores being in the starting front. This does not shake them, however, from their determination to spring an upset on the favored Bachman team.

Dahlgren Never Sees State in Action

Although hired this fall to coach the line, Jake Dahlgren hasn't seen Michigan State in actual combat. Each Saturday finds Dolly on a scouting assignment far distant from the men he coached during the week. He'll watch Temple play Saturday.

Marquette Golden Avalanche Expects to Rise Against Spartans

Never Know When They're Conquered

First Year Men To Face State

It's pretty much a sophomore team Paddy Driscoll will face against Michigan State here on homecoming day. Newcomers who are making regular appearances on the Marquette line include Don Vosberg, swashbuckling and speedy left end, Gil Thomson, the big and rangy right end; Ray Apolskis, the sensational center and guard, and Bob Kennitz, another guard who was a Navy plebe last fall but a Hilltop freshman in 1936.

Sophomores also figure in the Golden Avalanche backfield. In fact, Michigan State may see two of them who thus far have not had a minute of action this fall—Laverne (Bane) Wazner and Bill Rein.

However, the Hilltoppers are not without their veterans the tried and true men of experience who, after all, are the backbone of a gridiron aggregation. Hats are off, especially to Marquette's pair of 210-pound tackles—Carl Siefert, a senior, and Ray Busler.

Hilltoppers Boast Only One Win

There's something peculiar and, we suppose, commendable about this 1938 Marquette Golden Avalanche. It's never licked before it goes on the playing field, yet it never wins a game! Well, well take that back. It DID pull one out of the hat with a magical 7-0 victory over favored Southern Methodist.

But otherwise, the Hilltoppers' touchdown quest has been fruitless. Nevertheless, Coach Paddy Driscoll's men never know when they're down. They have entered each and every battle full of confidence that they could turn the trick.

And, when you consider their list of opponents has included Wisconsin, Kansas State, Texas Christian and Iowa State, you must realize that they are an ambitious lot.

Thus, hope beats eternal. The Men of Marquette look ahead now to Michigan State. And they THINK they can win.

Yearling Cagers To Start Drills Wednesday

Freshman basketball practice will get under way in Demonstration hall next Wednesday, it was announced yesterday. Len Kositz, coach and Joe Hovarth will take charge of the early drills, giving way to Tom King at the outset of winter term.

Last year's frosh enjoyed an undefeated campaign, capturing six games by substantial margins. The yearlings again will engage in a six-game card to be announced next month. All frosh interested in basketball are asked to report.

Van Alstyne to Use Two-Team System During Cage Season

It'll be speed vs. experience this fall when Basketball Coach, Ben VanAlstyne picks out his starting line-up for the first clash of the season next month.

That's not the way the situation stands now on the Spartan varsity. On one hand VanAlstyne has a team of experienced veterans that lists such stellar players as George Falkowski, Marty Hatt, Frank Shodier, Ben Dargush, Orr, Hindman, Leo Callahan, Max Dalrymple, and Chet Aubuchon on the other hand we find a team of speed merchants with veterans

Charles Henry and Bill Carpenter, and sophomores Bob Morris, Bob Phillips, Warren Bullock, Melvin Peterson, and Bill Finlen. Sam Nosenov, veteran of Spartan grid and diamond wars, making his first bid for a cage position, is also on this squad.

There really is little to choose between these two teams. Said VanAlstyne, "There's about 14 men out there who are all O. K. I'll probably play them all under a two-team system. There's no No. 1 starting five."
