

State Harriers Second To Manhattan For I. C. 4-A. Crown

Ex-Spartan Runner, Now at Penn State, Leads Field Home

Manhattan Scores 42 Points to Capture Title With Little Trouble; State Totals 76 Points; Dick Frey Paces Spartan Entry

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Michigan State's five-year monopoly of the I. C. 4-A. cross country championship ended here today when Manhattan romped to a decisive victory in the annual renewal of the classic over a difficult course in Van Cortland park.

The victorious Jaspers piled up 42 points in returning the title to the eastern shore after its long stay in East Lansing. State grabbed off second place honors with 76 points, while Pitt was third with 90, Alfred, fourth with 109, and Penn State, fifth, with 110.

Team honors won for the Manhattan entry. The Jaspers placed seven runners in the first ten, but its other two point getters ran twenty-seventh and thirtieth, respectively.

FORMER SPARTAN
An easterner, Billy Smith, won the individual title in 26:33, leading the field of more than 150 runners home by several feet. Incidentally, Smith formerly was a Michigan State student, dropping out because he complained of homesickness.

Dick Frey, the smooth-running junior, led the Spartan delegation in the race for the tape. Frey finished fourth in 21:45, a few feet behind in ninth place came Roy Felt of the Spartans who had to put on a great spurt to top George Keller, a team mate.

Then came a long procession of runners before an audience of 1,000. Michigan State runner, Ed Van Aiken, running in twenty-seventh place, Bill Mansfield, the fifth Spartan home, was thirtieth. Fletcher Gilson and Al Mangin, the other two members of the State squad, were far back, the former finishing forty-fifth while Mangin was No. 52 crossing the final line.

MOULDER SETS PACE
For Manhattan Moulter was the pacesetter, following Champion Smith. Moriarty of the Jaspers took fifth, Conkling, eighth, Sheehan, fifteenth, and Furey, sixteenth.

The weather conditions were far from ideal. A stiff wind made things unfavorable for the runners as they stepped around the new and difficult course.

Most of the teams which completed here today will come to the track at East Lansing next Monday during the running of the National Collegiate. An entry of 25 schools is expected.

State's team left here last night and will arrive in East Lansing shortly after 4 p. m. tomorrow.

Cute Coed

Whenever a picture of State's week is printed in a national publication, requests for introductions are bound to come in. Last year it was Life, and this year it is the Collegiate Digest. A short time ago there appeared in this State News a picture, which is distributed nationally, a picture of that beautiful bevy of women that Bill Frank uses as Wolverine saleswomen.

Shortly thereafter, Bill got a letter from Indiana University. It began, "We the undersigned, being two undergraduates of Indiana university, and believe, as all males do, in their dogmatic ability to recognize true feminine pulchritude, have had our fancy caught and held by the face of a certain beauty."

Obviously, Bill wrote to the two Indiana men, and told them that the girl was Mary Jean Mabe.

Punch for a Pass
How many would take a sock on the chin to see the Michigan-Northwestern game gratis? On arrival in Ann Arbor Saturday, Tom Butters and Bill Brady decided they'd like to see the game. At the stadium only one ticket taker confronted them; thereupon they braced themselves. Brady landed on the ground and had to pay. The ticket taker hooked a left on Butters, but he saw the game free.

Paging Jim Farley
The flood of letters to the editor complaining about postal service at East Lansing has finally ceased. Apparently townspeople and students have seen all they will be their complaints in print.

Mailed
The complete series of seven letters will now be clipped and mailed to Washington, D. C., with the request that people of East Lansing would like to know what can be done about inefficient postal service. Washington's answer will be printed in this column.

Band Shines, Too
With the college singing the praises of Saturday's victors at Milwaukee, much comment over the band has been heard. The band took 100 pieces 200 miles and outshone Marquette's 56 pieces on Marquette's own stacking ground turning in one of their most perfect performances up to date.

Following the band dinner at a Milwaukee hotel after the Marquette football game Saturday, Treasurer C. O. Wilkins furnished a unique surprise.

Leading the band in an after-dinner talk, Wilkins handed a crisp new dollar bill to each of the band members as they left the dining room.

Mystery Solved
The mystery of the lost $500 is solved at last. State News printed a picture of Saturday under which it was stated that the wealth had been given by an "unknown donor." The donor was unknown at that time, but now it is out that the college benefactor was—the college, it was.

Engineers to Give Chemistry Movie
American Institute of Chemical Engineers will present a sound picture entitled "The Wonders of Chemistry," Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. in the lecture room of Kedzie Chemical laboratory.

The film is presented through the courtesy of the DuPont Chemical company. The public is invited to attend.

Officials Go To Chicago Meeting

MSC Group Attends Land Grant College Convo This Week

President R. S. Shaw and a group of deans and directors are attending the fifty-second annual meeting of the Association of Land Grant colleges and universities, in Chicago November 14 to 16.

The meeting is designed to suggest and initiate new ideas into the field of land grant colleges. Discussion groups will meet in different rooms of the LaSalle hotel where they will discuss those phases of education which concern these respective departments.

Formal opening of the convention was a dinner in the Blue Fountain room of this hotel Sunday evening.

Faculty members who are at the convention are Deans H. B. Dirks, of Engineering division; Marie Dye of Home Economics division; E. L. Anthony, of Agriculture division; Director R. J. Baldwin, of Extension division; and Director V. R. Gardner, of the experiment station.

Also at the meeting are two members of the State Board of Agriculture, Mrs. Lavine Masselink and James K. Jakway.

Dean Anthony will have charge of discussion of adjustment of personnel in the present teaching staff section. Dean Dye will lead discussion in the Home Economics section. Dr. Gardner is a member of the joint committee on projects and correlation of research. Mr. Baldwin is chairman of the special committee on influence of 4-H club work.

Dean Dye is a member of the home demonstration special committee.

Two members of the Michigan State college soils department faculty will give three papers before the annual meeting of the American Society of Agronomy this week in Washington, D. C.

Dr. E. C. Miller and Dr. R. L. Cook will present a paper before the chemistry section of the society, describing the determination of boron in soils.

Dr. Miller, chairman of the national committee on fertilizer, will report the work of the subcommittee on fertilizer ratios at the Wednesday meeting.

Members of the soils department who will attend the convention November 16, 17 and 18, are: Dr. Miller, Dr. Cook, L. M. Turk, J. O. Veaster, A. L. Mick, G. B. Sherman and J. F. Davis.

Members of the farm crops department who will attend the meeting are: Dr. C. M. Harrison, R. E. Decker and Prof. H. C. Rafter. All three of these men will be on the Agronomy program.

Professor Rafter, head of the farm crops department, is chairman of the sectional program on teaching and extension.

Rotarians to Hear Geologist Talk
Professor W. A. Kelly, of the geology department, will speak before the Rotary club of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph at Benton Harbor, November 21. Oil developments in the southwest portion of Michigan will be the subject of his talk.

Bull Session Expected When Principals, Students Meet

"How are your marks coming, since you got to college?" Not from anxious mothers, but from more than 265 high school principals and superintendents will come this query from 9 until 12 a. m. Saturday.

For it'll be interview time for freshmen again—their one and only opportunity to air their personal and private opinions of life and work on Michigan State's campus.

Each fall, for the last four years, a conference between State freshmen and their former high school instructors has been arranged for the purpose of finding out just what things the new students approve and what things they don't like.

Besides representatives from various high schools, there will be teachers from the nine junior colleges whose graduates are now at State, and from the University of Michigan, to talk to transfer students.

All in all, both students and members of the high school faculties will benefit from the conference, it is planned. And the college, too, will get its share of good will and tips for better management from this super-glorified bull session.

Each representative will be furnished with a form for his student, which he will fill out and return to the college. In it will be an account of how the student is doing at State, any "gripes" that he may have, and his opinion of how good his high school courses were in preparation for college.

Last year's reports showed that a majority of students approved heartily of life on State's campus—the student advisory system, the friendly faculty-student relationship, and living conditions.

Transfer students will be guests at a party given by the Home Ec club tonight at 7:30 in the Little Theater.

Ruth Jabl, general chairman for the party has announced committee chairman as: invitations, Frances Bates, program, Helen Hebblewhite refreshments, Margaret King, clean-up, Betty Taft.

Dr. Irma Gross, adviser for transfer students, will open the program with a welcome. A group of dramatic students, under the direction of Dr. W. Fawcett Thompson, will give a short skit and Katherine Freeman will entertain with her accordion.

Alpha Phi Omega, national service honorary, will have the directory on sale at vantage points on the campus.

Overcoming last-minute difficulties which at first threatened to postpone publication, NWS, publishers of the directory, completed the work late last night.

The cover has been modernized this year, presenting new style type and a picture of Beaumont tower. For the first time in the history of the publication, advertising will be carried.

Back to the days when East Lansing was known to a few settlers as Collegeville. Until only two decades ago the fire department was nothing more than a hand reel housed behind the power plant.

In 1916 the college purchased a Reo truck equipped with chemicals and hose beds. This truck in service for the city until about four years ago, was also housed in the rear of the power plant and manned completely by volunteers.

Not until 1924 did the city take over the fire department. In that year the city bought appropriated funds for the purchase of the 1916 Reo from the college and also a Seagrave pumper, which is now in service. Three full time firemen were hired with Walter Allen as first city chief.

But this action on the part of the city created a need and certainly unique situation. Men and trucks came, but there was no place to put them. The city hall had not as yet been completed and there were no living quarters at the power plant to accommodate the new firemen. So from March

Independents To Feature Vocalist

Friday IMI Party Will Be Held in Union Ballroom

Marjorie Duncan, Frankie Prindle's new feminine vocalist, will be featured by the band at the Independent's annual fall term dance this Friday night in the Union Ballroom, Carmen Mercadante, general chairman, announced yesterday.

Committee heads acted include Irving Wyeth, tickets, Phil Milson, decorations; Elmer Kay, posters; John Crist, publicity, and Dean Koch, entertainment.

Decorations are being planned by the traditional Thanksgiving motif predominant, designed by Phil Milson. Talent for entertainment will include the Frats' Joe Gaudin and John Itav.

Patrons and patronesses for the party will be Prof. and Mrs. A. J. Panshin, Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Ziemer, and Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Hagen.

Following the precedent which the organization has set in years previous, the fall term party will be a strictly informal dance. Admittance, of course, will not be refused if anyone wishes to attend in formal attire.

Three hundred tickets have been printed and distributed to zone heads and organization officers. Deuts have also been placed on sale at the Union desk.

YW to Read Peace Play

Fellowship Group To Announce Plans For Aiding Chinese

In recognition of the world week of prayer and Armistice day, the dramatic group of Y. W. C. A. will read a peace play at the all-membership meeting tomorrow at 5 p. m. in the student parker of the Peoples armory.

Girls who will read the play include: Jacqueline Wynne, Judith Crozier, Betty Bowman, Betty Robinson, Janet Bokwell, Leona Seyfried, Ann Salomonson, Helen Merry Herrick, Helen Pratt, Mrs. Altman, Mary Jo Armstrong, Frances Nings and Jean Binkley. Pat Whitford, chairman of the dramatics group is in charge of the play. Helen Pratt is assisting her.

The religious group will present the emergency call for the world week of prayer, and the world fellowship group will announce plans for raising money to relieve students in China.

The social service and community interest group has decided to make Christmas gifts for war deprived children. Betty McClure, Dunsmuir Barton, Marjorie Baldwin and Jean Johnson are distributing the dolls.

Engineer Receives Prize for Thesis In Contest

Donald C. McSoreley, graduate assistant in the Engineering division, won first prize in a national contest sponsored by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

His thesis, "Vapor Transmission Through Building Materials," was chosen by the society as the best original thesis having to do with engineering.

Every college in the United States which has an engineering school is represented in the contest.

The research done in connection with the work was all done in the college engineering laboratories.

A trip to New York City with out expenses is McSoreley's prize.

Show Will Be Supervised

Coeds Who Attend Free Movie Will Be Stamped on Hand

Free showing at the State theater Thursday of Joe Penner's latest picture, "From the City," will be strictly supervised, according to student officials.

Coeds who attend the show will be stamped on the hand to indicate that they were present at the movie. It is necessary, officials say, to show the stamp to avoid receiving late minutes.

They will be stamped on the hand outside the theater and lines will extend to the north, away from Grand River avenue. Six police officers will be on hand to keep students in line and to avoid the congestion of past years.

The free movie is being made available to students through Dean R. Christie, lead theater manager.

YWCA Tours Motor City

An international tour of its many foreign communities was the principal attraction in Detroit, Saturday, for 230 women from six colleges.

Twenty women from Michigan State left Saturday morning to join this annual YWCA world fellowship meeting in Detroit.

Arriving there about noon, they were first taken through Detroit's scenic district, and on an inspection of the Brewster project. Their trip was made through Temple Beth-El Jewish religious synagogue, the Ukrainian Catholic church and settlement house.

Betty Hart, inter-area representative on the Geneva council, and Miss E. Nier, state chairman of student Y. W. C. A. met with representatives of other colleges Saturday in Detroit to discuss plans for the coming year.

Among the topics discussed were the world acquaintance tour for 1939, the state national training conference in the Y. W. C. A. and regional projects, including the Far Eastern student service fund, the American conference, and national commissions.

Book Fair Will Be Held in Peoples Church Thursday and Friday

School Children Dramatize Books at Meetings

East Lansing public school students and members of the Michigan State college dramatics group and Studio theater will help celebrate the annual free East Lansing Book Fair, November 17 and 18. The fair will be held in connection with national book week, and will be in Peoples church.

Mrs. Ira Whittemore, president of the East Lansing Woman's club, will preside at the Thursday afternoon meeting and Donald O'Hara, superintendent of schools at the evening program.

Bales school students will dramatize "Benjie's Hat", a children's book by Mable Leigh Hunt, Thursday afternoon. Also Central school students will dramatize "Thimble Summer" by Elizabeth Enright. Evening songs set to music will be sung by a mixed chorus from Bales and Central schools, under the direction of Virginia Weissinger. "Mister by Morning," a skit, will be performed Thursday evening by the Studio theater, under the direction of Don Buell, of the speech department. A program by the East Lansing high school orchestra and community singing will make up the musical part of the entertainment.

Mrs. Chester F. Clark, president of the East Lansing Child Study club, will preside at the Friday afternoon meeting when Central school students will dramatize "Araminta's Goat," by Mrs. Eva Knox Evans. A Christmas story, "Gabriel and the Hour Book," will then be enacted by Bales school students. The story was written by Evelyn Stein. East Lansing grade school choruses will take part.

Exhibitors of books at the fair include Emery-Pratt company, Michigan Education association, Michigan School Service, Incorporated, Wagnersford & Company, and College Book store.

Women Hold Fete For Founders

Eight of 23 Charter Members Present At Church Meet

Founder's day of the Women's society of the Peoples church was celebrated at the last meeting of the society in the women's parlors of the church this week.

Eight of the 23 charter members of the organization were present and were given the honorary chairs in a special seating arrangement. The organization was founded in 1907.

Mrs. Gifford Patch had charge of the program which followed the business meeting. Mrs. B. F. Carter, took charge of the business meeting. A report was heard from each of the six divisions of the society, and Mrs. Nimsoll, in charge of meals served to the public, asked for more prompt responses to her appeals for help.

Mrs. V. H. Church started the program with a tribute to the work of the early members of the society. This was followed by a humorous skit presented by Mrs. Earl Hough.

Mrs. R. M. Hogue read a paper showing the background of early pioneer days and the religious activities which have culminated in the larger movements of today.

The program was closed with two piano solos by William Bachman. Coffee and doughnuts were served.

Junior Class To Present Comedy

'Seventeen' to Be Given in Auditorium Friday, at 8 P. M.

"Seventeen", Booth Tarkington's rollicking comedy of adolescent youth, will be presented by the East Lansing junior class Friday evening, November 18, at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of East Lansing high school.

Leading parts have been assigned to King Carr as "Willie", Hugo Boettcher as "Mr. Baxter", Esther Ingersoll as "Jane", Jean Kessel as "Lola", and Aithea Hurst as "Mrs. Baxter". Understudies for these parts are: Marshall Wood as "Willie", Mary Reineking as "Jane", Lucille Funk as "Lola Pratt", and Barbara Lee Amundson as "Mrs. Baxter".

SUPPORTING CAST

Other parts include Bob Cardwell as "Joe Bullett", Jack Ewing as "Genevieve", Lea Cahill as "Johnny", with Don Smith as understudy, Bill McCartney as "George", Dorothy Mitchell as "Mary Parcher", with understudy Lois Ann Watkins, Bill Werbeck as "Mr. Parcher", Joan Jenkins as "Ethel Baker", and Mary Reineking as "Mary Brooks".

Several committees composed partly of juniors are doing the work behind the scenes. George Herbert is in charge of the stage, Bill Werbeck, Bill McCartney, Marceline Keltman, and Julian Willis comprise the rest of the committee. Emilie Hilber and Nancy Blue are promoters.

GIRLS ON STAGE CREW

The property committee is composed of Eleanor Bowman as chairman, Barbara Bellard, Patricia O'Reilly, Janette Moore, Margaret Worth, and Mabel Chandler. The costumes and make-up will be in charge of Marie Jane Sanford as chairman, Barbara Lee Amundson, Lois Anne Watkins, Lucille Funk, and Betty Leffel.

Miss Pauline Zoller of the speech department is directing the production. The student have been rehearsing for several weeks to attain perfection. Miss Zoller commends the Juniors on their fine cooperation in preparing for Friday's performance.

Linton to Talk To PTA Group

Prof. R. S. Linton, assistant registrar of Michigan State college, will speak before the Bailey school Parent-Teacher association meeting, Thursday at 8 p. m. His topic will be "Vocational Guidance."

The sixth grade will provide music for the occasion. Mrs. D. C. Mosher and room mothers of grades three and four will serve refreshments after the meeting.

According to a University of Denver survey, the average coat wears a size 14 dress.

Enrollment is High In Evening School

Enrollment in the Lansing public evening school, including many residents of East Lansing, is 2,350, not including a number in courses given by arrangement with the University of Michigan. A new course of special cultural interest is "Art Appreciation," given every Wednesday evening at Lansing Central high school by James E. Morony, who illustrates his talks with colored prints selected from his collection of more than 2,500 reproductions of famous paintings from the galleries of Europe and America.

Water Tower Bid Accepted

At their regular meeting last night, the East Lansing city council awarded the contract for the construction of the new 200,000 gallon water tower to the Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel company. Their bid was the lower of the two bids turned in to the council. Their base bid was for $17,300. The other bid was from the Chicago Bridge and Iron company, for $17,940. The tower will be erected just north of Saginaw street. It will double the present water supply of the city, which is now insufficient for the needs of the city during the summer. The council also approved a measure permitting the Lansing City Lines to operate a bus line on Saginaw street and Grand River avenue into East Lansing. The buses will run every 15 minutes from 7:15 to 8:15 a. m. and from 3:30 to 5:15 p. m. These buses will start as soon as possible. A petition signed by many East Lansing residents was read by City Clerk Harry W. Lott. This petition asked the council to restrain the milk producing companies from delivering milk at any time before 7 a. m. during the winter months. A suggestion was given by the Lansing milk inspector to the effect that 6 a. m. should be set as year round time for starting the delivery of milk. The petition, along with the suggestion, was shelved for investigation.

Spartan Gridders In Home Stretch As They Prepare For Owls

Rally Defeats Marquette Eleven

Pingel's Passes Rescued State From Defeat

By DON ANDERSON
This week is the home stretch for the Spartan football team. Only five more days of football are left to the squad before the moleskins are packed away in mothballs until next year.

The season record thus far shows that State has won five games while losing three. This is the most games Coach Charley Bachman has lost in one season.

Fresh Cagers, Notice

Freshman basketball practice starts at 4 p. m. Wednesday in demonstration hall. All candidates be in uniform.

since he came to East Lansing as head football coach.

Next Saturday, Temple university comes to town to renew a rivalry that has produced more than its share of good football. The Owls have yet to score a victory over the Spartans, State having won two out of the three games played, while the other ended in a 7-7 tie.

The Spartans defeated Marquette at Milwaukee last Saturday, for the second consecutive win over the Golden Avalanche, but during the majority of the game things looked pretty dark for them. Marquette showed across two touchdowns in the second period, against the reserves, and with State showing very little in the first half, it looked rosy for the Hilltoppers.

PINGEL BEGINS PASSING.
That was before Johnny Pingel began throwing passes. Late in the second period, Pingel began picking off his receivers with unerring accuracy, a short pass to Honey giving State a score just before the end of the half.

Around the middle of the third quarter, Pingel's passes clicked again, and finally, as the fourth quarter opened, Kirk caught a pass in the end zone to tie the score. Another pass, Pingel to Aman, with less than two minutes to go, brought the Spartans in ahead, 20-14.

Marquette put up unobscured resistance, but seven men line successfully stalling State's ground attack. It also left the defense wide open for passes, however, and this spelled the Hilltoppers' downfall.

It was Pingel who was directly responsible for State's victory. Without his passing and all-around play, the Spartans probably would have absorbed their third straight loss.

Other players deserve credit, however. Dave Diehl, the Danville flash, played the best game of his career, his pass catching and defensive play making him a marked man throughout the contest. Ron Alling at center torched in his usual good game as did Ernie Bremer and George Gargrett at the tackle.

Plattner Captures Fall Net Crown

Vern Plattner turned back Ben Marston, 6-1, 6-3, yesterday to win the all-college tennis tournament. More than 100 competed.

Catching Up on Our Correspondence

Mr. Leonard Falcone, Director, M. S. C. Band, Dear Sir:
Last Saturday during halves of the Michigan-Northeastern football game, you in your band paid tribute to Fred Jarke, the Wolverine captain who was playing his final game in the Ann Arbor stadium, by spelling out his name and dedicating a song to him.

Next Saturday Johnny Pingel winds up his collegiate football career in Macklin field against Temple, and I'm just wondering if it wouldn't be a swell idea for your fine organization to salute one of our great gridiron heroes, much the same as Michigan's band did for Jarke.

I fully realize one man doesn't make a football team, but during the last few years, Pingel has stood out heads over heels among the other State performers. He's a magnificent player and we would realize how good he is and next year when there will be no Pingel to fill the left half post.

Thus, any tribute paid Pingel by the State band, would be a deserved one.

Sincerely,
George Maskin.

Mr. Glenn Warner, Football Coach, Temple U., Dear Sir:

Just a note to say Charley Bachman and his Michigan State Spartans are gunning for your ball club when you bring the Owls to town next Saturday.

Did I hear you say, "Why get excited over us? We haven't done anything this year." Well, sir, you're as shrewd as they come in the football coaching business, and no amount of can take a chance and rate your team too lightly. Such a move might prove costly.

Testing your team came through the Villanova game in good shape, 19-0.

Very truly yours,
George Maskin.

Dr. C. F. Holland, College Hospital, Dear Sir:

It's pretty tough some times to express appreciation for noble and helpful work. And that's the position the Michigan State football players find themselves in these days.

The boys who represent our school on the gridiron, are more than indebted to you for the manner in which you have taken care of their medical needs, when injuries have struck them during practices or games.

Chi O's, Williams Teams to Stake Clean Marks

Chi Omega and North Williams, both undefeated, clash in tonight's feature attraction in the girls' volleyball league in the gym at 7 o'clock. The Chi O's have won three straight while North Williams has won two in a row.

The only other unbeaten team, Alpha Phi, stakes its clean state against Alpha Chi Omega at 8:20. The Alpha Phis have captured both of their starts to date.

In other games, Kappa Kappa Gamma and West Mary meet at 7 p. m.

Title Games Head Frat Grid Card

Kappa Sig-Hespie, Tie-Sigma Nu Tilt, Share Spotlight

Two more fraternity grid league block championships will be decided tonight, when the Kappa Sigmas battle the Hespies and the Ties meet the Sigma Nus. The third game will bring together the SAEs and Delta Chis.

On the basis of past performances the Kappa Sigs have an edge over the Hespies. The Kappa Sigs defeated the Phi Chis, 13-0, while the Hespies squeezed through with a 1-0 victory.

Against the Delphics the teams' performances were nearly equal, with scores of 8-0 and 6-0, respectively.

The game will find the Hespies attempting to bottle up Everett MacDougal, diminutive Kappa Sig back, who has been the spearhead of their running game all season.

The Tie-Sigma Nu affair is definitely in favor of the high-scoring Tie seven headed by the versatile Art Jenkins. Eclectics have almost the same team that defeated the Sigma Nus last year and went through the season undefeated.

The SAE-Delta Chi game is important only to the SAEs because if they win this game and their postponed game with the AEP's it will create a three-way tie in block 3 between the Phi Deltis, AEP's, and SAEs.

The semi-finals and finals will take place next Monday and Tuesday.

room I have heard the boys say, "Gee, Doc Holland certainly fixed me up swell." It eases the pain when you know there's a capable physician eager to wait on you.

The football team lost a great friend when Doc Olin died. At the same time they gained in you a loyal and ambitious doctor.

It's my wish and that of every athlete and student you are appointed head of the new college hospital.

Your friend,
George.

Mr. Ronald Alling, Michigan State Football Team, Dear Sir:

Football is a funny sport. Probably you have found that out during your two years of service on the Michigan State team.

Most of the praise in this game goes to the backs and ends. It seems they're always in the spotlight, while the tackles, guards and centers generally pass unnoticed. Yet, what would a football team be without the men who form five-sevenths of the line?

Run, much of your work this year at center both on offense and defense has drawn little comment from the fans. Possibly those who pay to see State play football don't appreciate your efforts.

Regardless of what the fans think, the men with whom you play rate you as the best center they have seen this year. And your coach, Charles Bachman, also speaks highly of you.

You still have another season, Ron, and here's hoping the State fans wake up to the fact in 1939 they have one of the country's best centers in their midst.

Always, an admirer,
"Scoop"

Mr. Ralph H. Young, Athletic Director, M. S. C., Dear Sir:

Thank you very much for the information on the National Collegiate cross country run to take place here next Monday.

I note from the sheet the race will start at 10:30 a. m. The hour seems a poor one, from the standpoint of hoping to attract a crowd to the class.

Most students have 10 o'clock classes. Since instructors likely will carry on with their work during the running of the race, the students won't be too anxious to cut classes in preference to the meet.

Possibly a different hour can be set or provisions made through your department to accommodate those students desirous of seeing the championships.

Yours truly,
George Maskin.

Poloists Meet Bronco Trio Tomorrow

To score for the last meeting between Michigan State's polo team and the Broncos of Lansing is the assurance to college polo fans of a thrilling, fast match tomorrow night when the Spartans again engage the Broncos in Demonstration hall ring at 7:30.

The Demagogues, a team composed of officers and enlisted men, will meet the local Red Wings to complete a double-bill.

Manuel Artega, captain and high scorer, with 18 goals in three games, will hold back position. Don Robinson will cover No. 1 spot.

The other veteran, Emil Larsen, will play at No. 2. Bob Chazey, due to great improvement, will probably see plenty of action. Chazey scored the two lone goals for the "B" team against the Red Wing "B" team two weeks ago.

Opener Nears For Cagers

Fundamentals again occupied front line attention for Coach Ben VanAlstyne's cagers yesterday as the Spartans continued preparations for their season's opener against Kalamazoo college.

The game is scheduled for December 7, three weeks from tomorrow. The Kazoo team, originally carded as an opening breather, has developed into one of the best in the history of the college, and are now expected to provide some stiff competition.

Dads to Fete Trojan '11' At Banquet Tonight

Only one more thing remains on the schedule for the East Lansing high school gridders and that to most of them is probably the crowning point of the season—the annual football banquet. Everyone, from the so-called stars down to the hardest laboring scrub joins in this annual event sponsored by the Dads' club of the high school.

This year's program promises to be one of the best, with Fielding H. Yost as the principal speaker. Supplementing Yost's talk are several new features which will be kept secret until tonight.

Frat Bowlers Roll Tonight

The Trojans, under Coach Shaver's tutelage for the past twelve years, have compiled a very impressive record, particularly in the past five. This year's team won three games, trouncing Eaton Rapids, Alma and Mt. Pleasant by decisive scores. They tied two games, battling Flint Central and Albion to standstills. The Trojans lost their only game to Lansing Central, recently crowned mythical Class A champions and Five-A league champs. Coach Shaver's boys rolled up a total score of 86 points, scoring thirteen touchdowns and kicking eight points after touchdowns. The opposition scored a combined total of 61 points, scoring nine touchdowns, five points after touchdowns, and one safety.

All four blocks will bowl tonight, when at 7 p. m. Delphic will meet Alpha Epsilon Pi and Phi Delta Theta bowls Phi Kappa Tau. At 9 p. m. Alpha Gamma Rho is scheduled to meet Farmhouse and Beta Kappa rolls against Lambda Chi Alpha.
