As I said before. Mike, you have the stuffings to make a great name at any school in football, providing of course you get the breaks. Charles Bachman, your boss in football since 1933, will tell you about how important breaks are. He considered his last year's team probably the strongest in his career, yet the record of the team in the victory and Joss column (by which the public judges any team) was the poorest in his six seasons of producing teams here.

Entooked for incidents, such as injuries and ineligibilities, will kill a team's chances of landing near the top. Then, too, a coach may run into a period when his material is below par. The boys may decide to enter other schools, and you're left holding the bag without a good team but a difficult scheduel staring you in the face.

without a good team but a difficult scheduel staring you in the face. Then what happens? You lose a few ball games and the sus-tomers who pay the freight demand a new coach. They ignore your past record. You have to produce in all sports or else step aside, and Harry Kipke and Mickey Coehrane will tell anyone that. It took the Detroit baseball fans only three months to go sour on the same man who had brought them two pennants, a world cham-pionship and two second places in for no abuse from the public.
