Saturday, Sid Brecher, freshman student was watching the Wayne game, accompanied by several friends. After the game had been in progress for about five minutes, one of Sid's friends remarked that the game wasn't going so well. Quick like a rabbit, Sid repiled, "Well, those boys in the black and white jerseys are certainly giving State a run."

Spartan Bachman Pleased With Sophomores in Wayne Game Sportfolio

By DON ANDERSON

Are the Spartans of 1939 really as had as they looked last Saturday? We doubt it. Admittedly, they aren't figured to be as good as last year, but neither are they as poor a feam as they appeared to be last weekend. Then why didn't they roll up a big score on Wayne as they were expected to do? There complex, and inexperience. Un-doubtedly, these were the psy-chological aspects present. But to our minds, the mechanical factors lacking were more important than the psychological side. Blocking Off place. The policy of State block-ers against Wayne might very well have been. "Let George do it." Those men out in front of the runner weren't taking the first green shirt they came to. Instead, they were running by him and grab-bing the secondary. Naturally this practice gummed up the works, for the ignored man had a clear shot at the ball carrier. It is a credit to the Wayne tackling Saturday to say that they rarely

Wayne Game Proves Coach's Fears

Hard work and plenty of it are on tap for State's gridders this week. Coach Charley Bachman indicated yesterday. Said Bachman. We knew early last week that our boys were two weeks' away and the Wayne game merely bore out our contention."

Lack of co-ordination was blamed by Bachman for the poor offensive showing of the Spartan machine. The heads of the Spartan machine showing the content of the poor offensive said he "Our backs had."

Ball Toting Depresses Mentor

Crosthwaite, Batchelor Outstanding in Spartan Victory over Tartars

Three days after the Michigan State-Wayne game Coach Charley Bachman's thoughts were still hanging in perfect balance. The Spartan mentor couldn't decide whether to be impressed by the excellent performance of his sophomores or whether he should feel depressed by the poor ball handling and blocking.

The State backs fumbled 10 times and the blocking was plainly off form, but the play of certain individuals cast a bright spot into the coach's eyes.

into the coach's eyes.
Statistically speaking, the Spar-tans' showing was better than it seemed. The State ground attack gained 100 yards to the Tartars' 75 and five of the Spartans' seven passes were completed for a punt.

It was the 64-yard kick
Buck Crosthwaite that set Tartars back to their goal and eventually gave State the showing of the Spartan machine. Said he "Our backs had never worked before as units under fire and timing was badly off. However, it's just one of those things that time and time only can remeds."

A five-yard gain is usually nothing to spiecze at, but when it's the gain resulting from a punt, that's really something. It happened to Wayne when a poorly kicked ball boomeranged backward towards the Tartar goal line after it hit the ground, and resulted in the break that led to State's first touchdown.
