It Could Happen Here

Indianapolis, Indiana, October 12.—Charles Robert Skinner, 19 years old, East Maple road, died early this morning in the Methodist hospital of injuries suffered late Saturday night when an automobile crashed into a wagon loaded with Butler university students on a hay ride. "His death was the second resulting from the accident. Miss Margie Sims, 19-year-old Butler coed, died within a few minutes after the crash. Five others were seriously injured. "The crash came as a tragic climax to a gay party of fraternity and sorority members from Butler university." —Indianapolis Star.

This could have happened at Michigan State. Many fraternities and sororities as well as other organizations go on hayrides. Usually the hayride party goes out on the highway with poor tail lights and traveling at a dangerously slow speed. Contrast this view with the one of automobiles speeding 40 or 50 miles per hour on the same highway. The slow moving wagon is helpless in addition to being a road menace to zooming automobiles. Many times the automobile driver does not see the wagon until he is only a short distance away. Then he must either take to the ditch or hit the wagon. The Michigan State social committee should not wait until several students lose their lives before action be taken on this matter. It is very likely that the students and faculty who have been enthusiastic boosters of hayrides have not realized the potential danger. The Butler incident shows what can happen. There must be other less dangerous ways of entertainment. Influenced by the accident, Butler university officials banned hayrides from the list of social activities permitted university organizations. Dr. Henry Nester, head of the men's council, said university administrative officers and student heads were unanimous in terming the rides dangerous and impractical in this modern age. Michigan State's social committee would be wise in preventing an accident such as the Butler incident instead of feeling sorry after a life is snuffed out.

Control Kicking Called Newest Development

Philadelphia, Oct. 18.—"Control kicking" is football's newest touch down trick and the most "revolutionary" development in the game since the birth of the forward pass," according to Frank Murray, gridiron star, who gives the details of the new kicking in an article in the Saturday Evening Post. Murray who was a star at the University of Pennsylvania and now is with the Philadelphia Eagles, says "control kicking" is as easy as any other football job, although many coaches believe it is possible only in a standout kicker such as Eric Tipton proved to be in the Duke-Pittsburgh game last year. And Murray should know, because he developed "my own sub-par average of 32 yards to 36 yards for Pennsylvania's traditional closing game with Cornell in 1935" and adds that this phenomenal 75 per cent increase "stemmed from one three-hour emergency session."

CROSSFIRE

by Osrie

Clothes have never been a great problem to me. My friends have always assumed I dressed the way I did because I was broke, and the rest of the campus thought I was eccentric. But there is something disconcerting, almost threatening, in the fact that the State News has seen fit to print a man's fashion column. It is as if in its metamorphosis from a slap-happy collegiate rag to an almost-daily newspaper the State News has lost some of its exuberant irresponsibility in favor of a humdrum conventionality. A men's fashion column in the State News! Three years ago it would have been as out of place as a "No Smoking" sign in a tobacco shop. Editor Distel never lacked courtesy in questioning, "Where does Mr. Proulx stand on the use of the Union," but his best work was pounded out in an unbuttoned vest, with a faded blue shirt open at the neck and the light of battle fogging-up his eyeglasses. An unbuttoned vest? Utterly revolting! Our men's fashion column tells us it should have been a slipover, because all the English students wear them, and Tyrone Power played half of his big scenes in his last smeller-diller in them. It also tells us that English students don't own vests. Which is not surprising because the English don't own lots of things, including the U. S. Treasury, although they have their eye on it. And as for Tyrone Power, Distel could stir up more audience reaction with one positive—which means to be mistaken at the top of one's voice—statement on the Union, than Tyrone Power could in four top billings played in his underwear with a haircut. A men's fashion column in the State News? Bah! Fred Olds didn't even own a pair of shoes until after graduation. And there was always something suspicious when Jerry Krieger showed up in a pair of pressed pants, as though his roommate were in the hospital. And as a sportswriter Vic Spaniolio always looked as if he had just stepped out of a sandbox—after sweeping it. And the great Mickey Carso once achieved immortality by wearing a pajama top with his military uniform. Men's fashions? They didn't even used to exist on the State News. Anderson's unshined cavalry boots could have peeped out from under a tuxedo trouser-top and excited no comment. And Mackin's hat could have been, and frequently was, turned in for church rummage sales. Bob White was known to own an Excalibur jacket, but whoever saw him with a necktie? And even Ray Turner at his impeccable best always added the saving touch of red wool socks. And who can ever forget the spectacle of the great Harrington in a garnet-colored lumber-jack shirt rocking back and forth in the waste basket, idly ruminating on the cracked leather of his high-tops? A men's fashion column! There's something ominous in its appearance as if the blood had run its course and collar-ads with white gloves were preparing to take the place of he-men with black pipes. It's a sign of the decadence of the State News spirit from blithe irrepressibility to dutiful efficiency, conventionality, and Emily Post.

Jerrymeandering with Jerry Dewar

One of the things that distinguishes Michigan State students from other students is the fact that upperclassmen of Spartan college do not treat freshmen as slaves, dogs, or rats. They try to show them a lot of friendliness, if anything. Sometimes we must admit there are some high-hats floating around here but they are few and far between. Now the thing that we are all hot up about is the idea that the greens have taken the idea that since they are being treated this way, they are some sort of gods who have been granted special favors. One of the things that a student should learn when he comes here is a bit of courtesy.

Speedy Poem

I don't know how many of you have heard this philosophical poem on the art of conducting a motor vehicle through a highway heavily infested with other vehicles of the same species, or otherwise. The poem runs thus, and we hope that you heed its glastly warning. Here be the bones of young Kevin Bray. He died disputing the right of way. He was right alright, as he dashed along. But he's just as dead as if he were wrong. Campus In Sanctuary Fortunate are the Michigan State students in not only living on a beautiful campus, second most beautiful in the United States, but they also live in a bird sanctuary. This is something that most of the upperclassmen know, but few freshmen have heard about. Any time of the day one may see down on the Red Cedar river, the brightly colored drakes and their mates preening their feathers. This is a sight which few people have ever had the privilege of viewing, and it is one that we should strive to preserve. So, dear students, before you begin that quick jerk that will spell the death of one of these beautiful birds, count to ten. Outlines Plan For Rejuvenation

By MARINAN ALKIRE

"With democracy in its last ditch everywhere in the world, we are quite likely to face a union of totalitarian states. Japan, Russia, Germany, and Italy, before January, Channing Pollock, author, producer, and lecturer, warned last night in his lecture to State students in Peoples church.

"To save ourselves we must return to the system and ideals of our original republic," he said. He stressed that America must wake up and return to righteous living or her democracy is doomed.

At times almost fanatical in his condemnation, Pollock, however, gave the impression that he was purposely exaggerating the picture of American life to shock his listeners into realizing the seriousness of the moral deterioration which he claims to exist in this country today.

MONEY IS MOTIVE—Men and women of the United States are for more interested in making money, dancing, drinking, and living without working than they are in preserving liberty, he said. Like the passengers on the unsinkable Titanic, we are going right on doing the Suez-Q up to the very moment of "Nearer My God, to Thee."

Pollock believed that when luxury and living without working take the place of hard work and honest, upright living, a civilization will fall as it did in ancient Athens and Rome. However, the author added:

AMERICA SLIPPING—It would be silly to say that America has grown soft and idle, but there is certainly a marked tendency that way. When the world no longer could support us in the style to which we were accustomed, we didn't tighten our belts and roll up our sleeves; we simply limbered our thumbs, and looked for the first motor car going our way.

Pollock listed three things which, in his opinion, would make America awaken: First, "Read, listen and think"; second, "when you make up your mind do it without selfish bias"; and third, "don't make up your mind as you would your bed to sleep on it. When people act thus, Lincoln will have been truly prophetic when he said that 'the government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth'."

Pollock stated that when the United States is faced with a union of totalitarian states, it must return to the system and ideals of its original republic. He stressed that America must wake up and return to righteous living or her democracy is doomed.

Boy Gets Slight Jolt in Traffic Mishap

Jackie Herrick, 5, 513 Park Lane, narrowly escaped serious injury Wednesday shortly after noon when he was struck by an automobile as he darted across Abbot road from in front of the State theater.

Jackie was taken to the college hospital from where he was released after a thorough examination by Dr. J. H. Albers, local physician.

Luckily for the lad, the wheels of the car rolled harmlessly by on either side as the car passed over him. He managed to escape with a slight head bruise and a twisted ankle.

The Bailey PTA will hold its opening reception for teachers in the Bailey gym at 2:30 p. m. October 19, at which time the new officers and committee chairmen will be introduced.

Adrian Next For Trojan Gridders

Thirty-two Trojan gridders will board the bus at East Lansing tomorrow afternoon and journey to Adrian for a twilight clash in that city. It will be the first meeting in the history of the two schools.

In comparing the records of the two teams thus far, Adrian holds a slight margin over East Lansing in games won and lost. The former's slate against Twin Valley competition shows a 6-2 decision over Marshall and a 39-0 loss at Albion 40-6 and to Sturgis 6-0. However, in viewing the statistics of both teams against Albion in the matter of yards gained, the Trojans greatly overshadowed the Adrian eleven. Although East Lansing did lack scoring punch, it did make consistent gains by running and completed several passes, one of them going for a touchdown. Adrian picked up only five yards by rushing but passed the ball for about 70 yards. It is this latter item that is worrying Coach Cuddy Shaver.

Throughout the week the Trojan mentor has stressed the passing game both deviously and offensively. As a consequence of this, Shaver has ready three boys to pitch the piskin if necessary. Roy Dygert, Bob Ingersoll, and Bob Drake can all be counted on to do good work. On the receiving end, the Trojans are well fortified. Warren Eldridge, John Kobb, Harry Brown, Jim Crozier, Ted Brundage, and Paul Theroux are six good targets for any passer to shoot at. Boiling up the Adrian passing attack will depend largely upon the East Lansing forward wall hurrying the passer.

The probable starting lineup for East Lansing: le, Brown or Crozier; rt, Alderton; lg, Draper, c, Holbrook; rg, Hixon; rt, Giltner; re, Brundage; qb, Ingersoll or Kobb; lb, Dygert, rh, Eldridge; fb, Drake.

Staff Women Form Social Group

Formed last spring team for the purpose of giving women members of MSC faculty an opportunity to get acquainted and to enable social activities for the group, a Faculty Women's association is now in existence on the campus.

First meeting, other than organization meetings last year, will be a social gathering Thursday, in the faculty dining room of the Union at 8 p. m., according to Dean of Women Elizabeth Conrad, acting president of the group.

At a business meeting to be held soon, the new constitution will be voted on and regular officers will be elected. At present, the association is governed by a board of ten members which originally was headed by Miss Edna Smith, president. However, because of injuries sustained in an accident this summer, Miss Smith has given up her official duties which have been assumed by Dean Conrad.

Miss Josephine Kappley is secretary-treasurer and Miss Charlotte Jackson is program chairman. New members of the faculty will have a chance to become acquainted at Thursday's meeting, says Dean Conrad.

Bailey PTA To Hold Meeting Tonight

New officers of the Bailey P. T. A. will be introduced at the meeting October 19, at 2:30 p. m. in the school gymnasium, Mrs. Harry Ruhl, president and chairman, announces.

Following the business meeting will be a social hour. During this time a reception for teachers will be held.

State, Purdue Set To Renew Gridiron Rivalry Saturday

Spartan Casualty List Shrinks

After being riddled with slight injuries during the earlier part of the week, the Spartan casualty list assumed a new aspect as all but several grididders were reported ready for the game with Purdue Saturday at Lafayette, Ind.

Wyman Davis, sophomore half-back, suffered a recurrence of an ankle injury in a recent practice session, but will be ready for action. His twin brother, Willie, was back in uniform yesterday after sustaining a deep gash in his lip during the Marquette game. The cut took twelve stitches to close and will require the sophomore quarterback to wear a face guard for protection.

GRIFFETH RETURNS A serious problem at right guard was somewhat alleviated yesterday when Paul Griffeth, who was found to have a broken thumb, took his regular turn in practice while wearing a small cast. Ed Abdo, who suffered a leg injury last Saturday, indicated that his leg was showing rapid improvement. If Abdo's leg continues to heal at its present pace, he will probably be able to serve along with Griffeth at right guard.

JOHNNY SCHLEUTER, sophomore back, has been lost for the remainder of the season as the result of a bad knee. Don Maliskey, senior tackle, was reported out for two weeks with a shoulder separation.

Two outstanding grididders, Ron Alling and Eddie Pearce, did not see action against Marquette because of injuries, but will be in shape to tangle with the Boilermakers.

Early in the season Alling was picked by sideline experts as a possible winner of sectional honors at the pivot position, but a bad knee has kept the East Lansing boy on the bench except for a few minutes against Michigan.

A squad of 36 Spartans will en-train for Chicago Friday morning upon their arrival in the Windy City they will hold a light workout at Stagg Field and then remain overnight before moving into Lafayette Saturday morning.

DZV Grid Machine Rolls Over Pair Of Victories Displaying a polished all-around attack that has marked them as the team to beat in intramural circles this year, the DZV's registered a pair of one-sided victories on successive days to pace mid-week play in the Independent league.

Frank Burrows paced DZV to a 15-0 triumph over Evergreen Manor last night when he sprinted for two touchdowns and recovered a blocked punt for a safety and the final two points. Tuesday night the DZV's ran up the highest total ever made in an intramural touch football game at State when they steamrolled Alpha Chi Alpha, 39 to 0.

While State's varsity football team is on the road, Spartan sports enthusiasts will have an opportunity to look over Coach John Kohn's 1939 yearling football squad, when the men of '39 meet Michigan State Normal fresh on Marhall field at 3:30 Friday afternoon.

Bakersboro also got into the high-scoring spirit last night, and rang up a 19-0 decision over Sarah Williams. Pete Hawrylcw tallied the first counter, while John Kiljan contributed a pair of touchdowns.

In the final Wednesday game the U. P. outfit nipped Hamilton House on the penalty basis after the game ended in a 6-6 tie. Hefferin snagged a pass for the Hamilton House score, but Hagen ran back the opening kickoff of the second half for the U. P. marker to knot the count.

Decisions were awarded to Bealtown and Y.M.C.A. in other Tuesday games. Paced by Chambers, Bealtown downed Sarah Williams 12 to 0. The "Y" seven came from behind in the closing minutes of the game to tie the score at 6-all, and then were awarded an extra point for scoring the sole first down.

Boilermakers Point To First Victory

A brief football rivalry that terminated 20 years ago will be renewed Saturday when Michigan State engages Purdue university in Lafayette, Ind.

Twenty years ago the Spartans, then the Michigan Argies, bowed to the Boilermakers 13-6. The year previous Purdue had scored a 14-6 decision.

That marked the end of Purdue-State football relationships until this year when the Purdue meeting becomes the first big 10 contest, other than the Michigan game, for the Spartans in 12 years. Indications from the Purdue camp are that the Boilermakers are prepared to make this resumption of hostilities a victorious one on their part.

Coach Mal Elward has a team with power, finesse, speed and versatility and only a heart-breaking schedule has kept them from victory this season.

Notre Dame edged out the Boilermakers 3-0 in the season's opener, and Minnesota gained a 13-13 tie with Elward's men last Saturday.

Primed for victory and anxious to show their true strength before a homecoming crowd, the Boilermakers are pointing to victory over the Spartans.

That speed is the keynote of the Purdue attack has been evident in the Notre Dame and Minnesota encounters. With the entire squad possessing unusual fleetness and his backs proficient in ball-handling, Elward relies more on deception than power.

Today at 5:15 Michigan State's annual novice cross country meet will be run off over the three and one-half mile course. The meet is open to all Spartan men excepting those who have competed on the varsity or freshman squads.

Mainstay of the Indians are the "Three Bees," Brown, Byelene and Brock.

Brown, a veteran left halfback, is an ambidextrous passer, who can throw equally well with either arm. Brock and Byelene are among the fastest backs on the squad and once they get loose are difficult to catch. Byelene raced 45 yards through the entire Minnesota team Saturday to give the Boilermakers their tie.

Ted Dennis, brilliant blocker, and Fred Montague, a keen strategist with a trusty toe, ran the team from quarterback, while Leon DeWitte, an extremely fast starter, handles the fullback assignment.

Outstanding in the forward wall are flankers Dave Rankin and Felix Maskiewicz, tackle "Whites" Johnson and center Gus Morningstar.

Illinois Wesleyan boasts a pair of head coaches in the persons of Don Heap and Bob Voghts, former Northwestern gridiron stars.

Bruiser

Bruce Blackburn, junior flanker, plays football for keeps.

Poloists to Open Season With Illinois

Michigan State's polo squad will open their season Saturday when they travel to Champaign, Ill., to meet the University of Illinois in an outdoor contest. It will mark the second time the State team has played the four-man outdoor game.

Three veterans are returning from last year's team and will appear in the opening lineup. They are Ed Chazey, Emil Larson and Don Robinson. Teaming with them will be Fred Gibson.

Other mallet-swingers who will probably play in the game are Bob Martin and Curtis Weaver. Dale Martin, manager, will also make the trip.

First Downs Decide Frat Battles

Play is resumed tonight in the interfraternity league with the Phi Kaps engaging the Beta Kappas, the Phi Taus coming to grips with the Phi Chi Alphas and Alpha Gamma Rho doing battle with the Theta Chis.

In what was probably the most thrilling game in Inter-Fraternity play this season, the Sigma Nus contigued—their victorious ways Tuesday night by downing a fighting Phi Delta team on Old College field by the margin of two first downs.

The Phi Deltas earned an early advantage after gaining on an exchange of punts and some nice ball carrying by Bob Pete had put the ball on the three yard line, but at this point, the Sigma Nus line strengthened and held for downs.

Harriers Trek Eastward To Meet Panthers

Seeking their second straight victory of the season over a formidable foe, Michigan State's cross country team, nine strong, will embark for Pittsburgh early tomorrow morning for their third annual meet with the Panthers.

Coach Lauren P. Brown has named Roy Fehr, George Keller, Bill Mansfield, Ed Mills, Warren Anderson, Al Mangan, Dave Cowden, Wilson Scales, and Alvin Wetzel for the first road trip of the season. The first six named finished in that order in the Penn State meet Saturday, while Dave Cowden replaces the ailing Cleo Smith on the official team. The Spartan mentor is taking Scales and Wetzel to run—without numbers as their times have been good enough to warrant attention in picking a varsity lineup in the future.

Dorm Grididders Win With Aerials

Aerial offense decided all the games in the Dorm league last night. Passers let fly from every angle to make it the best night of touch football yet displayed.

B. Telder stole the show in the Mason 6-Abbot 9 tilt as he scored all 13 points for the Masons. On two sleeper plays he scored both tallies. The final score read Mason 13, Abbot 9.

The second game was a heart-breaker for the Mason 7 as they lost by an extra point. Aldrich caught the pass for Abbot and Getty did the same for Mason.

Scoreless play featured the last game, until Abbot 18 came through with a score on a 50 yard pass from Dickson to Johnson with 3 minutes to play. Abbot 17 threatened by long runs, but didn't have time to make the grade.

The Dorm league has games on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday nights, rain or shine.
