

Saturday generally fair and cooler

Michigan State News

Someone Brought a Stretcher State News Advertising

COMBINED WITH THE EAST LANSING PRESS

MICHIGAN STATE COLLEGE, EAST LANSING, MICHIGAN, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1939

Today's Campus

Retort Polite

Patience may be a cardinal virtue, but when Professor John Clark of the English department started reading a student composition to a class in expository writing the other day some presumptuous co-ed in the back of the room shouted out: 'You've read that to us before.' And the class echo came back: 'No, you haven't.' Clark just kept on reading. But the young lady, evidently subscribing to the theory that verbosity makes presidents, came through again with the same old story. 'But you've read that before.' So Clark decided that it was time for a squelch. 'That's okay,' he said, 'I'm remembering it and this will help me.'

Clark just kept on reading. But the young lady, evidently subscribing to the theory that verbosity makes presidents, came through again with the same old story. 'But you've read that before.' So Clark decided that it was time for a squelch. 'That's okay,' he said, 'I'm remembering it and this will help me.'

Little Troubles

If looks could kill there'd be a lot of dead kiddies on Michigan State's campus today.

Yesterday industrious B. & G. students spent much time raking leaves into neat piles in keeping with the tradition of campus beauty.

But trouble in the form of nursery tots plagued all their efforts. No sooner did they leave a nicely piled plot of dead tree-remains to start another than a gang of small children from the nursery school would show their appreciation of the boys' efforts by scattering the pile back into its original form.

And all the whole student teachers took careful notes.

The leaf rakers explained their inability to take notes derived from the lack of an asbestos notebook.

Could Car Bite Dog?

It seems German instructor F. E. Winesel has a most unique problem on his hands.

He has a very fine hunting dog who refuses to chase anything but model 'A' Fords.

Pheasants, rabbits, Blakes or model 'T's' affect him not at all, but he can tell a model 'A' two blocks away.

Needless to say, Professor White is at a loss as to what to do, and would appreciate suggestions.

Get Smart Frosh

A wise freshman, when he arrives at college, forgets the great deeds he did in high school and concentrates for a time in being a small frog in a large puddle.

That is evidently the opinion of the Varsity club, Michigan State's official muscle men and unofficial police for their remind freshmen that no high school insignia are worn by the freshmen here.

The club also warns freshmen that polo should be worn until the football brawl and that both freshmen and underclassmen must refrain from smoking on campus. Enforcement of these rules has been known to bring an undesired bath, club members insist.

The club, under the leadership of Dr. H. T. Weimers, of the mathematics department, will present lectures by both outside authorities and club members.

Weather permitting, a new telescope will be used after meetings.

WKAR to Get 4000 Watt Increase

Ag Board Gives Approval; Also Accepts Gifts

Purchase of a new radio transmitter to increase the power of Michigan State college's radio station, WKAR, from 1,000 to 5,000 watts was approved here Thursday by the State Board of Agriculture.

The transmitter will be installed by the Graybar Electric company, Philadelphia, and the total cost of new equipment will be $61,828. Payment will be made over a three-year period.

The board also accepted a gift of the Walter T. Best Woman's club of Leland, a clubhouse in Leland, which will be used for a summer art colony by the art department. Another gift of $200 from the Poultry Products revolving fund was accepted for research in bacteriology.

Appointment of Charles R. Schmitt, Detroit, as part-time fencing instructor for a five-month period was also announced following the board meeting by Sec. John A. Hannah. Several resignations of staff members were accepted and several appointments made by the board as part of the routine business of the October session.

Mitchell Will Talk Before AOP Meet

Dr. Fred T. Mitchell, Michigan State college dean of men, will be among Alpha Phi Omega members at the 24-hour conference at Camp Keweenaw starting Saturday noon. Members from University of Michigan, Western State Teachers' college, Wayne university, and Michigan State college will attend the conference which is under the direction of Beta Beta Beta, Michigan State chapter.

Sunday noon Dr. Mitchell will address to group on 'Alpha Phi Omega Service to the College.' Other M.S.C. faculty members who will be present Sunday are Madison Kahn, J. F. Thaden, H. C. Barnett, C. E. Russell, and C. M. McFarland, advisers of the local chapter.

A discussion of the aims and purpose of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, will compose the conference program in attempt to promote the organization of other chapters in Michigan.

Club Initiates 12 'Star Gazers'

Twelve students today are members of the Michigan State Astronomy club, following installation at the club's first meeting Wednesday night.

The club, under the leadership of Dr. H. T. Weimers, of the mathematics department, will present lectures by both outside authorities and club members.

Weather permitting, a new telescope will be used after meetings.

Ruth Taylor Named Sponsor

18 Received By Blue Key At Dance

Ruth Taylor, home economics senior from Albion, was chosen honorary cadet colonel of the Michigan State college ROTC unit in election of corps sponsors completed yesterday afternoon.

Jean Paek, Liberal Arts senior from Pontiac, was chosen honorary lieutenant colonel for the cavalry unit. Coast artillery selected Betty Nonenpreger of Bay City, Liberal Arts major, for corps sponsor, and field artillery chose Virginia Light, East Lansing, home Economics major.

HOOSE SIX FROM 16 Dorothy Dunn, Lansing, Liberal Arts senior, is sponsor for the infantry unit, and the band chose Vivian Antilla, Liberal Arts major from Sagola, as its sponsor.

Sixteen candidates for the six corps sponsorships in elections which have been carried on since Tuesday by students in advanced military classes.

Miss Taylor is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority and was chosen Queen of Agriculture last spring. Active in dramatics, she took the female lead in 'Spring Dance' last year and has the same spot in 'Our Town,' fall term play now in production.

Miss Paek is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority and Beta Alpha Sigma, art honorary. She is a member of the Wolverine staff and Spartan office manager this year.

YM Will Observe Social Conditions in City

Industrial, racial, and economic conditions will be the object of study for the 40 students who go on the annual social studies tour sponsored by the YMCA on Monday.

Prof. E. B. Harper and students in his urban sociology course will be included in the group.

They will visit the manufacturing plant of the U. S. Rubber company where C. R. Wright,* personnel director of the company, will conduct a tour of the plant and hold a discussion on the personnel policy and program of the organization.

The group will lunch at the Tau Beta community house in Hamtramck where Mrs. Lee Halvorsen, head worker, will tell of her social work in that Polish city.

Mr. H. B. Foxley, executive secretary of the Lucy Thurman Y.W.C.A. for negroes, will tell of the social and cultural attainments of the colored race despite handicaps while the students are visiting the institution.

Next the Hamtramck tenement district is the Brewster housing project with accommodations for 104 families which will be toured under the direction of Henry S. Dunbar, project director.

Edward Hudson, chairman of the economics commission of the Y.M.C.A. announced that all men interested in making the trip may make reservations with him at Abbot hall or at the Y.M.C.A. office in Peoples church.

Announcement was also made that Judge Sam Street, Hughes, magistrate of Lansing's court, will speak at the opening meeting of the Y.M.C.A. at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday in the student parlors of Peoples church. 'Youth and Crime' will be his topic.

John Hermonston, chairman of community relations for Y.M.C.A. is in charge of the program. Special announcements will also be made concerning plans to bring Glenn Cunningham, noted Kansas university track star, to the campus on November 7.

Spartan Picks Prize Photos

Winners for the first week of the Spartan photo contest are Ted Crowe, Care Gunn, and John Wright, Jack Moynes, photography editor, announced yesterday.

Contestants are asked to leave their entries at the Union desk in care of the photography editor of the Spartan. Prizes are an 8 x 10 enlargement of the winning picture and a pair of free tickets to the State theater.

Grand prizes are a Weston exposure meter and a radio. All entries must be submitted by November 31, the closing date of the contest. Grand prize winners will be announced in the December issue of the Spartan.

Stack Will Speak In Battle Creek

Associate Professor Stack, and his class in advanced ornithology, will attend the Michigan Bird-Banding association meeting at the W. K. Kellogg bird sanctuary near Battle Creek today. He will speak on Michigan State college methods of capturing and banding birds at the evening program.

RUTH TAYLOR

18 Received By Blue Key At Dance

Three Seniors, 15 Juniors, Admitted to Group

Eighteen men, three seniors and 15 juniors, were pledged last night to the Michigan State chapter of Blue Key, national men's service honorary fraternity, at the Blue Key ball.

Congratulated by President Shaw as well as Virginia Light, the sweetheart of Blue Key, new members were accepted into the organization by means of the traditional tapping ceremony during the dance intermission.

The pledges list includes: Theodore R. Wilson, Scates, Theobald Mackwell, James Thorburn, James Cecil Granville Sharp, Chester Kennedy, John J. Liffey, Star Kresler, Dean Koch, James Neel, Richard Greening, James Leptina, Earl Brigham, Arthur Howland, Paul Gerboth, Joseph Goudie, William Knox, Stanley Kowal, Jack Smelzer.

New members were accepted on the basis of meritorious work in extra-curricular activities during their college careers and on the basis of a scholastic average equal to or better than the all-men's average.

Each night's formal initiation proceeds an informal initiation period of three days which will start Monday.

Studio Theater Will Vote On Constitution

Organized to give the interclassmen an opportunity for expression on the stage both here and all of the scenes, the Studio Theater meets Tuesday evening at 7:15 in the Little Theater to vote on its new constitution, which has been officially accepted by the faculty and administration, and to elect officers.

Formerly a part of Theta Alpha Phi, national dramatic honorary, the Studio Theater became independent two years ago and now is well governing.

Faculty adviser is Donald Bodd of the speech department. The student advisor, from Theta Alpha Phi has not yet been appointed. Acting president of that organization is Dean Koch.

YW Receives 220 Women

Two hundred and twenty women were received into Y.W.C.A. last Wednesday evening at their formal ritual and will participate in an all-girl mixer in the Executive cabin next Wednesday evening at 5 o'clock as their first social function of the year. It was announced by the Y.W.C.A. secretary today.

Members of the Y.W.C.A. official summer camp at Lake Geneva, Wis., will be shown as part of the program scheduled by Jean Wilson, program director.

Independents Fill Six IML Posts

Only six of the 17 zone chairmen have been elected to the Independent Men's council.

Off-campus chairmen elected so far are Bob Keepe, zone 3, Don Cleveland, zone 5, and Marty Cohen, zone 8, which include Evergreen Manor.

In dorm elections, chairmen named were Bob Baker, zone 7, Abbot hall, Lee Marten, zone 14, and Don Mollagen, zone 13, Mason hall. Temporary chairman for zone 13 is Bill Lightheart. The remaining vacancies will be filled next week.

Ag Students Visit Successful Farms

Fifty-three students enrolled in a course dealing with successful Michigan farms left yesterday for a visit to typical farming areas in the state according to the Farm Management office.

WAA To Sponsor Hike

WAA will sponsor a cross country hike from 1 to 5 p. m. this afternoon. They will gather in front of the women's gym between 12:30 and 1 p. m. Any college girl is eligible to participate. Food will be furnished at cost.

State Gridders Hope To Upset Purdue's Dad Day Program

Spartan Will Match Boilermakers' Speed Offense With Similar Tactics; Injury Jinx Still Dogs Team's Trail

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 21—Michigan State's grid squad of 36 players will arrive here at noon today to tackle Purdue in its first home appearance at Ross-Ade stadium before a crowd that will be swelled by 1,000 fathers attending the annual Dad's Day program.

Dorm Changes Dedication Day Date

Open house at Louise Campbell hall has been changed from October 29, as previously announced, to November 19, according to John Hannah, secretary of the college. The change in plans was made in order that the landscaping of the front terraces and other finishing details might be completed.

In spite of the change in date, plans are now being formulated for the dedication program. They include a dinner served on the combined dining rooms of the two wings, and short speeches. After dinner the honor president, Maurice Quirk and Vice Grace Howard, will light the first fire in the living room and dining room fireplaces with candles lighted by President Robert S. Shaw.

The entire dormitory will be open from 2:30 until 5:00 to parents, faculty members, and students, who have received admission cards.

In the evening from 6:30 until 8:30, the general public will be admitted. All girls in the dormitory will act as hostesses.

Approximately 150 persons enjoyed a radio party sponsored by off-campus girls yesterday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock in the Union.

Friendly chatting, as well as dancing, played important parts in the dance, the first of a series of social events to be sponsored by off-campus girls.

Following girls were in charge of arrangements: Harriet Over, Mary Lamondre, Thelma Ellisworth, Grace Portland, Pat C. Condit, Whittier, and Darlene Hart.

Home Ec Board Elects Heads

Lillian Austin, freshman Home Economics student, was elected chairman and Margaret White, also first year Home Economics, was named assistant chairman of the freshman board of Home Economics club at its first meeting Friday afternoon.

Betty Fink was named secretary and Virginia Moore was named as treasurer of the board. A Thanksgiving basket committee was named to solicit money for baskets to give to needy families.

Miss Moore, Miss Austin, Miss White, and Virginia Peade are on the committee.

She served her internship at the University of Michigan during 1933 and 1934, and her residency in pediatrics, a study of the disease of children, from 1934 to 1936. During 1936 and 1937 she worked in the Children's Memorial hospital in Chicago, and her next two years were spent teaching pediatrics in the University of Michigan Medical school.

She served her internship at the University of Michigan during 1933 and 1934, and her residency in pediatrics, a study of the disease of children, from 1934 to 1936. During 1936 and 1937 she worked in the Children's Memorial hospital in Chicago, and her next two years were spent teaching pediatrics in the University of Michigan Medical school.

Margaret Pryor, Home Economics major, is adviser to the freshman board, and Mrs. L. S. Hays, of Home Economics division, is faculty adviser.

The Campus Cop Says Pranks Should Follow Civilized Rules

The aims, among others, of every college student should be to broaden one's mind, to learn to act like or at least to simulate the actions of ladies and gentlemen, and to obtain respect for the rights, property, and feelings of others.

The campus has been designated for those people. The people who can look at a tree without having an irrepressible urge to carve their mark on it for posterity, who can admire a scene without wondering how it would look if most of it weren't there, and who can look at a movable object without feeling that it would go better with the curtains in their room, or whatever else they already have.

During the past few weeks a few incidents have occurred which would make one think that some of our college students haven't graduated from high school yet. Leading a horse through a flower garden, carrying home movable shrubbery, and breaking down shabby may have been as funny as a crutch back in the home town, but are out of place in East Lansing.

Here at school everyone, who passes by and looks at various parts of the campus has a personal interest in them. Scenery is public property and as such should not be destroyed.

Halloween is almost here again. Make as much noise as you care to (within the limits of reason of course) and have a good time, but if the high school students cannot control their vandalistic impulses, some of the more mature members of our student body will have to hold them in check. At any rate help to keep the campus beautiful.

Under the Wire

BERLIN, Oct. 21—Diplomats wondered today what Adolph Hitler means when he said yesterday that 'there has been too much talk of romanticism in the present war.' In some quarters, the speech was regarded as a preliminary for a peace offer to France. In London, however, the report was received as an indication that the Nazis were preparing for an advance, possibly through Holland.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—Col. Charles Lindbergh's radio address of a week ago continued to draw fire today. Senator Prentiss Brown from Michigan said the speech was an insult to Canada. Lindbergh argued against the arms embargo repeal and suggested that Canada withdraw from the British empire. Meantime, ex-President Herbert Hoover took to the air to continue his plea that the embargo be continued on arms not intended to defend civilians.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—The Dies committee investigating un-American activities continued its investigation today. Yesterday's witnesses included a German consul in the United States, who said the Association of German Nationals was not a political organization and that it numbered only 220 members.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 21—Texas Rangers, long noted for their swag and western apparel as well as their criminal catching ability, today faced the prospect of appearing much the same as John Q. Public. Their chief ordered them to drop the mannerisms of yesterday and to conform to 'modern times.'

ROME, Oct. 21—Premier Mussolini stated last night that France and Britain banded heavily on America's entry into the war.

Nazi Planes Repay British Bombing of Kiel With Raids on Island

Allies Lose Early Gain In Halting German Drive Into France

Seven Die in First Week of Hunting

By Bruce Mair
During the first days of the war, British airplanes dropped bombs on the German Kiel canal, doing some little damage. This week, Nazi airmen repaid that visit, by way of land, air and water.

It was the converted British training ship Iron Duke which first felt the force of Germany's reply to the English Scapa Flow. English planes almost immediately were in the air to repulse the attack, and succeeded in downing two Nazi ships.

Twice more during the day Hitler sent dive bombers over the British Isles, and the famous British naval harbor, damaging a cruiser and another battle-ship. Adding insult to injury, one of the last bombs sank the admiral's yacht, anchored along-side his flag-ship.

WHY ROYAL OAK SANK
Meanwhile, it was revealed in Parliament that the battleship, Royal Oak, sunk last week by a German submarine, was anchored in the supposedly impregnable Scapa Flow harbor. Eight hundred lives were lost in the disaster, because, according to Admiralty records, the ship was "anchored at the extreme edge of the harbor, where it was impossible to effect rescue operations."

On land, Nazi forces battered their way into France, regaining much of the territory lost in the last few days of the war. It was in the Meuse sector, in the north, that bore the brunt of the attack, and heavy tanks figuring prominently in the German victory. A French communiqué Tuesday admitted that the Nazis had captured the French village of Apack, although claiming to have regained that territory with a counter-attack.

Later in the week, however, the tide was halted, and by Friday, the front lines were both immobile, and the positions almost identical with those at the beginning of the war.

NAZIS FAIL AS DIPLOMATS
Nazi tactics were found not so successful on the diplomatic front this week with the Allied announcement that Turkey, an ally of Germany during the last war, had signed a treaty with England. Under the provisions of the agreement, Turkey promised Britain aid in the event of aggression in the Mediterranean area, and free access to the Dardanelles. The agreement is scheduled to run for 15 years. Turkey balked against helping Russia, however, and the pact was finally signed without the clause.

In Berlin, authorities claimed that the Allied-Turk treaty would lead to a rupture in the south and might announce that they "expected the Soviet and Italy to give up."

MEDIATION SUGGESTED
In Michigan, latest news of the Chicago strike, commandeered headlines in newspapers throughout the state. Slow-downs and lockouts that led to the idleness of 1,500 workers, concluded with a CIO threat to walk out of the Dodge plant. After almost a week of negotiations, the question was taken to Lansing, where state authorities suggested mediation. On yesterday, company officials were reported cool toward the plan.

The working season opened Saturday and Wednesday, the last day of the year could be gathered, even had it, as a result of gunshots. More than 30 were injured. Enthusiasm still ran high, however, as most returning hunters reported limit bags on the day they out.

Paper Sale Nets $30
Seniors learned in a class meeting Thursday that the paper sale had netted over $30. Also President King Karr appointed several committees to plan senior events for the coming year.

Campus Calendar
Student Theater—
Tuesday, 7:15 p. m.
Little Theater
AFO Conference—
Saturday, 12 m.
Camp Kipanis
W.A.A. Hill—
Saturday, 1 p. m.
Gymnasium
Peoples Church Forum
Sunday, 12 m.
Peoples Church

High School Plans Radio Talk Series

ELH students will portray their typical work through a series of broadcasts to be presented over WKAR by various organizations and classes. For the third consecutive year, students will go on the air every Wednesday from 3 until 3:30 in special programs involving much of their school work.

Next Wednesday a "Little Legislature" period will be presented by the second hour American Government class. Three members will speak on the present neutrality issues before the national congress.

PLAN WAR TALK
King Karr will give a talk on "Repeal of the Arms Embargo," George Herbert will speak on "Keep the Arms Embargo," and Nancy Blue will speak on "Let's Compromise." Winston Miller is to be "speaker of the house," and several students will act as "members" in a debate for and against the propositions.

Other programs to be broadcast in the forthcoming semester include the following: October 25, speech classes in charge of Miss Pauline Zoller; November 1, third period government class presenting current issues; November 8, fifth period economics class with current issues.

AND MORE PROGRAMS
November 15, celebration of National Book Week by students, Miss Dooley and Miss Carol Pierce in charge; November 22, Thanksgiving music by the vocal music department under the direction of Miss Virginia Weisinger; November 29, speech department, December 6, art department under the direction of Miss Madeline Graves; December 13, Junior Drama club under the direction of Miss Edith Lindsey; December 20, Christmas music by the vocal music department.

December 27, second hour government class with current issues, January 3, Mr. Smith and his history class, January 10, speech department, January 17, instrumental music under the direction of Miss Frances Ayres, January 24, junior high music under the direction of Miss Dooley, and January 31, current issues by the economics class.

Spartan Alums Plan Luncheon
A Pre-game luncheon, sponsored by the MSC Alumni club of Indiana, will be held at the Purdue Union building today.

Joe Ryan of Indianapolis, chairman of this state-wide alumni club. Glen Stewart, alumni secretary, will be the only visitor from this campus. He will show pictures of the new buildings and the buildings in process of construction.

According to Stewart, Lesley Scott, president of the Chicago Alumni club, and between 35 and 50 of the Chicago alumni will join the MSC team and band at the Chicago station enroute to Purdue.

Athenians Go Friendly
Friendship will be the project of future Athenian women meetings, Harriet Houlston, program chairman, stated today. The organization has divided into four small groups, each with its own social and general interests, in order that members may work and make friends in congenial groups.

Lutheran Club To Play Host
Michigan State members of the Lutheran Student club will act as host for 160 to 200 delegates during the 16th annual Ohio Valley Regional Conference of the Lutheran Students of America on November 3, 4 and 5.

Pledges Initiated At High School
About 25 pledges were made members of the high school Home Economics club Tuesday evening, through a candle-light ceremony conducted by the president, Marcia Sanford, assisted by other club officers, including Mary Reinke, vice president, Marceline Kidman, secretary, Virginia Hewitt, treasurer, and Dolores Quick.

Child Study Club Hears Report
A report of the Michigan Child Study association held recently in Mt. Clemens was given at a banquet dinner of the East Lansing Child Study club Tuesday night.

Autumn leaves and mixed zourds served as decorations for the affair. Hostesses were: Mrs. Abbot Mitchell, Mrs. J. M. Moore, Mrs. Donald Cation, Mrs. E. E. Jones, Mrs. C. R. Morris, Mrs. R. E. Decker, Mrs. James Morse, Mrs. Paul Mudgett, Mrs. H. S. Moxley, Mrs. F. C. Taylor, and Mrs. E. D. Devereux.

Wake Up Voters!

—An Editorial

It's nice to be on the long end of a sure thing! But it is neither good for the individual nor healthy for the people concerned when that sure thing is certain election following on the heels of office nomination.

Yet that condition exists today and has existed for some time in East Lansing. It is the inevitable result when a one-party town depends on party caucus nomination for its selection of office candidates.

Wednesday evening East Lansing held its annual party caucus. As usual only a small portion of the city's voters turned out. And as usual this same small clique named their candidates and returned to their homes knowing that those candidates would govern East Lansing during the ensuing year. This despite the fact that elections do not occur until November 6.

Such short-sighted governmental policies might be forgiven if there were no solution to the puzzle. But there is a solution. And it is a relatively simple thing.

Installation of a non-partisan primary nomination system may be the cure for East Lansing's peculiar case of governmental myopia. If this system were now in use city voters would go to the polls in November to choose the better of two men for every office. Nomination would be merely the initial step toward ultimate office-holding. And it would not, as it now is, be a sure step.

When East Lansing makes its first effort toward setting up a non-partisan primary it will make its first move in many years towards efficient city government.

Talk of the Town

By Pearl Wnek

Leocadia Jones of Grand Rapids will present a talk entitled "Hats Created to Personalities" before members of the East Lansing Woman's club Tuesday, October 30, at the Woman's parlors of the Peoples church.

Mrs. Theron Daw will act as chairman and will be assisted by the hostess committee consisting of Mrs. W. H. Barton, Mrs. William Hicks, Mrs. L. E. Innes, Mrs. R. S. Janney, Mrs. H. S. Gable, Mrs. F. J. Eilenberg, Mrs. Flora Hill, Mrs. Mary Tear, and Mrs. Frank Church.

Mrs. N. L. Partidge and Mrs. Keith C. Barrows were honored guests at a dessert bridge Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. V. R. Gardner at 205 University drive.

Among the guests were Mrs. L. L. Fremont, Mrs. R. K. Stewart, Mrs. V. E. LeRoy, Mr. D. L. Gilson, Mrs. Edna Aulin, Mrs. A. J. Clark, Mrs. Lauren Brown, Mrs. Stanley Howell, Mrs. Halie Smith, Mrs. V. H. Nell, Mrs. P. J. Schaefer, Mrs. C. P. Halligan, Mrs. C. S. Wilder, Mrs. Forrest Masehlin, Mrs. G. A. Brannard, Mrs. F. A. Collins, Mrs. Herman Wengender, Mrs. Albert Fish, Mrs. E. E. Loree, Mrs. Merrill Lester, Mrs. J. Holmes Martin, Mrs. C. A. Brandy and Mrs. Cliff Carpenter.

Mrs. C. V. Ballard is in charge of the baked good sale by the summer of Alpha Phi at Knapp store.

Mrs. S. T. Mills of Detroit was among the guests attending the officers' installation dinner at East Mary Mayo Thursday.

Mrs. Percy Grant, new marshal of the grand chapter of the Michigan O.E.S., will be honored at a reception, dinner and dance to be given by members of Amity chapter, No. 490, O. E. S. October 27, at the Mass. Temple.

Ag Essays Due November 7

"Time is getting short," according to Professor G. A. Brown, who reminds agricultural students that their entries for the Swift Model contest must be submitted by November 7, at Agricultural hall.

Sponsored by the Swift Packing company in Chicago, the first prize for the best essay will be a three-day trip to the Chicago stockyards and surrounding environment, with all expense paid.

Not to exceed 1,500 words in length, the subject of the essay must be chosen by the writer and must cover some phase of preparation of foods and products which are handled by a packing house.

Material and information to help those interested in getting started on their essays will be available for those who see Mr. Brown, professor in the animal husbandry department.

Assembly Hears Police
In the regular East Lansing high school assembly, Corporal Thomas Tobin of the Michigan state police gave a talk explaining the new traffic regulations recently passed.

Educators Hear Ohl
R. T. Ohl, assistant professor of foreign language at Michigan State college, appeared before a district meeting of the Michigan Educational association recently.

Church This Week

The Sunday morning sermon at the Peoples church to be delivered by Rev. N. A. McCune, will be under the heading of "Jesus Christ in Our Street." Just what this consists of was explained more fully by Rev. McCune when he enumerated some of the points he will include in his sermon.

The topic will be taken from the standpoint of psychology—how psychology helps one to understand Jesus better, how He, a master in psychology, used it, and the problems of applied psychology—especially fear as opposed to faith.

WILL SPEAK OF BIBLE STUDY
Rev. McCune will also point out how scholarship in the last fifty years has enabled the people to understand the gospel so that they know more about the life of Jesus than was previously known.

The Sunday evening Vesper Service will continue with the theme "Christian Foundations in the Changing World." The minister will be in charge of Walter Schreieder. Hildegard Hey will sing two solos, and Frances Hillier and Grace Nahstall will take the parts of the voices of penitence and assurance, respectively. This service is open to students and the community.

SUPPER TO FOLLOW SERVICE
Following the vesper service a supper for the students will be served. The meeting scheduled later will be devoted to the discussion of the church at worship, study and fellowship.

At 8 o'clock there will be a meeting in the Governors' room on the first floor for all students and townspeople who would like to affiliate in membership with the church. The new members will be at the 11 o'clock service, October formally received into the church.

College Bulletin
General meeting of Beta Alpha Sigma will be held Thursday, at 7:30 p. m., in room 400, Morrill hall, for all interested in art, landscape architecture, and floriculture. Jesse J. Garrison, artist, will speak.

Freshman girl volunteers are wanted to serve at the barbecue of Fresh-Soph field day Wednesday, Call Dale Hansen, 9435.

Wolverine staff members request that all freshmen report promptly for yearbook picture settings. Students will be notified as to time and place and are asked to report to the Wolverine office if a change in schedule is necessitated. Freshmen are requested to wear a coat and not to appear for sitting in military uniforms.

High School Debaters Prepare for Busy Season

In preparation for a busy debate season, the entire East Lansing high school debate squad is in Ann Arbor today, attending the annual University of Michigan Debate forum.

The forum, sponsored by the Michigan High School Forensic association will present a debate between Michigan State college and the University of Michigan debate squad on the high school question of government ownership and operation of the railroads.

Prof. I. L. Sharfman, head of the University of Michigan economics department and nationally known authority on railroad problems, will answer questions in the afternoon.

Next week, Wednesday or Thursday, two teams, the affirmative composing Bill McCartney, Don Smith, and Herbert Hoover, and the negative team composed of Bill Hicks, George Herbert, and Ann Fagan, will meet two Marshall teams.

Saturday, October 28, East Lansing is planning to send six debaters, Bill McCartney, Don Smith, Herbert Hoover on the affirmative, and Ruth Swift, Ann Fagan, and Vera Pennington on the negative, to the annual high school tournament held at Alma college. The same team going to Marshall will hold a demonstration debate with Grand Rapids before the entire Kelloggsville student body Monday, October 30. Practice debates also will be held with Ottawa Hills.

It's No Use Going to a Party if You Can't DANCE

We have a New Class in Ballroom Dancing starting TUES. OCT. 31 AT 7:30 P. M.

Learn the NEW STYLES in the Foxtrot and Waltz Taught by EXPERIENCED INSTRUCTORS

Virgiline Simmons School of Dancing
38 Strand Phone 20271

If It's Flowers... See Jewett's

Jewett's

Lansing Colorplate Company
Manufacturers of Printing Plates
317 N° LARCH STREET
PHONE 27022

If you want the rough handsome luxury of a Shetland... with the stamina of a worsted... you want a

Charter House WORSTED SHETLAND

Through our ultra-reliable grapevine system comes the whisper that "Worsted Shetlands" are the fastest-selling suits in the whole Charter House line.

The reason—a handsomely patterned cloth, tailored and styled to the hilt.

The result—MORE and BETTER of the same, in Fall weights, Fall colors, and today's best styles... Here NOW in our new stock, waiting your inspection. $35 FOR FALL

H. KOSITCHEK and BROS.
113 NORTH WASHINGTON AVE. LANSING MICHIGAN

SHORT, MEDIUM or LONG

proportioned STOCKINGS
by Nolde & Horst

One good curve deserves another—so Nolde & Horst copied the natural lines of your perfect legs to give your stockings the particular fit which makes for long life and glamour. Patented Angle-Knit toe and Triple Guard heel reinforcements. In new fashion colors. $1.00

The Style Shop
Lansing, Mich. 116 W. Allegan

State Harriers Face Second Crucial Test at Pittsburg

SPARTAN SPORTFOLIO

By Don Anderson

When Michigan State and Purdue clash this afternoon at Lafayette, two similar offensive systems will be pitted against each other. Both teams employ the Notre Dame style of attack.

In spite of this fact, we'll wager that the average spectator won't be aware of the similarity, even if Charlie Bachman and Mal Edwards, the opposing coaches, did receive their grid training on the same Knute Rockne eleven back around 1915. Both men have followed widely different practices since they became coaches.

Bachman may be classed the more conservative of the two. In the main, his teams stick pretty much to the regular Rockne stuff, that is, Bachman has not strayed far from the football he learned from the great Knute.

Switches Offense

Edwards, on the other hand, has gone far afield in selecting an offense to his liking. Like State, his teams line up in the traditional Notre Dame formation at the start, with three back field men about five yards behind the fourth man, the quarterback, who is stationed directly behind the line. After that, however, you'd never recognize the good old Notre Dame offense.

After the signals have been called in an Edwards backfield almost anything can happen and most generally does. One man may shift up leaving a double wingback, or two men may go with a single wingback the result. The left half may change positions with the right or the fullback may step with the quarterback. It's all very confusing to the opposing team and as for the post spectators, well...

If a Michigan State team shifts to the left with the intent of running the left end, you can be pretty sure that is what will happen. Not so with an Edwards coached team. A shift to the left may mean an attempted right end run, even though all the interference would seem to be pulled over to the other side. The Purdue offense is unorthodox, but it is also very interesting. It is the wide open, prayer and gamble type of play that the fans love to see.

Use Flanker

The Boiler-makers use another phase of the razzle dazle game. They shove flankers out on the wings which may or may not signify that a pass is coming up. Who to the end who, once he has spotted the flanker, points him out to the defensive halfback and promptly forgets all about him. The spot where the flanker is usually placed is in a dandy position from which to do plenty to the opposing end. Let that worthy individual forget about the flanker for one instant and he may find himself knocked into the jam pile at the scrimmage line while the play whirls out around his end.

That is the type of football that Mal Edwards teaches. Charlie Bachman sticks to the more sane style of play. Mind you, we didn't say which we thought was the most effective, both have been tried and found not wanting. But we do think that a good many people who witness the game today won't realize that both teams are using the so-called Notre Dame style of offense.

Important Game

The outcome of today's battle should prove one thing which has been source for many questions. Just how good is Michigan State this year?

The Spartans are up against a good team today. It is without question the most versatile aggregation State will meet all year and may very well be the strongest. More than that, Purdue has not won a game as yet. They have had two very tough games with Notre Dame and Minnesota and with the breaks could have won both of them. This is their first home game. Needless to say, they will possibly be backed to the wall.

Just how will State stack up against a team of Purdue's caliber? And how will she fare when such a team is playing at its height? One couldn't ask for a better estimator of Spartan strength than the Boiler-makers. After the game this afternoon, we'll all know a bit more about how strong Michigan State really is.

FOOTBALL

Continued from Page 1

Other members of the starting forward wall will be Luke Rockness at left guard, Al Kettler and Leo Buckner, tackles, Stan McLean and Mike Kinek, ends.

According to Bachman approximately the same backfield that started against Marquette will be on the field at game time. Don Ross will be at quarterback, Wyman Davis, left half, Bill Kennedy, right half, and Roman Kaman or Paul Derrickson, fullback.

Bachman seems to favor Derrickson a junior, because of his experience, but the sophomore, Kaman, turned in a creditable performance against Marquette last week. While Davis, sophomore quarterback, is slated to see considerable action even though he will be playing with a face guard to protect a lacerated lip.

Net Tournament In Semi-Finals

Two hustling netters, Earl May and Frank Beeman, are scheduled to hook rackets today in a semi-final match of the all-college tennis tournament, with the right to meet Morris Drilling in the finals match Sunday as the winner's reward.

May reached the semi-final bracket as a result of his 6-0, 6-4 victory over Bob Couture in a quarter-final contest, while Beeman earned a coveted semi-final spot by downing Bill Maxwell in his quarter-final game.

It is probable that the Spartans home basketball games in December will be played in the Boys Vocational fieldhouse in Lansing. The new home of the court squad in the million dollar Jenison fieldhouse will not be available until after the first of the year.

Mentor Calls His Team Improved

Says Spartans Due To Break Loose In Near Future

By Bob Hatton

Spartan grid mentor, Charley Bachman, believes the current edition of his gridiron machine is far stronger than the team which opened against Wayne university, three short weeks ago.

Furthermore, Head Coach Bachman sees his charges improving daily and firmly believes that Michigan State is going to have a mighty good football team before the present campaign is over.

"The way we played against Marquette as compared to the first half showing we made against Michigan is concrete proof of our improvement," said Bachman.

Highly pleasing to the coach has been the performance of the numerous sophomore backs with whom he was forced to start the season. Long before the opening contest Bachman indicated that it would take actual combat to bring polish to his green material. Now after three games, glimpses of that polish appear as in the two sustained attacks launched against Marquette Saturday.

Prospective freshman swimmers are asked to meet Monday at 4:40 p. m. in the college pool.

One of the more outstanding developments has been the work of the all-sophomore backfield composed of the Davis twins, Bill Kennedy and Roman Kaman.

In the Wayne opener all four of these backs were green and looked green. Kaman, obviously on edge, showed a fumbling tendency, while Kennedy found trouble picking his holes. The performance of Wyman Davis was far from that he displayed against Marquette and Willie Davis was new in the signal-calling role.

Exactly three weeks after, these four backs, now on the road to football fame, were working as smoothly as many veteran backfield units.

Also encouraging has been the work of Duane "Bucky" Crosthwaite. After a fine start in the Wayne finale Crosthwaite was obviously pressing in the two succeeding contests. Drills this week have indicated that "Bucky" has thrown off the nervous tension and is ready to become the great back he potentially is.

Earlier this season Bachman called the Illinois Wesleyan game the turning point of the season. It was here he expected his inexperienced machine to complete its football metamorphosis and begin playing like a veteran aggregation. The five weeks' development under fire he indicated, were the ingredient most needed.

Also encouraging has been the work of Duane "Bucky" Crosthwaite. After a fine start in the Wayne finale Crosthwaite was obviously pressing in the two succeeding contests. Drills this week have indicated that "Bucky" has thrown off the nervous tension and is ready to become the great back he potentially is.

Earlier this season Bachman called the Illinois Wesleyan game the turning point of the season. It was here he expected his inexperienced machine to complete its football metamorphosis and begin playing like a veteran aggregation. The five weeks' development under fire he indicated, were the ingredient most needed.

Also encouraging has been the work of Duane "Bucky" Crosthwaite. After a fine start in the Wayne finale Crosthwaite was obviously pressing in the two succeeding contests. Drills this week have indicated that "Bucky" has thrown off the nervous tension and is ready to become the great back he potentially is.

Earlier this season Bachman called the Illinois Wesleyan game the turning point of the season. It was here he expected his inexperienced machine to complete its football metamorphosis and begin playing like a veteran aggregation. The five weeks' development under fire he indicated, were the ingredient most needed.

Also encouraging has been the work of Duane "Bucky" Crosthwaite. After a fine start in the Wayne finale Crosthwaite was obviously pressing in the two succeeding contests. Drills this week have indicated that "Bucky" has thrown off the nervous tension and is ready to become the great back he potentially is.

Earlier this season Bachman called the Illinois Wesleyan game the turning point of the season. It was here he expected his inexperienced machine to complete its football metamorphosis and begin playing like a veteran aggregation. The five weeks' development under fire he indicated, were the ingredient most needed.

Also encouraging has been the work of Duane "Bucky" Crosthwaite. After a fine start in the Wayne finale Crosthwaite was obviously pressing in the two succeeding contests. Drills this week have indicated that "Bucky" has thrown off the nervous tension and is ready to become the great back he potentially is.

Earlier this season Bachman called the Illinois Wesleyan game the turning point of the season. It was here he expected his inexperienced machine to complete its football metamorphosis and begin playing like a veteran aggregation. The five weeks' development under fire he indicated, were the ingredient most needed.

Also encouraging has been the work of Duane "Bucky" Crosthwaite. After a fine start in the Wayne finale Crosthwaite was obviously pressing in the two succeeding contests. Drills this week have indicated that "Bucky" has thrown off the nervous tension and is ready to become the great back he potentially is.

Earlier this season Bachman called the Illinois Wesleyan game the turning point of the season. It was here he expected his inexperienced machine to complete its football metamorphosis and begin playing like a veteran aggregation. The five weeks' development under fire he indicated, were the ingredient most needed.

Also encouraging has been the work of Duane "Bucky" Crosthwaite. After a fine start in the Wayne finale Crosthwaite was obviously pressing in the two succeeding contests. Drills this week have indicated that "Bucky" has thrown off the nervous tension and is ready to become the great back he potentially is.

Earlier this season Bachman called the Illinois Wesleyan game the turning point of the season. It was here he expected his inexperienced machine to complete its football metamorphosis and begin playing like a veteran aggregation. The five weeks' development under fire he indicated, were the ingredient most needed.

Also encouraging has been the work of Duane "Bucky" Crosthwaite. After a fine start in the Wayne finale Crosthwaite was obviously pressing in the two succeeding contests. Drills this week have indicated that "Bucky" has thrown off the nervous tension and is ready to become the great back he potentially is.

Spartan Headliners — By El Kay

MICK HALL FROM 'DOKIN' IS AWAY

MICK LOVES TO LISTEN TO CLASSICAL MUSIC

MICK LOVES TO LISTEN TO CLASSICAL MUSIC

Optimist Oscar

By Jerry Dewar

Whata future, folks, whata future. Maybe we did lose two games in a row, but the way those sophomore backs are showing up now it looks like we are going to have one of the best teams in the country. We'll just forget those two games. After all State was playing the team that is rated to take national honors when they played Michigan's power house. The fact that they outplayed them that final half is enough to prove that they have enough to take almost any team in the United States. And that Marquette loss, we'll just credit that to the devil side of the ledger for the white-clad, knicker sticks who were so enamored with themselves and the dames in the stands that they couldn't keep track of the game and had to call a penalty on State in order to prove that they were off-balance.

And Purdue isn't so hot either. Sure they have held Notre Dame to a field goal and Minnesota to a tie, but the fact still remains that they lost those games. Besides that they will have such big heads over the way they have shown up in those contests that State will be able to knock the wind out of their sails. Yes, folks, they may have held the Fighting Irish, and the Swedes, but they are going to find it a lot more difficult to lick the highly spirited Spartans.

State certainly looked like a bunch of high school kids in that last game. Marquette had even conceded victory to the Spartans before they left the game, and it's going to take more than an excuse about the umpires to make us think that the Hilltoppers didn't outplay the local lads. And as for that Michigan game, we'll just forget that, or at least try to forget it. God be praised that the Wolverine coach had a kind heart which prompted him to throw in his reserves. Let us hope and pray that Edward is also blessed with a benevolent spirit.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Pessimist Pete

By Jerry Dewar

Whata future, folks, whata future. Maybe we did lose two games in a row, but the way those sophomore backs are showing up now it looks like we are going to have one of the best teams in the country. We'll just forget those two games. After all State was playing the team that is rated to take national honors when they played Michigan's power house. The fact that they outplayed them that final half is enough to prove that they have enough to take almost any team in the United States. And that Marquette loss, we'll just credit that to the devil side of the ledger for the white-clad, knicker sticks who were so enamored with themselves and the dames in the stands that they couldn't keep track of the game and had to call a penalty on State in order to prove that they were off-balance.

And Purdue isn't so hot either. Sure they have held Notre Dame to a field goal and Minnesota to a tie, but the fact still remains that they lost those games. Besides that they will have such big heads over the way they have shown up in those contests that State will be able to knock the wind out of their sails. Yes, folks, they may have held the Fighting Irish, and the Swedes, but they are going to find it a lot more difficult to lick the highly spirited Spartans.

State certainly looked like a bunch of high school kids in that last game. Marquette had even conceded victory to the Spartans before they left the game, and it's going to take more than an excuse about the umpires to make us think that the Hilltoppers didn't outplay the local lads. And as for that Michigan game, we'll just forget that, or at least try to forget it. God be praised that the Wolverine coach had a kind heart which prompted him to throw in his reserves. Let us hope and pray that Edward is also blessed with a benevolent spirit.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Panthers' Veteran Squad And Tough Course to Be Difficult Combination

Fehr and Sterner to Feature Race

By Joe Sinek

With action on foreign soil being the order for Michigan State today, Coach Lauren P. Brown has his cross country squad in Pittsburgh for the third annual meet with the Blue and Gold.

Last year the Panthers were easy prey for the Spartans on the Red Cedar course, however, this year a different situation is at hand with the site of the meet at Scherley park, which has the reputation of being one of the toughest barrier courses in the country.

None of the present members of the varsity squad have competed on the Pitt layout as the last time that Brown had a team in the Smoky City was in 1936. However, from that one visit the Spartans are well aware of the difficult course.

Hills and more hills compose the Pitt layout. There are steep hills that sap every bit of stamina on the way up, and then drop off in steep proportions.

To prepare for this grueling and, Brownie hunted up some hills near East Lansing that surpass any that the Spartans have climbed in practice, and turned the boys loose for a stiff workout.

The honor of leading the pack to the tape looms as a struggle between Panther Walter Sterner and Spartan Roy Fehr. Sterner, always a hard man to beat, is off to another great year, but Fehr's victory over the IC-4A champion, Billie Smith, in the Penn State run last Saturday stamps him as a possible victor against any competition.

With 43 would-be fencers already working out daily for freshman and varsity team positions and more expected to report for practice later in the term, prospects for a top-notch Michigan State fencing team appear to be bright in some seasons, according to Fencing Coach William Hammond.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come from Detroit where they were the recognized Motor City fencing champions.

Couch Hammond announced plans for the annual all-college fencing tournament which is open to any student who has not won a fencing letter. This year the tournament is scheduled for the first week in December which is somewhat earlier than in the past. Coach Hammond explained that the date had been moved up in order to give both varsity and freshman squads a greater opportunity for practice before actual intercollegiate competition gets under way.

Freshmen comprise most of the tournaments so far, as 32 of the 43 signed up to date are first year men. Experience, although usually a hindrance to freshman teams, is strangely absent this season as many of the fresh tryouts have seen action in fencing before coming to Michigan State. Among the number are George Ganos and Harold Mattershow, who come