They're on the Run

Runs may win ball games, but they don't cool purses. And more than one cool has been accompanied of late over extra time in class room sessions, for sedulous with college chairs. Still the spartan woman want to be reasonable about the whole thing. None has suggested that college hours should dig deep and buy new furniture. But not a few, after hastily taking seats and finding all the runs in the stocking column, have politely suggested a bit of applied elbow grease and sandpaper. It's something into which buildings and grounds department might look.

Keep It Up to Date

Value of a reading room in which out-of-date newspapers are made available for students has been proven many times since its inception in the Union building. At small tables of Michigan and many out-of-state papers can be read in a room opposite the cafeteria. But recently many have registered their disgust at going into the reading room to find that the papers they want to read are not up to date. Students who come from Escanaba, Pontiac, or New York complain that the rack is many times four or five days behind. Certainly the aim with which this feature was added to the Union, through the efforts of B. R. Probst is destroyed if this condition is not removed. It takes only a few minutes daily to keep the racks up to date.

Think First, Practical Joker

Then there is only a thing as carrying a joke too far. For whenever State News ate Friday night with the report that three Spartan gradmen were hurt in an elevator accident in San Francisco perhaps didn't realize the extra money and amount of work it cost the newspaper. Not wishing to overlook a scoop like that, State News workers went to bed on the story. No neighboring news agency taking report, and since it was but two hours before going to press, reporters, news men, and editors turned on the heat.

NO VARIANCE

The fascinating part of his writing is that there is no desire of variance between his expository style and the characters he paints. When there is a student, he describes it as "roaring to beat hell," because that is the way his characters would describe it. More than faintly reminiscent of Mark Twain, Davis touches even his most serious passages with the same ritual type of humor. The book is realistic, and starting once or twice, but there's no naturalism in it, no attempt to picture life through a backhouse window.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Authorities are quietly investigating inside reports that the chief reason for the flabbiness of stock prices is secret, systematic dumping of U. S. securities by the Allies.

The delirium gripping the stock market is in striking contrast to the exuberance of industry. While the business index is higher today than in 1927, in some lines even higher than in 1929, stocks are down 45 to 50 points below 1927 levels and approximately 200 points under 1929 highs. Every time the market stiffens and starts upward, a ceiling wave immediately develops and prices immediately subside. The cure of this selling, authorities suspect, is of European origin—government seeking to clean dollar credits in this country to finance the war purchases made possible by the lifting of the arms embargo.

At the beginning of the war, British and French holdings in U. S. stocks and bonds were around $2,000,000,000. These investments were chiefly in so-called gilt-edged securities, such as General Electric, General Motors, DuPont, and Alcoa. The British and French governments have taken over these securities and in recent weeks have been secretly unloading them to pay the heavy bills for war mater-

CONCEALED SALES

Evidence of the effort being made abroad to cloak these operations in deep secrecy is certain confidential proposals made to the United States, which stocks are up to the Allies. The London branches of the principal New York banks, through the most of these transactions are handled, were asked to approach their companies with a proposition to sell some temporary securities to the U. S. government. In other words, instead of the original stock certificates being through the New York banks, they would be revealing their own 10 percent certificate being sold in the name of the U. S. government, thereby securing the original of the sale.

SNAGLESS STOCKING

Cheer up, girls—the government has looked out for you. It has devised a snagless stocking. Y. S. Bureau of Standards is making extensive laboratory study aimed at securing a way to lock the snagless stocking. However, it might be pointed out that the results have been negative. Experts have found that snagless stockings are "too tight" or "too loose." But they also discovered that while "snagless" stockings have some snag resistance, when they snag they develop larger snags than "snagless" ones.

popularity than ever before and the influx has increased just another example of the irony of fate. Propaganda was messing up a place over at Brooklyn Tech the other day so one of the editors got the bright idea to use the situation to explain the overabundance of pictures in newspapers (paraphrase) throughout the pages of the daily periodical. Cleverly he described how the editorial staff after long deliberation had decided to cut some of the pictures and substitute it with pictures which were taken to brighten the hopes and make people happy.

FREE PUBLICITY

When C. C. Hurd of the college faculty placed that memorable sign on his door which included that famous passage, "If you don't give a rap," and to which was later added by a State News reporter, "you won't get Hurd," he probably didn't know that it was to bring him into the limelight of colleges throughout the United States. But the exchange editors of many school periodicals got a great kick out of the matter and deemed it a good idea to pass the laugh on to schoolmates. And so throughout the United States the news is flying and the professor who modestly tucked the little sign upon his door to shield himself from the inrush of students, has brought upon himself more

THE SYRACUSE GAME

A bit of a hat-sheer, reversible, and saddle shoes on the Syracuse girls' side of the football field proved that these femmes make a Saturday afternoon concession to glamour. However, at the Syracuse institution the boys are huddled on one side of the field and the coeds on 'other side. If it's true that women dress solely for men, we can't blame the orange girls for sticking in their Sloppy Joe tactics. THIS WEEK Almost any week, Marguerite Bowles, trim and tailored in a navy blue suit with starched elbow pads, and Christine Eubach in an accordion-pleated navy skirt and white blouse, were seen in the crowd around the stadium. Bowles kept her hair in a bun, and Eubach wore it all herself. Nifty (and overdone) green and brown speckle prom dress, an Ruth Hoxsey-style dress, and Franca Costare, a smartly swaying across campus in a skirt of the new Chinese Tea color topped by a yellow sweater. Back wool slippers with vividly high heels and belt—Ruth Warren's contribution to sophistication. Maroon mittens with JANET embroidered on it match a maroon colored reversible—Janet is—well, usually enough it's a wonderful writer who can interest his reader in a dream-out account of the death of a fox caught in a trap. I liked the book, and I think you will, too. At least, it might be worth while to take it out of the library after I get around to returning it.

From the Tower

By BRUCE MAIR In 1935 one H. L. Davis wrote a book called "Honor in the Hoop." The book, which attracted some notice when it was published, did not become a best seller; it has probably been forgotten by more than half of the people who read it. Nevertheless, I believe that it is one of the best books I have read this year. For I didn't get around to reading it until this year, and I probably never should have, had I not been poking around the reading shelf in the library when I should have been studying. Mr. Davis writes about Oregon, but the modern tourist style Oregon, but of the state when eating was a matter of going out and shooting the first shot you met, and small game was regarded as a nuisance to be exterminated whenever possible. The fascinating part of his writing is that there is no desire of variance between his expository style and the characters he paints. When there is a student, he describes it as "roaring to beat hell," because that is the way his characters would describe it. More than faintly reminiscent of Mark Twain, Davis touches even his most serious passages with the same ritual type of humor. The book is realistic, and starting once or twice, but there's no naturalism in it, no attempt to picture life through a backhouse window.

New Process Makes Apple Juice Million Dollar Industry

Another case of what is fast becoming an old familiar story, and unheralded collegiate laboratory research developing into a million dollar industry, was disclosed here at Michigan State last week.

Through experimentation, the horticulture and bacteriology departments have developed a method of processing apple juice so that it can be consumed for consumption in off season months, without losing the sparkle, clearness and zest of fresh cider.

The year round demand for apple juice thus created, obviously will greatly increase the market for Michigan growers. This demand is expected by college authorities to be the foundation of a million dollar industry for Michigan.

Commercial concerns in Michigan started using the college process this year, and it is thought that many others will be followed by next fall. Manufacturers have been granted permission to use a label carrying the trade name Mich-O-Maid, and stating that the juice was processed according to methods developed at the college.

In order to make cider sterile and safe, it was necessary to heat the liquid to 170 degrees F. for 20 minutes. This method, however, imparted an "off" taste to the cider. Research by Dr. J. H. Ingerson, and Mrs. H. E. Baun acted as hostesses during the afternoon.

A woodwind trio, composed of Walter Chersack, flute; Wilbur Greer, clarinet; and Francis Piotrowski, bassoon, played several selections. Keith Stein, music instructor at Michigan State college, directed the trio.

Class Will Make Up Prep Play Cast
A stage makeup class taught by Dr. W. F. Thompson will go to West Junior high school, Lansing, Friday, to make up members of the cast of "Ruddigrove," Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, which is to be presented by Lansing Central high school.

Men's Dorms Plan More Amateur Night Shows

Arrangements are being made this week for an amateur show for residents of Abbot hall, similar to the recent contest in Mason hall. Marty Thomson, chairman of the show in both halls, says the five best acts in each show will compete in a final Mason-Abbot show in December.

Winners in the Mason contest were Fred Lorne, precinct 3, vocalist; Ed Gunderson, precinct 5, trumpet soloist; Don Otto and Chuck Bigelow, precinct 3, humorous skit; Chuck Lindeman, precinct 1, pianist; and Marshall Harmon, precinct 2, and Derold Hatcher, precinct 9, vocal duet.

WAR HERO

machine gun fire mowing down his comrades and making it impossible to advance. With courage and coolness, Furlong moved out in front of the company, crossed a stretch of ground some 300 yards wide to take up a position behind the machine gun nests.

Closing in on the gun positions one by one, he wiped out each in succession with his rifle and returned to his own lines unscathed with 20 German prisoners.

This was the exploit that won for Furlong the coveted medal, the "D. S. C."

Perhaps it was the same incident that he was thinking of when a vision of a former buddy came to him last week as he relaxed after a hard day's work.

Perhaps because he was in the thickest kind of war is what inspired the story of a departed comrade's visit, a story which appeared Saturday morning on the front page of a metropolitan newspaper.

Dalers Look to IC-1A Run After Winning Michigan A.A.U. Meet

By Joe Simck

Flashing strong team balance, upon which they will stake their chances in regaining their I. C. 4 A. A. U. laurels, Michigan State's varsity hurriers easily won the Michigan A. A. U. title at Kalamazoo Saturday, although Roy Fehr failed to figure in the race for first place.

As Tommy Quinn of Michigan Normal and Harry Leonard of Western State sprinted to a near photo-finish with the nod going to the Byron ace, the Spartans bunched their forces and grabbed the next four places to insure them the title.

The winning list in 27 events, Michigan Normal led next with 48, followed by Western State with 74, Michigan State freshmen with 82, Michigan State varsity runners with 101, and Wayne State varsity with 129 points.

REUNION MEN

Only 34 alumni registered the six Spartans in their annual Reunion race held at the top hunting State Park November 11-12, 1939, and it remains the only year in the history of 44 years when no one has returned to the reunion since the first year.

Les McMichael of N. Y. U. the 1938 freshman champion who had yet to take part in this reunion race is the only member of the national family to have returned to the 'Varsity' park. Several other alumni were present, including Tom Smith, returning champion running and one of the best and best known of the state.

Perhaps more significant than the showing of the varsity which has already passed their under-18, was the powerful showing of freshmen Saturday. Jerry Page looked like a real winner as he landed in seventh place against the veteran sophomore Lloyd Sparks. Bill Scott and Howard Mack also had good showings.

MONEY OF FORM

Only the appropriate amount of form of Ralph Malone, who led the team in every event, kept the winners from taking their spot from Western State's varsity. As it was their freshman, 25, boys ahead of the varsity, Malone, who went off to lead in running, and on the second day to make the eastern trip.

The entire Michigan State varsity team, including the six Spartans, who had won the Michigan A. A. U. title, were present at the reunion, and the entire team, including the six Spartans, who had won the Michigan A. A. U. title, were present at the reunion.

DZV Emerges With Perfect Record For Season

The DZV team emerged with a perfect record for the season, having won all their games. The team's success is due to their strong defense and offensive play, particularly in the second half of each game. Their consistent performance has earned them a reputation as one of the top teams in the conference.

SPARTAN HEADLINERS — By El Kay

Spartan Sportfolio

After the Santa Clara game last Saturday, Coach Bachman had this to say: "The Broncos have a good team. But I think we could have won had we received our share of the breaks."

He was referring to the pass that just missed over the Santa Clara goal after State had driven to the Californians' three yard line in the third quarter. Lou Smiley caught a pass from Davis in the end zone, but dropped it as he was hit hard from the rear. Had he hung on to the ball, the Spartans would have emerged with nothing worse than a tie, and might have won to the extra point route.

For in the same manner, in which so many of State's efforts have failed by a hair's breadth, this fall, the pass didn't stick. The Spartans might have a much better record today had Lou Lusk nailed on their more Lucky day.

The Michigan game was lost on the wings of two intercepted passes and a 15-yard penalty. Michigan was hot that day, but not any hotter than State was in the second half. Recent developments seem to prove that the Wolverines are not as good as a long way as they have been rated. But for the bad breaks State got in the first half of the game October 7, the outcome might have been different.

Defense Slips

Marquette took the air for the first time in the game. The Spartans' defense slipped in the second half, allowing Marquette to score twice. The coaching staff is working to improve the team's defensive consistency.

Wolves Slump

The Wolverines looked completely demoralized. Their offensive line struggled to gain any yardage, and their backfield was unable to make any significant plays.

Mason One Ends Year Unbeaten With Hard Win

A hard win for Mason ended their unbeaten streak. The team showed great resilience in the second half, overcoming a halftime deficit to secure a victory.

That Man Zuppke

The reason? Bob Zuppke and his Illinois eleven. We believe that the decision of the Michigan football board to start right from now. This is to tell the players that they must give their best effort in every game.

State to Get in Three Practice Sessions Before Indiana Game

Team Morale High Hurt Spartan Even After Loss

(Special to The State News) EN ROUTE EAST LANSING, Nov. 13—Homeward bound after being edged out by Santa Clara, 6-0, last Saturday at Kassar stadium in San Francisco, Michigan State's good squad passed through Cheyenne, Wyo., early today and is slated to arrive at East Lansing Wednesday afternoon.

Upon their arrival, the Spartans will immediately begin practice for Saturday's contest with the visiting forces of Indiana. Three predominantly three practice sessions before State tackles its third Big Ten foe in this season's schedule.

The squad members were in high morale as they began the long trek home. Even though they had met their downfall at the hands of the Broncos, there was considerable satisfaction derived from the team's showing.

"If we only had a few breaks," stated Coach Bachman, "we could have won that game."

After Santa Clara took the lead in the first quarter on a 62-

Santa Clara Tops At Crucial Point

Bruce Blackburn, reliable State end, will probably be out of the last two games of the season as the result of a leg injury in the Santa Clara game.

Late in the third period Steve made its most important offensive move when it drove to the Broncos' 4-yard line. With four downs which were secure, the Santa Clara defense stiffened and turned back the Spartan threat. Two times the line failed to gain and the passes fell incomplete. One of the aerials just slipped from the hands of Lew Souley, sophomore end, on the 13-yard line.

As far as records go the defeat by Santa Clara sent the Spartans down to a new low for many years. It marked the first time that any State team under the Bachman regime has lost two games in one season. The team's record up to date is four games lost and three won, with two contests still remaining to be played.

Previously State's poorest performance since Bachman became coach in 1933 was last season when the ledger showed six games won and three lost. The best records compiled were in 1924 when 10 games were captured in one year, and in 1937 when eight victories and two defeats were registered.

Frosh to Meet Reserves In Blood and Thunder Game

By Hal Schram

That a "Gosh" game? The old interclass squabble between those impetuous freshmen and those dominant upperclassmen will be rekindled tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 on Macklin field.

Placing its undefeated record on the block, Coach J. H. Kobs' roaring freshman football team will attempt to establish itself as the best yearling gridiron squad in recent years when they clash with Coach A. J. Annett's reserve squad.

Cagers Stage Intra-Squad Contest

The basketball team will stage an intra-squad contest tomorrow afternoon at 7:30 in the gymnasium. The game is expected to be a closely fought affair, with both teams showing their improved play.

Wolverines Looked Completely Demoralized

The Wolverines looked completely demoralized. Their offensive line struggled to gain any yardage, and their backfield was unable to make any significant plays. The coaching staff is working to improve the team's defensive consistency.

There's No Great Mystery about Cigarette Tobaccos

THERE ARE FOUR TYPES of tobaccos found in the more popular cigarettes, namely... Bright, Maryland, Burley and Turkish.

ALL THESE TOBACCOS except Turkish (which is bought direct from the planters in Turkey and Greece) and Maryland (which is bought through sealed bids under government supervision) are bought at public auction, just like any other auction where you might have bought in a table or a chair.

AT THE AUCTION SALE the tobacco is piled in baskets weighing from about 100 to 500 pounds and each purchaser buys all of his tobaccos by competitive bidding for the particular piles he wants.

THE CHESTERFIELD BUYERS buy the best of these mild ripe tobaccos for the Chesterfield blend. And it is Chesterfield's Combination... the right amounts of Burley and Bright... just enough Maryland... and just enough Turkish—that makes the big difference between Chesterfield and other cigarettes.

IT IS BECAUSE OF THIS COMBINATION that Chesterfields are COOLER, have a BETTER TASTE and are DEFINITELY Milder. They are made of the world's best cigarette tobaccos. You can't buy a better cigarette.
