Election Activity Is To Commence Today

Primarys Scheduled for Thursday

By Ellis Brandt
Nominations for six Student council positions began abbreviated two-day campaigns today which will end Thursday as primary elections in five divisions slice in half the group of 24 nominated.

Voting booths will open at 8 a. m. and close at 6 p. m., it was announced by Elections Chairman Fred Quigley. Booths will be placed in Ag hall, Olds hall, and the Home Ec building for Ag students, Engineers, and Home Ec students, and in the Union for Liberal Arts and Applied Science students, he said.

Student council president Tom Connelly urged voters to express their choice in the Thursday primaries. Final elections for the six positions will be held Tuesday, Nov. 18, he announced.

Some parents object to the present plan because they like to attend Alumni day, Baccalaureate and Commencement, Crowe said. The present schedule shuts out that possibility, as the dates are too far apart.

According to Crowe, late commencement hinders seniors looking for jobs, since Michigan State closes later than other institutions. Crowe hopes that the present plan will prove better than that of former years when exams were given on Friday, Saturday, and again on Wednesday following Commencement. He said that seniors will follow the schedule this year because the programs are printed but may be changed next year.

Each candidate is requested to provide a copy of all mimeographed material in his behalf for Student council files.

Each candidate may prepare an 8 1/2 by 11 inch poster containing factual information about himself and his viewpoints, to be placed on the Student council sponsored bulletin board in the Union. A snapshot, not over 3 by 5 inches, may be placed on each poster.

Each voter must present his identification card at the polls to be eligible to vote. The elections are being held in accordance with a student-passed amendment to the Student council.

Approval of November 29 as the date for Michigan State's annual horse show was given by Pres. John A. Hannah at the regular faculty meeting recently.

Six Culver cadets under the sponsorship of Lieut. Col. I. L. Kitts will compete against six selected Michigan State cavalry students. Another feature of the program will be the tree jumping classes, straight, handy hunter and one working hunter event.

Major M. H. Marcus, of the cavalry department is in charge of the horse show.

Others who are active in the drive besides Connelly include Rachel Mason, judiciary board president, Margaret Jensen, of A. W. S., and Margaret Burhans from Student council.

The Michigan Sociological society will hold its election of officers at the fifth annual fall meeting next Friday in the Union building. Dr. D. L. Harper of the sociology department, first president when the society was formed five years ago, and D. L. Gibson form the nominating committee for this year.

The program during the day will include several addresses by speakers from Wayne university, the University of Michigan, the University of Wisconsin, and the University of Chicago.

The recently inaugurated system of finding jobs for dormitory men has been very successful, according to a statement yesterday from Ron Heath, housing director.

"I am anxious to get all the boys I can to come in and fill out part time employment cards," Heath stated. "Students are needed for jobs right now if they are suited for the type of work."

Heath indicated there have been more jobs than men to fill them.

Seven Coeds Take Posts On Friday

ROTC Will Install Corps Sponsors With Ceremony

In a colorful and traditional ceremony, the Michigan State college R. O. T. C. will install seven coed sponsors in Demonstration hall at 8 p. m. this Friday.

Coed sponsors to be installed include June Esslinger, Royal Oak, corps sponsor; Mary Lou Dodge, East Lansing, cavalry; Helen MacDonald, East Grand Rapids, field artillery; Marjorie Masterson, Grand Rapids, coast artillery; Ruthmary Mangold, La Grange, Ill., infantry; Carol Walcott, Ithaca, band; and Elizabeth Zerbee, East Lansing, Pershing Rifles.

Acting cadet colonel for the installation ceremony will be George E. Willis, Grosse Pointe, field artillery, and the acting adjutant will be Wilham J. Freisberger, East Chicago, Ind., infantry.

William G. McKichan, East Lansing, cavalry, is president of the Officers' Club, organization of advanced ROTC students which sponsors the election and installation of coed sponsors, and John H. Peterson, Grayling, coast artillery, will serve as aid to the president of the Officers' Club.

Miss Esslinger will be escorted during the installation ceremonies by Arthur W. Land, Royal Oak, infantry; Arwin D. Way, Portland, cavalry; Albert H. Gill, East Lansing, coast artillery; Neulon E. Boehm, Battle Creek, field artillery; Leonard R. Swartz, La Grange, Ill., infantry; Robert E. Dunn, East Lansing, band; and John B. Wright, Saginaw, Pershing Rifles.

Student council has assumed responsibility for the annual Red Cross membership drive now underway among students, Tom Connelly, Student council president, announced yesterday.

Both men's and women's dormitories will be canvassed through cooperation of resident managers of men's dorms, and A. W. S. judiciary board.

Arrangements also have been made to contact students off campus, excluding fraternities, sororities and co-operative houses which already have been reached.

It is hoped that rooming authorities and householders will cooperate with student solicitors as much as possible because of the nature of Red Cross work, Connelly said.

For students who will not be reached otherwise, a booth will be placed in the union lobby. Connelly said that all contributions made by groups should be sent to Student council in care of Dean of Men's office.

Others who are active in the drive besides Connelly include Rachel Mason, judiciary board president, Margaret Jensen, of A. W. S., and Margaret Burhans from Student council.

Shake Hip Cause Rhumba Lessons Begin Friday

Final arrangements for dancing lessons in the rhumba, boleros and other South American dances have been completed and will begin under the sponsorship of LaCo-India, Spanish club, it was announced yesterday by John Bucero, club president.

According to Bucero, the first lesson will be held Friday from 2 to 6 p. m. in the Spartan room with Henry Simons, Jr. of Panama, assisted by Lester Simons, also of Panama, acting as instructors.

The club will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in the Union 13 discuss their plans for the dancing lessons, initiation of members and a two act play.

Rifles Feature All-Night Hike In Initiation

Pershing Rifles, honorary military society, initiated 79 cadets in ceremonies last week climaxed by formal initiation—Sunday afternoon. Captain Ted Willis, Michigan State, and other officers Milton Taylor and John Wright, conducted the festivities.

Starting last Wednesday night with a written military examination, the pledges underwent night initiation. On Friday night the group was divided into two squads for night maneuvers in the college woods.

The two pledge forces elected Cadets Leslie Page and Merrill Debesky as their officers for Saturday night's all-night problem and march to Hill. Under these commanders a mock battle was fought.

After the problem was completed, the pledges marched back to the campus with music by the Pershing Rifles' Drum and Bugle Corps. Officers from regional headquarters at Ohio State university, Columbus, O., observed the initiation and made a formal inspection of the Michigan State company on Sunday afternoon.

Glen O. Stewart, director of alumni relations, asked yesterday that Michigan State students not rush into the acceptance of the new M. S. C. Shadows, as their new alma mater.

According to Stewart, the problem is one that the alumni should become better acquainted with first. Asked if any alumni had responded with their views on the subject, Stewart said, "None of the alumni seem to know anything about the proposed change."

The student body missed a golden opportunity by not conducting Gallup Polls on this subject with the 1,000 alumni here for Homecoming day. There are over 30,000 alumni of M. S. C. that should be informed on this subject," Stewart said.

Another chance to inform many alumni of the proposed change was missed by not putting anything on the subject into the M. S. C. Record, alumni publication. Now we will have to wait until the January issue of the record is out, and so far no one has approached me on this point," Stewart pointed out.

The Record has a circulation of about 16,000.

Asked if he was favorable to changing the alma mater song to "M. S. C. Shadows," Stewart replied, "I am neither for or against it, even though it has its merits."

Stewart emphasized that the student body should not rush into the change, since the alumni know so little about it, and instead should place more stress on getting the information of the proposed change to the alumni.

Staff Member Receives $100 Poetry Prize

A. J. M. Smith, assistant professor of English at Michigan State college, now on leave of absence, was the recipient of a $100 prize from the magazine, "Poetry," it was announced yesterday by editor of the magazine.

The award, known as the Harriet Monroe prize, was won by a series of verses written by Prof. Smith which appeared in the April issue of the magazine.

At the present time, Prof. Smith is doing research work under the Guggenheim fellowship. He is working on Canadian poetry in libraries at Toronto, Washington, D. C. and New York.

Prof. Smith's major has been in 18th century poetry. He teaches advanced courses in poetry at the college.

Committees for the Water circus to be held Nov. 28, were named recently by Porpoise fraternity, national swimming honorary. The committees will take an active part in the organization and management of the circus to be held in the men's pool.

Headed by Ted Hemmelein, the executive committee includes Charles Bigelow, John Becker, Harold Hefferman, James Walker, Don Farmer, and Ralph Newton. The various divisions of the committee are as follows: Music—Harold Hefferman and Fred Stillman; properties—Bill Menzel and Bob Wilson; staging—James Thomas; publicity—John Becker, Al Gill, Don Farmer, and Chuck Bigelow; tickets—Fred Stillman and John MacCloud.

Two major educational topics will be discussed by the Michigan College Association when it meets in the Union building, according to Dean I. C. Emmons.

The association is comprised of colleges accredited by the North Central Association, of which Dean Emmons is president.

Major topics to be brought up are "Possible publication of a scholastic guidance bulletin that will be identical for all colleges in the state," and "The new statute of Michigan relative to incorporation of all colleges with assets above $500,000."

Students to Pay Tribute To MSC's War Heroes

College Holds Brief Recess At 10:50 a. m.

By ROSALIND FRIEDMAN
"Working like hell for achievement—will write later," were the words written by Private Eugene Ewing, killed in action just one month before the Armistice was signed.

Today from 10:50 to 11:30 a tribute will be paid to Ewing and the other Michigan State war heroes who were killed before Nov. 11, 1918.

Among these soldiers were Cadet Irving Losky, who wrote the Spartan "Fight Song," Col. Hob-

PLATE WREATH
Honorary Cadet Colonel June Esslinger, Royal Oak senior, will place a wreath on the Union building plaque to open the ceremony. The building, which was commemorated in honor of the alumni who died in the past wars, was known originally as the Union Memorial building.

Six corps sponsors and four lieutenant colonels will attend Miss Esslinger at the wreath ceremonies. Miss Esslinger will receive the wreath from Don Farmer, chairman of Student council committee in charge of Armistice day program.

RAISE FLAGS
Flags lowered at half mast since early morning, will be raised at this time and "Taps" will be sounded from Beaumont tower. An echo will then be sent from the Union. Offices and business establishments will open at 11:05 a. m. and classes will begin again at 11:30 a. m. Farmer announced yesterday afternoon.

Oak trees planted for each Michigan State man who gave his life in the war are located west of Sarah Williams dormitory.

Quartet Will Present Three String Selections Tonight

By Bill Barclay
Compositions for strings will be featured by the Stradivarius quartet as Wolfe Wolfsohn, first violin, Bernard Robbins, second violin, Marcel Dick, viola, and Iwan d'Archeambeau, cello, present the second college concert course program in the auditorium at 8 p. m. today.

Schubert's "Death and the Maiden" or D minor quartet, long one of the most popular concert numbers for strings, will be among the three on tonight's program. The G major quartet of Haydn will open the program, while Von Dohnanyi's quartet in D flat major, still relatively unfamiliar to American audiences, is the second composition.

Since its organization in 1929, the Stradivarius quartet, so named because of the famous instruments used by the group, has helped to develop a new interest in chamber music in this country, according to Prof. Roy Underwood, music department head.

The group already has attained wide reputation, both here and in Europe, and is considered one of the major organizations of its type in the world, Underwood said.

Others who are active in the drive besides Connelly include Rachel Mason, judiciary board president, Margaret Jensen, of A. W. S., and Margaret Burhans from Student council.

the blackboard, please, take up your form sheets, please, for Joe Quarterback and his scheming cousins, the Morning Quarterbacks, about to conduct another session of the Tuesday morning football class.

They may throw away all the forms we issued last week because we get in with the class because it appears none of them work. Pitt beats Fordham, Harvard upsets Army, Notre Dame edges Navy, Nebraska holds Minnesota in check, and Ohio State and Wisconsin go to the top of the football team just as they were any more.

They call the roll, perhaps they give that report you made last week, Mr. Quarterback, that is, if you're there after two hours in those seats at Lafayette last Saturday.

Don't Let Jitters Haunt You; They Don't Count In the End

Colby Thompson

All contestants report to the starting line immediately. Upon hearing this cry, your legs feel shaky and you're a little jittery, don't worry because that's a positive sign of a good race. It never fails.

Remember, before going to the starting line you must get a little more advice on how to run the two-mile Turkey Trot.

First of all there is the matter of nerves. Don't bother to get nervous. Save all your strength for the race. You'll need it.

THE ARE OUT

They're out for at least a mile. The actual race. You should not do any good until the gun goes off. Still, if you're a woman is the most important thing. You must give you inspiration.

Remember, you really don't let back coaches see you, or be running in circles the first college days. If you're not so hot, don't let your mind see the race, or she'll be what a man you're not, you're you in a daze for the college.

Remember should be as light as a feather. Add to your speed pants and the T-shirt are. However, if you're built like a brick, you'll do well to wear a heavy coat.

You may catch pneumonia. You'll be all set for dates for the rest of the year.

This year classic is the big meet of the campaign for Brown's boys, who have never placed worse than second in over a decade of IC-4A competition.

WIN STATE TITLE

With the Michigan Intercollegiate trophy tucked away as the result of their smashing 23-48 triumph over Michigan Normal last week-end, the Spartans will carry a practically spotless record to New York. The Green and White finished five men in the first seven finishers to take the team title easily, but Duane Zemper, Michigan Normal captain, romped home the individual winner in 22:28.6.

Behind the winner by 100 yards in second place was State's Walt Mack, who survived the early blistering pace, the mud and the hail, to lead the Brownmen. Ralph Monroe crossed the line third some 40 yards behind Mack after staying with Zemper for the first mile and a half.

PEDLER TAKES FOURTH

The first five State runners were split by a Western Michigan runner, Elford Pedler, who peddled in's fourth place, 30 yards ahead of Colby Thompson. Far the third straight meet, Walt Beardslee beat out Maurice Horski by a few steps to capture the sixth spot.

Bill Scott was tenth behind two Ypsi dalers, who followed closely in Horski's tracks. Earl Cary was 13th and George Byelich was 16th.

With a week of hard work before the IC-4A, Scott should be ready to help State considerably in its bid for the title. The biggest barrier in the way of the Spartans' championship march is the returning titleholder, Rhode Island State. The entire Rhode Island team is returning, led by second-place winner Robert Nichols.

SEEKS THIRD CROWN

Undeclared in cross country competition, last year's individual winner and record holder, Leslie Mac Mitchell, of N.Y.U., will be gunning for his third straight crown. Mac Mitchell also is the holder of the indoor world's record for the mile run, 4:01.4.

Summaries: Won by Zemper (MNC), in 22:28.6; second, Mack (MSC); third, Monroe (MSC); fourth, Pedler (WM); fifth, Thompson (MSC); sixth, Beardslee (MSC); seventh, Horski (MSC); eighth, Archer (MNC); ninth, Johnson (MNC); tenth, Scott

lege two weeks ago. It is true we've beaten Kansas, 31-9; Virginia Military Institute, 30-18; Georgetown, 17-7; Penn State, 14-0, and Bucknell, 41-14, but things like that don't mean anything to the boys out in East Lansing. If you will remember, we were leading, 21-0, at the half in Philadelphia last year and then barely squeaked out a 21-19 victory. Boy! We can't be overconfident."

J. Q.: "Just a minute, there is a young man in the front row who has his hand up. Are you a regular member of the Tuesday class?"

JOHN PETTY: "No, but I've got a complaint. I ran the half 11 times against State and only gained 11 yards. That isn't so bad, but they warned us about State's powerful defensive line-men and how hard it was to gain against them, but nobody ever told me anything about this 'Champ' Pawlowksi. Where did he come from, anyway? He hits harder than two zombies."

J. Q.: "The Champ just wears a small size uniform so the opposition won't know how big he really is. Mr. Petty. Fullbacks are his specialty. He eats 'em. Pardon me, Mr. Petty, but is that your boss behind the gray overcoat?"

MAL EDWARD: "Yes, it's me all right. I just dropped in to get Charley Bachman to help me look for some lunch down."

There's a rumor that there were some left over from the 45-31 Ohio State victory over Wisconsin and maybe Paul Brown or Harry Stuhldreher will let us borrow a couple. Also, maybe somebody can tell me how my Purdue boys would go about blocking a guy like Tony Arena."

J. Q.: "I hate to interrupt, Mr. Edward, but Al Kaval State's line coach, wants to say something."

KAWAL: "All I want to say is that last Saturday was supposed to be High School day, Dad's day, and National Defense day at Purdue and finally turned out to be Linemen's day. Our forward wall really played top-notch ball. No-

Mack Leads Field As State Annexes Michigan Title

There won't be any invaders from Venus at the Porpoise Aquacade November 28-29, but some spectators are liable to think so, because one of the features of the water carnival will be a demonstration of the famous fish fins.

Fish fins are fan-like rubber attachments which are fixed to swimmers' feet in order to give them additional speed in the water. Efficient as they are, they are not used by any number of time recorders when wearing them.

It is thought by many that the idea for the fish fins originated among the South Sea Islanders. The Islanders have used leavies attached to their feet to increase their speed in pearl diving for years.

The fish-fin demonstration will be just one of the many events to be presented at the Aquacade which will star a cast of 50 Michigan State swimmers.

Orson Wells Hasn't Anything On The Porpoise Aquacade

Undeclared Mason 8 may run into trouble with once-beaten Abbot 10, which is fighting to throw block three into a three-way tie with an upset over the Mason club. If 8 does win it will meet Wells C, who clinched the block 4 crown last night by beating Wells E, 12 to 0. This game will be the semi-final for the championship of the dorm.

Bernie Sliger paced Wells C's win as he scored both of the touchdowns. Sliger ran over from the two-yard line for the first score and then took a pass from Bill Fedor to put the game on ice with the final tally.

The other games ended in forfeits with Mason 6 taking Abbot 15; Abbot 11 winning over Mason 2; Mason 9 beating Abbot 13; and Wells-D defeating Wells F.

Mason 4 can take the block one title by dropping Abbot 18 in its game tonight. The Abbot seven has lost only one game while raking up three wins, and may cause the Mason boys a lot of trouble.

The semi-final games will be played Tuesday, November 18 with the championship III set for Monday, November 24.

Abbot 12 Is Favorite In Crucial Contest

Mason 5, heavy pre-season favorite in the dorm touch football league will be the underdog tonight when it meets undefeated Abbot 12 for the block two championship.

Although Mason 5 is also undefeated, it will be without the services of its captain and outstanding end, Chuck Kuhlman, which will give Abbot 12 a slight edge. Kuhlman was injured Sunday afternoon when his club tangled with the ATO, and spent that evening and all day Monday in the college hospital.

Matek, who helped him off with his jersey and shoulder pads, pulled so enthusiastically on an occasion that Pawlowksi's ears were bruised. Recently it was necessary to place them in plaster casts.

Meet Your Professor In Broad Daylight

These are the second in a series of personal interviews with various members of the Michigan State College faculty which will appear weekly in the State News.

By Nova Ackerman

They say he used to be an All-American football player. They also say he is quite a writer. Some of his students think he wakes up only long enough to come to his classes in Lansing.

These are just a few of the remarks made annually about

Prof. John Abbott Clark. One of the most popular Michigan State instructors, Clark delights most in reading aloud to his classes from such sources as The New Yorker, Fables of George Ade, or the poetry of Carl Sandburg.

A graduate of Missouri Wesleyan university, Clark took his master's degree in English at University of Kansas.

When asked about being an All-American fullback at Missouri Wesleyan, Clark modestly shrugged his shoulders, mumbled unintelligibly under his breath and said, "Oh, I didn't play much."

Records show that he was placed on one of Walter Camp's All-American teams.

Slouching, slow-moving on campus today, Clark also was a track star in college, breaking two state hurdle records.

Ping-Ponger, Too

After graduation he was principal of a small high school and continued his athletic career as football coach at Kidder junior college in Missouri.

Other athletic feats include capturing the ping pong championship of Lansing a few years ago.

Clark came here in 1928 to teach freshman English courses, supervisory writing, American literature and history of criticism.

In addition to compiling the literary anthology used in freshman English courses, he writes articles and book criticisms for several literary magazines including "Commonweal" and "Saturday Review of Literature." One of his latest criticisms appears in the Oct. 31 "Commonweal."

Likes 'Jellying'

In discussing his future plans Clark said that he hopes to write a book on the late Irving Babbitt, an American literary critic, when

Co-Chairmen List Eight Groups To Make Plans

The annual PanHellenic-I.F.C. formal will be held on Friday, Feb. 13, in the college auditorium, it was announced yesterday by Co-Chairmen Emily Rawdon of Alpha Xi Delta and Peter Van Valin, Hesperian.

The co-chairmen also announced the eight committees which will work on the party.

In charge of the band are Helen MacDonald, Chi Omega, and Harry Gardner, Delta Sigma Phi. They will be assisted by Kappa Sig Ted Hammelstein and Alpha Chi Georgia Eagle.

COMPILE PATRONS

The patron list will be compiled by Co-Chairmen Ed Karlson, Phi Delta Theta, and Rachel Mason, Kappa Delta, and their committee. Olin Kelly, of Beta Kappa and Margaret McDonel of Alpha Xi Delta.

Betty Carr, Zeta Tau Alpha, and Robert Hawkes, Delta Chi, will order the programs, aided by A.T.O. George Busch and A.O.Pi. Marvin Disque.

Publicity will be handled by Dack Wuerfel, Delta Zeta, and Al Gill, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, along with their committee, Doug Reeve, Delta Chi, and Jean Campbell, Alpha Chi Omega.

PARTY BUDGETEERS

Finance co-chairmen are Theta Chi Alton Ambrose and Betty Jo Achard of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Working with them will be Jack Weaver, Alpha Gamma Rho, and Althea Wilcox, Sigma Kappa.

Ticket sales are under the supervision of Bob Nielson, Phi Chi Alpha, and Alicia Lavers, Kappa Alpha Theta, with Robert Zielazny, Phi Kappa Tau, and Mary Jean Wood, Alpha Phi.

Decorations for the auditorium will be planned by Co-Chairmen Lloyd Osterman of Sigma Nu and Sally Flack of Alpha Phi, aided by Robert Gay, FarmHouse, and Pat Kulling, Alpha Gamma Delta.

Gene Kornfield, A.E.P.I., and Marian Adler, Epsilon Chi, will send out the invitations.

He has given a leave of absence by the college.

He says that his chief hobby is cats, but what he really likes best is "jellying" at Harborne's with members of the English faculty, except that the English teachers prefer coffee to cokes.

Clark would favor more friendly relationships between students and faculty and thinks that there could be some interesting "student-faculty ball sessions."

Sudent Favorite

Commenting on "browning," he said that it is easily recognized by instructors and that he disapproves of the antagonism of students toward "brownies."

His classes, which are highly rated by most students, have a number of unusual features that go toward making them interesting. As a midterm, he asked his class in the history of criticism to write an essay on why they shouldn't get a dean call in the course.

He once told a class not to buy the assigned textbook for the class unless they could get a used copy for a quarter.

Rumors have it also that Clark makes sail planes of his freshman theme papers and throws them from the roof of Morrill hall. The "A" papers are the ones which sail the farthest.

Short Courses Plan Tour of Six Farms

About 175 short course students with ten members of the college staff will participate in the annual short course farm tour Wednesday, R. W. Tenney announced yesterday.

The tour which will take five special buses into Kent county is under the direction of H. A. Berg of the college farm management department. Six farms will be visited by the members and staff study good adaptable farming practices on the selected farms.

Green Splash Plans Mixed Water Party Friday

Women's organizations on campus woke up with a bang this week, with Green Splash announcing its first mixed splash party this term, and Women's Athletic association holding an opening meeting.

Lieutenant W. F. Swartz of the military department will feature a title exhibition at the W. A. A. open meeting to be held tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in Lecture Room B of the women's gymnasium.

Joyce Mallman, heading the Scherma Scotia group also is planning a demonstration on fencing at the W. A. A. meeting. The meeting is open for all members and students interested in learning about the various sports W. A. A. sponsors, Thelma Elworthy, president, announced yesterday.

Purpose, newly organized men's swimming society, will be the guest of Green Splash Friday evening at the first mixed splash party to be held this term.

The party will start at 7 p. m. and should be over by 9 p. m. Jean Bovill, president, announced. Highlight of the party will be a swimming exhibition by Porpoise and a possible preview of the men's aquatic.

Besides its concert in the auditorium, the quartet will fill two informal engagements Wednesday. The first will be presented at 12:35 p. m. in the Union hall-room, enabling students to attend the half-hour program during noon hour, Underwood pointed out.

PIANIST TO JOIN

Frank Mannheim, head of the piano department, will join the quartet in a program to be given in the Music auditorium at 4 p. m. Wednesday. This concert will include a Brahms quintet for piano and strings.

IS WORLD KNOWN

Most famous of the instruments used by the group is the celebrated "Titan" Stradivarius which Wolfsohn will use. D'Arcaimbeau will play the "Servant" Guarnerius, one of the world's best known violoncellos.

Other instruments of the group, famous in their own right, include the "Spanish" violin played by Robbins, and Dick's viola, known as the "Lord MacDonald."

Frosh to See Principals Saturday

High School Men To Hear Problems Of New Students

High school principals and counselors from throughout Michigan and from several schools in New York, Ohio and Indiana, will attend the seventh annual principal-student conference on the Michigan State college campus this Saturday.

Arranged by the college registrar's office to give high school principals and student counselors opportunity to talk to their graduates who this fall are new students, either freshmen or transfers at Michigan State college, the conference will open at 9:30 a. m. in the college auditorium.

ATTEND LUNCHEON

After meetings with their former students, with whom they will have opportunity to talk over problems confronting new students in successfully carrying on their college program, the principals will be guests of the college at a luncheon in the Union hall-room at noon, and will attend the Spartan-Temple football game at Macklin field in the afternoon.

President John A. Hannah will speak briefly at the noon luncheon, welcoming the principals and other guests to the college, and the men's glee club will present a music program.

MEET FACULTY

R. S. Linton, registrar, who is in charge of the all-day program, has invited divisional deans and divisional advisers and other staff members who have direct contact with new students, to meet with the principals in the auditorium Saturday morning. The entire college staff, Linton said, will be asked to attend as much of the program as class schedules and other activities will permit.

More than 500 high school principals and other public school officials have been invited to participate in the conference, Linton said, and early this week more than 160 acceptances have been received.

constitution acted upon last spring.

Liberal Arts students nominated four men and four women for the two positions open. Ruthmary Mangold, LeGrange, III, senior, Shirley Freeman, junior, both Jackie Sharkoff, sophomore, and Edward East Lansing, and Averill McLean, sophomore from Detroit, will run for the women's position. John Peterson, Grayling senior, Don McKenzie, junior from Lansing, Harry Gardner, junior from Dearborn, and Gerald Ralsy, Lansing sophomore, will compete for the men's post.

The four candidates for the Home Economics post are Helen Hebblewhite, Lansing senior; Bonnie Lesselyong, Ironwood sophomore; Beth Taylor, senior from Highland Park, and Doris Jean Holser, junior from Midland.

Applied Science's Student council representative will be either Phil Althen, Lowell junior; Norma Hastings, senior from Detroit; Edward Crippen, Lansing junior; or Mary Vial, Downer's Grove III, junior.

Engineers will choose from Stan Arthurs, Niagara Falls, N. Y., junior; Milton Kirkpatrick, New York City junior; Harry Jackson, senior from Detroit; and Fred T. Mitchell, Jr., East Lansing junior.

Bob Thompson, Wakeland junior; Dorn Diehl, junior from Dansville; Nancy Mundy, junior from Toledo, O.; and Stan Anderson, Rudyard sophomore, will vie for the Ag position on the board.

Electioneering will be discouraged in the voting areas at all times, Quigley warned. Each divisional council will handle the voting machines and list of eligible voters for its respective divisional election, he said.

Attend Conference

Sixty representatives from thirteen schools attended the second regional high school publications conference sponsored by Matrix, women's journalism honorary, Saturday in the Union. Speaker for the luncheon was Larry Hardy, Wolverine editor, who spoke on "Publications At M. S. C."

Two to Five Year Olds Do Well In Pre-Schooling at College

The new fence around the nursery school is not meant to keep "college students" out, but merely to prevent "the children" from being run down or lost in the eight o'clock traffic jam, according to Prof. Catherine G. Miller, supervisor.

The nursery school is the brown house east of the Union, where Lansing and East Lansing parents send two-to-five-year old offspring to pre-school training.

The children are observed from behind darkened screens where home economic students in child care and development may make first hand discoveries of uninhibited work and play.

The babies go to sleep with strains of Debussy's "Clair de Lune" and classical lullabies playing softly. In beds not more than a foot high they can drift into dreamland with a startle ceiling above them.

During play time they fit wooden blocks into appropriate holes, practice tying the shoe laces of a large wooden shoe, and express their artistic sentiments in crayon and paint.

NEW ASSISTANTS

Occasionally the older children are taken to see the ducks down along the Winding Cedar. Rhythm is developed through playing of cymbals and triangles accompanying the piano and phonograph records.

Free expression is encouraged. Books, toys and goldfish add interest to their playrooms.

New this year at the nursery school are graduate assistants Virginia Ward and Carrie McLain from Cornell and Kansas State college, respectively, and instructor Elsie Gable who comes from Drexell Institute, Philadelphia.

A Herbarium that eventually will contain every available species of plant native to Georgia is being developed in the biology department of Emory University.

Beagle Captures Best Dog Honors

"Craftsman" of Walter H. Harkness beagle hound owned by Mrs. Harkness of Deerpark, Ky., was named best dog of the annual Ingham county dog club show which closed Saturday.

The winner competed with 400 dogs in a show which set a year record for entries and attendance. More than 2,000 spectators paid admission to the exhibition.

C. J. Caselman, of Deerpark, judged the final contest, awarding the Oldsmobile trophy to R. L. Davis, Ft. Thomas, Ky., professional handler of Walter Harkness' stock farm's winning dog.
