... Knew her Oats

The hitchhiking business being in the state it is, two coeds accepted a ride downtown yesterday with a man who leaned very strongly toward one political cam. Summoning all their patience, they let him talk until he reached his climax. "Never change horses in the middle of the stream," he said. "Yes," interjected one of his hearers sweetly. "But I'm not so sure I want a horse for president."

... Nature Lover

There's nothing like a college education, especially a speedy one. An unidentified freshman woman has made a good start in summer school, for she is fast learning what goes on here, even though she may tell about it quaintly. She amused her dormitory mates by signing out last night for "the sunken gardens."

Military Review Honors Cadets

At a military review of the 3655th Service Unit of MSC held June 10, the Chicago Tribune ninth annual ROTC awards were presented to Bob Krestel, Swissville, Pa., sophomore, and Arnold Sergeant, Jr., Lansing freshman. The presentations, made by Col. G. B. Egger, commandant of the college AST detachment, were presented to the two students as the outstanding sophomore and freshman cadets.

Krestel, one of the leading pitchers on the Spartan baseball team spring term, won the Tribune gold medal. The silver award went to Sergeant. The awards were based on military merit and scholastic achievement.

Later during the review 80 enlisted men of the Army Specialized Training unit were awarded good conduct medals.

Summer Directory

Beginning in the near future the State News will print a directory of the names of all students in attendance in summer school living in residences of five or more persons. Houses or dormitories which are open are asked to cooperate in the effort of establishing such a directory.

Each dorm or house should send its name, address and telephone number to the State News with a complete alphabetized list of the occupants of the houses.

The lists will start as soon as enough are received. Those residences interested in having their names published should have them in the mail by Saturday of this week.

Guidance Head Accepts Basic College Post

C. E. Erickson to Direct Counselling Duties of New Curriculum

As part of the new basic college guidance and counselling service, Dr. Clifford E. Erickson, formerly of Northwestern university, has been appointed professor of education at State and will begin his new duties with the summer quarter, it was announced recently by Dr. C. V. Millard, acting head of the department of education.

Erickson has been with Northwestern university since 1934 and at the time of his resignation was assistant dean of the university college and director of the guidance laboratory. At MSC he will direct all guidance and counsellor training courses, Millard said.

The new professor is regarded as a foremost authority on guidance training and is widely known for his book, "Guidance in the Secondary School," which is used extensively as a text in colleges and universities.

Erickson received his bachelor of education degree at the State Teachers college, DeKalb, Ill., in 1930 with majors in administration, psychology, supervision and social studies. He spent several years in teaching and guidance work in secondary schools.

Buell Requests Talent for Summer Service Shows at Custer

Persons with ability as either musicians or dancers are wanted by Don Buell to try out for performances for the first summer show at Fort Custer to be held Wednesday, July 12 at the service club number one and the Red Cross center.

Buell stressed a special desire for accordionists, singers, dancers, and readers. Persons interested should contact him at Ext. 392 as soon as possible.

Several shows from State have gone to Custer in the past and will again this summer. No previous experience with the show is necessary.

Pianist, Dancing Sister Will Open Summer Entertainment Series

Emilio Osta, internationally known American pianist and his dancing sister Teresita, will present a program of South American dances and music Saturday at 8:15 in Fairchild theater. The program is the first of the summer concert entertainments.

The Ostas, born in California, have gained recognition as talented interpreters of traditional folk music and dances of Spanish, Latin-American and Indian peoples. Their repertoire was gained through years of study and travel in Mexico, Cuba, Brazil, Argentina, Uruguay, Peru, Venezuela, Ecuador and other Latin nations.

Teresita Osta is known to movie fans for her appearances in "Girl of the Golden West," and "Tropical Holiday." She studied with the celebrated Cansinos and other Spanish classical dancing teachers in Mexico City.

The summer entertainment series opened last night with the showing of "Holiday Inn." One of the highlights of the series will be the appearance of Alec Templeton, famed blind pianist, on Saturday, July 15.

State News Deliveries to Start Next Week

All persons interested in working on either the editorial or advertising staffs of the State News should report to the State News office, 8 Union annex, this week.

The paper will be published once weekly during the summer quarter, on Thursday mornings. Deliveries will be made as soon as routes and carriers are organized. Until then students are asked to pick up their papers at the Union desk.

C. C. DeWitt Named Coordinator of Fuel for Lansing Area

Dr. C. C. DeWitt, head of the department of chemical engineering at State, has been appointed coordinator of the national fuel efficiency program in Ingham, Eaton and Clinton counties. Thomas E. Chesley, supervising engineer of the national efficiency section of the interior department, announced the appointment in Washington, D. C., recently.

The program in the Lansing area will be simulated with the nationwide effort to save 30 million tons of coal during the coming year in order to relieve railroads and other carriers of a transportation problem.

DeWitt plans a weekly series of broadcasts over the college station, WKAR, to explain the plan and conservation methods. His talks began last Tuesday.

Aircrewmembers Scheduled to Leave June 30

All aircrew training at Michigan State college is scheduled to end June 30 but it is not yet known when the men will leave, Col. Paul Johnson, commanding officer of the 2500th base unit, announced today.

A prediction made by Pres. John A. Hannah Tuesday, although neither confirmed nor denied, said that the training program is expected to close within the next 10 days.

Definite information will be released as soon as it is received from the war department, Colonel Johnson added.

Announcement was made by the war department over two months ago that the program would be closed by June 30. However, since that time new arrivals of troops have led to speculation that it might be continued.

The aircrew training program was activated at State March 1, 1943 by the war department and has turned out approximately 5,000 future navigators, bombardiers and pilots.

An indefinite number of the approximate 80 AST advanced engineers who are on campus, may be transferred at the end of their present term to other schools for training in special courses under army assignments not yet received by Col. G. B. Egger, commandant of the AST units on campus.

An estimated 80 per cent of the underclass Vets who were recently given their choice of returning to the regular ground troops or going back to their civilian status chose the latter alternate. The remaining 20 per cent went back into the troops, Colonel Egger revealed.

Almost 80 senior Vets who will complete degree requirements either at the close of the summer or fall quarters are the only remaining Veterinary students under the army program.

Late Registrants May Swell Total to 1943 Mark

Civilian and military enrollment of students for 1944 summer sessions at Michigan State at the close of registration Tuesday totaled 1,201 men and women attending the summer quarter from June 20 to Sept. 1 and the six week session from June 20 to July 28, according to figures released by Registrar R. S. Linton yesterday.

Registration will continue through Monday and it is expected that several more students will enter by that time. Late registrants were enrolling yesterday and will increase the total number considerably, Kermit Smith, assistant registrar, predicted.

The total enrollment for the 1943 summer school was 1,699 and Linton anticipates a figure almost equal to that this year. Included in the 1,201 students already registered for the current summer school, 515 are men and 686 are women.

These figures are only slightly lower than the first figures last year which showed 763 men and 788 women. Included in this year's total are approximately 50 senior Veterinary students who are in the AST Vet program at State. They are the only army students registered in the regular summer program.

The all time high for summer enrollment was reached two years ago, in 1942, when a total of 2,000 students attended both sessions.

MSC Gives First Honors Degree

Bill Buchanan, East Lansing high honor graduate of 1944, was the first student to receive a degree from Michigan State college under the honors plan established two years ago, it was revealed recently by L. C. Emmons, dean of Liberal Arts.

By following the plan, Buchanan was given considerable latitude in the selection of courses in his specialized field. He visited courses in Liberal Arts without special permission, browsed in the library at will and was not under compulsion to attend classes, Emmons explained.

Study was carried on by seminars, private conferences and discussion groups under the direction of the music department. A special committee appointed by Emmons administered comprehensive examinations and determined the number of hours and honor points to be awarded.

Next fall Buchanan plans to enter Columbia university for graduate study in musicology.

LETTERS To The Editor

Editor's note: The following letter came to the State News office late spring term and lack of space would not allow printing it; then, since the subject seems to be timely the year around, we are printing it now.

TO THE Editor:
 An interesting and spontaneous discussion on cheating in examinations arose in one of the classrooms recently—a discussion in which all students present participated and showed a keen interest. Following are some of the observations that were made by the students during the hour.

As presented here they may appear a hodge-podge of ideas, but they are interesting and may serve to initiate further thought on the problem.

It was generally agreed that cheating in the classroom is prevalent and that such a state of affairs is deplorable. The question was raised as to why when a no-smoking on campus restriction is for the most part observed, a more serious and fundamental issue such as cheating on examinations is not the subject of more concern and study?

Are the instructors to blame? A few students thought so. Some felt that instructors were too lax in their supervision. On the other hand, others thought that a suspicious instructor who patrolled the classroom was the equal of daring the student to cheat.

As to why students cheat, the following observations were made. "Generally it is the poor student who cheats. The good student does not feel the same necessity to cheat." Another remarked in somewhat the following way, "The need for social approval is strong. At present, to gain social approval on the campus a student is motivated to obtain high grades, and maintain a good scholastic record."

In some students the motivation for high grades gained by any method is stronger than the motivation to be honest. To combat the problem of cheating it might be well to make the individual "want to be honest more than he wants to get high grades. If the student body as a whole felt that cheating is despicable, cheating would seldom occur. The pressure, however, must come from within the group.

It is not enough for the instructor to inflict heavy penalties and police the classroom. The students themselves should decide on the penalties or discipline the offender.

In situations where the students individually feel a sense of responsibility, the honor system can be used successfully. In one school where the honor system is used the following method of student action is employed.

If a student observes a classmate cheating, he begins to tap his pencil. Soon everyone is tapping and the offender is made to feel ashamed. Such a method is effective because it is carried out by the students themselves.

Another comment on the honor system was that if it were to be effective, it should be used in all classes. Moreover it might be well to extend it to the dormitories for much of the value of the honor system in the classroom would be lost if in the dormitory the students were treated as though they could not be trusted.

Well, these are some comments on the problem of cheating at MSC. What are other ideas on this problem?

A SINCERE STUDENT.

Spartans At War

FROM New Haven, Conn., comes the news that Joseph Wood, '43, has entered the army air forces training command school at Yale university for aviation cadet training in engineering. At MSC he studied mechanical engineering and was a member of the Varsity club. He participated in varsity boxing and freshman basketball.

Lt. Theodore Thompson, Phi Tau, is now attending officers' sound and flash ranging course of the field artillery school at Fort Sill, Okla.

The coveted "wings of gold" were awarded Joseph Lancaster this week at Pensacola, Fla. Ensign Lancaster, who was active in intra-mural football and basketball, will go on active duty at a naval operational center.

Lt. S. T. Pryer, '44, received his commission April 26 at Fort Benning, Ga., and is now stationed at Fort Riley, Kan. His mother, Mrs. Lucile S. Pryer, housemother at the Kappa Sig annex, received her master's degree at the commencement exercises June 10—the same day that Lieutenant Pryer would have been graduated.

Cpl. Robert Latter, a '43 graduate, has entered the signal corps officers candidate school at Fort Monmouth, N. J., where he was transferred from Fort Sill, Okla. Corporal Latter was graduated in electrical engineering and was a member of Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic honorary. He was also associated with the college radio station, WKAR, and was later a junior engineer with RCA.

Among the "hell from heaven" men who won their silver wings at the Big Spring bombardier school in Texas was Flight Officer Dean Cornwell, former commercial art major. Cornwell belonged to the Hesperian fraternity.

700 High School Students Acquire Practical Governmental Experience at Seventh American Legion Civic Project

By JERRY KENNEY

Seven hundred Wolverine Boys' State citizens will climax a nine day stay on the campus this afternoon by taking a trip to the state capitol where they will take over the government of Michigan for the afternoon.

Chief executive of Boys' State is Charles Mead, of Milan, who was elected governor last Saturday, defeating Keith Crocker, of Saginaw. Mead will take over Gov. Harry F. Kelly's post for the day.

Boys' State, a civic project sponsored by the American Legion, has been held on campus for the last seven years. The 700 citizens of the state are 16 and 17 year-old Michigan high school students. They are organized into cities and counties within the state. They govern themselves completely, having their own police officers, courts and attorneys. All Get Posts

Every boy is given at least one governmental post while at the "49th state." Purpose of the state is to give practical and lasting experience in government to future citizens of Michigan and the United States.

Besides taking part in civic affairs the boys participate in other activities. A softball tournament is being held; a daily paper is being published by the citizens and there is a band and glee club.

Arriving last Thursday as

Spartans were leaving for summer vacation, the first concern of the boys' staters was to campaign for their favorite political figure. The boys are divided into two parties by the Legion, the Athenians and the Trojans. Party conventions similar to those of the state and national parties were held to nominate gubernatorial candidates.

Kelly Speaks

The governor was inaugurated Saturday evening at ceremonies at which Governor Kelly spoke and Supreme Court Justice Walter North administered the oath of office to the boy governor.

Athletic demonstrations have been given by Spartan varsity coaches to the Boys' State citizens. John Kobs talked on baseball while Head Coach Charlie Bachman demonstrated football highlights and Charles MacCaffree showed the hows of swimming. Track Coach Karl Schlademan gave a demonstration also.

Boys' State is under the direction of officials of the American Legion, headed by Carl C. Matheny, of Dearborn.

Journalism Head Named Chairman of Study Group

BOARD

Prof. A. A. Applegate, head of the journalism department at MSC, has been appointed general chairman of a group of nine committees of the American association of teachers of journalism now studying the subject of journalism teaching in the post war world.

Gifts Accepted

C. W. Carlson, also with the chemistry faculty, will become assistant professor of chemistry at Rutgers university at New Brunswick, N. J.

Leaves of absence were granted to George Radimersky, instructor in foreign languages, who will study for his doctor's degree at the University of North Carolina. Albert Gower, assistant professor of chemical engineering, has been granted a year's absence to accept a position with the Connecticut hard rubber company in New Haven.

Wilber Mitchell, assistant professor of mathematics, has been granted a leave to accept a position with Bell Aircraft company at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Gifts amounting to $650 were accepted by the board.

Dr. Frederic E. Merwin, president of the association and director of the Rutgers journalism curriculum, said that the primary task of the general chairman would be one of coordination once the individual chairmen have completed their tasks.

The nine committees, appointed during the spring months by Merwin, are collecting data dealing either directly or indirectly with the future of college level instruction in the field of journalism in the light of changes which are likely to be of decisive importance once peace returns.

Fields under study by the committees are business courses, news editing, interpretation of news, law news reporting and writing and pictorial journalism.

OFFICERS—

All nominations for summer officers of East and West Mayo, Sanford house and the Alpha Phi, Sigma Kappa, Kappa Kappa Gamma and Alpha Xi Delta houses must be turned in to the dean of women's office by noon today.

Final elections will be held Sunday evening. One representative of the off-campus houses will be chose as a member of judiciary board for the summer quarter.
