Today's Campus

... True Blue

Never a day goes by that something bright by someone is offered in Prof. J. M. DeHaan's beginning philosophy class. The topic this day was the power of suggestion. It was snowy out and half of the class was shivering from the coldness of the room. Finally DeHaan noticed the blue faces scattered throughout the room and asked if anyone were cold. Affirmative answers coaxed him to the window which he lowered not more than one quarter of an inch. The power of suggestion, De Haan's super psychology and a band of believing disciples made the room much warmer.

... Get The Point?

For Monday morning Prof. Regull's second term social science class was quite wide awake. After trying to present his lecture he began to ask questions to see how many were following each him. He inquired of Rosemary Powers, Detroit freshman, "Were you vaccinated with a phonograph needle?" She took her head, tried looking right, and said, "No, I didn't read that far."

... That Is, Maybe

Since we are devoting this column to unforgettable statements of Michigan State college professors, might there be a reason named on the instructor who told a class that according to the law of probability, there's a slight chance that he will fall sick early Friday morning, and will unfortunately be unable to make his classes throughout the day.

Publications Row Open House Set For Tonight

State's annual publications open house will take place this evening along publications row in the Union annex from 7 till 9. The open house was instituted four years ago and has since then become an annual tradition.

Visiting students and faculty members will be able to inspect and ask questions about the Wolverine yearbook, the State News, and the MSC Veterinarian. Staff members of all publications will be present to explain the work they are doing.

Displays of work already done for the 1946 yearbook will be displayed in the Wolverine office. The State News staff will be engaged in the nightly operation of putting out the paper. Guests will have the opportunity of reading Associated Press news as it comes over the wire.

The veterinarians' quarterly magazine, the office of which is in the Vet clinic, will show its work in a series of displays exhibited in the State News business office.

Turkey Talk

Turkey with all the trimmings will be served Thanksgiving day from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. in the Union cafeteria. Manager Emory Foster said yesterday.

He added, however, that although students, faculty, and guests will be served as usual, the cafeteria will be closed to persons not connected with the college.

The cafeteria will be open as usual all weekend, Foster said, and except for Thursday and Sunday, is available to townspeople as well as students.

Poetry Group Selects MSC Student's Work

The Annual Anthology of College Poetry has announced the publication of the poem "Eternity" by a Michigan State student, Larry Ganger, Royal Oak freshman. The poem was among selections chosen from the works of college men and women throughout the country.

The Anthology is a compilation of poetry from thousands of pieces submitted by college students in every state in the country and is published by the National Poetry association of Los Angeles.

Stolid Spartan Stirs As Michigan State Whips Penn State Gridders

At last the stolid eleven-and-a-half-foot giant, the Spartan, has shown some signs of emotion. Up until the Penn State game he had been extraordinarily passive, even for a man of his innate reservations. He just stood out there at his post between the roads to Macklin field and Jenison field-house and looked as cold and indifferent as a statue.

MSC's loss to Michigan at the beginning of the current season didn't seem to affect him in the least. Nor did the next week's win over Kentucky affect his composure. Consecutive Spartan victories over Pittsburgh, Missouri, and Wayne certainly must have elated him; but did he twitch a muscle? For all the enthusiasm he displayed, his clay might never have been fired with Spartan spirit.

The time State held Marquette to a thrilling 13-13 tie, he didn't even wince. And the Saturday

Drive Opened By Red Cedar Post For Gift Boxes

"Gifts for Yanks Who Gave" is the theme of the Christmas gift campaign for hospitalized service men to be sponsored by the American Legion. Red Cedar Post 402, campus veteran organization, will begin this nationwide drive today, extending to Dec. 10, Bob Blett, Grand Rapids junior, has announced.

Gift boxes for men might include such items as pen and pencil sets, cigarette lighters, bill-folds, toilet kits, pipes, and books, while items for women might be stationery, combs, and brushes, make-up kits, manicure sets, sewing equipment, handkerchiefs, and the like. Gift givers are cautioned NOT to give: candy, food, liquor, civilian apparel, magazines, scrap-books, or used items.

Money to buy gifts, as well as gift boxes, will be accepted at the Union desk, which has been designated as the collection point, starting today, Blett declared. Assisting him on the drive committee are Jack Morris, Elkhart, Ind., freshman and Jack Deetz, Saginaw freshman.

Eddie Cantor, radio comedian, is spearheading the "Gifts for Yanks Who Gave" campaign on his program each Wednesday night at 9. He will report the progress being made from week to week.

It is emphasized that the gifts are designated, not only for men and women in Army and Navy hospitals, but in veteran hospitals as well, Blett stated.

Bali Life Topic of Dickason Film

Deane Dickason's film, "Lovely Bali", which will be shown in the College auditorium tomorrow at 8:15 p.m., as photographed in technicolor just before Pearl Harbor portrays Dickason's belief that little change has taken place in the Balinese since that time, despite the Japanese invasion.

The Balinese are a contented, prosperous people with a way of resisting what does not suit them and of absorbing only what they want from alien civilizations.

Their religion was borrowed from the Hindus, their currency from the Chinese, and their dances and music from the Polynesians.

Dickason an authority on far eastern affairs, has traveled widely as an author, editor, photographer, and foreign correspondent.

Famed Cellist to Appear At College This Evening

Joseph Schuster To Play Music By Chopin, Debussy, Correlli, Webster in Cello Concert

Joseph Schuster, Russian musician who will be presented in the Music auditorium tonight at 8, received his first cello, a pint-sized edition, almost before he could walk. Since that time he has become one of the country's greatest cellists.

Family Trio

When asked how he came to choose the cello as a career, Schuster replied, in an engagingly frank manner, "I had no choice in the matter." His father wanted a family trio, so Joseph's two sisters were chosen to play the piano and violin. When Joseph came along the remaining niche, that of cellist, was awaiting him.

The Schuster trio however, did not remain a hobby entertainment for the family, for an enterprising manager recognized the exceptional talents of the three youngsters, and arranged a summer tour for them when Joseph was only twelve. A short time later, Schuster presented his first solo recital, astonishing the Russian world of music.

Hard Work Pays

Today Joseph Schuster is one of the few fine cellists in the world because, in his own words, "Time, patience, and hard work are required." Many musically ambitious young people tackle the instrument, but they become quickly discouraged.

Among the numbers that Schuster will play tonight are Chopin's "Introduction and Polonaise," Debussy's "Sonata," Correlli's "Prelude and Cigue," and Weber's "Rondo."

The famous musician is a cousin of Alexander Schuster, professor of music and director of the college orchestra at MSC.

Java Nationalists May Declare War Against British

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 19 (AP)

— British military officials today expressed fears that a new wave of fighting might break out in central Java, where thousands of armed Indonesian nationalists were massing as Indonesian radio stations called for "war on the British."

An official British statement said the situation in central Java "gives cause for anxiety in view of the extremely aggressive attitude of local extremists both in Semarang and Jogjakarta."

A short time earlier an Indonesian broadcast, declaring "war" on the British, asked Indonesian youths to reinforce the ranks of the nationalists at Semarang, where a British brigade was clamping on a tight control after the slaying of three British officers.

Another Indonesian broadcast Saturday night declared: "This is the last night of peace Tomorrow we shall start and either kill the British or drive them from Java."

This broadcast came from the headquarters for the nationalist movement at Jogjakarta, now swarming with armed youths. The Indonesian "army" is drilling openly in a number of nearby camps.

The Dutch news agency Aneta said that there were completely unconfirmed reports that "an army of Indonesian extremists, at any moment now, will open a large scale offensive on Batavia."

Aneta said that fighting broke out in the capitol city again this morning in the Kamat and Parapatan areas, and that trolley service was disrupted for the first time since the allied landings Sept. 15, when Indonesians tipped over a car and used it for a barricade.

Semarang was reported seething with unrest as a result of British measures taken after Saturday night's attack which resulted in the death of three British officers and the wounding of a Dutch woman.

British troops seized the telephone exchange and placed the local native governor in custody.

'Gifts for the Yanks Who Gave'

The second world war ended on August 14th of this year but with it the pain and suffering that our fighting men knew so well did not end.

You have been asked to give all through the war and you are being asked to give again. In many army, navy, and veteran's hospitals throughout the country there are thousands of wounded, crippled, and blind veterans who are not as fortunate as we are, and they won't be home to celebrate the yuletide season.

The Red Cross and similar organizations are doing their best to supply the wounded with Christmas gifts but their combined efforts are not enough; they have asked us to help.

Our job is to contribute gift boxes with such articles included in them as cigarette lighters, billfolds, box cameras, watch straps, books, and key cases for men. Gifts for women may include combs, nail polish, handkerchiefs, slippers, notions, and many others. Gifts may not include candy, food liquor, civilian apparel, magazines, scrap-books, or used items. All these for the men still in veteran or army hospitals.

The work of collecting and distributing the gift boxes to service people has been undertaken by the American Legion.

The gifts contributed in the East Lansing vicinity should be left at the Union desk. The deadline for all gifts is Dec. 10.

Affairs of State

By TONI EBNER and SALLY CLARK

SAY, what gives? Must be the cold weather. We'd like to know, 'cause something has really put the pin and ring business in the frozen category. We had to dig down pretty deep into the drifts for today's column. Only hope the weather warms up soon and brings a little more romantic interest along with it.

There seems to be one place that isn't allergic to the cold weather, though. Big things have been taking place out at the Chi Omega house recently. First of all Helen Muncie, graduate of '45, was married to Russ Faraday in Hartford, Conn., on Nov. 11.

A sorority sister of Helen's Lois Heidstab, is all aglow over that wonderful ring that Ens. Ted Elferdink presented her with not so long ago. Ted is an Alpha Chi Sigma at Michigan.

Pat Pomeroy, Middleton sophomore, is still in a daze after gazing at the beautiful sparkler that was given to her by Cadet Bob Dodge. Bob is stationed at Georgia Tech.

Sunday was a big day in the life of Lynn Page, Grosse Ile sophomore. That was the day that Bill Kirkland, Psi U, chose to pass his pin to her. Bill was a graduate of the class of '44.

It was beginning to look as if the weather was over-shadowing all the romantic interests around campus when Vivian Jones, Muskegon sophomore, came forth with a Delta Sig pin from Don Arnsen.

From down Ann Arbor way it seems that Phi Delt Dave Phillips, formerly from State, has passed his pin to one in our midst, Marion Munn, Jackson freshman.

Putting aside—the romantic angle for a while, we see another form of pinning has begun to take place. Two new Psi U pledges are Russ Reader, Dearborn sophomore, and Ronald Kasprzak, Grand Rapids freshman. Along the same subject the Alpha Xi Deltas pledged Lois Jean Soderjuist, Dearborn sophomore, and Doris Marie Baird, Ionia junior.

Along with the excitement of a great football game this weekend Pi Phis had an initiation for nine coeds. Wearing the arrow for the first time are Helen Hoxie, Dearborn senior; Margaret Gravis, Royal Oak senior; Caylyn Powell, Port Huron, senior, and Betty Shannon, Dowagiac sophomore.

Hockey Title Won By Sophomores

Today's title of victory in hockey belongs to the sophomore class. Last week Lou Coolman captained the sophomores to the final win in the annual inter-class hockey tournament. With the score of four wins against no losses and two ties, the sophomores came out on top against the other three classes.

They had clinched the title previous to the last game which they tied with the second place freshmen. With Barbara Wiedemann of East Lansing, as captain, the freshmen suffered two losses.

Next in line were the seniors with two wins, three losses, and a tie with the sophomores, which nearly proved to be the sole sophomore defeat. The sophomores had been trailing by 2 to 1, when in the last few minutes of play Margaret Wells of Wauwatosa, Wis., came through with the point that tied the score.

MSC Runs Over Penn State In Final Home Tilt

Breslin Stars in 33-0 Upset Game; Spartans to Face Miami Friday

Playing their finest game so far this season, the Spartans literally tore the skin from the Penn State Lions, to the tune of 33-0, and wound up their five game home series with a blaze of triumph. Lion tamers for the afternoon, the Spartan attack functioned perfectly in every phase, to put the bowl minded Penn State eleven right behind the eight ball.

Completing only half of their attempted forward passes, the Spartans rolled up 270 yards to keep the Lions busy with just holding down the roof on the game. Capitalizing on Penn State errors in the first half accounted for two of the first three State scores.

Penn State Rated

Highly rated in the nation's football circles, the Lions were hampered with the loss of their ace back Joe Tepsic, who was out with a "charlie horse," however, they showed little life against the Spartans who had possession of the ball 80 per cent of the afternoon.

With Steve Contos as acting captain for the afternoon, State kicked off to Penn State's right halfback Larry Cooney, on the 17 and was spilled by Breslin on the 15. On the third down Ralph Ventresco, fullback, punted to the State 16.

Punt Exchange

After three plays that gained only one yard, Breslin punted to the Penn State 45. Again Penn State's attack failed and on the third they again punted into the State end zone. State also was helpless for the moment, and punted back to Ventresco on the Penn State 47.

Finally after the ball had changed hands seven times, State found its first opening when Floyd Lang fumbled a fourth down punt, and State took over on the Penn State 29, first down, and 10 to go.

First Score

Reader's first pass was incomplete, but interference was called on the 13, and the pass ruled complete. Two more passes by Reader to Barbas and Contos put the ball on the one, from where Breslin drove over for the first of six touchdowns.

Shortly after the opening of the second quarter, the Spartans had their second break of the game, following the furthest penetration of the State defense of the game, to the 22. Al Bellas, Penn State fullback, fumbled and Warren Huey recovered for State. On the second play, Reader passed to Huey on the one for the second score. The Spartans led the game 13-0.

State Leads at Half

The final score of the first half by State climaxed another precision passing attack, that started on their own 49 and in four plays went over the goal on a pass from Reader to Barbas. State led at the half 20-0.

After ten minutes of the second half had elapsed, still making their ground by the aerial attack, the Spartans scored again on a perfect pass by Quarterback Conti to Russ Reader, who scampered the final twenty yards for the tally.

During these three quarters of ball, Penn State was completely tied down with just merely stopping the hard charging Spartans to say nothing of trying to score for themselves. From the fourth quarter on, Coach Bachman literally used his entire bench of reserves, as several of the prom-

Spartans Drilled On Spinner Plays For Miami Game

State's football squad, victors last Saturday in one of the nation's biggest and most decisive upsets, resumed practice last night for their final game with Miami. Signal drill was the order of the day as Coach Bachman handed out several new spinner plays for use in Friday's game.

In this type of play the ball is centered directly to the fullback, who spins completely around, either faking or giving the ball to the left halfback, and then crashing into the line. It promises to add a great deal more deception to State's running attack.

The Spartans came out of last Saturday's fray relatively well. Back Dominic Conti has some painful rib bruises which will need heavy padding if he is to play in the final game. Ends Zeigler and Massuch also were injured, but they will be ready for action against Miami.

One thing other than the final score which brought smiles to Coach Charlie Bachman's face was the fact that his starting backfield emerged from the game Saturday without aggravating their previous injuries.

Bachman is taking 33 members of the squad to Florida. They leave this noon on the bus for Detroit. From there they will take a crack streamliner, the Southern Belle, for the rest of the trip.

On the way down plans call for a one day stay in Atlanta, Georgia, where the team will probably work out to stay in good shape for the game. They will leave Miami this Sunday and return to the campus Tuesday.

ATOs Take IFC Title; Sigma Nus Defeated With 20-7 Victory

In one of the bitterest of all the IFC football games of the year, the ATOs trounced the Sigma Nus last night by a score of 20 to 7, to win an undefeated IFC football championship.

Before a shivering crowd of three hundred fans, Keith Steffee passed the ATOs to a victory by chucking touchdown passes to Piccitto in both the first and fourth quarters, and to MacFarland in the second.

The sole Sigma Nu tally of the evening came on a scoring pass by Don Joyce to Parish in the second quarter. A fourth quarter rally of the Sigma Nus was cut short by a passing interception of Piccitto's.

Spartan Workers To Meet

Every student wanting to work on a re-activated Spartan magazine if and when it returns is asked to attend a meeting of the Spartan magazine committee today at 5 p.m. in organization room 2 of the Union.

He: "Doesn't she use a lot of perfume?"
She: "I should say so. She's a regular one hundred per cent American."

inent figures in the final fifteen minutes of play were total strangers, but they displayed power and skill, and gave light to some of next year's gridiron power.

Veteran Cagers To Begin Season With Spartans

With the unexpected return of some of the cagers who played for him in previous seasons, basketball mentor Ben Van Alstyne is looking forward to a promising season this winter.

As the result of military discharges, this year's squad will be well stocked with veteran material. The most recent arrivals include Robin Roberts, a first string performer last year, and Joe Krakora, also a member of last season's team.

Their presence is more than welcome considering the demanding 22-game schedule that State faces during the 1945-46 season. The list of games includes such prominent names as Michigan, Marquette, Wisconsin, DePauw, Notre Dame, Kentucky and many others.

Slow Start in '44

After a rather mediocre start last year, the Spartans suddenly displayed a reversal of form and proceeded to rack up an imposing list of victories, thereby finishing the year with a fine record.

Credit for this is attributed to the fact that they adjusted their offense from the slow deliberate type to the fast break style. Consequently one of the major upsets of the entire cage season was scored when the Spartans upset the high-stepping boys from Kentucky.

This victory was even more significant because earlier in the season this same southern outfit had very little trouble disposing of MSC in the East Lansing game. At the time of this contest Kentucky was ranked No. 1 nationally.

Sam Fortino Leads

Led by high scoring Sam Fortino, Van Alstyne again has three of last year's regulars available for duty this year. The others are Roberts and Joe Beyer, formerly of the University of Detroit. Fortino was voted by sports writers in the state as the best Michigan collegiate basketball player of the '44 season.

He is the point producing type of player that fits in the fast break four-man revolve scheme employed by State. Roberts was valuable last year as a play-maker, and doubtless will be used in this capacity again.

Sixteen College Track Teams Run in Cross Country Meet

Teams from sixteen college and universities, the largest number since 1942, will assemble behind Demonstration hall at 11:30 Saturday morning for the seventh running of the National Collegiate Cross Country meet.

Drake University, last year's collegiate cross country champion, is expected to make a strong bid for the second consecutive national title. To date, Indiana is the only school to have the distinction of winning the title more than one year.

The Drake harriers will be paced by Fred Feiler, National Collegiate champion, who ran the four-mile course in 21:04.4 seconds last year and it will be no surprise if he sets another record at MSC Saturday.

The winner of the meet will be presented with a memorial trophy of the late "Billy" Hayes who was co-founder of the N.C.A.A. cross country meet and a coach at the University of Indiana for 20 years. Hayes is regarded as one of the all time greats in track.

The award is a personal gift of L. G. Balfour and will be presented annually to the winning cross country team.

'Hank and Frank' Enter 34th Year Of Campus Barber Shop Success

"Women and men don't mix in a barber shop," Frank Andrews, partner of "Hank and Frank," proprietors of the Union annex barber shop, maintains.

"A man comes to the barber shop, not only for a haircut or shave," Andrews explained, "but also to relax, talk things over in the masculine manner, joke a bit, and generally get away from the routine of the day."

"When women come in, they change the character of the shop, virtually driving away the men. So we don't encourage female clientele. The barber shop is man's domain, and we try to keep it that way," he said.

This will be the 34th year that Andrews and his partner, Henry LaFarge, have been barbering on the campus and in East Lansing. In 1912, they opened their first shop in the old gymnasium and armory building, located on the site that the music building now occupies.

At that time there were only 1,200 students on campus, and the college ran boarding houses for them on a "cost-plus" basis. "Good food was served for as low as three dollars a week," Andrews recalled.

Student Hangout

"In those days our shop was a student hangout and meeting place. In fact, Coach Macklin used to lecture his football players in our shop before they took to the field."

"In 1914," Andrews related, "all places of business were taken off the campus, so Hank and I moved across East Grand River. For a time we had our shop where Hunt's is now, then we moved to the basement location that Andy has at present. For a few years before that, we had a combination barber shop, billiard parlor, and cigar store with Charlie Washburn of the Smoke Shop. Then in 1931, when the barber shop in the Union was made available, we moved in and have been here ever since."

"Students are pretty much the same now as years ago," Andrews observed, "but they're much younger these days. Well, that's so much the better, because having young people around helps keep us older folks younger," he said.

FOOTBALL

Late in the fourth quarter Penn State again fumbled the ball, and Joe Bogart, State back, recovered on the Penn State 24. From this point the Spartans, for the most part using third and fourth string men, drove over for the final score leaving the Lions panting under a 33-0 defeat.

Playing his last home game, and a brilliant one, Spartan ace fullback, Jack Breslin, one of the finest members of the team, ended his year before the home fans by scoring two of the six scores and highlighting the game with three beautiful quick kicks that took the Spartans out of tight spots and put them ahead.

State climaxes their football season with a night game against Miami university on Friday. A traveling team of 33 members has been chosen to go today for the junket south.

out in the guard spot where he was last season, but Ollie White, a returned B-24 navigator who played at State before the war, has been alternating with him and may be in the starting lineup because of his advantage in height.

Danny Pajesky, another returned serviceman and veteran of the '41-'42 basketball campaigns, is also a guard and should see a lot of service this year in that spot.

Center Spot Filled

At center Matt Mazza, who played last season with Consuis is expected to work with Shorty Krall, a letterwinner in '45, and Leroy Gunderson from the football squad, and see their share of action. All three of these boys are over 6'3", and consequently make ideal tip-off men.

Pat Peplar is considered one of the most capable cagers on the squad probably will be installed in the starting lineup. Pat is also a veteran and plays an alert, intelligent game at all times.

Freshmen Numerous

A number of freshmen have been showing well in practice sessions and should serve as reliable replacements for the first five. Three of these boys are from the state of Indiana, where many of the best high school ball players are developed. They are Ken Quire from Muncie, John Granick of Hammond, and Don Joyce who comes from Elkhart. In addition to these three are also Bob Roney of Kalamazoo, and Danny Urbanik, from Flint.

The Spartans open the regular season Dec. 1 at Ann Arbor against Michigan. Their first home game is with Great Lakes on the 5th of December. After that the team is idle until the 24th when they meet the University of Minnesota.
