Coed Squad to Debate In Practice Contest At Albion College

A MSC women's squad will debate at Albion college tomorrow, according to Bernard J. Knittel, of the speech department, coach for the group.

State women will meet at Albion in one affirmative and two negative practice debates.

One negative team consists of Fay Blakely, Rockwood sophomore, and Bernice Cleland, Deckerville sophomore.

Taking the affirmative will be Gloria Leimback, Romulus sophomore, and June Szosz, Elgin, Ill., junior.

Another negative team will be represented by two of the following women: Margaret Cline, Bay City sophomore; Leota Calkins, East Lansing junior, and Edith Nolte, Plymouth sophomore.

BULLETIN

LANSING, Feb. 7 (AP) — Michigan State college is the only one of seven state colleges which has no plans for repaying to the state advances obtained to finance army and navy training programs during the war, a report by the administrative board's finance committee showed today.

Of $2,283,518 loaned the colleges, Auditor General John D. Morrison reported, $1,210,008 has been repaid.

Tony Waldron Scores Field Goals That Gives State 46-45 Victory

By ROGER CESSNA

Before a wildly screaming crowd of 4,875 anxious fans Tony Waldron fired in two baskets with less than 45 seconds to play, enabling Michigan State to win a thrilling victory over the unpredictable Tartars of Wayne, 46-45, on the Jenison fieldhouse floor.

House Passes Anti-Strike Measure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7 (AP) — Strike control legislation, going far beyond what President Truman suggested, won smashing House approval today, but opponents said it would get a cool reception in the Senate.

The House steam-rolled through, by a 258 to 155 roll call vote, the far-reaching measure introduced by Rep. Case (R., S. D.) and backed by a powerful coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats.

On the final ballot 149 Republicans and 109 Democrats voted for the bill, with 120 Democrats, 33 Republicans and two minor party members against. House leaders said privately, however, that Senate Democrats would line up strongly against it. They predicted the Senate would greatly modify the measure or perhaps reject it entirely.

House passage came despite bitter protests of close friends of organized labor that it would strip workers of their rights and promote industrial strife.

Case and his supporters denied this and argued that sweeping action is needed to protect the public interest when labor and management disagree.

C. P. Grant to Present Illustrated Lecture Tomorrow Night

"Monarchs of the Mountains," a lecture illustrated with natural color motion pictures, by Cleveland P. Grant, will be presented in College auditorium tomorrow night at 8:15 as a part of the world adventure series, according to Dean S. E. Crowe.

Grant, director of extension at the Baker-Hunt foundation, Covington, Ky., will show pictures taken in the Rocky mountain wilderness. The film will include sequences which reveal such big game animals as the black bear, moose, caribou, and mountain goat in their natural habitat.

MSC Photographer Takes Pictures For Public Relations Department

By PEG FARRALL

It was Michigan State's gain when Everett Huby head of the college photography department, decided to devote his energies and talent to photography rather than pursuing a writing career, which had been his first interest.

Huby, who is now in his ninth year as head photographer at MSC, was previously employed for 22 years at the Reo Motor Car company as director of photography. His formal photographic training was obtained at the Eastman Kodak school.

All college pictures from athletic events and Breslin to sick horses and "I.D.'s" are taken by Waldron, who paced both teams' scorers with 12 points, started the game's tally-making as he ended it with a one-handed push shot. Only seconds later the Tartars took the lead on a free throw by Bill Montgomery and a pair of charity tosses by Don Torres.

As shot after shot by the Spartans rimmed the hoop, the Tartars got busy to go into an early 11-5 lead.

Shorty Krall Gets Going
With seven minutes of the initial half gone the States warmed to their task with Shorty Krall and Waldron hitting on sports and free throws to take a one point lead, 12-11, with 10 minutes left to play.

Ollie White, playing with a bothersome cold, looped in two one-handers from deep court, but saw these matched by Wayne's Bill (Rip) Collins and Torres.

Collins, who last played on the Wayne court squad of 1939, provided the crowd with ralls of good fun as he consistently came up with baskets to keep the Spartans in hot water.

Wulf Tallies in First Game
With four minutes left to play in the first half, Jack Wulf, who was playing his first game since his graduation from Chicago's Senn high school last week, booked in a short one, making the score stand 21-19.

Torres followed with a side court shot to send the game into a 21-21 tie, and it stayed that way with neither five scoring in the remaining three minutes.

Loose Ball Handling
Loose ball handling characterized the first two minutes of the final half until Abe Parness dumped in a long shot and Sam Fortino made good one of his two free throws.

State saw a comfortable 32-27 lead dissolve during the final 11 minutes of play as the Tartars, sparked by Avery Jackson and

A Creed for Young and Old

"On my honor, I will do my best, to do my duty, to God and my country; to obey the Scout law; to help other people at all times; to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

This law meant a lot to most fellows at one time. When we were between the ages of 12 and 14, we knew the Scout law and practiced it. We did our good deed daily, and it made us feel good. People laughed and as we grew older we began to laugh also. What were we laughing at? We had lived these ideals just a few years before and believed in them. What caused this change?

The answer is simple, we were growing up. We were becoming sophisticated; we were coming to the point where we could throw off these ideals we had carried, and become part of the callous generation. We were anxious to grow older, strangely enough.

Now we wonder, "Were we not wrong in our wishes to be grown up? We think back to those happy days, but we don't do the things we did then. We don't perform the niceties called for in the Scout law. No one else does it, so why should we? Anyway we'd be laughed at, and we don't like that.

This is Boy Scout week. Why not try to do some of the things we did when we were Scouts or at the Scout age? At least let us not laugh at those possibly naive youngsters who are trying to follow the laws of their group.

Let us try to remember that we were young once, and we had beliefs similar to the youngsters of today. We can't tell. Doing this may make us feel as good as we did in days gone by. After all, it doesn't cost anything to be a "Good Scout."

Mad As Hopps

By JANICE HOPPS

THERE'S more to be said on the question of scholarship than has been mentioned either in editorials or letters to the editor.

We're taking the stand that scholastic average in itself is over-emphasized in State's academic program and that too many students attempt to get through a course by following the philosophy "What a prof doesn't know won't hurt him, and it'll do me a lot of good."

Good students have not as a rule achieved their high school scholastic standings by dishonest means, but such an emphasis is placed on getting an 'A' or a 'B' in a course, rather than on actually learning the material, that some students will go to any extreme to achieve the high grade.

In some courses there are easier ways of getting good marks than by spending twelve diligent weeks learning the subject. Everyone is aware of those ways. And as long as they are allowed to exist and as long as students are led by the high mark hysteria, you can't blame them for trying.

It isn't true by any means that professors are necessarily lax about upholding definite standards for judging scholastic ability, but it is possible to fool some people, even professors, some of the time. On that assumption and the hope that we may be able to fool all the professors all the time, a lot of us are going through school cutting our own throats.

That's what the situation appears to be—and the fault lies with students willing to get through the easy way, with professors who have an unshakable faith in the personal honor of all their students, and with this growing feeling that the mark's the thing.

Some will say that a high scholastic average cannot be maintained without obtaining a thorough education, but I beg to disagree. Cramming is only one method used to obtain high grades without an actual knowledge of the subject. The subject is known at the time, true, but psychologists have proved that that kind of learning doesn't stick long enough to be of any value after the course is finished. An 'A' may do your heart good at the time, but an 'A' in a subject of which you know little may embarrass you at a

State Thinclads Set For Biggest Track Carnival

*Spartan Coach Says Best Field In Relay History

By JIM CARR

After two weeks of concentrated practice in preparation for the 24th annual Michigan State relay carnival, Coach Karl Schlademan last night announced his entries in the 16 different events.

The Spartan squad of 37 thinclads will be the most highly represented team among the 10 colleges and universities, this followed only by the University of Michigan, which has entered 23 speedsters.

The high light of the evening will be the 240-yard shuttle hurdle relay, when the Spartans will try to revenge their defeat against the Wolverines.

Nosed Out Spartans

In 1943 the Michigan hurdlers nosed out State to set the present fieldhouse record. Of those eight men who ran that event, three have returned from the service and will take up relations again next Saturday night.

Bob Carrier and Jack Dodge are the Spartan veterans, and they will be joined by Amien Carter and Harold Mayhew, a transfer student from Alma who has shown promise of becoming a great hurdler. Elmer Swanson is the returning Wolverine.

Wayne Tartars, Too

Ohio State's team, which put on such a splendid showing two weeks ago, as well as a team from Wayne university, will be strong contenders for the hurdle relay title.

Schlademan has entered Hugh Hughes, Ed Kiczinski, Frank Phillips and Don Slack in the two-mile run and they will oppose Charles Birdsall, Western conference champ. While Roy Niemeyer and Walter Kalmbach will run the one-mile for the Green and White.

Wildcats' Moore A Threat

Spartans Ted Wonch and Bob Vosburg will get plenty of competition in the pole vault from William Moore. Moore comes from Northwestern university and up until two weeks ago held the Jenison fieldhouse record, which was broken by Wonch's jump of 13 feet, 7 1/2 inches in the Ohio State meet.

Other top-notch attractions will be the 75-yard high hurdles and the 75-yard dash.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon Tightens First Place Positions in IFC Race

With the lead in the IFC bowling league matter of question until the last game is bowled, Sigma Alpha Epsilon bettered its position Wednesday night when the SAEs garnered four points from Phi Delta Theta.

Nick Gregory was the big pin toppler for the winners when he tossed games of 160, 163 and 180 to come up with a 503 total. Dave Schmidt was high point man for the losers with 514.

In the only other match bowled, Theta Chi took three points from Psi Upsilon by virtue of Jim Ellet's 206 game and 528 series, which was high for the night. Bill Page paced the losers when he knocked over enough pins for a 518.

The campus is beautiful. Let's keep it that way. Don't walk on the grass.

These State Poolmen Out To Sink Badgers

Porty Krall, who played the home game of his career in 11 tallies and grabbed a flock of rebounds, fired a Spartan attack, but Wayne continued to counter also. The Spartans through close guarding got a hold of the ball, passing it to Waldron who came through on a long. A time out at 45 stopped the clock. State again took but almost lost ball under its own hoop by virtue of a bad pass. Waldron tried in from the center to set up the loose oval and pitched through the meshes with but seconds of play left.

Dempsey Greets Boxing Coach

...Dempsey, former world lightweight champion, visited Michigan State college Wednesday morning and worked out for an hour in the boxing room at Jenison fieldhouse.

Manassa Mauler, who is in good shape, and only a few points over his former fight-weight, offered state boxing coach Lou Zarza a few fundamental tips for his boxing team of all boys who are novices in the sport.

Keep your chin down, your hands high, and remember to move while in the ring. Stand squared away with opponent, because it never takes too many punches," Dempsey advised Coach Zarza.

Dempsey ended his half hour showing that college boxing is growing rapidly and he hopes it take its place alongside football and basketball in popularity within the next few years.

Formal Dances to Dominate Tonight's Social Scene

Formal parties are obviously the vogue at MSC, as four of tonight's six parties will be "long dress" affairs.

The Phi Kappa Taus are giving a formal dinner dance which will take place in the Hotel Porter ballroom tonight from 7:30 to 12. Al Knolle and his orchestra will provide music for dancing. Chairman Paul Spaulding has announced that the ballroom will be decorated with the fraternity's colors. Patrons for the affair are Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Peters, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Pitkins, and Prof. and Mrs. C. H. Nickel.

The Masonic temple will be the scene of tonight's Delta Sig-Kappa Sig semi-formal dance. Decoration for the dance will be based on an old fashioned Valentine theme, and Peter Limber, Grand Rapids senior, has announced that Dick Snook and his orchestra have been contracted to supply the music. Guests will be Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Linton, Prof. and Mrs. A. J. Clark, Prof. and Mrs. L. A. Smith, Prof. and Mrs. W. B. Greenwood, and Prof. and Mrs. H. O. Reed.

Tonight's third formal affair will be given by the members of FarmHouse and Delta Chi. The Union ballroom has been selected as the "site" of the dance according to Lynn Zimmerman, Fowlerville junior, and Don Cole, Pontiac sophomore. Dean and Mrs. E. L. Anthony will act as patrons.

The Theta Chis have planned tonight's last formal term party. Bruce Ott, Allentown, Pa., senior, has announced that it will take place at the Hotel Olds ballroom. Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Knittle and Prof. and Mrs. D. O. Buell will be patrons.

Precincts 16 and 17 of Abbot hall have planned a radio party for tonight, which will be based on a "St. Valentine's day" theme. Ray Turek and Carrol Chapman are chairmen of the affair and they have announced that the grill will be open for those wishing refreshments. Prof. and Mrs. J. Segal and Prof. and Mrs. M. B. Dickerson have been invited to act as patrons.

"Huba Huba" is the theme of the radio party which the Lambda Chi pledges are giving for the actives tonight. The affair will take place from 8:30 to 12.

State Vets Publish Spring Quarterly

The spring issue of the MSC Veterinarian is now available to those interested in veterinary medicine. This magazine is a quarterly and is edited by State veterinary students.

Containing the latest procedures and tips designed to aid those who are unable to do research themselves, it includes theories developed at MSC, as well as other institutions and states.

MSC Veterinarian has been edited on campus for the past five years, and in that time has gained a wide circulation.

Health Center Reports Measles Epidemic

An epidemic of German measles has broken out among Michigan State students. According to Dr. C. F. Holland, the number has risen from a single case three weeks ago to 18 yesterday.

Doctor Holland added that the time elapsing between contact and actual outbreak of the disease varies from 10 to 22 days.

HOPPS

Personally, I think as much of our marking system as my "Out of Nowhere" colleague thinks of "Feather Merchant"—it stinks. To me there are only two degrees of knowledge and you either know your stuff or you don't know it. If you know it thoroughly and can apply it successfully, it doesn't make any difference how much better you know it than the next fellow. This way it's just a case of either pass or flunk.

But most of our educational systems don't work this way, although I hope some day they will. We still have to struggle with this competitive system that appears to be leading closer to dishonesty, to ourselves if no one else, than to good sportsmanship. Whether it does lead to either one extreme or the other depends on us—both the students and faculty of Michigan State.

Among the students, it depends on that "esprit de corps" mentioned in a letter yesterday—a school spirit based on pride, not in one's academic standing alone, but in ourselves as straightforward, straight-thinking individuals.

From the faculty, it takes faith in the integrity of students, yes—but not blind faith. Furthermore, it takes much less emphasis on the letter grades determined by a midterm and a final. Anyone can cram well enough to get through two tests satisfactorily.

No student must cheat to pass a course, nor do many students cheat to pass a course. It is true, however, that our grading system is such that the motivation to obtain high grades is greater than the motivation to learn. Sometimes this leads to cheating, more often to getting the highest mark out of as little effort as possible. The crime is that it is impossible to get a high mark out of little effort.

You just THINK you're touching aluminum, mister.

Pick it up . . . in your bare hands . . . anything made of aluminum. Your cigarette box. A saucepan. The foil on a chocolate bar.

You're not touching aluminum. You never have, never will.

The reason is very simple. Aluminum is constantly covered with the thinnest of thin "skins". It is Aluminum Oxide. You can scrape it off, but it re-forms immediately. In a split second.

This—the scientists at Alcoa's Aluminum Research Laboratories learned many years ago . . . but they didn't stop there. They wanted to know what could be done to this "skin" . . . how it could be made thicker, thinner, harder, porous . . . so that Aluminum products could be more useful and serviceable.

Out of this Alcoa research on the "skin" of aluminum have come many new things. Aluminum pistons of porous "skin" to hold oil. Aluminum trays of lush lustre that won't tarnish—ever. Colored aluminum—the color dyed right into the "skin".

Yes, Alcoa has found many ways of not only controlling this "skin" but also of making aluminum better and more versatile in many, many ways . . . but the search still goes on and always will.

This search calls to young men of science and engineering . . . and spells new opportunity to salesminded men of tomorrow.

The next time you pick up . . . in your bare hands . . . anything made of aluminum say to yourself, "What new could I make this light, strong, durable metal do for man . . . some day?"
