Byrnes Seeks Powers Parley

U.S. Asks Meeting In Paris April 25 For Big Nations

WASHINGTON, April 5 (AP) — Secretary of State Byrnes has proposed a meeting of big power foreign ministers to begin in Paris April 25, the State department announced today.

Byrnes sent his suggestion yesterday to foreign minister Molotov of Russia, Bevin of Britain and Bidault of France through the United States embassies in Moscow, London, and Paris.

Peace Treaties Byrnes made it plain he was proposing the meeting of foreign ministers to speed completion on the drafts of proposed peace treaties with Italy, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary, and Finland because he was "much distressed" at what he called the "slow progress" made on those documents by the deputy ministers now meeting in London.

The secretary of state urged that the foreign minister instruct the deputies to "press forward their work on the drafts with utmost speed."

Major Matters The deputies should reserve "major matters on which they cannot agree" for disposition at the suggested meeting of foreign ministers in Paris April 25, Byrnes said.

All four countries are participating in the Italian treaty; all but France in the Balkan treaties, while Russia and Britain alone will write the pact with Finland under terms of the Moscow Big Three agreement in December.

Michael J. McDermott, state department press officer, who disclosed the proposal to reporters at a hastily summoned news conference, said there had been no replies as yet.

Fewer Vacation Jobs Available This Year For MSC Students

Those who seek summer jobs will have more difficulty placing themselves this summer than in recent years, Prof. Tom King, Placement Bureau director has announced.

The bulk of this year's vacation jobs available are in the camp and resort category. Although occasional requests are still being received for counselors in summer camps, most jobs in that line are already filled.

In recent years manufacturing and business associations have accounted for a major portion of students working during the summer. However in the stress of reconversion these companies have all they can do to accommodate their regular employees.

Headache For Dairy Manager

High Milk Prices Create Butter Shortage

By BOB COLLINS

Butter, or the lack of it, is one of the main problems of the present day to ordinary consumers and is also one of the foremost headaches of Prof. Paul S. Lucas, manager of the dairy plant located on campus.

Its distribution to the various dorms and the Union cafeteria has become more and more difficult with the decrease in the availability of butterfat, which at the present time is being felt by dairy plants nationally.

More Profit on Milk

Main cause of the present shortage of butterfat is due to the vast difference in the amount of money secured for milk and the amount brought for butterfat of the same quantity, Professor Lucas explained. The dairy farmer of the present day can get $1.07 for milk while the same amount of butterfat would bring only 69 cents. The tremendous difference in profit, therefore, has resulted in the present butter shortage.

Some of the present heavy demand for milk is due to the condenseries and powdered milk concerns which are now stepping up production in order to get milk into such a form as to make it shippable to war stricken areas. Supply is lessened. Today it is estimated that only 40 to 50 per cent of those engaged in supplying cream for butter during the war are still doing so. Michigan, even in the past a butter importing state of about 24 per cent, must now import 75 per cent of the amount consumed to satisfy its needs.

Michigan State college for a while had a surplus of butter to enable it to carry itself through previous shortages but the army took it over and it became a thing of the past.

Every student, faculty member or administrative employee living or eating on campus can rest assured, however, that they are getting a fair share of the butter that is available, Professor Lucas stated.

Where Do We Go From Here?

On the threshold of the atomic age, we cannot but wonder what the days to come have in store for us. The possibilities of utilizing atomic energy in our every-day life amaze us, but we shudder at the potential destructiveness of atomic bombs.

Will we tame atomism and guide it along constructive channels? Or do we have a Frankenstein on our hands?

It has been said that the history of mankind is a race between education and catastrophe. If this be true, then by our pursuit of atomism we are precipitating a crisis and forcing the issue.

In this struggle there is a big job for the educational institutions. They must assume the responsibility of preparing tomorrow's citizenry for their social obligations in the world—namely, international peace and cooperation.

Man's evil genius threatens the civilization he has so painstakingly pieced together through the ages. Education must be recruited to weigh the balance in favor of human survival and progress.
