Michigan State Spartans will be pointing for the high-light game of the season this afternoon when they meet the University of Michigan in a twilight contest which will begin at 6 on the Old College field diamond.

The Spartans will be seeking revenge for the earlier 4-2 setback in Ann Arbor. The last twilight game between the two schools was played in 1942, the Spartans coming through with a 12-1 victory.

Summer Quarter Begins June 17, 18

Michigan State's summer quarter will open June 17 with registration for freshmen in College auditorium, Dean S. E. Crowe, summer school head, declared yesterday. Registration for all other students will be held in College auditorium June 18.

Although no poll of students has been taken since winter quarter, the general prediction is that enrollment will climb over 4,000.

Registrar Robert L. Linton has requested that all students who are interested in assisting at registration call his office immediately.

Students who expect to enroll in summer school should pre-classify between today and Friday. Basic college students will report to their counselors, students in the Science and Arts school to their advisers or major professors. Students in all other schools will go to their dean's office to pre-classify. Counselors now have summer term schedule books.

Williams and Mayo dormitories will be open for women students, Abbot and Wells halls for men students. The Union cafeteria will also be open for the summer session.

MSC Dorm Rates Increased; Students Meet To Protest

Raise Necessary To Meet Costs, Hannah Asserts

Higher wage and food costs are making it necessary to increase dormitory rates beginning summer term, President Hannah announced yesterday.

The new rates represent no increase in room fees, but do call for an increase in charges for meals. The adjusted fees have been placed on a sliding scale basis, varying with the length of the term. Formerly flat rates have been charged.

Board Rates Nearly $10

Emily Foster, manager of the dormitory and food services, announced that under the new plan students will be assessed $81 a term for room and $9.80 a week for board, as compared to a flat charge of $144 a quarter for room and board under the schedule now in effect.

Total fees for room and board to be charged for each of the four terms are: $150 for the summer quarter of 10 1/2 weeks, $175 for the fall quarter of 13 1/2 weeks, $160 for the winter term of 11 weeks, and $155 for spring term of 10 1/2 weeks.

First Jump Since 1914

The rise in meal fees is the first increase since September, 1944, although food costs have been skyrocketing at an accelerated pace. Doctor Hannah pointed out. Dormitory dining rooms have been losing money during the past year because of higher food and wage costs.

College officials have been able to avoid stepping up room rates because three students instead of two are being housed in each room.

Council Plans Price Parley With Hannah

Eight members of the MSC student body will meet this morning at 8:30 with Pres. John A. Hannah to discuss the raise in the cost of dormitory board, which was announced yesterday by the administration.

This move came as a result of the Student Council meeting last night at which students, non-members of the council, protested the unannounced move. Tim Long, council president, stated several reasons for the action which President Hannah had revealed, but was unable to answer other pertinent questions, such as the one posed by a resident of Abbot hall: "Why have not the wages of students working on the college been raised to meet this increase in the cost of living?"

Council Appoints Committee

A four-man committee composed of Jerry Warren and Bill Jackson, council members, and Betty Shannon and Bob Blett, members of the student body at large, who attended the council meeting, was appointed to meet and discuss the matter with President Hannah.

The committee was also authorized to invite two men from Abbot hall, which had already organized to investigate the situation, and two men from Wells hall to the meeting.

Dorm Representatives

There were the only two residences that the council knew had been officially informed of the increase in rates. The men chosen to represent these dorms were

Abbot Members Request Reasons Of Fee Increase

By PHIL SPELMAN

Over 500 members of Mason-Abbot hall met on the steps of Abbot hall last night to protest the raise in room and board announced at the dormitories yesterday.

In a general discussion led by John Cox, of Buffalo, N. Y., the students renounced the sudden action taken by the college and elected Cox chairman of a committee to investigate the validity of the room and board raise.

Want Financial Statement

It was brought out that State Senator Henry Little, a member of the ways and means committee, had been contacted and that he has offered his services if needed. A committee composed of Ted Williams and Jim Aulsebrook was elected to procure information on the financial statements of the dormitories at MSC.

Other members of the head committee are Bill Salton, Chicago; Gene Slasky, Chicago; Bob Cox, Bay City; and Benji Noshlen of Royal Oak.

Students living in Lansing, East Lansing, and vicinity, and those attending summer school will call for their books at the Wolverine office at the beginning of the summer term.

Distribution dates will be announced in the State News. Students whose addresses are different from those listed in, or not included in the college directory, should leave their correct addresses at the Wolverine office in the Union annex.

All books not claimed within 30 days, including those sent by express, will be sold to the many persons on the waiting list.

Winged Spartans Hold Ground School; Take Part In Ann Arbor Flying Fest

By MARY LANDKAMER

Michigan State's flying club, Winged Spartans, limited to number 77, has found a means of enlarging the organization through their ground school.

Held every Tuesday night, and open to all students, flyers or otherwise, the classes are of a highly instructive nature. The ground school is conducted by two members of the club who have turned "professors" to give valuable aid not only to members, but also to any student interested in flying.

Former AAF Pilots Teach

Formerly serving with the army air corps as pilot and navigator, respectively, Jerry Swantek, New Boston freshman, and Al Christensen, do the teaching. Swantek, who has 4,000 flying hours, holds an instructor's rating.

Movies, as well as discussions, are used during the class. Subject of the films consist primarily of take-offs, landings, and keep the students up to date on aerodynamics. The discussions inform them of new regulations, the problems in and out of traffic pattern, and enable them to read maps in relation to the earth, and to stay on a course in relation to sectional lines.

The ground school has progressed sufficiently so that recent topics involve advanced navigation and meteorology.

U. of M. Invites Spartans

Until for a flyer today, the University of Michigan flying club invited the Wayne university flying club and the Winged Spartans to attend a triangular meet at Ann Arbor Saturday.

Contests were conducted in spot landings and other feats. The events were followed by a banquet honoring the air-minded students.

Firm Representative To Interview Seniors

P. Williamson, representative for Joseph E. Seagram & Sons, Inc., from Lawrenceburg, Ind., will be on campus tomorrow to interview graduating students.

The Seagram representative is interested in obtaining qualified students in engineering, chemistry, bacteriology, forestry, and also women who have had training in secretarial work. Interested men and women contact the placement office for appointments.

Why Is Student Body Ignored?

This is no brief on the pros and cons of higher dorm rates, but this IS a questioning of why the administration fails to take the student body into their confidence and talk things over before making a ruling.

Granted that the administration would not make a ruling without good reason, but the students are becoming uneasy in a state of affairs where lightning-like decrees strike at them without notice or consultation.

It must not be forgotten that there are two sides to every issue. The student body wants, and is entitled to, an opportunity for presenting its side of a matter, for raising questions, and for offering suggestions that might help to deal with a situation.

Is it too much to ask that the administration take us, the student body, into their confidence and talk such matters over beforehand?

Is it too much to ask that we be consulted on matters that vitally concern us?

LETTERS to the EDITOR

To the Editor:

Today America's economic condition is the weakest it has ever been. On all sides of us we find strikes threatening to exist, beginning and ending. Disension exists in all branches of our government. Our major political parties are not only fighting each other, but fighting internally as well.

Our government is so interested in feeding Europe, that it is neglecting the feeding of its own people in many sections of the country. Yet no mention is made of the fact that many countries in Europe are refusing to plant as many crops as they can. Nor has the government told the people that many of the animals being shipped to Europe are killed instead of being used for agricultural purposes.

We all know how wonderfully our national civil service in many jobs has failed. Then there is the well known and rotten civil service for prison officials that still exists in our country. A perfect example is the recent removal of seven prison officials of Michigan state prison. This makes the second time that Warden Jackson supposedly has been removed from office because of inefficiency. Yet under our civil service code they are permitted to travel from one prison position to another, regardless of past records.

Amongst all this we hear the cry "communism." Yes, we admit that communism exists in our country. But I wonder, is communism really to blame? Could it be the inability of our representatives in Washington and Lansing to do their job? Or our failure to insist that the wrong be righted and justice, equality, and liberty exist for all the people of America?

If communism is to blame, kill it. If our representatives are in the wrong, replace them. If we are at fault, let us change our ways. But above all we must make sure who is at fault before we cry out our accusations, and then let us act as real Americans.

That Does It

By MARION HECKEL

THEY told me once that something like this would happen, but I just laughed. Four years was a lifetime, and it wouldn't end. Now I know better.

The last generation of the last war had nothing on us—the college students who hit Michigan State in '42 when things were beginning to fall to pieces and are leaving now that the game is becoming more than just a stolid plod. During the past four years we've endured the Battle of the Red Cedar and let me tell you it's been tough. . . . why, did I ever tell you about the seige of the cigarette line when 49 persons lost their lives and . . . but the stories of the past are so darn dull.

We've had our fun. Each of us will probably be front and center in the ranks of the has-beens, one of these days telling our tales of meatless Tuesdays, butterless Wednesdays, beerless Mondays, Sugarless Thursdays, and shoeless Friday nights, but the worst part of it will be that but the gang won't be with us to do you remember the time we went . . .

There's no doubt about it, graduation means the first step to bigger and better things. It also ends a period of wonder and awe . . . the years we've put in becoming educated for the future, which looks right now like the end of a gangplank on a pirate ship, four inches away and a blindfold to help matters.

Sitting in the 2x4 celt of the State News office with the ghosts of my predecessors helping me stare out the window at the patch of blue sky is not conducive to filling the last of my columns. It's been an attempt to do more than hyper-boiled hieroglyphics, but those ghosts are sadly shaking their heads. They, too, have their memories and mementos of the hard days and nights behind . . . and they're damn hats if they insist they didn't get nostalgic.

The passing parade hits this 2x4 and it brings a myriad of sights and sounds and smells such as Harold Fuller's Campus Press with its printers' ink, unstinting work and the constant pounding of the presses just at make-up time; the ever-faithful Campus Gestapo and their vigilant chaperonage during the wee hours when the East Lansing sidewalks are rolled up and the sleepers are waiting for tomorrow's papers; those U. S. Army air corps cadets, doubletuning over the cabins during their brief stays with their hunting songs floating over the trees; the Red Cedar's spring floods on College and Northam grounds and the hopeless . . .

Coast Guard Cuts Ship Discharges to Save M

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP) — All the nation's coast guard vessels were ordered to cut their ship discharges to save money, an apparent effort to trim the government's budget.

This was the first time since June 13, 1943, that the coast guard had taken such a drastic action, it was reported.

The decision was made by the War Relocation Authority, which will write a new Italian constitution, showed that Premier Alcide De Gasperi's Christian Democrats polled 5,350,000 for the referendum.

Dean's List Fetes Honor Students

Feeling the need for some public recognition for the students that do not have time for many outside activities but do keep a high scholastic average, Mortar Board has begun a dean's list for MSC.

This list will be posted on the upper deck of the Union at the beginning of each term and will include the names of the students that have achieved a 2.5 average for the preceding term. The list for last term includes the names of 356 Spartans.

Members of Mortar Board who composed the committee that started the dean's list are Shirley Hamelink, Lansing; Peggy Fox, Detroit, and Pat Darr, Detroit.

Affairs of State

By LIZ CORRY and THAIS LUCAS

AFTER the Memorial holiday and a busy weekend, it's time to hit the books and start cramming for finals and comps. For the next week and a half you'll hear shouts in the dorm halls echoing, "Not so loud, it's quiet hours." When it comes right down to it, there really isn't much to do, just three or four term papers, a few projects and five or six exams. But don't worry, everything is going to be all right. Just look at the brighter side of life, for instance—

Two Sigma Nu pins have recently gone astray. Bud Trobert, Flint sophomore, has passed his "white star" to Barb Glassbrook, Lansing senior. Alpha Phi Marj Mellison, Detroit sophomore, has donated the Sigma Nu badge of Jack Goodrich, Detroit junior.

Beyond the pinning stage is fraternity brother Meredith Yarbong, Elwood Ind., senior, who recently presented Jennie Bruland, Detroit junior, with a diamond.

Kappa Verene Parent, Grand Rapids senior, is now wearing a sparkler on her third finger left hand which was given her by Don Waldron, Milwaukee, Wis. junior.

John Cox and Gene Franklin from Abbot hall and Earl Rich and Hugh Burrows from Wells hall.

Another important issue which was decided upon at the council meeting was the proper handling of the vote on the question of whether or not the "no smoking" tradition is to be enforced on campus.

All-Campus Vote

The board decided to hold an all-campus vote on Friday, with majority decision deciding the question. In an effort to get a greater percentage of voters that had been evident in other elections, ballot boxes will be placed in nine buildings. Voting will take place between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

The buildings where students will be able to cast their vote are Morrill hall, Ag hall, Horticulture building, Union, College auditorium, Music building, Home Ec building, Veterinary hospital, and Olds hall. The committee felt that by providing more places for voting, that a greater number of ballots would be cast.

Students voting must sign their name and also their student number on the ballot. These will be checked against a college check list. Any duplication will nullify all votes cast under that name or number.

University of Texas makes all candidates for office pass a test on the student constitution before they are qualified to run.

Term-End Gatherings To Allay Finals Jitters

A final flurry of parties and term events will mark this week for Spartans as the prelude to finals and summer vacation.

Tonight a mixed splash party has been planned for all students in Women's gymnasium from 7 to 9. The event is sponsored by Pem club and a small admission fee will be charged.

Also tonight members of the Spartan Christian fellowship will hold a semi-formal senior banquet in Hunt's beginning at 6:15. "Henceforth" is the theme selected for the affair.

Tomorrow night members and new initiates of State's chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, national honor society, will enjoy an annual banquet in the Union ballroom at 6. Dr. Hans L. Leonhardt, associate professor of history and political science, will be guest speaker and his subject will be "The Problems of Peace."

Student Club Plans Farewell

Friday's extra-curricular plans include three closed events and one open party. Student club will sponsor a "Senior Farewell" at 6:30 in Peoples church from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m., according to La Farge, Lansing junior.

Members of International club will be feted at their term party Friday night. Peter Gerns, Canton, O., junior, stated.

Radio Party Planned

Gamma Phi Beta's radio party will begin at 9 p.m. Friday and refreshments and informal entertainment will make up the evening's plans.

Picnic 10 of Abbot hall has planned their term party in the form of a picnic at Pinetum from 8 to 12 Friday night, John Kennedy, Detroit freshman, said.

SHOPPING SORTIE

By PAT DELAHUNTE

THE thrifty shopper has to have the last word on fashions, and this is it. Along with handy tips on graduation gifts, the clothes seen on this week's tour seem to point to vacation fun, whether it's a short span dwindling down to a week-end, or a long idle summer.

Prime requisite for active sports or just loafing are shorts. College-Town of Boston have designed the ideal shorts, of fine cotton gabardine. These play-timers are made with pleats in front and back, with a side placket closing. They can be found at Penney's, in turquoise, red, or gold, for $3.98.

For picnics and lunches on cooler evenings, Scit's suggest the Airman, a slick light weight rayon jacket with fly front and button cuffs. The wonderful feature of these jackets is that they are water-repellent even after dry cleaning. They're a bargain at $5.95.

Fashions of '46 dictate a minimum of coverage and a maximum of style. The newest in dress design features a bare midriff, wonderful for young figures.

For summer, bright and sassy pink figured with a crazy hearts design, is combined with black. This dress, shown at Mills, is of heavy linen-like rayon.

Liebermann's are showing the perfect duo in graduation gifts for gals and guys. For the female costume jewelry collector, one of the smart jewel boxes is a must-have. These come in two sizes, in leather or simulated leather. The variety of colors offers a range of choice that's hard to find these days. All boxes are lined and feature removable ring trays.

For the men, an accessory box that's wonderful for cuff links, tie pins, studs and such. These are styled in pigskin or fine saddle leather. These items for both sexes are priced at $2.95 and up.

Out of Nowhere—

By DEE DEARING

COME Saturday and a group of people who look like winged bats, and who balance precariously a mortar board, will begin what is called graduation. That merely means that they get a shiny diploma shoved into their hands which later is turned in for the real McCoy.

After he told parents eye it proudly, and the undergraduates feel it timely, it will be packed away and later tucked upon some wall somewhere.

Coming in as a freshman, I stood around for about two weeks with my mouth hanging open and watched all the big boys and girls. After about two weeks I got to thinking that I was a big girl, too, so decided to get into an extra-curricular activity while I could. I heard was a good thing to do when you came to State so I could get out of studying.

Heard a loud noise coming out of the Union annex basement—laughter and singing and merry-making—so I thought that that was the activity for me. Wandered down and found out that the noise came from the State News office and when I walked in they turned off the record (which I found out later had attracted 15 other freshmen) and I went to work.

Sophomore year I found that I was still working hard being a reporter and staying up late. For diversion the U. S. government sent 1,500 air cadets and the feminine part of the student body went wild, and the masculine half went wild too. And the biggest thing that year was the invasion issue which the pajama staff put out, beating even the State Journal.

Junior year was known as the year of the great shortage when the U. S. decided that the coeds had been diverted long enough and moved all those lovely ladies. That year saw more staying Class attendance was higher than ever before in the history of Michigan State college.

Professors and the like got a happy gleam in their eyes as they noticed the passionate pursuance of the books. But it didn't last long.

Come the last year, this year, and things are fine. But a group of people who look like winged bats, and who balance precariously a mortar board are thinking that they are leaving at the wrong time that that's life. And there will be a moment of glory until the President says, "Saturday Night Next."

It was a cold, wintry night when Out of Nowhere was first out of a cold-meat hole, necessity on page 2. And on a warm spring night a few months later, it says it's last breath, a breath of necessity.

Basic College Students to Use Revised Counseling Program

Beginning July 1 the counseling program, which was originally started for Basic college students, will be revised in order to improve the service extended to the students.

Under the new plan, enrollment and general counseling will be separated. Students who have expressed a definite preference will be assigned to an enrollment officer in that school.

In the case of students with no definite preference, the counselor will enroll the student and provide help in selecting a major.

The counselors are to be selected on the basis of interest in counseling work and training in the fields of guidance and psychology. It is anticipated that at least one of the counselors will be a competent clinical psychologist and that all of the others will have had some experience in handling all types of student problems.

During the period in which the student is in Basic college he will be assigned one of these counselors and an enrollment officer in his field of specialization.

All students who plan to remain in the Basic college next fall should clarify their school preference and their major within the school before leaving for home at the end of the term.

Members Enter In Tower Guard

Tower Guard formally initiated 33 new members into its ranks Sunday at an early morning ceremony in Beaumont tower.

These new initiates were tapped at the annual May morning tapping service that is sponsored by Tower Guard and Mortar Board.

Tower Guard presents a scholarship annually to an outstanding woman who is working her way through college. This year the award was presented to two freshmen women, Toshiko Katsumoto, Decoto, Calif., and Ella Kripl, Dearborn.

Mrs. Curtis Beacham was initiated as the new Tower Guard advisor, and Miss Anne McGurk will be installed next fall. These women replace Mrs. Elizabeth Walbert and Mrs. Victor Noll who have served as the advisers of the group for the past two and three years respectively.

Deficient Speakers Aided By MSC; Speech Clinic Corrects Mistakes

MSC students and children from nearby communities have the aid of a very appropriate organization—the speech clinic of Michigan State college. During the freshmen's orientation week new students are required to take a speech test for the purpose of discovering if they have any speech defects.

When the phrase "speech defects" is mentioned people usually think of one thing, stuttering, but there are three other categories: vocal defects, defects of articulation, and defective speech because of loss of hearing.

Clinic Aids Deaf

Patient and kind instruction in lip reading and hearing aids are helps for students who may be hard of hearing. They are taught to feel sounds, and instructed in the use of hearing aids besides being taught the art of lip reading.

Many returned veterans will be taking advantage of this service, and several of them will soon be wearing hearing aids.

Help Children Saturdays

On Saturday mornings an outpatient clinic is held for children from surrounding communities to come for speech and hearing examination. Parents and teachers of these students are given recommendations to carry on with the correction work.

Student clinicians, majoring in speech correction, help the college students and children with their improvement work. These students and the members of the speech clinic staff deserve much praise for their excellent contributions in this field.

Petrillo Loose Again

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., June 4 (AP) — "Oh, that bum," defiant James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, shouted today when told that Rep. Doderer (R., Mich.) had voiced a threat of new congressional action against him.

Courting a new clash with congress over labor bills, Petrillo asked in an interview: "Under what law can they make us go to work? The more labor laws they pass, the more labor trouble they're going to have."

Chemistry Finds Better Way to Descale Steel

One of the most bothersome problems in the metal industry is the removal of scale from the surface of stainless steels and other alloys. Scale is a thin film of metal oxide which forms at high temperatures during fabrication or processing. It is very abrasive to dies and other metal-forming tools, and if not completely removed causes serious flaws in the surface of finished products.

Several years prior to World War II, Du Pont chemists, engineers and metallurgists went to work on the problem of developing a quick and positive descaling process. When success came three years later, a secrecy order prevented its public announcement at that time—the discovery went directly into war work.

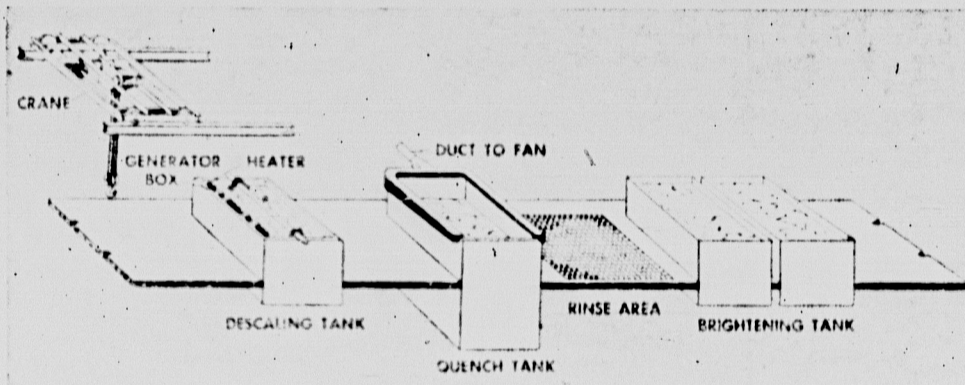

Process Development

In developing the process, a group of Du Pont Chemists found that small amounts of sodium hydride, dissolved in molten sodium hydroxide, effectively removed scale without attacking the base metal or embrittling it. However, the problem then arose of finding an efficient and economic means of obtaining the sodium hydride. This was accomplished by developing an ingenious apparatus for forming it directly in the molten sodium hydroxide (700° F.) from metallic sodium and gaseous hydrogen.

Metal chambers, open at the bottom, are placed along the inside of the descaling tank and partly immersed in the bath. Solid sodium is introduced into these chambers, and hydrogen gas bubbled through. The sodium hydride formed is diffused uniformly throughout the molten caustic.

Practical Application

The metal to be descaled is immersed in the bath which contains 1.5 to 2% of sodium hydride. Scale is reduced to the metallic state for the most part in from a few seconds to twenty minutes, depending on the size and type of material.

The hot metal is then quenched in water, and the steam generated actually blasts the reduced scale from the underlying metal. A water rinse and a short dip in dilute acid complete the process and produce a clean bright surface.

This process has been called the most significant development in the cleaning of metal surfaces in decades. It is representative of what men of Du Pont are doing to help American industry to better, quicker, more economical production methods.

MAN-MADE SPONGES PRODUCED BY DU PONT CHEMISTS

Among the most versatile members of the family of cellulose products—whose members include rayon, cellophane, lacquers and plastics—is the synthetic sponge.

Du Pont cellulose sponges have many of the attributes of the kind that grow in the sea, plus several additional advantages. For example, quality can be kept uniform; texture and hole-size can be predetermined; they can be cut to handy shapes, and they may be sterilized by boiling.

The complicated 10-day manufacturing process starts when viscose is produced by adding carbon disulphide to alkali cellulose (from wood or cotton), and dissolving the mixture in water and mild alkali. To produce holes, crystals of the desired size are introduced. Heating in a salt solution hardens the viscose and dissolves out the crystals. Washing, centrifuging and oven-drying complete the operation.

Questions College Men ask about working with Du Pont

"DOES THE DU PONT COMPANY EMPLOY ENGINEERS?"

There are many diverse opportunities at Du Pont for engineers. Principal requirements are for chemical and mechanical engineers, but opportunities also exist for industrial, civil, electrical, metallurgical, textile, petroleum and others. Practically all types of engineering are included in the work of the manufacturing departments and the central Engineering Department. Openings for qualified engineers exist at times in all of these departments.

Sigma Nu Softball Champ For Second Straight Year

Tops Lambda Chi Alpha 7-2 in Playoff

By CHUCK STRATTARD

Sigma Nu reigns champion of the fraternity softball league for the second straight year.

Led by the timely hitting of Dick Kieppe, Shorty Krall, and George Kinan, Sigma Nu scored in every inning except the fourth to take an easy 7-2 victory from Lambda Chi Alpha in the title game last night.

Jim Pruitt on the mound for the winners kept five Lambda Chi singles well scattered. His teammates touched Lambda Chi twirler Chuck Rule for ten base knocks. Pruitt also twirled the champions to the title last spring.

Only once was Pruitt in trouble in the second inning when Lambda Chi put together three of their few hits to score their two runs and tie the ball game momentarily at 2-2.

Wasted No Time

But his mates wasted no time in jumping on Rule in the next frame, getting those runs back and at the same time sealing the lid on a Sigma Nu victory.

Kieppe started the rally with a chiselled double down the third base line. Then he stole third and scored on Ed Lord's infield hit with Lord going to second on the play of Kieppe at the plate.

Glenn Hatfield bounced out Lord to first, Lord moving to second. Dick Simpson drew a walk and then Krall smashed a terrific line double into left scoring Lord and Simpson to put the game on ice.

Score in Fifth

Both teams drew blanks in the fourth, but Sigma Nu came back in the last inning with two more markers, putting together hits by Kieppe, Hatfield and Kinan for their sixth and seventh tallies.

Pruitt, working effectively behind a good lead, retired the Lambda Chis in order in the last stanza. Jay Dunkelberger grounded out third to first. Bob Smart bounced to Lord who threw him out third to first. Aubrey Johnson fanned, and the Sigma Nus had the championship.

Spartan Jayvee Nine To Meet Muskegon In Season's Final Tilt

Grant Lettly, Mauldin and Ken Jordan will shake the pitching duties. Coach Doc Manton stated yesterday. The rest of the lineup will not be known until Thursday, as several players have heavy study schedules coming up in preparation for final exams, and Manton doesn't know who is making the trip.

Indian Chief Tagged Out At Home

Manager Lou Boudreau, Cleveland shortstop, slides home to be tagged out in the eighth inning of the game with Philadelphia Athletics, when George Case, Indians' outfielder, singled to right field. Buddy Rosar, A's catcher, tagged him out with Umpire Boyer calling the play. Cleveland won 6 to 5.

Spartan Varsity Elects Officers

Spartan Varsity club elections were held recently with Keith Stetter, veteran baseball pitcher from Sturgis, voted in as president for the coming year, graduating president, Glenn Johnson has announced.

Other officers will be Glenn Hatfield, Flint football quarterback, vice-president, Bill Page, Muskegon baseball player, as secretary and trackman Ray Bekard, treasurer.

Iggy Conrad, Spartan wrestling star, was chosen to represent the club at meetings of the college athletic board.

First Nine Names Of Mid-West Men Revealed By Kobs

Spartan Baseball Coach Kobs announced the names of nine players to the Muskegon squad that will appear in the first annual collegiate All-Star baseball game June 14 in Boston's Fenway park.

In arranging the midwest squad, only seniors will be selected from the Western conference in keeping with a conference ruling affecting eligibility of undergraduate athletes.

The first draft of players announced by Kobs included pitchers Frank Koenig, Oklahoma A. & M. R. Bold, Iowa State, James F. Auburn, catchers William Lins, Wayne university, infielders Charles Horn, Ohio State, Sam Pinson, Mississippi State, Keith Phelps, Ohio State, outfielders Peter Kramer, College of St. Thomas (St. Paul) and Frank Gilbock, Notre Dame.

'S' Cage Standout Named All-Stadium

It was learned here today that Tony Wagoner, guard on the Michigan State basketball team, was named on the official Chicago Stadium all-star team.

The selections of Wagoner, Amling, Ohio State, Morris, Northwestern, Miken, Depaul, Crystie, Notre Dame along with Wagoner was deemed by Chicago sports writers to be as good as any all-American selection.

the defeat. The Robin fanned our and allowed but one hit in the last he worked.

Kobs has nominated "Ducky" Walcott to the catching for the Spartans, while Harry Hughes is slated to get the starting nod at third base.

Jack Lettly will probably start at first base. Marty Hansen and Stan Groves will make up the State Keystone combination. Sobczak back in lineup.

For Sobczak will return to the roster after missing the recent tilt with Western Michigan. The catcher will only make one hit in the Floyd Gust will start in left.

The official Wolverine team has already named out the Big Nine title, finishing in 16- and place behind the University of Wisconsin.

Last year Michigan won the town. Ernie Swanson, whose home run helped to defeat the Spartans was on his way out of Wagoner's hurling.

Robinson At Short

Don Robinson has recovered from a leg injury which benched him during the earlier part of the season and will take over short stop.

Michigan's outfield will be composed of three football transplants, Jack Weisenberger, Bob Chappius, and Bob Nussbaumer. Dom Tomasi, Walt Kell, and Lem Rosema will complete Michigan infield along with Robinson.

At the annual Women's Athletic association banquet tonight a new interannual trophy will be presented to South Campbell, tallied the greatest number of points for the year in athletics. Alpha Phi closely followed in second place, only two points behind and Pi Beta Phi landed in a third place slot.

The first two groups have been fighting each other throughout the year, particularly in volleyball, baseball, and tennis.

Points were given for the wins in each sport and the number are added at the end of the season. South Campbell took the plaque in volleyball by beating out Alpha Phi. In winning South Campbell was Pi Beta Phi and Alpha Phi took ninth place.

In winter term bowling, the Spartans placed fourth and the Spartans 13th. Softball supremacy was contested with South Campbell in fifth place and Alpha Phi in third. The tennis results not determined but the fight between these two teams.

South Campbell was seventh in Alpha Phi eighth. Alpha Theta won the third successive time which entitled them to it. Now the new trophy will be won three times in succession to entitle a group to it permanently. Alpha Phi took third last year, and Campbell did not place. In the tennis singles tournament finals Jane Hite of Phi defeated Margaret South Campbell 6-4, 1-6.

Hermie Says —

By TOM RIORDAN

THIS is a mystery story, entitled "Where was Ed Sobczak, regular Michigan State center fielder, who didn't appear at the Saturday game with Western Michigan?" No, I didn't jump to the Mexican league, John Kobs had reluctantly excused Sobczak from dressing for the Bronco contest.

Accepted reason for Sobczak's not being able to play Saturday was that he was to be best man at a wedding. That was until someone stated at the ball park that Ed didn't play because he was taking the competency exam in biology.

This didn't close the case, because in Sunday's State Journal George Alderton, sports editor, told his readers that "Sobczak wasn't in the lineup because he was in New York helping to bury a service buddy."

Just where was Ed Sobczak?

PEOPLE are wondering why MSC didn't make the Western conference, could it be that the Big Nine didn't like the way Michigan State handled its championship team last winter when State was crowned basketball champ, only after the Spartans had hung a very humiliating 64-41 defeat on the Buckeyes.

In baseball the Spartans showed little respect for the prowess of the Wisconsin Badgers who turned up as the championship club in the Big Nine loop. State thumped the Badgers 12-2 and 11-3, while crashing out over 25 base hits in the two tilts.

However, this winter is the preparation goes quite a bit deeper than this. Let alone replace Chicago, rumor has it that the conference is trying to get rid of one or two more smaller members.

The schools are finding it difficult to get satisfactory schedules, especially in football, where none of the bigger schools want to play the small ones in the latter stadiums, which don't have the capacity and dollars producing facilities.

Senate Considers Qualifying Teen-Agers For Draft Again

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—The senate voted 53 to 26 today to make 18 and 19 year olds subject to the draft again.

The action, subject to possible change later, came on adoption of an amendment by Senator Gurney (R. SD.) to a pending bill extending selective service until May 15, 1947.

Both Senators Arthur H. Vandenberg and Homer Ferguson of Michigan voted in favor of restoring provisions to draft teen-agers.

Gurney explained that a specific provision of this nature is required because congress, in a temporary extension of the act to July 1, eliminated inductions of teen-agers on insistence of a house majority.

The senate's approval for restoration of the wartime 18-45 age bracket gave the administration a victory in its first test of strength in a drive to obtain passage of this extension measure before the day is over.

However, proposals are pending to suspend all inductions under the act. The house voted to suspend inductions from May 15 to Oct. 15 when it passed a 9-month extension exempting teen-agers.

By a voice vote, the senate adopted an amendment prohibiting induction of men with dependent children, including foster or adopted children.

The senate had also approved pay hikes to enlisted men when Senator Gurney (R. SD.) in charge of the bill, announced that it seemed impossible to get a final vote within a reasonable time.
