Law Holds Woman Under $1,500 Bond

Mrs. Catherine Stephens, 31, of Lansing is being held in Ingham county jail under $1,500 bond as a suspect in connection with at least two college larcenies. Lt. Charles Fogg of the East Lansing police department, stated yesterday.

Mrs. Stephens and a 13 year old girl accomplice are involved in five cases of larceny which the police department can prove at this time. Mrs. Stephens was given a lie detector test last week. Chief Arthur Brandstetter revealed that the department was not satisfied with the results.

Money stolen from the Women's gymnasium and property taken from one other college address are the two cases believed to be the work of Mrs. Stephens and her accomplice. Lieutenant Fogg stated that many other robberies are expected to be cleared up when the case is finally closed.

The results of the investigation made by Student council of the Union board ruling which prohibits card playing in the Union have been announced by Tom Loring, council president. This investigation came about when members of the student body complained to the council that the women were being allowed to play cards in the Women's lounge.

When a kered for a full interpretation of the law and for the legal basis for allowing the women to continue the card playing, Bob Butler, Union board president said in a letter to the council "In general terms the motion states that card playing will be prohibited in all public areas of the Union building except the Women's lounge."

"Both the board and management of the Union building had tried to refrain from taking such action by giving numerous warnings to offenders of the gambling rule. Since these warnings were not heeded, this motion was passed as the last resort to stop gambling in the Mixed lounge and also in the Men's lounge. The women playing cards in their lounge were not offending any rules, therefore they were permitted to continue as before" he added.

After receiving the letter, Loring made the statement that because Student council and Union board are not holding formal meetings, no official action may be taken until fall term. He added that if what is stated in the above letter is correct as to See CARD BAN, Page 3

Dr. A.M. Harding To Speak On Astronomy Tonight

University Of Arkansas President Will Bring The Science Of Stars Earthward To Level Of Layman

Dr. A. M. Harding, president of the University of Arkansas, will speak in Fairchild theater tonight at 8:15. "Glimpses of Other Worlds," a talk on the highly technical science of astronomy in popular phraseology, will be his topic.

DR. A. M. HARDING

Doctor Harding has a nation wide reputation as a speaker and writer on astronomy. He has delivered more than 2,000 addresses on the subject and is author of the best seller, "Astronomy." His talks are aimed to bring the subject to his audiences in a way that it can be readily understood.

U. of A. His Alma Mater

Harding graduated from the University of Arkansas in 1904 and joined the faculty as an instructor a year later. Since that time, except when absent studying for his doctorate at the University of Chicago, he has advanced through successive faculty positions until in 1941 he became president of the institution.

His own field is mathematics, on which he has collaborated in the writing of many textbooks in algebra, trigonometry and geometry. Astronomy is a hobby, but his own interest in it as a sideline has led to his program of bringing the subject closer to the average person.

Educational Administrator

Dr. Harding is well known as an educational administrator. He founded his university's general extension service in 1919 and at one time was president of the National University Federation association.

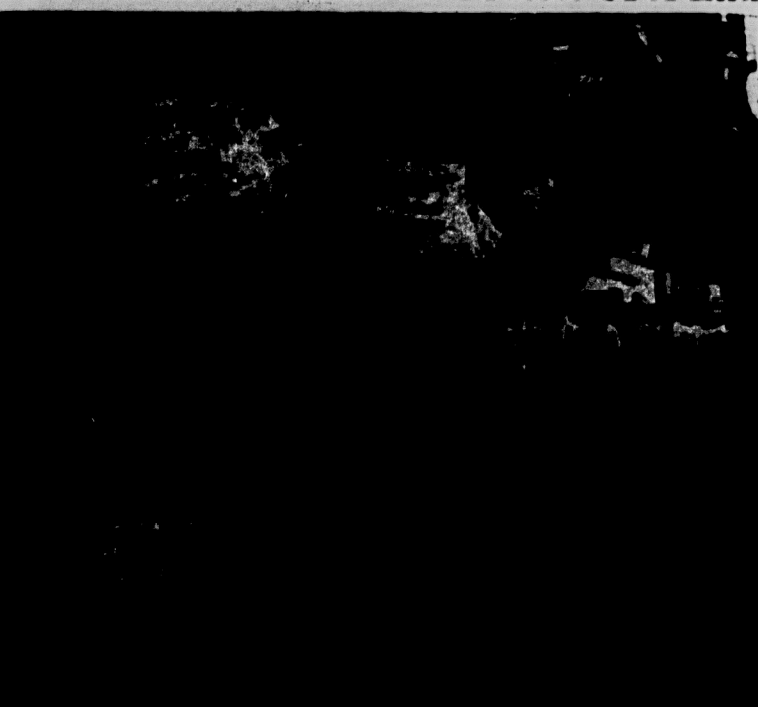

He also belongs to Phi Eta Kappa, Sigma Xi, Omicron Delta Kappa, the American Mathematical society, and the American Astronomical society.

Library Opens Doors On Sunday Afternoon

The college library will be open Sunday afternoons from 2 until 6 for the remainder of the six weeks periods. Head Librarian Jackson E. Towne has announced. Towne emphasized that the personnel are making every effort to keep the building open as many hours as possible but that the biggest bottleneck is the lack of experienced student help.

Students now employed are doing a fine job, he stated, but the biggest lack is in personnel who have been employed long enough to be thoroughly efficient in their position.

CIO Members Parade To Protest OPA End

CIO Political Action committee members paraded in downtown Indianapolis carrying signs demanding the return of OPA price control. The group shown above was told by Gov. Ralph F. Gates, that he would act if there is an emergency.

Professor's Family Inherits $125,000

Mrs. Bernice M. Gardner, wife of Prof. Victor R. Gardner, director of the agricultural experimental station and her two children will receive approximately one fourth of the $500,000 estate of Charles E. Lutton, Orange county real estate man who died June 28. Mrs. Gardner, who is a niece of Duffin, lives at 265 University drive, East Lansing, Michigan.

Dutton's will, filed for probate in superior court, listed $1,500 in specific bequests and divided the residue, chiefly real estate in resort county, among Duffin's niece and nephews, twelve of whom live in Michigan.

Professor to Speak On Vetoed OPA Bill

Prof. Denzel C. Cline, of the economics department will speak at a meeting of the Spartan Youth forum tonight at 7 o'clock in room 112 of Union Annex.

Professor Cline will discuss the problem of the vetoed OPA bill, and a plan to contact members of the Senate and pass on to them the resolutions decided upon at the meeting has been formulated. The public is invited.

The meeting will be adjourned in time for the lecture which is being presented in College auditorium at 8:15.

THE Lobster Shift

By HELEN GOVER

IT'S a little disgusting to see banner headlines across the top of our metropolitan dailies screaming that our country is in the midst of or heading toward a famine. Do they mean that soon we will be searching the gutters and garbage cans for just anything to eat or do they mean that soon we will be searching the shelves of our corner grocery for a certain brand of flour, unsatisfied with a substitute.
By the newspapers labeling our present and anticipated food shortages as famine, it makes it rather difficult for us to understand the plight of the starving people of Europe who know the real meaning of the word. Diets in Europe were reduced this spring by a drastic cut in rations. While the average calory consumption per person in the United States is 3,350, in Europe it does not rise above 2,400 and in many cases falls far below.
For this tragic situation there is no immediate hope. The hungry have little more assurance of three square meals a day during the coming year than they did in the last 12 months.

Speaking of food and malnutrition, it is a wonder that more college students who depend upon commercial eating places for their daily rations don't suffer from all types of maladjustments that come from not eating enough vitamins, minerals, and iron. Without the guiding hand of a mother or the behind, the scenes control of a trained dietitian, the students sustain themselves.

Potency Of Summer Squad Proven

Michigan State Pool Squad Dominates First Pre-War Canadian Championships

Taking four firsts, one second and four third places, the Spartan natators dominated last week's Canadian Amateur Swimming Championships in Hamilton, Ontario, the first all-dominion meet held since the beginning of the war.

College athletes won six of the eight championship events with representatives placing from Canisius college, McGill university and Michigan State.

First In Relay

State's Ecuadorian star, Abel Gilbert, captured second place in a close finish of the 200-yard freestyle race, took third in the 100-yard and formed the combination with Zigmund Indyke, John DeMond and Jim Quigley that captured first place honors in the 400-yard relay.

Milford Maloney of Canisius college nosed out Gilbert in the 200 and took second places at the 100 and 150-yard distances.

Cooley Takes Backstroke

Spartan star Will Cooley touched in a win in the backstroke and teamed with Paul Seibold and Jim Quigley to tally State's first in the 300-yard medley relay. DeMond, Jack Seibold and Gilbert entered the event as State's "B" combination, placing third.

Another first was carded by Paul Seibold in the 200-yard breaststroke race with Dave Seibold taking second. A newcomer to Coach McCaffree's squad, George Hoogerhyde touched third in the 200-yard event.

Diving Honors

George Athens of McGill university piled up a total of 140.166 points in the diving contests, topping all other competition.

entered. State did not enter a diver.

The two-day meet marked the second time that a Michigan State swimming team has sought international glory, the first being in a dual meet several years ago with University of Toronto.

Opening their summer schedule with the Canadian championships, the McCaffreemen will enter the Michigan AAU pre-Olympic meet next week at Rouge Park while their prize attraction will be to defend their National AAU championship August 2, 3 and 4 at San Diego, California.

An investigation is now being made on how the warnings were made, and the extent of them. If the investigation shows that proper warnings were not given to the student body at large, Lansing said that he will ask the Student council to inform Union board that they desire a reconsideration of the problem, and suggest that card playing in the Union building be given another try.

It's rather exciting at first to be able to pass over the spinach and the other things that are "good for you" and choose your whole meal from the dessert menu, but it's rather hard on the pocket book and the indigestion ward of the college hospital.

Still on the subject of food, I read in Monday's Free Press that the better restaurants in Detroit were showing that they were real "quality folks" by adhering to OPA ceiling prices while other lower class eating places were raising their prices and reducing the size of their slices of cantaloupe.

MSE Varsity Sport Shorts

State's 1946 football schedule of 10 games involves the Spartans in 12,500 miles of road travel or one-half the distance around the world at the equator. Actually, the Spartans themselves will travel less than 2,000 miles in visiting Penn State, Kentucky, and Michigan, while seven opponents journey into East Lansing from as far as Washington State, Mississippi State, Boston College and Maryland.

Coach John Kohn has a percentage of 611 to show for his 22 Michigan State baseball teams which won 271 of 444 games under the Spartan banner since 1923. His 1946 team racked up 21 victories against five defeats for the best record in history.

Yearbook Hits Pre-War Style In 50th Anniversary Edition

By ART GERARD

The Wolverine, in its 50th anniversary edition, is now available at the Wolverine office in the Union annex.

This year's Michigan State college annual shows a definite improvement over that of more recent years, with action photos, and varied layouts. Its continuity and write-ups are original and well done. Its white leather cover is attractive.

Pre-War Size

Consisting of more than 400 pages, the 1946 Wolverine managed and edited by the Englehardt twins, Doris and Dorothy, opens with Caesar's unforgettable words: "I came, I saw, I conquered." With this theme the Wolverine takes its reader from page to page in much the same manner as a letter to folks back home.

I came . . . The first 30 pages give some sort of an idea as to how a freshman feels when he walks onto the campus for the first time. Excellent photographs and sketches present in this portion of the book some highspots on campus, freshman week, class meetings, and Basic college activities.

I saw . . . For 40 pages the reader may look into faces of juniors and Basic college students. However, many who have returned to State or began anew as late as last January should not be surprised should their picture not appear among their classmates.

Next comes 50 pages of campus activities and sports with select photos to add to this popular portion of any yearbook.

Pictures Greeks

Sororities and fraternities are well represented. Following the Greeks is a section devoted to features which gives more campus highlights aided by photos from dances, plays, and other student activities. Easy to look at are the queens pictured.

For 20 pages dorms are featured with each making a showing with photos. Following these jam-packed dwellings is four pages of ROTC activities. Other yearbooks, especially those published during wartime, put the military department on many pages, but this year's Wolverine shows that the war's over.

I conquered . . . Winding up a well-balanced book comes some 20 pages of honoraries. Pictures of distinguished seniors cover 40 pages followed by a Gold Star honor roll dedicated to those who gave their lives during World War II.

The ads are attractively spiced with photographs from all

Short Course To Give Aid to Public School Engineers, Custodians

The annual conference course for public school custodians and engineers will be held on the campus today, tomorrow and Friday.

Conducted by the college Institute of Short Courses under the supervision of Ralph W. Tenny, the course will provide aid in the efficient and economical operation and maintenance of school plants.

Former Student Attends Government Course

Pvt. Phillip B. Begley, former MSC student will be graduate July 23 from postal course by the Adjutant General's school. Private Begley's home is Muskegon Heights. He entered the service in March.

corners of campus. A very convenient index concludes the yearbook with special sections for advertisers, organizations, and students.

The Wolverine met its deadline last winter term and took many of its photographs to engravers as early as Christmas vacation. This accounts for the fact that many students do not find their pictures among their classmates.

Lacks Emphasis on Growth

The Wolverine brings out the fact that State is growing, but with little emphasis, considering the all important housing shortage problems and lack of classroom space which has predominated this year.

All veterans are requested to notify Veterans Administration in Demonstration hall of any change in address. Incorrect addresses cause considerable delay in receiving checks, as it is illegal to forward government checks.

age problems and lack of classroom space which has predominated this year.

All in all this yearbook is an improvement over recent publications. It offers a variety of well-selected photographs and features campus highlights with style.

Veteran's Housing Situation To Ease By Fall Quarter

The married veteran's housing problem shows promise of easing. According to Emery Foster, manager of dormitory and food services, temporary accommodations for 1148 families will be erected south of the new permanent apartment buildings, within the next few months.

These apartments will be of the defense housing type, and will contain from two to six apartments depending on the size of the unit. It is expected that two of the permanent apartment building will be ready for fall.

Single veterans will also find their housing difficulties lessened to some extent by the assembling of 45 barracks, which will house 720 men. The quonset hut total is expected to mount to 104 by fall term.

"If all the temporary apartments were available at this time, they could be filled by fall term, and still more would be needed for winter term," Foster said.

Campus Police Add Three Men to Staff

Three new men have recently been added to the staff on the campus police, Acting Lt. James Frost said yesterday. They are officers Al Stringham, Barney Fancher and Hardy Ferris.

A new position of investigator has been created and filled by Officer Charles Becker. The investigator is charged with a closer check on traffic tickets, summons, and other violations.

Lt. Howard Simcox is now on vacation and Officer James Frost is acting in his capacity.

Former Coast Guards May Organize Group

An organization for enlisted Coast Guard veterans is being formed on campus by Don Cook, registration officer of the Veterans' administration.

All former coast guardsmen are requested to contact Cook at his office in Demonstration hall between the hours of 8 to 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 to 4:30 p.m.
