

... Roving Reptile

Has anybody seen Quincey? Quincey left Detroit after his hour of glory last May day, heading back up U. S. 16 for East Lansing, and hasn't been seen since. No one had worried much about him up until now, since Quincey, the MSC entry in the sixth annual "Turtle Tredge," hadn't been expected to make much time after his occasional exertion in the big race.

... Laundry List

Getting laundry back is news in itself but one Abbot hall resident had a little explaining to do as he opened his bundle of clean clothes in the presence of his two roommates. Clean Listed on the bill was Story the item "one negligee." Not remembering anything quite so delicate, he was as curious as the others about what the item actually was. His explanation is that the laundry slip didn't list "bathrobes," and they just did the best they could.

... Declaration

English professors aren't expected to know everything, but there are certain things they really ought to know. In illustrating "The Usages of the English Language" this week, one English lecturer stated that he would utilize the preamble of the constitution. His quotation began, "When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary..." The Declaration of Independence! Goodness!

... Putter Larceny

Borrowing the roommate's belongings is an established college practice, and isn't particularly confusing so long as the roommate remembers where he borrowed the stuff in the first place. But over in Demonstration hall while waiting for his roommate to complete some required forms, one Club terprising veteran picked up his friend's putter and began a few practice strokes. Being a good-natured sort of fellow, he even carried the club back to the room, there to discover that it wasn't his roommate's property after all. The story ended with a quick trip back over to Dem hall, where the club was essted onto a quiet table before the irritated owner could ask any questions.

Spartan To Hold Advance Sales For Next Year

Spartan magazine will stage an advance summer sale of subscriptions Wednesday for the year 1946-47. Returning to Michigan State's campus after an absence of almost two years, the first postwar issue of the Spartan will go on sale the end of Freshman week in fall term.

The September Freshman issue of the magazine will hit an unprecedented high of 36 pages for a regular issue. As it has since its first issue nearly 10 years ago, the 1946-47 Spartan will feature stories, humorous articles, interviews, cartoons, pictures, a two-page photo section, and assorted quips by and about State students.

Students wishing to receive copies of the Spartan magazine throughout the year were advised to purchase subscription cards between Aug. 21 and 23 as the magazine is being limited to 2,400 copies during the current paper shortage. Subscription tickets will go on sale this fall with new freshmen getting first crack at them on Sept. 23 and 24.

Dave Lucas, East Lansing junior, will hold the position of editor of the magazine for the year, while Grant Turnblom, Cadillac junior, will act as business manager.

Ag Men To Attend Purdue Meeting

Michigan State college will be well represented at the agricultural engineering teachers' seminar to be held at Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind., from Aug. 30 to Sept. 4.

A. W. Farrall, head of the department of agricultural engineering, is a member of the five-man committee of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers, which is planning the conference. The plan of the seminar is to coordinate teaching methods, requirements, courses and outlines in the more than 30 colleges in the United States offering agricultural engineering.

Those staff members playing an important part in the program will be Farrall, D. E. Wiant, professor of agricultural engineering, M. L. Bailey, assistant professor of agricultural engineering, and George L. Dreyer, head of the department of agricultural education.

Prof. Roy Underwood, head of the music department and director of the division of fine arts, spoke before the American Occupational Therapy association at its national convention in Chicago Tuesday.

Professor Nye To Head English Department

The appointment of Prof. Russell B. Nye as professor and head of the English department was announced yesterday following the meeting of the State Board of Agriculture, governing board of Michigan State college.

Nye's appointment is effective as of Aug. 1. He replaces Prof. Ben Euwema, who has accepted the position as Dean of the school of Liberal Arts at Pennsylvania State college.

Nye joined the English faculty in 1940, after previous teaching experience including three years at the University of Wisconsin. He is a graduate of Oberlin college, and received his M. A. and Ph. D. degrees at Wisconsin.

The new department head is the author of the Pulitzer prize-winning biography, "George Bancroft: Brahmin Rebel." His book on the 19th century historian and diplomat won the Pulitzer award in American biography for 1944.

Professor Nye held a Knopf fellowship in biography in 1942. He was on leave of absence from the campus from fall term 1944 to fall 1945, on a Rockefeller foundation grant to study the life of Theodore Weld, American abolitionist.

Other actions of the State Board of Agriculture include acceptance of gifts totalling $6,800. Largest single gift was a $2,500 grant from A. M. Todd company of Kalamazoo to be devoted to continued research in mint growing and diseases by the botany department.

No action was taken on appointment of a successor to Euwema as head of the language and literature division of the Science and Arts school.

This service will be available to all students, with counselors having particular responsibility for Basic college students.

Stress Basic College

All Basic college students will be assigned to a counselor, and those who have made a definite choice of major field will also be assigned an enrollment officer in this field. The latter will advise the student on the selection of his courses while the counselor will be available to help the student on all other questions.

Basic college students who have not made a definite selection of major (so-called undecided) will be enrolled directly by their counselor until such a selection is made. During this period the counselor will give special help by use of aptitude tests, vocational information and frequent conferences.

Students who change their preference will do so after talking the matter over with their counselor.

To Aid Adjustment

While counselors will be concerned with the vocational and educational problems of students, they will also assist with problems of personal and social adjustment. They will be available to help all students who find that they are not quite adjusted.

Train Wreck Kills One Lansing Man, Injures Second

One person was killed and another critically injured Wednesday night at 6:15 as a result of the collision of a well-known Grand Trunk freight train and a 1939 Ford tudor at the intersection of the Grand Trunk tracks and Farm Lane, one-half mile north of Mount Hope road.

Killed was Robert Edward Fedewa, 22, of 6019 Gibson street, Lansing. The other occupant of the automobile, now in a very critical condition in Edward Sparrow hospital, is Clayton E. Fulton, also 22, of 750 Clayton, Lansing. Officers Strimham and Fancher of the Campus police investigated the accident.

The car, owned and believed to have been driven by Fulton, approached the crossing at a high rate of speed, according to Andrew Grey, engineer for the train. Grey stated at the scene that he had blown several warning blasts well in advance of the crossing. Just before the impact, the driver of the car attempted to apply brakes but was too close to stop the machine.

The two men were pinned beneath the wreckage. At the hospital Fulton's case was diagnosed as a cerebral hemorrhage. The automobile was a total wreck. Little damage was done the Grand Trunk engine.

Both men were employees of a Lansing manufacturing plant.

College To Continue Full Summer Term In Future Seasons

The full 10-week summer term which was started during the war, will be continued indefinitely, according to John A. Hannah.

In previous years a six-week summer term was held, but because of the demand for round schooling, the college decided to continue the full term.

Veterinary and engine courses which required full work during the war are put back on the three-year schedule, and courses in agriculture will be arranged to enable students to pick up needed to regulate their studies, Hannah stated.

Registrar Warns Failing Students

Registrar Robert S. Linton stated yesterday that with the limiting of enrollment, campus playboys are on the way out.

"We want the capable, the able and the ambitious," Linton said, "but this is no time to spend money on those who don't want to work here. We shall continue to give every student a chance, as we have in the past. A year's time is long enough for him to prove himself capable and with the number of able and willing people who are on the waiting list, we can't afford to waste this," he said.

Prof. S. E. Crowe, dean of students, brought out that many students who would have gone into their junior year this fall did not know that a C average was a requirement of the upper schools. Every freshman and sophomore should be aware of this, he said.

Wells D, Abbot 13 Capture 'Mural Softball Honors

By BOB PEASE

The final game of the season in the Wells hall intramural softball loop was played Monday night when Ward D and Ward C took to the diamond for the playoff.

In a well-played game, Ward D walked off with the honors after putting down a Ward C rally in the final frame. The D-men got off to a good start scoring three times in the second inning and once more in the third.

Out of Trouble

Dick Carveth held Ward C's batters scoreless until the seventh when they scored two runs and with the bases loaded and only one out he managed to get by the next two men making possible a 4-2 victory.

Bob Hatfield caught for Carveth and Carl Clupper and Roger Oberlin faced each other for Ward C.

In the Abbot hall loop it is still Precinct 13 setting the pace by chalking up their sixth victory of the season Thursday night when Whitley Kilmer blanked Precinct 14.

Errors Costly

Bob Smith was on the mound for Precinct 14 and pitched a good game allowing only five hits, but numerous errors on the part of his teammates made possible three runs for the 13 men which was enough for victory. Bob Wood was behind the plate for Kilmer, while Joe Dyan did the backstopping for Smith.

Precinct 11 suffered their sixth defeat of the season Thursday night when they faced Precinct 17. In the second inning Precinct 17 sewed up the game, scor-

Oehler And Gable Take Net Crown In Doubles Final

In the final match in the doubles competition in the all-college tennis tourney, Leroy Oehler and Tom Gable defeated the team of Harry Gladstone and Bob Daniewski to clinch the doubles championship.

After barely defeating the highly touted team of Wally Bartholomew and R. E. Noble in their semi-final match, they came back in the final match to prove to the fans they were worthy of the cup when they easily and decisively defeated Gladstone and Daniewski.

In their semi-final match Gladstone and Daniewski defeated the team of Harry Helmer and Dick Leighton in a well played and interesting set.

In the singles competition the final match has yet to be played, but it will be Don Waldron matched against R. E. Noble.

Noble, the best publicized man in the tourney, gave fans plenty to talk about when he beat Bill Hammond in his third round match and the one tourney favorite, Constantine Spets. It was a hard fought contest and the outcome was in doubt until the last point was scored. Many fans considered Spets as one of the major upsets of the tourney.

Wally Bartholomew, who fans had picked to win the tourney after showing very good form in the early round matches, went down to defeat in his third round match at the hands of Don Waldron. Waldron was looked as the dark horse of the tourney and advanced to the final round by defeating Bartholomew and winning on default from Gladstone.

Gladstone got past his semi-final match defeating Duncun Letka, but was unable to appear against Waldron in the final, losing on default.

ing nine runs off Cliff Beem, Precinct 11 hurler.

George Kosnich was doing the mound work for the 17-men and allowed only four scattered hits. Russ Angeli caught for Kosnich while Bob Brinkman was named as catcher for Beem.

Easy Win

Precinct 10 had an easy time of it with Precinct 18, sending them down to defeat by the time of 7-3. John Hamilton took the honors with Dick Montague behind the plate. For Precinct 18 it was Morris Lubbe and Robert Acton.

A free hitting contest resulted Thursday night when Precincts 15 and 16 were brought together. With the final out the score read Precinct 15, 17 runs on 18 hits and Precinct 16, 9 runs on 14 hits.

Jim Norberg was the winning hurler and pitched to Charles Nomin, Red Mason and Carl Gould made up the battery for Precinct 18.

Overtime Gang

In one of the few overtime games this season Section B defeated Section D in a game which highlighted the Teachers' camp games Monday night.

Section B got off to an early lead when they scored in the second inning but could not maintain their advantage with their opponents evening the score in the fourth. Until the eighth inning when Section B had two men cross the plate, the D-men battled on even terms.

Howard Pierski was the hurler who took the honors with Joe Miller completing the battery for Section B. Larry Kosquart and George Squires occupied the mound and backstop positions for Section D.

Shining Spree

Free hitting featured Section F's win over Section E, 16-9. The Section F batters established a five-run lead in the first inning and added seven more in the third to clinch the victory.

Larry Hortsig pitched for Section F, while Bill Beardisley occupied the mound for the losers.

LETTERS To The Editor

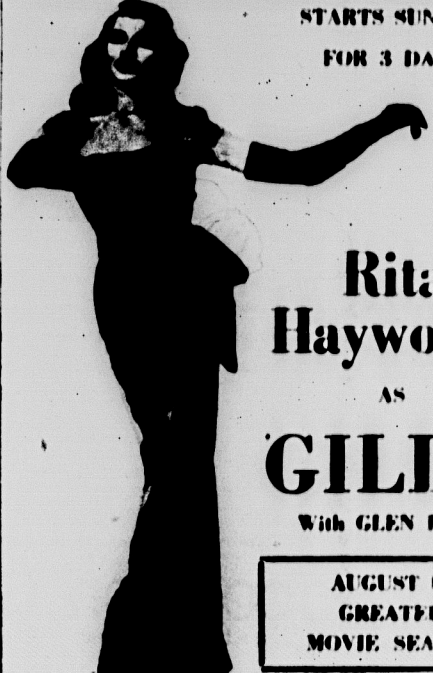

To the Editor: I think the discussion of excess profits of the 1946 Marcellus Gas has gone far enough. Both sides seem to feel that they are authorities on the subject, but as yet neither party has approached either Anne Cowan or myself, who were co-chairmen of the affair. Therefore, I submit the booklet which we used in planning the dance. We put only 1,200 tickets on sale because before this time such an amount would have been well in excess of the actual need. It just happened that the affair was better attended than we hoped for. I have heard quite a bit about the lack of school spirit on this campus. Do you blame students for not having initiative to try to get things started again? They realize that some of the people who had nothing what ever to do with the affair will sit back and knock the efforts of those who try. And anyway, so what? The next time we'll know better. Everyone I talked to had a good time and the profits went to a good cause. See LETTERS, Page 4

History Professor Publishes Book On Colorful New England Folklore

Prof. Richard M. Dorson's study of New England folklore, "Jonathan draws the Long Bow," has met a reception of critical praise from New York reviewers since publication of the book Aug. 1.

Dorson, now a member of the history and political science department, prepared the book as a phase of his work for a doctorate of philosophy at Harvard. Much of the preparation for the work consisted of collection and evaluation of the many oral versions of old legends, anecdotes and superstitions.

Donald Moffat, reviewer for the New York Times, described Dorson's work as having "dug a scholarly spade into the rich earth of Yankee legend and folk tale." The reviewer for the Herald Tribune stated that Dorson "has made a bang-up and most readable job of what, in more academic hands, might have resulted in a dreary exercise in erudition and humorous professorial asides."

At the present time Dorson is making a similar study of the folklore and customs of the upper peninsula of Michigan, working under fellowship from the Library of Congress.
