State Grant To Provide Health Care For Wives

Trailer Camp Dependents To Get Aid

Two thousand nine hundred and seventy dollars have been allocated for health care for the dependents of married veterans living in the trailer camp on Harrison road by the State Administration board, Eugene Gump, secretary of the board announced yesterday.

The money will cover the nine month period from Oct. 1 to June 30, 1947 and will provide for a full time nurse, dispensary expenses and a chest x-ray survey for trailer camp residents.

The grant was made to the Ingham county health department at the request of Dr. C. E. Barrett.

No off campus deliveries of the State News will be made until the beginning of next week, Gordon Hannah, circulation manager, has announced.

public health director of the Ingham health department. The State administrative board's action released the funds from the veteran's reserve fund to the county department.

Dr. Barrett estimated that from 2000 to 4000 wives and children of student veterans would be served under the grant. The students themselves do not come under the provisions of the fund since the college health service is at their disposal.

Central Michigan college at Mount Pleasant and Michigan State Normal college at Ypsilanti received similar grants.

All freshmen women are invited to attend the convocation, at which time Miss Mabel Petersen, assistant counselor of women, will address the group. There will also be cheerleading and group singing during the short meeting.

Since from 50 to 100 freshman women were expected to register this fall, only 100 big sisters were chosen spring term. However, when nearly 500 freshman women registered, a drive was held in dormitories and sorority houses to recruit more upper-class women as big sisters.

Accurate records as to the number of freshman women actually registered are still unavailable, making it impossible to assign definite big sisters to the freshman women.

After the information is obtained, upper-class women will be immediately notified as to who their little sisters will be.

Association members and hotel administration students interested in attending the meeting are asked to leave their names at the Union desk.

Five separate statutes have been proposed by each of the big four and Yugoslavia, and a sub-commission was able to make little progress in narrowing the differences during three weeks of negotiation.

Within the next two weeks, Towne expects to know whether the library will be able to adequately service the students under present conditions. The problem is made more difficult by the shortage of textbooks. Ideally, there should be one book in the assigned reading room for every 10 students who must use it.

Towne believes that the faculty may have to curtail library reading assignments until the proposed addition, which will extend the assigned reading room and enlarge the stacks, can be constructed. It is hoped that the work can be begun by June.

The assigned reading room will be extended 100 feet on the east which will enable the books to be placed on open shelves from which each student may select the book he wants. This plan will do away with the long lines in front of the desk.

Another factor which will create confusion at the beginning of the term is the shortage of trained student help; and the large number of new students who are unfamiliar with the procedure of the library.

Towne can see no immediate solution to the problem, which is being faced by many college librarians.

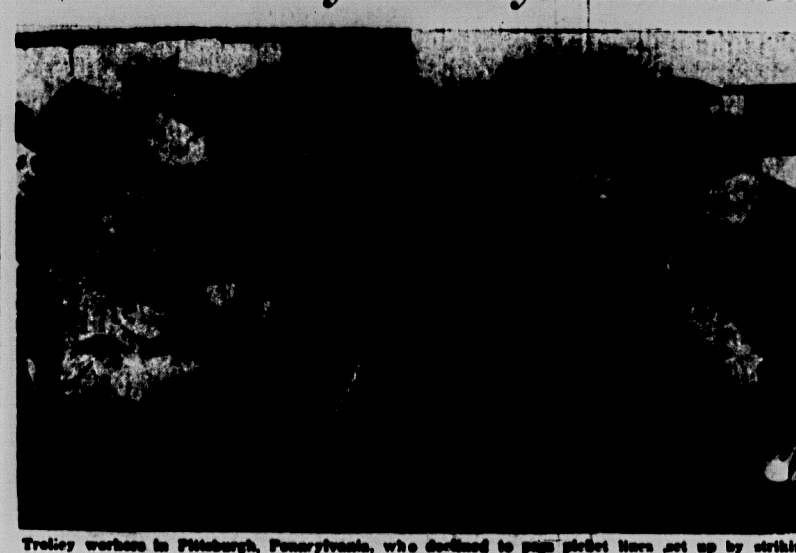

Production Supervisor J. Kenneth Richards announced that he will produce eight shows a week with talent drawn entirely from the student body.

All students interested in auditioning should call Richards at Ext. 408 or appear in person at his office on the fourth floor of College auditorium.

Wholesalers and retailers will be allowed to pass the increase along as soon as they receive chocolate and cocoa at the higher rates.

Coeds To Meet At Big Sister Convocation

Annual activities of Big Sister council will be started this evening with the convocation to be held at 7:15 in Music auditorium. The quota of 500 big sisters has now been filled, and all upper-class women who signed as big sisters this fall and those selected last spring will attend.

All freshmen women are invited to attend the convocation, at which time Miss Mabel Petersen, assistant counselor of women, will address the group. There will also be cheerleading and group singing during the short meeting.

It has worked before! She was one of about six women vets in the line and, at the time, was number 246.

Clifford Brown from Yale, another member of the freshman class which comprised an unproporionally high percentage of the queue, struck the saddest note. "So far, my stay in college has been just like the army, 'Stand in line and hurry up and wait.'"

Student Council Revives Movies

Tonight at 7:30 in the Union ballroom the Student Council will revive the showing of Michigan State football games with a showing of the State-Wayne game which was played last Saturday.

Discontinued during the war, the pictures were a regular feature of pre-war days. If attendance increases as expected, future showings will be in Fairchild theater.

Tonight John Pingle, backfield coach and former Spartan star will act as narrator and describe the fine points of the action taking place on the screen.

All students are invited to attend this picture. There is no charge.

Goering Sentenced To Death By International Tribunal

12 Nazi Leaders Face Execution; Von Papen, Schach Win Acquittal

NUERNBERG, Germany, Oct. 1 (AP)—Hermann Goering and 11 other Nazi chiefs who helped Adolf Hitler plunge the world into the greatest war of all time were sentenced today to death by hanging.

Seven other defendants, including Rudolf Hess, were sentenced to prison and three were acquitted by the four-power military tribunal in the first international war crimes trial.

The death sentences will be carried out in the Nuernberg jail, probably Oct. 16. The prison terms will be served in a four-power jail in Berlin.

Concluding the 10-month trial, the international military tribunal announced the sentences after completing the reading of a 100,000 word history-making judgment ruling that aggressive warfare "is the supreme crime."

Hans Fritzsche, Franz von Papen and Hjalmar Schacht were acquitted, with Russia dissenting.

Sentenced to hang, besides Goering, were Joachim von Ribbentrop, Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, Ernest Kaltenbrunner, Alfred Rosenberg, Hans Frank, Wilhelm Frick, Julius Streicher, Fritz Sauechel, Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl, Arthur Seyss-Inquart and Martin Bormann (tried in absentia).

Sentenced to prison were Hess, Walther Funk and Grand Adm. Erich Raeder, life terms; Baldur von Schrach and Albert Speer, 20 years; Constantin von Neurath, 15 years; and Grand Adm. Karl Doernitz, 10 years.

Goering, whose guilt was declared by the court to be "unique in its enormity," put his head in his hands and appeared lost in thought, but his expression remained immobile as chief justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence continued reading in a monotone.

Hess dashed the earphones from his head and did not even hear sentence pronounced.

Keitel gulped, lowered his sharp Prussian chin and stared blankly into space.

Physically Affected

The pudgy Funk alone appeared physically affected by the sentencing. His knees sagged as he walked out.

Frick, an old Nazi street fighter, bowed curtsy to the court as he left.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Government action to ease the meat shortage bobbed up a possibility today as the Agriculture department reported that production is only 27 per cent of what it was a year ago.

Indications that the administration is considering steps to increase supplies for home dinner tables and hospitals came from two sources — Representative Spence (D-Ky.) chairman of the house banking committee, and Secretary of Agriculture Anderson.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—"Initially all on the eve of his 75th birthday, Cordell Hull tonight solemnly charged the big 5 powers with a "special responsibility to cooperate for world peace and warned that failure to produce that unity would lead to "incalculable disaster."

Less than 24 hours after he suffered a stroke, the wartime Secretary of State put forth his forthright message at — in his words — "one of the most perilous junctures in history."

It was a message of confidence that the world's statesmen "will not fail in this critical test" — the task of forging world peace. But it was tempered by grim reminders of the difficulties in the way of that goal.

Union Board

Antes Dances for Weekend

The Union Ballroom will be the scene of two dances sponsored by the union during this weekend. Couples are admitted to dance from 8 until 12 mid-night on Friday and Saturday evenings.

The dances will be announced later in the week according to the Bulletin board and president of the union.

Butler added that the grill will be open until 11:30 for both dances.

Request has insured return of the machine during which were held by Union last year. The first dance will be held in the ballroom Thursday afternoon and the second on Friday from 8 to 11 p. m. Students attend singly or in groups.

Faculty Committee on the Faculty, H. Y. and Bill Page, Michigan State University, are the sponsors of the faculty dances.

Faculty members are holding a series of conferences on Russia's latest demand on Turkey for military forces in the Dardanelles.

At the same time Acheson tersely defended the presence of United States naval forces in the Mediterranean.

Diplomatic authorities said meanwhile that American and British embassies in Ankara presumably and automatically advised the Turkish foreign office that the continuing policies of their governments are to oppose Russian military expansion into the eastern Mediterranean and the Black Sea.

In fact, top American officials contended that the real issue in the case goes far beyond control of the waterway and centers around the independence of Turkey. The argument of these American policy makers is that for Russia to have an adequate share in the defense of the straits in an air age she would have to occupy all of Turkey.

There is reason to believe that this view of the matter has been approved by President Truman and represents basic American thinking on the Turkish issue.

Tickets Available For "Il Trovatore"

Reserved seat tickets to the opera "Il Trovatore" being presented at College auditorium Saturday and Sunday are now available for all students in the ticket office in Administration building.

The student will present his activity book and mention the performance he desires to see. He will then be given reserved seats to one of the two scheduled performances.

All musical numbers on the lecture-concert series have been scheduled for two separate performances while the lecturers have been retained only one.

All Work And No Play?

Beside courses, classes, books, and instructors, students at college need an ample program of recreation and entertainment as well. The tried, though trite adage, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," still holds good.

The lecture-concert series, athletic events and the regular schedule of all-college dances contribute to this need but will not suffice. Our unprecedented enrollment of 13,000 demands that we inaugurate additional events.

The State News suggests that:

A. College auditorium, the Union ballroom and other suitable places be utilized for dancing on weekend nights when not otherwise in use.

B. College facilities be made available for entertainment such as parties, playlets, musicals and the like.

C. The social committees of the various campus organizations, of the fraternities, sororities and the dormitories maintain active social programs for their respective members.

It will be a sad commentary of our campus life if, when weekends roll around, students must resign themselves to "nothing to do," or be unable to participate in the functions of the night because of overcrowding, and have no adequate function to attend.

Spartan morale should be kept high with a full program of social activities. Students will stay on campus weekends if they have something to do. All that need be done is to provide the activities, and enough of them.

THE Lobster Shift

By HELEN GOVER

SINCE the naming of my column, the title has become obsolete as far as the State News is concerned. For now if we function with a "lobster shift," you will not have the paper to read with your morning coffee.

The "lobster shift" is the time spent working on a paper after midnight, once a regular policy of the State News staff. With the inauguration of an eight-column daily and the increase in the number of papers that must be printed, deadlines were established that make midnight the end of the evening instead of just the beginning. I have no desire, however, to start drumming up another name, so it will remain.

There is no better time than the present for the college to start cracking down on slumped scholarship. With the overcrowding of college facilities and the overloading of teaching schedules, there is no place in the classroom for the student with a negative attitude toward his studies. One theory that has been advanced is that every person should be allowed to get as much out of his years of college as he wants to. This is based on the idea that a little education never hurt anyone. That view may be all right in theory, but when it means regarding the progress of the students who are eager to get the most out of college, it should be thrown outside the window. Anyone who consistently hits below a C average should have no place in the college classroom, logging down the facilities for those persons truly interested in an education.

Monday night, one of the fellows from the Quonset huts took his watch off while he washed up. When he returned his watch had come up missing. This jammed-in living has created new problems never suspected until it was put into operation. The missing timepiece can give you an idea of one of them.

It is even a risk to take clothes out of a locked suitcase and hang them up to get the wrinkles out of them, because a missing white shirt can prove to be a minor tragedy and a lost suit adds up to a catastrophe.

Communal living can be the answer to crowded housing conditions until more suitable places are found only with the wholehearted cooperation of all the students that are exposed to it.

Share Your Books

Long lines in front of all the bookstores, coupled with fast-depleting supplies of books, mean that many a student will be minus the books he needs this term.

Until the supplies are replenished (and the immediate prospects are poor), those books that are to be had should be made to go around as much as possible.

How about sharing your texts with your fellow classmates? If you already know someone in your class, it's an easy matter. And if you don't know the student sitting next to you, get acquainted. You can then arrange hours convenient to both of you so that each of you will have access to the single text.

By so doing you will be giving other students a needed lift and be helping ease the strain of the book shortage.

TRIALS

He received his sentence of death and all the others reacted much in the same way that has characterized their demeanor in all the long trial.

Shortly after their acquittal, Schacht, von Papen and Fritzsche stroled smugly out of the jail and held a turbulent news conference at which Schacht was as cocky and belligerent as ever.

The financier of Hitler's war machine said that there used to be laws and free opinion in Germany, but there appeared to be neither laws nor free opinion now.

The Russian member of the tribunal, Maj. Gen. I. T. Nikitchenko, dissented on the acquittal of the trio and also declared that Hess should have been sentenced to death instead of life imprisonment.

The Soviet justice also asserted that the court erred in not declaring that the Reich cabinet and general staff and high command were criminal organizations.

Justice Robert H. Jackson, chief U.S. prosecutor, said in a statement that he regretted that the tribunal had acquitted Schacht and von Papen and had "declined to declare the criminality of the general staff." He did not refer to the acquittal of Fritzsche.

However, Jackson praised the action of the court in sustaining and applying the principle that aggressive war is a crime for which statesmen may be individually punished.

I personally regard the conviction and sentence of individuals as of secondary importance compared with the significance of the commitments by the four nations to the proposition that wars of aggression are criminal and that persecution of conquered minorities on racial, religious or political grounds is likewise criminal," Jackson said.

The defendants were tried under a bill of indictment containing four counts. All of the prisoners were accused of at least two of the counts and some were accused of all four.

Affairs of State

By THOMAS LUCAS

TAKE one look in the Union grill and you'll know that State has started off with a bang. Things are a little congested with the new freshmen, returned vets, transfers and the old standbys back on campus, but you can get along even if you don't have a place to sleep or are tired of standing in line, can't find the class you are supposed to be attending, and can't find your date on the upper deck of the Union. Yes, things look a little bad, but remember, keep smiling.

The ranks of Delta Chi have been swelled with the return of several members from the service. Former president Tom Gable, Battle Creek junior, heads the list followed by Dale Kissel, Seneca Falls, N. Mabel Petersen Returns To State; Will Assist Counselor Of Women

Mabel Petersen, whose appointment as assistant to the counselor of women at MSC began Oct. 1, has recently completed two years in the WAVES as a Lieutenant (O2).

Prior to entering service she was housing director for women here. She served in the same capacity while stationed in Washington, D. C. There she was on an administrative staff for one of the three Naval barracks in which some 1,000 women were housed.

The building, a temporary structure, was located in Arlington Farms, Va., across from Arlington National cemetery and one of three being occupied by naval personnel. Approximately 2,000 WAVES and 2,000 civilians were housed in the settlement frequently called "stretches of women."

Unique in its development, the settlement had its own cafeteria, movies, recreation halls, beauty parlors, store, fire department and rigid rules.

Upon returning to MSC, Miss Petersen will help with the women's organizations of the campus and other duties now performed by Mrs. Isabelle Gonon, counselor of women.

Campus Appearance

Her first public appearance on campus will be tonight when she speaks to the Big-Little Sister convocation in the music auditorium. Miss Petersen helped set up the organization on this campus.

When a student at State, Miss Petersen helped to organize the Spartan Women's League and has accepted the position of co-adviser of the group. Miss Elizabeth Daniels, of physical education, is now aiding the group in their activities.

St. Louis Batters Tally 12 Hits in First Of Flag Playoff Series

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 1 (AP)—The Cardinals roared out of their batting slump today to smash a dozen hits off five Brooklyn pitchers, and, behind Louie Pollett's smooth twirling, trounced the Dodgers, 4 to 2, in the opener of their three-game play-off for the National League flag.

Led by their veteran captain, Terry Moore, and their prize young rookie catcher, Joe Garabola, each of whom blasted three hits, the Redbirds sewed up the contest by shelling Ralph Branca, 30-year-old Dodger right-hander, from the hill in the third round, when they scored the second and third of their runs.

Schultz Scores Twice
Howie Schultz, elongated Dodger first baseman, accounted for both the losers' runs off Pollett as the left-hander reeled up his first game of the year. Schultz led off the Dodger third with a mighty flout into the left field bleachers, his third homer of the year, and drove Pee-wee Reese across with the other tally in the seventh round on a clean single into right field.

Except for those two instances, Pollett kept eight Brooklyn hits well scattered for the most part, and, upon the several occasions when he appeared to waver, he was saved by sensational fielding behind him.

Three Double Plays
Three swift double plays pulled him out of threatening spots, and a beautiful throw by right fielder, Enos "Country" Slaughter in the seventh almost certainly saved the slim southpaw's bacon.

Today's victory, won before a disappointing crowd of only 6,012, made the Cards solid favorites to take the play-off and meet the Boston Red Sox in the world series. Manager Eddie Dyer said he expected to send Murry Dickson, a right-hander, out after he clinched in Brooklyn on Thursday.

Leo Durocher was expected to fill upon Joe Nathan, a southpaw.

Spartans Point For BC Game

Weighty Boston College Line Poses Problem For Spartans

Well pleased with the defensive line play which held Wayne Tartars to a net gain of 39 yards in Saturday's opening game, line coach Al Kawal and end coach Lou Zarza were never the less not too over-optimistic concerning the job that lies ahead in putting the stop on that big Boston College line coming to Macklin stadium Saturday.

"You figure it out for yourself," Kawal said, as he showed the B. C. line roster over the desk. "It looks like we'll be outweighed about 20 pounds a man in the forward wall, and we can stand a lot of improvement if we're to hold the Eagles," he continued, but added confidently, "I think we can do it."

Heavy Eagle Line
That roster included such names as Chet Lipka, 220 pound end, Dom Papalco, 235 at end, Angie Sisti, 225 tackle, Johnny Kissel, another tackle, 230, "Yo-Yo" Gianneli, 255 pound guard who is expected to make a strong bid for All-America honors in that slot, and Pat Darone, only a "little fellow," 210 pound guard.

Incidentally, the Spartans will run into their first opponent which operates offensively out of the T-formation. The Eagles use it exclusively.

Ken Balge, at end and Don LeClair, 200 pound guard received plaudits from the line tutors as having turned especially good jobs in the line Saturday, while Zarza was ready to agree the block that Barney Roscoff, has propped threw on that last Wayne defender, on Russ Reeder's 98-yard touchdown callup, was a bonny.

Improving Pass Defense
Monday's practice session was given over to light calisthenics drills. While the main portion of the work went to the improvement of the Spartans' pass defense, Head Coach Charley Bachman worked hard and long with his backs, stressing improvement in this department.

Early in Saturday's game it became evident that Wayne's running game could make no headway against the heavy State line, but even when the Spartans obviously expected passes, they were unable to stop them. The Tartars completed 15 of 26 forward passes for 167 yards.

Boston college will have an aerial offense undoubtedly superior to Wayne's, a fact which has been emphasized by Bachman at drills. Ed Clardy, Eagle quarterback, completed nine of 16 forward pass attempts, one for a touchdown against Wake Forest last Friday night.

Eagles Lead in Yardage
Wake Forest's 12-6 victory was gained on the strength of several B. C. fumbles. The statistics, a more accurate representation of the relative strength of the teams, show Boston college with a decided advantage, leading in total yardage gained rushing and passing.

Spartan trainer Jack Heppinstall was all smiles as he reported no injuries following the post game player check ups. "Everybody came through in good shape," was his comment.

Naturday's game with Boston will be the third of a series started in 1935, and the first to be played at Macklin field. The Eagles won 18-6 in 1935 and played State to a 13-12 tie a year later.

Coach Denny Myers, Boston college T-specialist will bring his charges to Macklin field Saturday afternoon.

Coach Lauren Brown is confident after recent workouts and forecasts his most successful season since 1938. His track team placed fifth in the national collegiate meet last year and he feels his team will better this mark in the '46 running.

One of his standout performers is Jack Dianetti, a freshman who won the 1500 AAU championship in 1945. Jack was only 15 at that time and won world wide recognition as a boy wonder. Because of a leg injury Jack was unable to enter into competition 1st year, but he is back once again in an effort to win new laurels. Coach Brown is looking forward to great things from Dianetti and feels he will develop into one of the outstanding track stars of the country.

Jim Gibbard, a member of last year's team is back and as a outstanding miler figures high in the plans of Brown along with Bill Scott a returned veteran from Buffalo, N. Y. Before he left for the service in 1942 Scott ran the mile in 4:14. These men along with a host of other top notch performers back up Brown's claim of an outstanding team.

The schedule is as follows: Penn State at State College, Oct. 19; Notre Dame at East Lansing, Oct. 26; Loyola invitational meet at Chicago, Nov. 2; triangular meet with Wisconsin and Iowa at Madison Nov. 9; IC4A championships at New York, Nov. 16.

Fraternities Commence Rush Season Tomorrow With Annual IFC Smoker

Fraternities will open their formal rush season tomorrow night with a smoker in the Union ballroom, according to Paul Cline, Owosso senior, and president of Interfraternity council.

Active members of each fraternity will attend the event to acquaint new men on the campus with their respective organizations and their functions.

Open houses for men interested in learning more of fraternities will be announced after the IFC smoker, Cline revealed. Rushes will then have a chance to visit with additional activities, look through the houses, and hear of various groups' histories, finances, and functions on campus.

Returned to be Invited
Following the smoker and open houses, rushes who are prospects for pledging will receive invitations to attend evening rush parties. New men will have a chance to inquire into the group's expectations of its pledges.

Cline stated that no fraternities will pledge a rushee until two weeks of classes are completed. He emphasized that this period will give men an opportunity to visit numerous houses before they are asked to pledge.

Membership Growth
The momentum of State's pre-war fraternity life is expected to increase with the return of old members from the service and the formation of large pledge classes.

Seventeen national fraternities are now active on campus. Among their goals are high standards of scholarship, inter-fraternity sports, and social life centering about pleasurable brotherhood living.

Protectors and Presidents
Local chapters of national fraternities and their house presidents are Alpha Epsilon Pi, 214 Michigan avenue, Leonard Scribner, New York City sophomore; Alpha Gamma Iho, 803 East Grand River avenue, Bill Pope, Addison junior; Alpha Tau Omega, 541 Evergreen street, Dick Neuhoff, Detroit senior; and Delta Chi, 101 Woodmere avenue, Robert Hoyle, Farmington senior.

WAA Makes Year's Plans For Coeds

At their first meeting of the year, board members of the Women's Athletic Association, launched sports schedule for fall term which will consist of soccer and field hockey games, and fencing tournaments. Practices for these sports will begin Oct. 8, at the Women's gym.

As WAA membership includes every woman registered at MSC, freshman women as well as upper classmen who are interested in the fall sports schedule are invited to attend the practices. Women who played high school basketball, or other competitive sports are especially desired to take an active part in the fall inter-class games.

An Open Field
It is not necessary to be enrolled in hockey, soccer, or fencing, to take part in the practices.

Plans were also discussed at the board meeting for the organization of the hockey games between the classes. Rose Nahra, Hazel Park sophomore, was appointed to fill the vacancy as manager of hockey and canoeing, when Barbara Jenks, California freshman, resigned.

Large Program
WAA activities last year included an intramural program between teams representing women's residences, as well as the inter-class games in all of the sports offered at MSC. Special events sponsored by this organization include hikes, bike trips, canoe trips, table tennis tournaments, as well as social activities consisting mainly of luncheons or dinners.

Participants in any WAA activity will automatically gather points toward the winning of their college letters. Points may also be earned by canoeing, hiking, roller skating, bicycling, and horse back riding.
