'Il Trovatore' Plays Tonight And Sunday

'Il Trovatore,' violence packed opera by Giuseppe Verdi begins a two-day stand at College auditorium tonight at 8:15.

The second performance of the Charles L. Wagner production will be presented Sunday afternoon at 2:15. A different cast making up the major parts will be used for each performance.

Out Of Character

Ernest Opland, better known as a graduate advisor to the Spartans, appeared out of his role yesterday afternoon. He was seen sitting on a bench in a walkway near Grand River avenue.

After Trolley Runs Wild

This was the scene in suburban Eagle Rock, Los Angeles, Calif., after an unattended runaway streetcar sped wildly down the town's main street for 10 blocks, jumped the rails on a curve, and skidded sideways into six parked automobiles, one of them grand new. A lone woman passenger of the streetcar received a strained arm. (A. P. Wirephoto)

'Things Are Rough' Life In Quonset Village Needs Philosophic View

Reveille is never blown at Quonset Village, but occupants are expecting the sweet sound of a bugle at 6 o'clock most any morning. The village definitely has a GI atmosphere. Amid rows of shiny quonset huts set in piles of dirt, 1,471 new initiates to the MSC campus stroll daily, muttering substantial gripes and philosophical sayings under their breath.

An Aid For Voters

In order to aid students in securing their absentee ballots for the general elections this fall, the college chapter of the American Veterans committee plans to have a desk in the Union next week to help eligible voters make their applications to home town election officials.

With so many Detroit students in attendance this term, AVC will petition City Clerk Thomas Leadbetter to send a deputy here so that voters from the Detroit area can register on campus.

University of Michigan students have already secured this registration privilege, and if enough Detroiters sign the petition, State can follow suit.

It is your right of citizenship to cast a ballot in the elections this fall. It is your responsibility to see that you are registered properly and that you secure your absentee ballot if you can't go home on election day.

The right to vote is precious; do not neglect it.

Get Books Into Circulation

Dry though they may be, textbooks are high on the list of necessary evils to be hauled in obtaining a college education. Unfortunately, there is no substitute and their shortage has resulted in a very real crisis for those who can't find them.

From Carl W. Staser, Rochester freshman, comes an idea that should help. Staser urges all upper classmen to bring forth old books and sell or lend them to those desperate for copies. The State News concurs. Get those old books into circulation.

King Sees Need For Additional Greek Groups

Judging from the turnout at the Interfraternity smoker which was held Wednesday night, there is definitely more room for fraternities around campus. Tom King, counselor of men, stated yesterday.

The only change in the fraternities will be the initiation of the Omega Alpha, which will become the Iota chapter of Delta Tau Delta. The event is scheduled for the first week of January.

Several other applications from other Greek organizations have been received but none have yet been approved.

One of the main difficulties for a new fraternity to organize at the present time would be the critical housing shortage. Without a house, a fraternity will find it hard to organize.

As to the laws in East Lansing prohibiting the building of fraternity houses, King declared that outside of the zones that are prohibited there is plenty of room for new ones.

When open house starts at the fraternities next Monday, the number of men turning out for the event will give an added indication to the contention that there is a need for more.

QUONSET

tically hoping for another mess hall. At present, a 3-block line leads to the door each meal and men are having trouble making claims due to the delay.

Gerard Crosby, Belding sophomore and transfer student from Illinois, said he expected to pay for his accommodations, but that a difference of approximately 15 dollars a term between dormitories and the village was rather unfair since the boys in Mason-Abbott Chateau got so much more for their money. Crosby stated that the village gets $1.87 a month rent for the quonsets. "I don't like paying for them so fast."

Work going slowly.

Another general gripe over at the village is that the work is progressing so slowly. As the News reporter walked through the area an hour before dinner time, seven workmen were seen sitting on crates, lying on the ground, and passing the time of day.

Consensus of opinion at the village is that getting started in school is rough enough without the additional burden of present Quonset village life.

Students representing 27 different nations, including India, Egypt, Turkey, Hawaii and South America, will be present.

Recruiters To Seek V-6 Enrollees

Navy Representatives To Appear in Union For Enlistment Drive

Recruiting representatives from the Navy's V-6 inactive duty program will be in the Union lobby Wednesday and Thursday from 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. to enroll discharged veterans in the naval reserve. Lieut. (jg) J. H. Farber, officer in charge announced yesterday.

The program is open to all discharged veterans regardless of the branch of their previous service. The enlistments are for a four-year period. Members of the naval reserve do not have to report to their draft board.

Enrollees will keep their civilian status and no member of the naval reserve can be called to active duty except in cases of national emergency. Recruiting officers point out that no national emergency has ever existed in this country except in time of war.

No Shipping Required

The program does not require any week night training or summer cruises. However, members of the reserve may join the organized reserve and get full pay for meetings and training tours.

Veterans of the navy or coast guard will be enrolled at their previous rate and promotions will be possible. Elapse time since discharge will have no bearing on enlistment in the V-6. Men discharged for physical disabilities or inaptitude, and those drawing veterans disability compensation are not eligible.

Longevity will be accumulative and men who join the group will still receive all benefits of the GI bill of rights. Enrollment will only take a few minutes. Lieutenant Farber stated.

Former navy men must be from 17 to 63 years of age. For all other veterans the limits are 17 through 35.

Certain Forms Required

All applicants must present their honorable discharges and all former navy personnel must bring 53 received upon discharge. Former army personnel must present discharge certificates 615-360, 615-362, 615-365.

All applicants must be citizens of the United States or its insular possessions. Married men or men with dependents are also eligible for the program.

No mental or physical examination will be required of men signing up. Naval reserve label but identification card will be given to men who join.

Six Fraternities Will Begin Informal Rushing On Monday

Six fraternities will initiate informal rushing season Monday evening by holding open house for all men interested.

Tuesday and Wednesday evenings the remaining fraternities will be open. The houses have been grouped according to their location in order to enable rushees to reach each house.

The houses will receive rushers from 7 to 10 p. m., and the men are invited to stay as long as they wish but are advised to attempt to visit every house.

The houses for the open houses on Monday are: Sigma Nu, 444 Abbott Road; Omega Alpha, 451 Evergreen, Farmhouse, 526 Sunset Lane; Theta Chi, 453 Abbott Road; and Omega Alpha, 335 East Grand River.

Band To Play For BC Tilt

Spectators will be pleased with the first performance of the band at the Boston college football game today. Leonard Falcone, director of the Michigan State marching band predicted yesterday. This will mark the first time the band has performed in four years.

Falcone said that in spite of the fact that two-thirds of the members are new, and the group has had only five days practice, the playing will be as good as ever.

The band will make two trips, the first to play at the U. of M. game at Ann Arbor on November 3, the second to Lexington, Kentucky where they will perform before the U. of Kentucky fans.

Keep Building U. S., Lecturer Tells Audience

"Keep right on building this America... you have everything with which to make this a great era in history," said Dr. Will Durant last night in a dramatic conclusion to his five-day lecture series held this week at Fairchild Theater.

Speaking on "Politics: What is Civilization?" and covering virtually all aspects of his subject, he began by defining civilization as "orderly freedom."

"Chaos" he said, "is the mother of dictatorship and order, the mother of freedom." He continued by enumerating the four forms of order: biological, political, economical and moral. "But unless order can generate freedom," he stated, "you can hardly call it civilization."

Defining a cultured man as one who has "richly absorbed the heritage of his race," he concluded with a list of eight characteristics of the civilized man, stressing the ability to meet all situations.

In his series of lectures designed to bring students a "larger perspective" he has sought to define truth, man, beauty, morality, and civilization. Large audiences attended every lecture and the volume of questions asked by students attests to the success of the series. J. M.

Barney Oldfield Dies in Slumber

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Oct. 4 (AP)—Barney Oldfield, who courted sudden death hundreds of times on the racetrack, succumbed peacefully today to a heart attack. He was 66.

The cigar-chewing Oldfield, first and greatest of the daredevils who swung crude machines around sharp, unbanked dirt turns to give sports fans a new thrill early in the century, had in late years become a crusader for traffic safety. Early this year he made his last swing around the country, preaching careful driving.

His wife, Bessie, found him dead in bed. Earlier, when she went outside to get a newspaper, he was slumbering. Death apparently came without warning, although he had complained yesterday of neck pains.

Wayne Aerials Make JV Touchdowns

Under varsity football started off with a bang, yesterday, the MSU Jayvees waded high, wide and sometimes handily in a 51-0 rout of Wayne U's "B" squad.

It was a wide-awake pass defense, rather than the lack of that made this walk-off different from the variety encounter of a week ago. Wayne never made a substantial scoring threat.

All-College Dance Highlights Weekend Social Festivities

Golf Tournament, Radio Parties Also Planned

Lights will be blazing from one end of the campus to the other tonight as Spartans celebrate the end of the first week of classes with varied and numerous social events.

Union ballroom will be the scene of an all-college dance later this evening from 9 to 12 midnight. Jimmy Seider and his band will take the music honors and the grill will be open for refreshments.

Tickets for this Union board sponsored affair may be obtained at Union desk, Marie Krieger, Kenmore, N. Y. seniors seated.

Another open affair tonight will be "Golf Tourney," an all-college mixer sponsored by the Christian Student Foundation in the social hall of the Peoples church, beginning at 8:30 p. m.

A miniature golf tournament will be included in the fun plans for the evening. Darrell Cook, East Lansing senior, chairman, revealed.

Patrons for the "Get-acquainted" event will be Prof. and Mrs. J. D. Menchhofer, Miss Faith Runyan, and Earl McCullough.

Several fraternity chapters on campus tonight are inaugurating their fall term social programs. The NAF's will hold their dates at an informal radio party tonight from 9 to 12. Ted Carson, Birmingham senior, announced.

An original piano competition, now being copyrighted, will be played by its composer, Ben Skelton, Saginaw sophomore, as one of the highlights of the affair. Dancing, presentation of door prizes, and a song fest will also be included in the evening's plans. Ed Pogor and Dr. and Mrs. N. S. Hall will attend as patrons.

Back again in their house on Havelit street, the Lambda Chi Alphas will fling open doors at 9 tonight for an informal party. Vics and group singing will entertain in a school-day atmosphere chosen as the theme. Joe Davidson, Channing, Tex. senior, social chairman, declared.

Heading the patron list will be Prof. and Mrs. Edward Deveroux and Mrs. Allen, house-mother, while the guest list will include Prof. and Mrs. Lawrence Quill, Prof. and Mrs. Paul Bagwell, Prof. and Mrs. Charles Barr, Mr. and Mrs. Emery Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lamphear, Prof. and Mrs. Jake Dauhoft, Prof. and Mrs. Joe Shedy, and Mr. and Mrs. John Schlegler.

Other Greeks playing hosts tonight will be Farmhouse, pledges who are entertaining activities and their guests at a radio event from 9 to 12 p. m.

Dowey Gerlach, Detroit junior, named Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sherwood and Prof. and Mrs. Carl Gerlach as patrons, in addition to the housemother, Mrs. Gertrude Harrington.

Final radio party of the evening will be at the Phi Delta Theta house, also beginning at 9 p. m.

Tomorrow's social doings for Spartans include a picnic and a mixer dance. Newman club members and friends will leave from St. Thomas Aquinas church tomorrow at 2 p. m. for a hike and picnic at the East Lansing park.

Patrons for the "Spunkies" will be Prof. and Mrs. Thomas McGuire and Rev. Jerome V. McEachin. All students interested in attending are welcome. Maureen Shannon, Powers senior, stated.

Hillel foundation will sponsor a mixer-dance tomorrow at 7 p. m. in the Hillel house, 319 Hillel crest. Refreshments will be served and fun for all is promised. Betty Chern, Muskegon junior, chairman, advised.

A tradition of old standing is one that bans smoking on the campus. Help keep State beautiful.

Young Citizens PAC To Form Chapter On MSC Campus

A new group organized to encourage and make effective the participation of young citizens of America in progressive political action, has received approval by Student Council to hold meetings on campus.

The Young Citizens Political Action committee is being formed on campus under the leadership of Douglas Kealey, Williamston freshman. On Oct. 10 the grill will sponsor a dinner open to the public at which time the guest speaker will be Arthur Elliot who will oppose Congressman Buckley from the 6th Congressional district in the November elections. The dinner will be held in Hunt's food shop at 6:30.

The approval of the council is only temporary and will not be permanent until a constitution for the group has been submitted to them for action.

Included in the program of the group are such purposes as aiding in low cost housing, increased educational opportunities for all, the building of an effective United Nations and increased tuition and subsistence allowances for married and single veterans.

Campus chapter of Young Citizens PAC is part of a national organization.

Ag Board Approves Two Appointments

Two graduate assistantships in the English department have been approved by the Michigan State Board of Agriculture. Take Asawa of Covina, Calif., and Joan Clay Tague from South Bend, Ind., who have been appointed to the post, will work on an English bibliography under Prof. Claude M. Newlin.

Expansion Of ROTC Unit Brings Major Changes

Michigan State's military department is rapidly attaining preeminence throughout the nation, Colonel John L. Whitelaw, ROTC commandant, announced yesterday.

Along with the increase in enrollment, new uniforms, revised circula and a special-trained staff of instructors have enhanced both the basic and advanced classes.

During the past year quarter-master, field and coast artillery, signal corps, military police and air corps units have been added to the department, in addition to the original infantry and cavalry courses.

Students in basic classes are placed in the field for which they are best suited. Those wishing to take advanced training may choose their own branch.

Since all cavalry units are now mechanized, armored vehicles will replace the horse cavalry for which State was so well known in previous years. Recoless artillery and signal corps radios, M1 rifles and 105 field pieces will give students practical training in all of the latest armament of the war department. Equipment which has not arrived yet is expected in the near future.

Basic uniforms now include the green combat jacket worn over OD shirt and pants. Regulation GI shoes are now issued and will make the troops more uniform. Adaptable to any size or shape, the jacket replaces the obsolete uniform blouse with blue lapels which has been discarded.

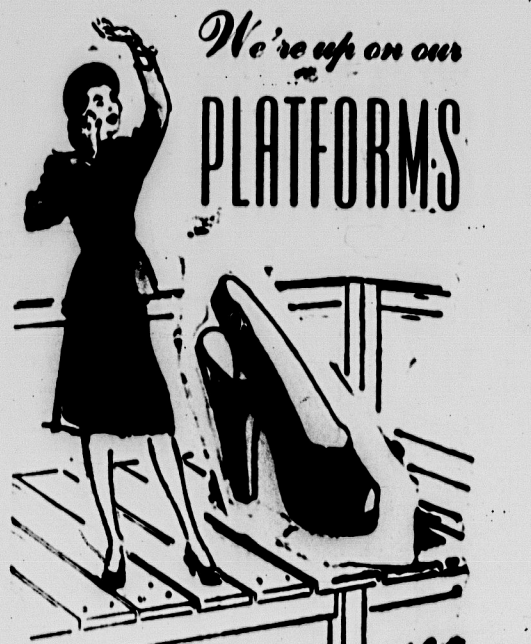

Instructors on the staff have been increased to 14 officers and 15 enlisted men. Under new regulations both of these groups must attend special schools before teaching ROTC courses.

In addition, requirements demand that they have overseas service to their credit. This assures a competent course which will give students not only theory, but practical application of the different principles as observed in actual combat during the war.

Papers To Be Mailed

Students giving post office box numbers or rural route numbers as their address for the State News are reminded that no post office deliveries are made unless the 25 cent mailing fee is paid. Unless other arrangements are made at the State News office, these students will find their papers at the Union Desk, Morrill Hall or the auditorium.

OPA Allows Boost In Restaurant Prices

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4 (AP) — OPA today allowed an increase of 15 percent in restaurant ceiling prices for meals containing meat, effective next Thursday, October 10.

The increase came after OPA gave up its attempt to roll back restaurant meat offerings to the levels of last June 30. In announcing the increase, the price agency said it would "restore the prices of restaurant meat prices to their normal relationship to the prices of other food items and also is designed to afford particular relief to that segment of the restaurant industry specializing primarily in meat items."

The OPA said the 15 percent boost "can be applied by all restaurants throughout the nation to their June 30, 1944, freeze ceilings which generally represent their April 4-10, 1943 prices."

OPA said exact details of the changes it is making in the restaurant regulations will be issued on Tuesday, Oct. 8.

At that time the agency said it would modify the formula for determining ceilings on meals having as the principal ingredients any decontrolled product, such as fish, poultry and dairy products.
