Trevarrow Names Board For Next Lit Supplement

Six students were named to serve on the editorial board of the State News Literary supplement yesterday by William Trevarrow, supplement editor.

Plans under way for the first term supplement have tentatively provided for a page publication with line illustrations by art students.

Selected to work on the editorial board are Dorothy W. ... East Lansing graduate student; Joyce Judd, Lansing graduate assistant; Beth Shaw, Lansing graduate student; Alice ... East Lansing senior; and Eleanor DeGraff, Detroit senior.

Trevarrow also announced that Professor C. C. Hamilton, of the English department, and Adrian ... of the English and Literature and Fine Arts departments, will serve as faculty advisors to the editorial board.

Professor Charles C. Pollock, of the art department, will act as faculty advisor for make-up, illustrations and redesigning of the supplement.

This term's supplement will mark the third issue since its beginning last spring term. It is published late each term during the school year.

Deadline for student work has been set for Feb. 14. Short stories, prose sketches, poetry and critical essays will be accepted for publication.

Dr. Kirtley Mather, geology professor at Harvard university, will speak on "Science and the Future" in College auditorium at 8:15 tonight.

A lecture of "Petroleum and Oil Shale Resources in Great Britain," illustrated with motion pictures and slides, will be given by Dr. Mather Wednesday afternoon at 1 in room 20, Merrill hall.

At the same time, Palestine partition commission was reported to have decided that an international military force was needed to enforce the UN's decision to divide the Holy Land.

The split between the East and the West widened when in Berlin Russia demanded distribution of the joint British-American economic administration of the two western zones, declaring the arrangement violated Russian agreements.

At the same time General Clay asked for four-power agreement on the language of any treaty, which has been talked by the Russians.

Forrestal Says Supply Of Oil Short

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19, (AP) — Secretary of Defense Forrestal said today there isn't enough petroleum in sight in this country to support "a major war effort."

The deficit would be at least 2,000,000 barrels a day, he said, and petroleum "is the life blood of a war machine."

Forrestal appeared before a house armed services sub-committee. His testimony added a new angle to industry-government efforts to solve critical fuel oil shortages.

Predicting that future strategic needs for oil must outweigh even greater oil consumption, Forrestal said:

"It now appears that the United States military and civilian needs for a major war effort would exceed by at least two million barrels a day the foreseeable production from the continental United States."

The national military establishment, Forrestal said, favors promotion of discoveries of new petroleum reserves, particularly in Alaska.

Forrestal urged support of the development of synthetic fuels from coal and oil shale.

GOPlaysPlans For Vote Battle

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20, (AP) — Senator Wherry of Nebraska assured fellow Republicans today that a GOP "ground swell" is on, but warned them against overconfidence.

Members of the Republican National committee, ending a two-day meeting at the Mayflower hotel, also:

1. Approved a $4,000,000 campaign war chest.

2. Heard Senator Taft's manager claim that the Ohio senator is "very definitely in the lead" for the presidential nomination.

3. Listened to complaints that hotel operators in Philadelphia, site of this year's national convention, have not come forward with all the rooms they promised and have been marking up prices 50 to 100 percent.

PRESIDENT HANNAH GAVE ADMINISTRATIVE approval to the formation of "political clubs" at MSC at the Spartan Roundtable Monday night.

THE ONLY QUALIFICATION THAT Hannah made concerned state politics. He stressed the necessity of caution in these matters in view of the fact that MSC is seeking further appropriations from the legislature.

The idea of political clubs is not necessarily to strew the campus with campaign literature, but more to stir up a healthy interest in politics among campus voters.

give is to bring speakers to the campus for discussion programs.

IT SHOULD CERTAINLY BE LITTLE trouble to bring Michigan congressmen to the campus, or any others as far as that goes, the more provocative the better.

First hand information of this sort is invaluable in stimulating the student body toward an awareness of the world that exists outside of the campus limits.

BY THE TIME THE REPUBLICAN party stages its Lincoln dinners on Feb. 12, clubs should already have their plans well under way.

All that remains to be done is to amend the club constitution to permit political activity — something purposely omitted to induce the Student Council to accept the group on campus over a year ago.

Amateurs Set Show Down Hockey Feud

MORITZ, Switzer, Jan. 20 (AP)—The discovery which of two States has hockey shall play in the winter Olympic games starting January 14 heading for a showdown of all principals, starting to gun.

The 17-man Amateur Athletic Union squad, which carries the name of the U.S. Olympic committee, was expected to arrive in Prague.

The rival, the Amateur Hockey Union team, whose entry was accepted by the British Olympic organizing committee, is coming in Czechoslovakia.

The rebuttal came from the U.S. Olympic committee in a Chicago dispatch saying the U.S. Olympic committee had voted 66 to 6 to allow all American entries in the games if the A.H.A. was allowed to compete.

Carl Nator of St. Moritz, who has supported previous attempts by Avery Brundage, president of the U.S. Olympic committee, said cryptically, "We are not bluffing. If the A.H.A. competes our kids will do our bidding."

The regulations state that the competing hockey team must be a member of the International Hockey federation which the U.S. is. But the I.O.C. rules say that the American hockey team must be endorsed by the Olympic committee. It looks like a stand off.

Greek Fives Go On Wild Point Spree

Fraternity squads moved into the spotlight last night in the mural cage tourney; Phi Delta Theta turning wild to dump SAE, 49-17, in the opening match.

Other games saw Sigma Nu wallop Theta Chi, 32-8, while Delta Chi topped Phi Kappa Phi, 41-12. ATO outclassed Phi Tau, taking a 32-15 decision.

Sigma Nu walked away with an easy victory over Theta Chi, and Kappa Sig trounced Lambda Chi, 35-17. Delta Tau Delta went on their merry way white-washing Beta Epsilon, 30-11.

The remainder of the fraternity fives saw Psi U play beautiful ball to overcome Delta Sig, 23-9 while A.G.H. had to keep on their toes to win over A.E.P.I., 20-3. Another one-sided contest had Sigma Chi defeating Farmhouse to the tune of 27-17.

Six Naps Bump Snails

In another scheduled game the Six Naps managed to squeeze out a 35-32 decision over the Snails.

The M.P.'s pounded out a decisive victory over the Nomads, coming through to win 35-5. George Corcoran, tallying the only five points for the losers, kept his team from being completely whitewashed.

The Snakeshoppers lost to the Weaslers, 34-16, and in another walk-over game the Sheenies won 33-7 over Club 903. A.G. Financers were held to 17 points, while the E's racked up 33 markers in the evening's finale.

CROSS WINDS

By WALLY SCHRAMM

THE action of the Board of Agriculture in discarding the Jenson scholarships leaves Michigan State college in a peculiar position.

The action, according to President Hannah, was taken to "demonstrate the intention of Michigan State college to abide by both the letter and the spirit of the new 'sanity code' of the N.C.A.A."

Since the adoption of the new code less than two weeks ago, the administration has consistently asserted that the Jenson did comply with its provisions.

The sudden junking of the scholarships in regard by many an tacit admission that the Jenson did not comply with the new code, regardless of administration statements to the contrary.

LAST week in this column, I indicated my approval of the Jenson scholarships. That approval was based on belief that the scholarships represented an aboveboard way of performing a necessary function.

Under the new plan, all scholarships will be dispensed from one general scholarship fund. As we understand it, scholarships will still be given to athletes.

"We have merely abolished the category of sports scholarships and placed them on the same level as all others in any other field," James Denison, Hannah's administrative assistant stated Monday.

To us that statement means scholarships will still be given to athletes, but they won't be called athletic scholarships. Unless State gives a smaller number of scholarships under the new plan, nothing will be changed.

Denison also said he did not believe the new plan would drive athletes away from Michigan State.

There is no reason why the new plan should drive athletes away. A scholarship is still a scholarship whether it comes from the Jenson fund or the Michigan State general scholarship fund.

OUR personal opinion tends toward a belief that aid to athletes is necessary for major colleges and universities under the present situation. It will be so until college athletics are actually placed on an "amateur plane."

We feel, however, that such aid should be given openly, such as was done through the Jenson. In our opinion the action of the Board of Agriculture in scrapping the Jenson was merely a blind which will do little to strengthen the new "purity code."

WE feel it would have been a wiser course for the College to ask the NCAA to investigate the Jenson and determine if they complied with the code.

Such action would have provided a true test of the powers of the new code to restore "amateurism" on the college level. State would also have appeared as a leader in the support of the code.

The move actually taken I regard as a retreat from Michigan State's former position as a school which provided no hidden athletic "subsidization."

Bill Limiting Sport Pacts Proposed

Would Eliminate 'Reserve Clause' From Contracts

BOSTON, Jan. 20, (AP)—Robert Murphy, the young Harvard-educated attorney who tried unsuccessfully to unionize major league baseball today challenged the system of handling players' contracts in all sports.

The first round in the new battle will come before a Massachusetts legislative committee on Thursday on Murphy's bill designed to eliminate the "reserve clause" that is a part of all players' contracts in all sports.

Murphy's petition specifically seeks "to prohibit employment contracts in which the employers reserve the right to sell or exchange the personal service of an employee, or to renew contracts of employment without the employee's consent."

Under Murphy's proposal, outstanding baseball players like Ted Williams of the Red Sox, Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees, Bob Feller of Cleveland or any other would be free to sign with any club he chose upon expiration of his present contract.

Sports promoters, while alarmed about the potentialities of Murphy's bill, have been quietly marshalling their forces for the initial showdown before the legislature's labor and industries committee.

Spartan's Capraro On Comeback Trail

Henry "Hank" Capraro is putting up a fight. But it isn't entirely in the boxing ring.

As a kid in Fordson high school, Dearborn, Capraro was a promising young featherweight in amateur circles. In 1939 he reached the Catholic Youth Organization semifinals.

Following graduation from high school Capraro went to work at the Ford Motor Co., where he stayed three years until he was drafted into the navy. Working and boxing didn't seem to mix at that time, so gradually he fell away from working out in the ring.

While in the navy, Capraro roamed the Atlantic and Pacific on a fleet tender and during this time fought in the ring only once. While crossing the Atlantic the ship held a contest for personnel and passengers. Capraro entered and won.

Following discharge from the service in 1946, he entered Michigan State college as a pre-medical student. This fall the urge to go back in the ring, made him decide to make room in his pre-med curriculum and go out for MSC's boxing team.

With an eye on the 130-pound spot vacated by Jack Tierney who moved up to 145-pounds, Capraro found it difficult to get into condition after his long break from the ring.

He finally gained back some of his old form and became the number one candidate for the 130 pound division.

MSC's Thirty-Third Annual Farm Week To Attract 30,000

Group Will Hear Governor At Final Session Thursday

Farmers' week officials estimate that 30,000 farmers will visit State's campus Monday through Thursday for the institution's thirty-third anniversary, based on the theme of "Better Farming for Better Living."

Ralph W. Tenny, director of Short Course institute, reported yesterday that the finishing touches are being put on the program and facilities made ready to handle the anticipated crowd.

All departments of the School of Agriculture and the School of Home Economics, and departments of sociology and anthropology, economics, physical education, speech, music, military, and the institute of foreign studies are preparing a program covering Michigan's agriculture.

Students Faculty Take Part

State students and faculty will play a prominent part in the general afternoon and evening meetings.

"Europe As I See It" by the President of Associated Country Women of the World, Mrs. Ray Sayre, Ackworth, Iowa, will be the topic of discussion Tuesday afternoon.

Basketball will head the sports program with games between State and Wayne and an exhibition game between the junior varsity teams.

Glee Club Band

The Mens' Glee club and MSC band will give concerts. Students in speech, dramatics, radio, and music will also contribute to the programs.

On Wednesday entertainment will be provided by the Symphony orchestra and the music department.

Governor Sigler will speak in College auditorium Thursday afternoon following a concert by the MSC Concert band. After Sigler's address Dr. Daniel A. Pilling, editor of the Christian Herald and a member of the President's Commission on Universal Training, will discuss "National Security."

Parades, Demonstrations

Parades and demonstrations will complete the last of the general programs on Friday night. A parade of college floats, and one of contest champion livestock and college animals are scheduled.

Demonstrations by the military and physical education departments, music by the Variety and MSC bands, and entertainment by the speech department will complete the bill.

Russia Asks U.S., Britain To Split Reich

BERLIN, Jan. 26 (AP) — Russia formally demanded dissolution of the joint British-American administration of the two western zones in the allied control council today, declaring the arrangement violated Potsdam agreements.

Marshal Vasily - Sokolovsky, Soviet military governor, presented the Russian view. He spoke after Gen. Lucius D. Clay of the United States outlined measures taken by the American and British military governments to expand and improve economic administration in western Germany, meet anew today by hunger strikes and threats of strikes.

The Russian denunciation meant that eastern and western Germany will continue along their separate ways for some time to come.

Gen. Clay again asked for four-power agreement on issuance of a new mark to be printed in Berlin under four-power supervision. The Russians' answer was not given, but the Russians have been insisting all along that they have the right to print half the currency in their own zone under their own supervision. The Americans and British fear such an arrangement would permit their zones to be flooded with Soviet-printed currency.

GOP Approves Tax Reduction; Refuses To Trim Knutson Bill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 (AP) — The Republican high command in the House today approved a $8,000,000,000 income tax cut, refusing to trim back the Knutson bill in an effort to pickup Democratic votes to override an expected presidential veto.

Martin said Republicans will slash Mr. Truman's $30,700,000,000 budget for 1949 enough to make room for the tax cut and a payment of at least $2,000,000,000 on the national debt.

The tax measure, sponsored by Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.) of the House Ways and Means committee, would remove about 7,000,000 low income persons from the federal income tax rolls completely.

It would:

1. Raise individual exemptions by $100, from $300 to $400.

2. Apply generally the community property principle under which husbands and wives may split the family income equally for tax reporting purposes, holding their income in lower tax brackets.

3. Grant percentage cuts in rates, ranging from 20 percent in the lowest income bracket to ten percent in the upper brackets.

COUNCIL AGENDA

The agenda for the Student Council meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in the Towers room of the Union will be:

Report on the new Student Council constitution, Richard Burns; Action taken on organizing a campus Community Chest, Judy Longnecker; Report on new committee of public relations, Marilyn McCowan; Report from the Athletic Council, Richard Ernst; Report from UN committee, Lyle Thompson; Report from Election committee, Marshall Bennett; Report from Student Handbook committee, Isabelle Bruckner; Constitution committee report, Dale Crittenden; Report on Mardi Gras.

Late Fee Paid By 395; Hike Contemplated

The college record of late registrations has been broken this term when 395 students registered after the regular four-day period, Registrar Robert S. Linton reported yesterday.

The usual number of late registrants is 250 to 300.

This situation costs time and money which the late registration fee of $5 does not cover, Linton said. If it keeps up, the fee may have to be raised.

The registration set-up is equipped to take care of approximately 6,000 students daily. Only about 50 students per day can register after this period.

Linton said he could not explain this rise in the number of late registrants this term.

Chicago Spartans Meeting Stated For Wednesday

A meeting of all students from Chicago and vicinity will be held in the Home Economics building, room 405 at 7:30 this evening.

The charter meeting will be held to start a club composed of students from that area. It will be an opportunity for students, who may have been neighbors or high school buddies to get together.

"There will be no charge for anyone that's over 16," said Art Miller, Chicago junior, who is calling the meeting.
