THE SQUARE CORNER

MSC Library And Why

By PAT MCCARTHY

A LARGE AMOUNT OF DISCUSSION has been kicked around campus concerning the deplorable condition of library facilities.

The most general argument is that the college is spending thousands on campus beautification, technology buildings and athletic development while the scholastic side of college limps along on a few tattered volumes.

One explanation for the present library situation is a lack of foresight when foresight was practically impossible. The time goes back to late 1941 and early 1945 when the federal government provided building priority to begin building programs on American campuses.

Thus under the Civilian Production Administration the U. S. government gave the go ahead to collegiate expansion so that when the war was over the campuses across the nation would be better able to cope with the deluge of students anticipated after the passage of the G. I. Bill.

SO THE STATE OF MICHIGAN, HAVING somewhere close to 30 million on hand, set up a college building program. Seven million was slated for Michigan State.

The Board of Agriculture submitted a list of needed buildings, in order of importance, for consideration. It so happened that the seven million limit went only as far as the library on the list, but not including it.

At the time, the Ag Board evidently considered the need for new classroom and technical education buildings more important than a new library. The need for the new buildings for a half a dozen departments for some reason seemed more important than providing for the entire college a sadly lacking means to study.

YES, IT IS TRUE THAT THE TERRIFIC influx of post war college students could in no way be anticipated back in March of 1945 when the new building program had to be approved. But still it seems that the Ag Board was not looking to the best interests of education when it saw fit to place the need of expanded library facilities so far down on the list.

A library is not a mere collection of mysteries and westerns, it is the most vital factor of a modern educational system. And we do not here intend to say that it is the whole factor.

But it does seem that classroom and laboratory facilities are not the whole factor either. It appears that the board at that time gave them undue importance. The need for expanded library facilities in 1945 certainly must have been as apparent as the need for the replacement of overcrowded and decaying science and technical buildings. The library was already servicing over twice its designed capacity in 1942.

SO NOW THE COLLEGE IS FACED with having to do with what is on hand, seeking to keep up a pitiful pace with the rearrangement of stacks and additions of an inadequate few thousand volumes a year for which there may be no room. The state is in a strait jacket as far as funds are concerned with the abysmally stupid tax diversion amendment to contend with. The budget director cannot recommend the necessary two million and it does not look as though the legislature will see fit to ignore his recommendation, or its lack.

SO MSC STUDENTS ARE FACED WITH the problem of jammed facilities which are inadequate to begin with. The only thing they can do for now is to find a better time to use the library and feel happy that they do not have to read so many books as normal school work would require.

LETTERS to the EDITOR

TO THE EDITOR: I read with interest your report of the views of two students from Pakistan regarding the source of unrest in India (State News, April 6).

If we should read propaganda material from them, let us at least have no inconsistencies in their statements and no inaccuracies in their figures.

An example, according to them, seven million refugees are yet to be rehabilitated. The readers are asked to believe that conditions are normal in Pakistan, the percentages of Moslem populations have been exaggerated evidently to impress (for instance, according to the latest census figures available, Kashmir has 77 percent Moslems and 22.92 percent) that Indian troops conducted or intend to conduct plebiscites in the future. In the case of Jammu, Mr. Nazarkar, a civilian from the Indian Civil Service conducted the plebiscite. They have also no basis for mentioning that only nine votes represented the Moslems in Jammu.

It is no use making statements which cannot be proved, and ascribing statements to the India government which they have never made. It serves nobody's cause.

The basic source of differences between India and Pakistan is the lack of mutual trust between the two countries. Everything is bound to follow this pattern, till both countries at the same time come to realize the necessity of utilizing their common economic and geographic neighborliness to the best interests of the common man in both countries, who has for a long time been the worst placed, irrespective of whatever religion to which he belongs.

This "religious" mantra used for politics must go from all countries. Mahatma Gandhi died for the abolition of such a mantra. S. Krishnamurthy MARRIED veterans who are drawing disability pensions and living in college housing, and veterans' wives who are working for the college are required to declare their added income for the purpose of setting rent rates according to the FPIA rate schedule.

Student veterans who are enrolled in college during the regular school year and want to take summer courses abroad under the GI bill must meet certain requirements to qualify for such study.

The veteran must first obtain a letter of acceptance from the VA-approved foreign school he plans to attend.

Next, he must secure a supplemental certificate of eligibility from his VA regional office.

The student then uses his letter of acceptance and his supplemental certificate as evidence in securing from the Department of State the necessary passports and visas authorizing his travel to the foreign school. The student must pay all his transportation costs.

The VA recommends that the student study be taken in an approved school in a foreign country served by an attaché of veteran affairs assigned by the Department of State.

POST GRADUATE PLAN

For the first few years of professional or business life most new graduates find their responsibilities quite heavy and their income comparatively light. A few years will improve matters but during that initial period the going is none too easy.

The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada offers a special plan to meet exactly this situation. It provides full protection from the start but during the first five years the premium is very low. At the end of the years when the assured's income will normally have increased, the premium also increases.

Counting assistant coaches, Jack Shingleton, Bob Malaga, and Bob Florio, Michigan State's tennis team is now headed by Coach Gordon.

The team is expected to be one of the best in the country.

The Deiters probably will be the first to take the court against Ohio State at Columbus.

BOOK WORMS

Faculty Members Click With Literary Projects

By BILL YOUNG
 He must be writing a book. If that's what you're thinking when you see your class assignments, you may not be far from wrong.

For instance, Prof. C. J. Hawkins, of the History and Political Science department is writing a biography of Harold J. Lasky, British professor and prominent political scientist.

The chronology of Lasky's political thought would be published next spring, but Hawkins hopes to finish the manuscript by the end of the summer.

Dr. J. A. DeHann, head of the department of Philosophy, plans to come out with his recently completed textbook, "The Logic of Philosophy," in about six months.

In the book, scheduled to be published by the Scott, Foresman company, DeHann presents 20 basic problems of philosophy.

Hollywood Bus Scripts
 Prof. Sam Ertelson, of the Written and Spoken English department is another author. A Hollywood agency recently purchased some of the scripts he has been writing.

Many other professors on campus have succeeded in the literary world. Their works will be recognized in a future article.

So when you see one of your instructors sitting in the Union building, don't think that he's spending his spare time shopping for coffee and purchasing insurance. He probably was up until 2 a.m. writing over his forthcoming contribution to the literary world.
