Cawood Elected Council Head

Sigler To Speak Today

Will Discuss Youth's Place In Government

Governor Kim Sigler will give his views on "The Place of American Youth in a Democratic Government" this afternoon at 2:30 in Fairchild theater.

Comments and criticism on current state issues are to be included in the talk, the governor has indicated. Council President Jerry Warren will introduce him.

John Kenedy, Detroit senior, invited the governor to address MSC students. Arrangements were made to present him under the auspices of the college administration.

I hope that politically-minded groups on campus will follow this example and invite members of their party to give their opinions on current problems to college students, Kenedy said.

Kenedy, a political science major and former U.S. State department employe, is currently head of the Young Republican campus organization.

Four Juniors Seal Fate Of J-Hop Profit

By JIM MCCARTNEY

At an open Junior class meeting last night four juniors and an interested senior came to a decision on the disposition of $3,000 in J-Hop profits.

Class Secretary Jacquelyn Allen will present temporary Class Advisor Tom King with the following recommendation: (1) $1,000 to be donated to the Memorial Food drive.

(2) $750 to purchase 18 ping-pong tables for the use of all students in a recreation room on the fourth floor of the new Union addition.

(3) $1,000 to purchase approximately 200 record albums to begin a record library for recreational purposes in the Union.

(4) $50 to pay for the completion of a glass showcase in the new Union corridor to be dedicated to the Class of '49.

(5) $700 of the balance of funds not used for other projects.

Veteran Councilman Takes Over; MacRae, Robinson Fill Slate

By ED HOWARD

James Cawood, Lansing councilman, serving his second term, was elected last night to head the Student Council for the coming year.

He tops an all-veteran slate which includes Harold Robinson, vice president, and Ruth MacRae, secretary-treasurer.

Cawood, only candidate nominated for president at last week's first meeting of the new council, defeated Ted Marantette (Spartan City), who entered the race last night.

Robinson was chosen over John Berry (Abbott), Richard Dean (Phillips), Andy Anderson (Phillips), and Ralph Houfek (Snyder). Miss MacRae won the secretary's job in a contest with Richard Trent (Wells), Jean McCowan (Lansing), and Lucy Crebman (West Haven).

Retiring president Jerry Warren opened the meeting with a review of the tasks which face the new council. He described the mechanics of council operation and offered suggestions as to how the council might function best in 1948-49.

Immediately after the voting was completed, Cawood took the gavel and moved into the task of shaping committees, providing for a summer council, and setting a date for another meeting before the end of the week.

The council voted to meet tomorrow for the last time this term. Time and place will be announced tomorrow. At this session, committee appointments will be revealed, Cawood said.

The first new business of a general nature to face the council was a resolution introduced by Robert Gottsegen (Trailers) to place the council on record as favoring the 16 mile speed limit which trailer villages have been trying to have enforced.

The Board of Agriculture has the legal power to set any ceiling it wishes, Cawood informed the group. The administration may be asked to bring the matter before the board, Gottsegen intimated.

The council adopted the resolution unanimously. A committee will be appointed to investigate all possibilities for enforcement of the 16 mile limit.

Both Union Board directors and sub-committee members will meet tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. in 191 Home Ec. building for the last meeting of the term.

At this meeting the calendar of Union activities for the next school year will be completed. President Al Brandorfer announced that it is important that all members of Union Board attend.

'48 Yearbook Will Be Sold Till Term Ends

The 1948 edition of the Wolverine went on sale today to all students according to Margo Green, business manager of the annual.

The book will be available in the book store and on the upper deck of the Union.

The annuals will be sold to all students or will be exchanged for paid receipts. They will be on sale this week and during exams.

Over 2,000 pictures spot the pages of the 1948 yearbook, ranging from a double-page spread in full color of the band performing between halves of the Mississippi State game, to action shots of sports events.

A new feature of the annual is the section devoted to pictures of 20 campus personalities. Another new angle found in the book is the coverage of the team's trip to Hawaii in the sports section.

Dance Tickets On Sale Today

Tickets for the annual commencement dance, to be held June 3 in College auditorium, are now on sale at the Union Ticket office.

Theme of the decorations will be "Best Things" experienced by the class of '48, according to Chairman Carolyn Tracy. Paper drops will picture college life from freshman through senior years.

Favors will be miniature wooden paddles.

Lantern Night Ceremony Honors Senior Women

By BEA WILSON

One hundred sixty-one senior women were presented with white carnations in honor of their active participation in campus organizations at last night's Lantern Night ceremonies, held in the bandshell from 8:30 to 10 p.m.

Beginning with the lantern procession and ending with the singing of the Alma Mater, the program was perhaps more colorful than in the 1920's, when the idea was first conceived.

Gathering in front of the Women's gym, senior and undergraduate women were given Chinese lanterns, and led by old and new members of Mortar Board and Tower Guard, formed a procession. This wound its way through Beal gardens, up to the Music building, around Beaumont Tower and past the Library and Chem buildings, and down to the bandshell. Wendell Westcott, of the Music department, played Beaumont's chimes for the procession.

At the bandshell, Mistress of Ceremonies Judy Longnecker, East Lansing senior, presented President Hannah, who said she hoped "each light would be a star in someone's sky." Immediately preceding Hannah's speech, the audience sang "MSC Shadows" led by Maxine Sinclair, Middleville senior.

Following the speech, the new presidents of AWS, Ann Woodward, Judiciary board, and Rose Nabra, Activities board, were officially installed. Evelyn Van Steenburgh, new president of Mortar Board, and Wanda Birch, new president of Tower Guard, were presented. The name of the new Tower Guard president was kept secret until last night's program.

Ruth Meinke, Detroit senior, presented white carnations to the outstanding senior women, not otherwise recognized by honor groups. All seniors wore caps and gowns.

Coed Awarded Scholastic Gift At Dinner Rites

A $1,000 fellowship was awarded to Ruth Miriam Marin, Gwinns senior, by the national office of Phi Kappa Phi, scholastic honorary, at their annual banquet in the Union ballroom last night.

The fellowship, awarded for outstanding scholastic average, will enable Miss Marin to study in any American college or university. It was one of two such scholarship grants in the country. Miss Marin is the first MSC student to win this award.

Sixty seniors initiated into Phi Kappa Phi at the banquet dinner, attended by approximately 165 members.

Walter R. Fee, head of the history and political science department, was elected president of the group for the coming year.

Other officers are Carl Gerlach, assistant professor of landscape architecture, vice-president; Pauline Paul, associate professor of the feeds and nutrition department, financial secretary; Frank Pesent, professor of agricultural engineering, secretary; and Albert Huggell, associate professor of education, treasurer.

Guest Speaker, Dr. Earl S. Johnson, division of social science from the University of Chicago, spoke on "Ideals and Events."

Other awards presented were $50 to Wallace McAllister, Crosswell senior for outstanding grades in his sophomore year, and $25 to Robert R. Johnson, sophomore, for outstanding grades in his sophomore year.

FOR EMOTIONAL PROBLEMS

Clinic Offers Psychiatric Aid

By JACK PARRY

Without publicity, MSC's psychiatric clinic has been working quietly since September, 1947.

Dr. Charles F. Holland, Medical Director of the Health Center, has been aware of the need of psychiatric service for some years. He succeeded in establishing the clinic at the Center because, he says, "psychiatry is part of a well-integrated medical program."

Miss Barbara Boger resigned her position as executive director of the psychiatric clinic in Detroit to accept the duties of organizing and administering the MSC program. She has been assisted by Dr. Benjamin Jeffries, Detroit psychiatrist. He comes to the clinic twice a month to serve as consultant.

Miss Boger stated that it is important to clarify the thinking of those who believe that mental sickness and emotional illness are synonymous. Miss Boger explained that a person who is mentally ill is one who is in need of care in a mental institution.

The clinic at the Health Center serves those who are undergoing some emotional strain or trauma. Therefore, she likes to think of her services in terms of mental hygiene.

If somatic complaints, such as nausea, headaches or other bodily pains have no organic basis, the experienced medical man knows that the patient is undergoing emotional strain.

This is the reason that most of the clinic's cases are referred by the medical staff of the Health Center, and indicates the importance of having psychiatric services administered through medical channels.

Dr. Paul Dressler's experienced staff of counselors know, through their interviews and psychological tests, that students who are mentally capable of doing college work, but are failing in their studies, are in need of specialized attention in working through their emotional difficulties. The counseling center has referred many students to the clinic.

The NEWS IN BRIEF

Draft Is Congress 'Must'

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—A peacetime draft went on Congress' must list today. Chairman Taft of the Senate Republican Policy committee announced the decision after a conference of GOP leaders in the Senate and House. That means passage by June 19 if the party leaders have their way, for they also determined to stick by their plan.

Sigler Appoints Hospital Committee

LANSING, June 1 (AP)—A committee of legislators was appointed by Governor Sigler today to determine whether the Northville State hospital should be built. As a result of a House-Senate debate over continuing the project at the special legislative session, Sigler set up the committee and urged that it report its findings to the next regular session of the legislature.

Columbia River Still Spreading

PORTLAND, Ore., June 1 (AP)—Thousands fled from weakened dike lands tonight as the Columbia river flood crest spilled from its rocky gorge through the Cascade mountains into the flat lower river valley. The army ordered everyone but dike workers out of the threatened districts along the last 120 miles of the river's course. This sent an estimated 15,000 to higher lands.

Council Improvement Needed

The newly elected Student council has the biggest job on campus for the coming year. At the present time as in the past, the Student council here is a joke to most of the students. The fundamental reason for this has been that the council itself has lacked direction and purpose.

A review of council activities for the last year shows where the shortcomings have been.

Here are a few of the problems which the council has failed to solve during the past school year:

- (1) Profit making on dances.
 - (2) A co-ordination of campus money raising drives.
 - (3) A satisfactory co-ordination of campus social activities.
 - (4) The drawing of clear lines of responsibility for student organizations.
- The steady pressure of administration control over all student organizations and functions continues to grow in the wake of student irresponsibility. Yet rather than directly attacking this pressure the council has back tracked.
- The council failed to sponsor a rally for candidates for office the day before the new elections.
- The council failed to sell the National Students' association to the student body.
- The council was unable to inspire students in the formation of truly active political organizations to present issues to student voters squarely in this vital election year.
- But most of all, the council failed to sell itself.
- The greatest problem before any government is to keep in intimate contact with the people. In the relatively small, easily defined campus area the council has not been able to bring itself and its issues and problems to public attention. On the other hand, the council this year has done some things which demonstrate that all is not lost.

Through the efforts of Council President Jerry Warren fundamental steps have been taken to clarify responsibilities of our student government. Warren dug into the records to find a basis for student government and came up with evidence to justify the council's existence definitely for the first time.

After other organizations started the ball rolling the council pitched in and did a great service by helping to circulate letters to state legislators asking support of the MSC building program.

Other constructive steps taken this year included:

- (1) Establishment of a council bulletin board.
 - (2) Sponsoring of the United Nations council.
 - (3) Sponsoring of a three party debate between Republicans, Democrats and Progressives.
 - (4) Cutting down the profit on the Mardi Gras.
- New council members could improve the council one hundred percent if they would remember and act upon just one principle: that good government is synonymous with effective service.
- To gain the respect of the student body, let alone the administration, the council must render service—it must produce.
- The newly elected Student council has the biggest job on campus for the coming year. That job is to prove that student government is not a joke.

Memories For Sale

One of the finest Wolverine yearbooks ever published at Michigan State went on sale last week.

More than 5,500 copies were ordered by Editor Rollie Young and Business Manager Margo Green, to cover subscriptions for which students signed.

Slightly over 2,000 have paid for the book to date. So the publication faces a large deficit unless many of the remaining 3,000 follow through with the cash for books ordered.

Financially, we are in a period of retrenchment. College authorities are looking over the books of student organizations with a sharp eye. It doesn't take much to convince the budgeteers that a project which winds up in the red is undeserving of college support.

Bluntly, this means that if the Wolverine again runs into tough sledding right on the heels of two lean years, this year's edition can be the last for some time.

Admittedly, the veteran student's money is running low. But here is what a little of that money can buy in the Wolverine. Look over the inducements and see if you don't think it is a good investment.

The Wolverine offers, in eminently readable, compact form, an intimate glimpse into Spartan campus life in an exceptional year—a year you will want to remember.

This was the year that a Spartan football team, torn to shreds in the opening Michigan game, came roaring back one short week later to upset a highly favored Mississippi State eleven and go on to one of the best seasons in the history of the college. Remember?

Remember the changes in the campus scene as one building after another slowly took shape and then sprang to life as the corridors filled with the rush-and-murmur of post-war college life?

Remember? Sure you do now. But will you remember all these things, and the friends who made them happen, five, ten, twenty years from now?

You will if you invest now in the Wolverine. It's all there in prose and picture—the record of a year in YOUR life at college.

The junior varsity diamond squad will close its season this afternoon with Ionia at the State reformatory. The game will start at 1.

This should not rate as too tough a contest for the JV's. They played Ionia last year and trimmed them handily, 8-1. The Ionia squad is fairly strong this season, but they should not be too tough.

George Hill's team last year was led by Western Michigan JV's last Friday. The Broncos set off a big start when they rapped four runs off George Johnson in the first two innings.

Low Post's right-handed pitcher led in and finished the rest of the game, allowing two more runs. The Spartans needed two runs in the fifth and sixth and eight runs in the seventh and eighth.

Dikes Needed To Halt Red Cedar Floods

Construction of dikes on the Red Cedar is needed immediately, according to Colonel R. W. Mayer, executive secretary of the State's Department of Economic Development. It will be at least two years before much can be done to prevent floods in Michigan, he said.

Mayer explained yesterday that the state cannot do much without federal aid and the government requires a geologic survey before it will give funds. A survey of the Grand River valley has already been begun, but mapping of terrain is a long and expensive task and will take at least two years to accomplish.

Constitution Hinders Mayer cited another reason for the delay. The state has not had the right in the past to appropriate funds for the purpose of flood control because of a constitutional handicap. The constitution has since been amended to allow the state to take action but there has not been any agreement as to what sort of administration should be used.

School Board Voting Open To Residents

Juniors Make Suggestions

Winners of the annually sponsored Meat Judging contest were announced last week. First prize went to William MacLean, an animal husbandry major from Kenosha, Wis. Second prize went to Clarence Prince, hotel administration major from Holland, Mich., and third prize went to Jack Tornga, police administration major from Grand Rapids.

Another suggested that a necktie be purchased for a voting instructor who has worn the same tie all term. Still another wanted to purchase the "little train" from the Detroit zoo and run it from the Union to South Campus.

Many students complained at the five dollar cost of J-Hop tickets which made the $3,000 profit possible. Buda and Miss Allen said that the budget for the dance was made up by the administration officials with plans for a $2,500 profit to be donated to the Memorial Fund drive.

Cut-Off Channel Proposed

The cut-off channel has been proposed by army engineers for the Lansing area. A channel would be constructed around Lansing so the Grand river would bypass the city. This would leave the original channel through Lansing available for the flood waters of the Red Cedar. These plans are only tentative. The money, needed to survey the area, is being considered by the United States Senate.

Glen Manz, Lansing city engineer, said that the chances of the plan being accepted, "do not look too good." The floods this year cost Lansing approximately $20,000, according to Manz. Last year the damage to Lansing was over half a million dollars. Flint, situated on the Saginaw river, suffered over four million dollars.
