Bill Would Put Defense Port On Pay-As-You-Go Basis

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman unveiled to a small group yesterday the biggest tax-boosting proposal—$16,500,000,000 to put the defense effort on a pay-as-you-go basis. He asked that it be split into two packages, one a $10,000,000,000 "quickie" bill.

Bring Troops Halt UN

Hits Eastern Second Day

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Chinese reports yesterday were that the lines in West China had moved ahead in an effort to halt the Nationalist offensive. The Chinese army was reported to have moved into the hills between Kumyang and Allied air strikes, air bases and bayonet charges were taking a toll.

Although Reds were reported to have moved into the Kumyang area, a source said that 23 miles south of the city, the Chinese army was reported to have moved into the hills between Kumyang and Allied air strikes, air bases and bayonet charges were taking a toll.

Home Ec Plans International Scholarships

By MARGARET FULLER
A drive to raise $100 for international home economics scholarships will get under way today. Miss Eleanor Claus, instructor in textiles, clothing and related arts, announced.

The campus drive, sponsored by the school of Home Economics, is part of the National Home Economics association's fund raising campaign. The money will be used to bring foreign students to American colleges and universities.

Fashion Lecture

Closing the drive will be an address Monday afternoon by Miss Helene Terre, French author, lecturer and educator. She will discuss "France Source of Fashion Inspiration" in the little theater of the Home Economics building.

Commando

Returning to Paris in 1944, she was awarded the Croix de Guerre for her part in a commando mission behind German lines. Last year she became coordinator for the U.S. commission on International Cooperation in Education and the French Ministry of Education.

Guest

After her talk at 2 p.m. Miss Terre will be a guest at the International tea at 3:30. Scheduled for the tea room in the Home Economics building, the affair will be in honor of foreign students majoring in home economics.

Blessed Event

Newly Born Heifer Flaunts Weather

Farmers' Week had a blessed event. A "perfectly normal" heifer calf was born on campus yesterday, morning despite sub-zero temperatures. Burton F. Carrill of the Agricultural Engineering department said.

In the Pen barn, heat lamps were used to keep the calving cow warm during the birth process. The birth took place between midnight and 1 a.m.

The calf weighed 120 pounds, just the weight of a baby bull at birth, Carrill said.

Exhibits Set Up For Farmers' Week Visitors

Exhibits ranging from kitchenware to milking devices are now on display in connection with Farmers' Week. Arthur W. Farrell, head of the Agricultural Engineering department, announced.

A modern type kitchen and laundry unit is being demonstrated in room 104, Agricultural Engineering building. General kitchen arrangement and illumination are being emphasized.

Foreign Students To Hear Hannah

President John A. Hannah will speak informally on the Four Point program before the International club Friday night. The club will meet at 8 p.m. in room 31 of the Union. Those interested are welcome.

Volunteer Student Talent Entertains Korean Vets

Korean veterans at Percy Jones Hospital in Battle Creek will be entertained tonight by volunteer MSC talent. Red Cross sponsors these shows which were requested by the veterans. Mrs. Milton M. Rozan is the East Lansing sponsor.

Master and Mistress of Ceremonies will be Roger Quinn, East Lansing sophomore, and Virginia Pangborn, Cleveland Heights, Ohio sophomore.

Acts will include: Phyllis Walker, Pleasant Ridge freshman, and Ginny Grissom, Detroit freshman, tap dance routine; Merle Bayber, Allegan junior, harmonica selections; Lee Morrison, Old Greenwich, Connecticut senior, vocals. Also in the show are: Betty Trippensee, Saginaw sophomore, piano selections; Joanne Chak, Muskegon sophomore, baton twirling; Jim Bubolz, Mantero, Illinois freshman, guitar selections, according to John Ringler, entertainment chairman.

Red Cross will also sponsor monthly parties, the first one to be a Valentine party on February 13 according to Ginny Pangborn. Mary Lou Coates, East Lansing senior, is in charge of party planning. Jean Ward, St. Joseph freshman, is in charge of contacting coal participants.

Approximately 40 interested coeds signed up last night to be hostesses. They will serve refreshments and entertain the veterans.

Cheek-Nipping Cold Covers Entire Land

Piercing cold and the first heavy snow storm of the season chilled the northeast Wednesday. The fall in that area was expected to pile up to a depth of six to ten inches.

It was accompanied by cheek-nipping cold. The temperature dropped to an all-time low of 32 below zero at Caribou, Me. Sub-zero readings were common in upstate New York and New England.

Most of the U.S. took a lashing from bad weather in one form or another.

by Texas

The bulk of the big state of Texas was on ice. The weather bureau reported freezing rain or sleet pelted a wide band of land from Texas to the Atlantic coast hitting Arkansas, Louisiana, Tennessee, Kentucky, the southern parts of Indiana and Ohio and portions of North Carolina, Virginia and Pennsylvania.

The number of deaths attributed to this week's wintry assault rose.

Pomology Forum To Hear Expert

The relationship of apple advertising and fruit marketing will be explained by Maynard Farley Jr., manager of the Michigan State apple commission, at 7:30 tonight in room 204 of the Horticulture building.

Dense Allen, president of the Pomology Forum, said anyone with an interest in marketing and produce advertising is welcome to attend.

White Bucks Stun Farmer

A visiting farmer was looking rather oddly at one of State's better dressed students. Finally he went up to the Spartan and asked him:

"Why are you wearing those white shoes?"

"They are the only ones I have," answered the student.

The farmer looked thoughtfully for a moment and then said:

"That's too bad."

Governor Slates Talk Here Today

Williams To Greet Farmers At 3 P.M.

Governor G. Mennen Williams will greet visitors for Farmers' Week today at the three o'clock afternoon session in the auditorium.

Williams will speak briefly before the main address of the afternoon given by H. D. Newsom, Master of the National Grange. It will be one of Newsom's first addresses since he replaced the late Albert Goss in November as head of the farm organization.

Featured this evening will be a program of drama, music and dance given by the dramatics, music and women's physical education departments. It is scheduled for 8 p.m. in Fairchild theater.

The Soil Conservation society and Farm-Management group will also have banquets in the Union tonight.

Club To Hear Graves Speak On New Bridge

Representative Gerald W. Graves (R, Alpena) will speak to the Upper Peninsula club tonight at 8:30.

Farmers' Week visitors are invited to attend the meeting which will be held in 216 Beckey hall, Tom Angell, Iron River senior announced yesterday.

The proposed Straits of Mackinac bridge will be discussed by Graves when he speaks on roads and bridges' effect on "taxation," Angell reported. Graves is a member of the house Roads and Bridges committee.

E. Burr Sherwood, member of the state's Economic Development commission may also attend the meeting. He is Iron county superintendent of schools.

Club members will hold a business meeting from 7 to 8:30.

War Criminals Escape Execution U.S. Saves 21 Germans From Gallows

FRANKFURT, Germany—(AP)—The greatest mass clemency by any Allied power since the war came in the midst of efforts to save 21 Germans from the gallows. U.S. officials saved 21 convicted German war criminals, including six involved in the notorious Malmédy massacre, and freed the imprisoned armistice negotiator Alfred Krupp, and eight of his aides.

The sweeping revision of U.S. war-crimes sentences means no German will be executed for the Malmédy massacre, in which several hundred unarmed GI prisoners of war and Belgian civilians were murdered in the Battle of the Bulge.

Fifteen of the 21 saved from death were ordered to serve life terms and the others from nine to 25 years.

Says Recent Deferment Plan Enacted For Country's Good

By DAN McCURRY
President John A. Hannah took issue with complaints against the new draft regulations made concerning college students.

In answer to charges saying that the new rulings discriminated against non-college men, Dr. Hannah said, "It must be assumed that Selective Service officials are acting in the national interest."

U.S. Strives For Quick UN Verdict

Wants Red China Called Aggressor

LAKE SUCCESS—(AP)—The United States strove last night for a quick verdict by the United Nations General Assembly on an American-backed resolution calling Red China the aggressor in Korea.

One would be immediate efforts by a high-caliber three-man good offices committee to seek a settlement.

The second would be intensive consultations among members of a 14-nation collective measures committee on what to do about meeting the Chinese aggression. Informed circles here said the American position on sanctions, if any, would depend finally on the results of these consultations.

The assembly was called by president Nasrallah Entezam, Iran, to meet at 9:45 a.m. CST today in an extraordinary session at Lake Success instead of in the huge assembly hall at Flushing Meadows.

Concerning Seniors
Col. Glenn B. Arnold, director of State Selective Service, said yesterday that the regulation concerning graduating seniors would probably affect only about 100-200 men. The ruling states that seniors may have a 30-day exemption after graduation to look for a job in essential industry.

"Our boards are pretty hard-boiled about single, non-veteran men," Co. Arnold said.

Council Clears 'Giltner' Query

A Student council inquiry concerning the naming of "Giltner Hall" has been answered. Councilman Bob Bolo had yesterday. The matter was clarified through a letter from Dean C. S. Bryan of the Veterinary Medicine school.

Council action came about when representative Dale Rhoades (Albert) moved an inquiry be made. Rhoades said his constituents felt a more specific name should be given the "new" structure. They had no objection to the "Giltner" title, he said.

The letter said the various branches such as the veterinary hospital will be named for their special functions. The buildings to portray to campus visitors the nature of the work going on within.

Coach Bennie Osterbaan of the University of Michigan will receive the conference championship trophy, presented by Kenneth L. Wilson, Western Conference commissioner.

Everett "Sonny" Grandelius, Janowitz, Kyle Rote of Southern Michigan, Bob Reynolds of Notre Dame and Bob Williams of Notre Dame are the All-American players who will be honored.

Shortened the prison terms of 36.

Announced that more than 400 other prison sentences fixed by U.S. war crimes courts are being reviewed.

Restored the property rights of the 42-year-old Krupp in the sprawling $300,000,000 munitions empire confiscated by Hitler in 1943 and administered by the Allies since the war.

The West German government declared last night the confirmation of the seven death sentences was incompatible with the 1949 German constitution, which abolished capital punishment. A parliamentary committee was expected to send a letter to McCloy, however, thanking him for the clemency actions.

Death Sentences
McCloy and Handy were guided in their decisions by the recommendations of a three-man board of review.

Handy based his clemency in the Malmédy massacre case on the fact the crimes were committed in the midst of "confused, fluid and desperate combat action, a last attempt to turn the tide of Allied successes." He said these crimes "are definitely distinguishable from more deliberate killings in concentration camps."

The Krupp clemency released the last of the German industrialists convicted of war crimes.

Civil Liberties

Looking through last year's Student council meeting minutes we found out the chairman of the Civil Liberties committee on two occasions wasn't very happy with the work she had to do—if any.

On Oct. 25, 1950, she told the Student council that the committee had no work to do, "as yet," and that she was open for suggestions. Again on Nov. 15, 1950, she moved the Civil Liberties committee be dissolved. Other councilmen suggested work the committee could do, and although Miss Doris Smith's motion was seconded, it was finally tabled.

At the last Student council meeting, Miss Smith gave a report of what her committee was doing, in particular with the current discrimination issue—"the Horace Graham case." The report, if nothing else, was very cute and corny.

A resolution, at the same meeting, by two other council members on certain actions to be taken on discrimination issues on campus and across the street was passed, but Miss Smith wasn't too happy about it. She didn't think "it would do anything." The resolution was left with her committee, nonetheless. It's still there.

Last Wednesday, Student Council President Bob Rombouts cancelled the first organizational meeting of a non-council student committee on campus that wanted to work on the elimination of discrimination here. The council president reversed an earlier decision by the Organization's Bureau of the Student Council which allowed the meeting. His reason was that he didn't want to see a duplication of effort and overlapping of plans. The Civil Liberties committee was already working on the issue. If the committee didn't do anything in a few months then the group would be allowed to organize, he said.

There seems to be some doubts even among councilmen that the committee is really doing something. Maybe they are. At least now they have a group of students watching them. Maybe they need more help to take some action, in which case we think they could ask for some help and co-operation from students at large, especially a group of students that already has shown some interest in the same issue.

We hope Miss Smith has some work to do to keep her busy and justify the existence of her committee. If not, she might as well step down. There are other students within and without the council who seem to be interested.

MSC Movies

At last the student body is going to get a chance to see two moving pictures about the subject that interests them the most—themselves, and the school they attend.

"Postmark East Lansing" and "Waves of Green," two documentary films about Michigan State College, will be shown on Feb. 14 in the Union ballroom. There will be three showings at times that will be announced soon.

These films were made primarily with the idea of sending them around to various groups throughout the state and nation as a form of public relations.

The films were made on campus with many shots being unposed scenes in student life. In order for the student body to see them, a lot of organization was needed.

This was supplied by the senior class and Union Board. These two groups are also footing the bill for the rent of the ballroom. They deserve a vote of thanks for their effort and generosity.

Eisenhower In Capital To Report On Findings

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower flew into the capital in a sleet storm yesterday to advise President Truman, congress and the American people, what should be done to build European defenses against communism.

Advance predictions were heard that he would report a need for more American troops on the continent and for a strenuous, cooperative effort by all North Atlantic treaty nations.

Corrections Released On Lewis Story

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Federal Authorities said Tuesday that Dr. Richard N. Lewis, University of Delaware chemistry professor, has refused to answer "certain questions" about a Chinese scientist involved in a deportation proceeding.

Dr. Lewis was called before the U.S. Immigration service to testify in the proceedings against Dr. Hsueh-Shen Tsien, Chinese jet propulsion expert. Dr. Tsien has been accused of having at one time been a member of the Communist party.

The nature of the questions Dr. Lewis refused to answer were not disclosed by immigration authorities or the professor.

Dr. Lewis said he told examiner William S. Lavitt that he had known Dr. Tsien when he (Lewis) was a student at California Institute of Technology but he neither had seen or corresponded with him since 1942.

Federal authorities said they were studying the case to determine what legal action, if any, is to be taken against Dr. Lewis.

The Associated Press reported erroneously Monday that Dr. Lewis refused to testify before the examiner and that Dr. Tsien was accused of being a Communist.

Truman Favors Income Tax Boost

Copyright, 1951, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON—President Truman has always been against a Federal sales tax, as was Franklin D. Roosevelt before him. He is reported to be of the same opinion still.

Accordingly, he is expected to resist the current pressure to accept a sales tax as part of the projected tax program to pay defense costs. The argument will be somewhat persuasive because of the huge sum—$18,000,000,000—that must be raised if we are to go on a pay-as-you-go basis and balance the budget.

Instead, the President favors an increase in income taxes as the fair way, since the income tax is predicted on ability to pay.

A general sales tax of the scope being discussed would comprise a levy on many of the necessities of life, high enough as they now are. As such it would discriminate against persons of low income, since so much of their income has to go for necessities, far more proportionately than for those with more substantial incomes.

A Federal tax, too, would be piled on top of state and local sales taxes. There are now, of course, a number of federal excise taxes, or "nuisance" taxes as they are called, in the nature of sales taxes. But there is considerable difference in these selected taxes some on luxury items, and a general sales tax or manufacturers' excise tax that would have virtually an across-the-board effect.

Recently there is agitation for a Federal sales tax. It is promoted most vigorously by wealth and corporate interests as a way to reduce income taxes and shift the burden to consumer taxes. The aim of the recurrent campaigns is to establish a general sales tax as a permanent part of the Federal tax structure. The theory is that, once imbedded in the law, it will be hard to eliminate. That is based on common experience of the Federal government with tax forms.

It is argued that a sales tax is easy to collect, as it is, and that it is relatively "painless" because of the very small percentage take on each item. But, for persons of small income who count every nickel and penny, it multiplies very rapidly, and the total effect is not exactly "painless."

The majority of our people always have resisted imposition of a general Federal sales tax. Only once has a really serious attempt been made to levy such a tax. That was 20 years ago. It failed.

There is one man here who remembers that very well—and undoubtedly will be guided accordingly. That is Rep. Robert L. Doughton (D., N.C.), who helped on that occasion to organize a revolt in the House, in company with the late Rep. Fiorello LaGuardia, afterward Mayor of New York, that bowled over the House Democratic leadership of that day and defeated a general manufacturers' excise tax.

The venerable, 87-year-old Mr. Doughton now happens to be in a position of considerable authority as chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee which initiates tax legislation, a post he has occupied altogether for 16 years.

He was a member of the Ways and Means Committee when the previous effort was made to enact a general sales tax. The country was in the midst of depression. Sources of revenue, consequently, were less productive, and revenue was sorely needed.

In that emergency a high-pressure campaign was put on for a sales tax to supplement other taxes. With the acquiescence of the then Speaker of the House, Rep. John N. Garner of Texas, later Vice-President under Franklin D. Roosevelt for two terms, the Ways and Means Committee drafted the sales tax measure and reported it to the House, over Mr. Doughton's protest.

He got busy among Southern Democrats, a fertile field, for they were already swamped with complaints from constituents about state sales taxes then prevalent in the South. Rep. LaGuardia worked among progressive Republicans. When the vote came Democrats deserted the party leadership in droves and Jack Garner suffered one of the worst defeats ever incurred by a Speaker of the House.

There should be some sort of a moral in this for today.

Atom Damage

San Francisco (AP)—Claims for damages resulting from recent atomic bomb tests in Southern Nevada are pouring into insurance company offices.

P. S. Lassen, loss manager of the Insurance Company of North America, said "about 50 claims" have been received at his office. The company's West Coast headquarters are in San Jose.

Lassen said the claims ask payment for broken windows and cracked walls.

Just A Moment . . .

Over The Wire

By Steve Bransdorfer

An incident came up in the STATE NEWS city room Tuesday night that caused quite a flurry with the boys on the desk. About 11 p.m. the teletype in the corner started clanging its attention bells. Moving across the blank wire copy paper was the phrase ATTENTION MICHIGAN STATE NEWS. Then the electronic keys pounded out the dateline . . . "Wonju, Korea—(AP)—Major General Edward Almond presented medals to eight U.S. Second Division soldiers for valor and leadership . . ."

It was the story of the decorating of Bob Levitt, MSC June, '50 graduate, on the Wonju airstrip. That AP story ran on the front page yesterday. On Monday we received word that a Detroit paper had published a paragraph about the ceremony. The AP had run nothing. So Monday afternoon, a call was placed to the Associated Press bureau five miles away in Lansing. "Check on it for us," we asked. The result was that special story Tuesday night from more than half-way around the world. We tore it off the machine, more than a little impressed at the power of the little machine in the corner.

Incidents like that create attention in themselves. But they can mean more. They can be looked on as a kind of symbol of the time.

This was the story of an MSC graduate that made good. He didn't make good in industry or the professions. He didn't have a chance. He made good on the battlefield, about six months after parading down the Jenison field-house aisle with a degree clutched in his hand.

What was the big story just before his on the wire? It was that the Chinese communists had been branded as aggressors. It got a bigger headline on the front page. It rang more bells on the teletype. It could lead to more decorations on many more battlefields.

I called the special story a symbol. That's so because, first, it demonstrated the marvelous technology that is ours, with the story being wired to us from the other side of the world simply because we flicked a telephone dial.

Second, it was a war story. And it followed a story that has the potential of meaning even a greater war story. In other words, beneath the story was the fact that almost every technical means for a fruitful life is here, but the world doesn't know how to handle them. We're still fighting.

Here's a special to the STATE NEWS that some day I'd like to see come clanging over that wire. And I bet it would cause even a greater flurry than the other one.

"ATTENTION MICHIGAN STATE NEWS: Lake Success, N. Y.—(AP)—The U.S. and Russia today came to full agreement on all issues concerning world-wide problems. Both delegations pledged mediation on future issues."

It would be great, wouldn't it?

Interpreting The News Purpose Of United Nations Not Dead Yet

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR., AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

A man asked me the other day why I didn't write the obituary of the United Nations.

He was thinking that, by marching up the hill and then down again on matters of principle regarding Korea; by side-stepping such questions as the Allied crossing of the 38th parallel; by failure to subscribe sufficient armies to do the job; by the split over Chinese aggression and sanctions, the U.N. left the non-Communist nations with no alternative but to center their search for unity outside the organization.

Well, there's something to that. But I'm not ready to write the U.N.'s obituary yet, both because there's still real life, and because I think it is essential that mankind maintain a focal point for its hopes.

Despite the bitter split which has developed over China, the U.N. seems stronger than it was before the Korean crisis. It did serve as a vehicle for demonstrating that the free nations will fight Communist aggression, and thereby may have dulled the appetite of Russia and her satellites for more of the same. We won't know for sure about that until later.

In the days of summer solicite the U.N. was receiving only lip service from Washington and other capitals; was called a mere debating society. Then, suddenly and very effectively, it became a prime weapon of U.S. policy. That demonstration of the importance of having the U.N. available will not be soon forgotten.

It is sad, of course, to see India, greatest outpost of the British commonwealth in Asia, voting with the Soviet bloc on the Chinese aggression resolution, a matter of fact in which honest disagreement seems almost incredible. Britain was kind enough to abstain at India's own resolution was beaten, but India did not reciprocate. She voted with the Kremlin and its captive delegations.

But diplomatic observers still expect India to be convinced, by the Communists' own actions, that the world cannot live half slave and half free, that the men of Peiping are Russia's tools, and that you can't do business with Stalin.

The United Nations is one vehicle through which this message can be carried to India and all the vacillating states.

The U.N. is a co-ordinating center for the interests of the West, which has its alliances and mutual defense plans in addition to the U.N., and the unorganized Orient.

That the U.N. is undergoing severe strains, displaying signs of disunity which were not evident before, cannot be questioned.

But it will be kept alive if for no other purpose than to serve the powers in their maneuvers for position in their world-wide conflict.

Gangway Collapse Kills 14 In Erin

BELFAST, North Ireland—(AP)—A gangway leading to a ship collapsed last night, killing 14 workers and injuring 31 others.

More than 60 workers crowding ashore at the end of a shift fell 50 feet. Some were thrown into the water and others onto the dock beside the ship—the Juan Peron being outlitted as a whale factory ship for an Argentine firm.

It was the worst shipyard disaster in Belfast history. Eyewitness accounts said the scene was "heart rending," with cries and groans coming from men crumpled up on the wharf. Many of the injured suffered broken legs in the fall from the long, narrow gangway packed with workers hurrying ashore.

Weeping wives and mothers gathered outside hospital gates. Many collapsed as the names of the dead were announced.

Sam Rayburn Sets Record For Speaker

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Sam Rayburn banged his gavel Tuesday, and thereby set a record. For the now has served longer as Speaker of the House than any other man in history.

The previous recordholder, Henry Clay of Kentucky, Clay put in eight years, four months and 11 days. Tuesday Rayburn went him one day better.

Council Group To Investigate Discrimination

Action Postponed; To Await Advice

Preliminary investigation to find the best method of instructing MSC students about racial discrimination has been begun by the Student council civil liberties committee.

Doris Smith, committee chairman, said action would be postponed until the committee hears from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, to which they wrote for advice on the Horace Graham case.

Resolution two calling for four major steps against local racial discrimination was passed at the last Student council meeting. The motion was introduced by Tom Angeli, Iron River junior, and Gaylord Sheets, Lansing junior.

Briefly the steps are: A letter to local barber's asking if their shop will cut any customer's hair, "regardless of race, color, or creed".

Publication of the survey results. Encouragement of all students to patronize all non-discriminatory shops, and to express their opinions on discrimination to their "merchant," as well as reporting all cases of discrimination to the investigating civil liberties committee.

A commendation to President John A. Hannah for his policies in relation to discrimination.

Grill Remains Open For Post J-Hop Parties

Special grill hours for post J-hop parties have been announced by refreshment committee co-chairmen, Mary Lou Brown and Chris Jennings.

Friday night the grill will open at 1 a.m., immediately after the dance is over, and remain open until 3 a.m. Saturday night it will open at 12 and stay open until 2 a.m.

Jennings emphasized that only those couples attending the J-Hop would be admitted to the grill during this time. Driving permits also extend to the area around the union, so that cars can be parked close by.

A special breakfast menu, plus a sandwich special, will be available to grill patrons after the dance February 9 and 10.

Six Petitions Filed For City Council Seats

Mayor Declines To Run For Office

Six candidates have filed petitions for election to East Lansing's three vacant city council seats for 1951.

Council members Max Strother and Cornelius Wagenvoerd, whose terms expire, are seeking re-election.

Mayor Burr Twichell's term also expires. He has announced that he will not run for office in the 1951 election.

If one more petition is accepted, a primary election will be held Feb. 19. Merwyn Skamser, city clerk, announced.

The six candidates are: Max Strother, 545 Division street; Cornelius Wagenvoerd, 950 Westlawn; Howard C. Walsh, 516 Bailey; Lawrence Kollmorgen, 549 Division; Stuart Boyerman, 522 East Cawood; and Mrs. Nina McCall, 436 Charles street.

East Lansing's new mayor will be chosen by the new council when it is installed.

Tuesday was the final day for voters to register. The regular election is April 2.

Boxing Squad Second Key Man

Johnston Quits Team For Studies; McAuliffe Replaces Marek

By DALE ARNOLD

Michigan State's boxing squad received a second KO punch in another key man — Rae Johnston, 165-pounder, who has voluntarily quit the team because of pressing school work. This blow falls within a week of Gabby Marek's departure.

Johnston is a pre-med student at Michigan State. He felt that if he continued to box, he would not be able to continue his studies. He has decided to quit the team because of pressing school work. This blow falls within a week of Gabby Marek's departure.

Ball Players To Entertain U.S. Troops

Westover Air Force Base, Mass. — Several major leaguers arrived here today for organized baseball's second swing through U.S. troop bases in Europe. A dozen managers and players are scheduled to take off tomorrow for a flight to England and Germany. They will spend several days with air force troops at British installations, then move to the American Zone of Germany to conduct a two-week baseball clinic for occupation forces. The troupe will go to Germany at the request of the Defense Department.

Kell Refuses First Contract

DETROIT — Hard-hitting George Kell, third baseman and sparkplug of the Detroit Tigers, rejected his unsigned contract to Briggs Stadium yesterday with a "friendly request" for a conference on salary terms. Kell reportedly was offered a boost of $3,500 over his last year's $33,000 pay check, but he turned down the offer.

He asked for a meeting with Tiger general manager Billy Evans sometime this week, but Evans was due to leave for the major league meeting in New York today.

I wired George at his Swifton, Ark. home and we agreed to get together in my office early next week," the Tiger general manager said.

Kell said in a telephone interview today that he was not a holdout.

Wisconsin Unbeaten Matmen Seek Third Win

By MIKE WRIGHT

Michigan State's wrestling team will meet Wisconsin tonight. The Badgers bring an unbeaten wrestling team to meet the Spartans in Jenison fieldhouse at 8. They boast wins over Northwestern, Wheaton college, and Iowa State plus a tie with Iowa.

State now has a 500 record for the season with wins over Pittsburgh and Indiana and losses to Iowa State Teachers and Ohio State. Despite the differences in the records of the two teams, Spartan coach Fendley Collins believes the local matmen have a good chance to add to their average in this match.

In the past Wisconsin has never been too strong in over-all performances, he said, but have always had a few outstanding grapplers. This year they have a stronger team than usual, sparked by Don Ryan, 155-pound Big Ten champ, and Bob Lessl, team captain and a runner-up in the Big Ten last year.

Orris Bender will meet Ryan, who has not lost a match this season, in the feature attraction of the evening. Another headline match will send the Spartans 177-pound wizard, Gene Gibbons, against John Falter. Gibbons is unbeaten in his four meets, with three falls to his credit. A weak ankle hindered him against Ohio State, but he still came through with a 4-0 win.

Other men to take part in the meet for State will be Ruben Shehigian at 123 pounds, Marty Sherman at 130 pounds, Joe DiBello at 137 pounds, and Rees Smith or Bob Gang at 147 pounds. In the heavyweight division Frank Kapral will meet the Badgers' Art Prehlik.

In the two previous meetings of the teams in 1939 and 1941 State won handily, 20-8 and 27-3.

For The Big Night

Mary Kopus, Detroit sophomore, models the latest J-Hop formal from Jacobson's.

Party Dresses Feature Frills, Pleats, Ruffles

With the J-Hop around the corner a coed's thoughts turn to formals.

Party dresses are soft and feminine this year with a cloud of frills and ruffles. Replacing the slimmer, more casually tailored lines of last year, formals are full and bouffant.

Detail Emphasized
Detail is emphasized in tucks, pleats and ruffles, rather than added flowers, bows and ornaments for decoration.

Still first on the fashion agenda is the fitted strapless bodice with a full sweeping skirt that swirls gracefully out at the hemline.

Net chiffon and stiff taffetas have replaced smoother clinging materials to obtain the bouffant effect.

Strapless Tops
Tops are strapless this season with many layers or folds of materials across the front. Frilly insertions of eyelet embroidery lace give a rounded appearance. A swirl of lace or net in a stole gives added charm to bare shoulders.

Colors are primarily delicate pastels, with campane, Nile green, pale blues, soft pinks, yellows and aquas popular. For added glamor and a finishing touch, tinted matching of contrasting fabric pumps lend a dramatic dash of color.

Williams Plans Speech Here

Oris V. Williams, head of the U. S. bureau of agricultural economics, will speak at the Farm Management banquet on "What's Ahead or Agriculture."

The home economics department will wind up its three-day program for Farmers' Week with a style show displaying costumes designed and made by students. The show will begin at 1:30 in the auditorium.

E. L. Anthony, dean of agriculture, gave awards to former short course directors and outstanding alumni at the short course banquet last night.

Directors cited were R. S. Shaw, former MSC president, E. B. Hill, acting director in 1920, Ashley M. Berridge, director from 1920 to 1924 and R. W. Tenny, director since 1924.

Aud Slaughter Chicken Falls As Student Gives Speech

Room 120 Aud, became a poultry slaughter house last week with an audience to boot.

Knife in one hand and pet chicken in the other, short course Ag student, Elwood Reaume made short order of the chicken. Before the eyes of his public speaking class he killed, dressed and explained the whole process in technical terms.

His instructor, Mrs. Donald Hayworth, said later that it was the most unusual visual aids speech she ever had to mark.

The chicken, slaughter equipment and paper and boxes for the inedibles were brought from Reaume's own farm.

After her experience, Mrs. Hayworth expressed the hope that the "ready to cook" chicken would be presented to her.

But it went home to Reaume's wife for their dinner instead.

Healthy Farm Economy Seen By Specialist

Michigan farmers can look forward to a healthy agricultural economy for the next ten years, according to L. L. Boger, MSC agricultural economist.

However, he added, farmers will be seriously handicapped by shortages of machinery, supplies, and labor.

Speaking before a Farmer's Week audience Wednesday, Boger said farm prices will rise more than non-farm prices and that farm incomes will rise proportionately. Agricultural production will increase by 30 per cent, he said.

Pointing out that the country will make strong demands on the nation's agricultural resources, he declared the military expenses will boost demands for food throughout the nation as well in the allied countries.

Boger added that the farm population will decline about a million and one-half during the next ten years.

Gardiner Urges Changes In Methods Soil Expert Addresses Ag Session

Urging that the two North American countries co-ordinate their efforts in agriculture, James G. Gardiner, Canadian minister of agriculture, spoke at yesterday's general session of Farmers' Week at the auditorium.

"We can revolutionize agriculture on this continent," Gardiner declared, "and it will result in higher standards of living for both nations."

He had highest praise for the attitude of the United States government in its economic dealings with Canada, but pointed out things which still could be done.

He took the export of Canadian wheat as an example. "We grow the hardest wheat in the world," he said, explaining that being the hardest it was also the driest and could be stored for the longest time.

"We grow 50 million bushels of wheat every year," he emphasized, "but we are not allowed to ship any of it to the United States."

"Our wheat would improve the flour milling in the United States and selling it here would improve the Canadian dollar position," he stated.

"It would also make United States flour the best priced in the world," Gardiner called for inconsis-encies like these to be straightened out between the United States and Canada.

"We can maintain a period of peace which may be helpful not only to all of us, but to the whole world," he observed, urging efforts toward the fullest possible co-operation.

He cautioned both countries against the feeling that war is inevitable. "We must keep doing, saying and acting as if we are going to be able to ward it off."

Tax Bill Biggest In U.S. History

to collect some $10,000,000,000 in about this manner:

Tax Boosts Listed

Individuals—Increase by about $4,000,000,000 the income levies on over 50,000,000 taxpayers—an overall rise of about 20 per cent although not all taxpayers would have that size increase. The money may come from a boost of 4 percentage points in each income tax bracket.

Corporations—Increase by about $3,000,000,000, raising the present 47 per cent on corporation income to perhaps about 55 per cent, and probably adjusting the present 77 per cent excess profits tax.

Excises—Pick up more billions by broadening the levies and raising rates in the excise tax
