Spartacade Scores

Spartacade went over with a $1,200 bang. Actually $1,500 worth of tickets were sold to the crowd of nearly 5,000, but expenses still left the surprisingly large net total.

All this will now be turned over to the Campus Chest. It is a healthy dent in the goal of one dollar per student set by this group.

With an enrollment of 13,064 students, MSC's annual charities' drive is ten percent to the good before it even begins on May 7.

You who enjoyed yourselves at the Spartacade Saturday night will be interested to know your money will go to the following funds: Spartan nursery, World Student Service fund, Displaced Persons fund, March of Dimes, Damon Runyon Cancer fund and the Lansing community chest.

The whole Spartacade show was a surprise to many students. The lavish booths and wide variety of entertainment made it easy to spend money, have a fine time and help out deserving charities all in one evening.

It was a refreshing idea and well handled. All the many persons who organized it, put up booths and helped out during the hectic evening should be congratulated.

The prizes were passed out to the booths who took in the most tickets. This was a simple but ingenious way to assure the all out efforts of those participating. It was practical, and didn't detract a bit from the generosity of the participants.

Interpreting The News

Russia's Troop Strength Statement's Misleading

By J. M. ROBERTS
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Soviet Russia's claim that she has no more troops in the field than in 1939 may be correct. The impression she tries to leave by it is totally false.

The senate foreign relations committee has estimated that Russia has an army of 175 divisions.

Joseph Stalin himself told Harry Hopkins that Russia had 180 divisions at the outbreak of World War II. That would be around three million men. In her latest note to Britain, Russia claims to have less than half the troops maintained by the Atlantic Pact nations, which Moscow estimates at five million men. The senate committee estimated 1.5 million for the Allies.

But what Soviet Russia doesn't say is that, like the Chinese communists, her available force is practically doubled by the presence of what in other countries would be called militia.

In actual fighting strength, by Stalin's own testimony, here's how it works. He explained it to Hopkins.

Within one month of the time Hitler struck in 1941, Russia put 240 divisions into the front and had 220 more forming. In July, 1941, Stalin told Hopkins that he would have 350 divisions in line by May 1942. There is evidence that he did so.

I can't find the references at the moment, but my recollection is that this was done without disrupting the Red Army in Siberia, which had clashed with the Japanese several times in recent years and which Russia was very anxious not to move. Some Siberian divisions — I think it was two — were rushed into the line as the Germans threatened Moscow in late 1941. After that, Stalin had his horses. He sacrificed two million of them in a comparatively unscientific war against far better German divisions, which were finally whipped as much by over-extension and command disintegration as by Russia's masses of men.

If Russia admits to 2.5 million men in her army, then it's a cinch that with the satellites and World War II reserves, she is prepared for the greatest mobilization in the history of the world.

So much for the military argument. It was not the prime point of Moscow's note to London. It is designed to further the real point, which is to create doubt in Europe of Russia's warlike intentions, and so encourage that faction of British and European thinking which feels the United States is pushing her allies too rapidly and perhaps unnecessarily along the road to rearmament.

Churnings And Henry Cabot Lodge

WASHINGTON — In recent years when an international question has been concentrated in a specific issue that stirs up wide public debate, such as the present troops-to-Europe controversy, there is always a great churning up in the Republican party.

That immediately projects long familiar party leaders to the front lines and opens the way, too, for the emergence of new figures. They all take their sides in the renewed battle between the forces of nationalism and internationalism.

So now, representing the former, we see Senator Taft and Herbert Hoover and, on the other side, Governor Dewey and Harold Stassen—all familiar political figures. And, for one new figure, we see a military man who has become a factor in the controversy because of his position. General Eisenhower, accordingly, is being cast in a political role by his champions in the internationalist camp, which include both Messrs. Dewey and Stassen, though not by any act or posture of his own.

The general's position, as an outsider with no political experience, recalls that of another outsider from the ranks of business and a former Democrat, the late Wendell L. Willkie. The latter was taken up as a champion by the internationalist wing of the party, won the 1940 Republican nomination, and thereby captured the party for the internationalists, much to the resentment still—a decade later—of the nationalist elements of the party.

The internationalists have been victorious at both national conventions since, with Governor Dewey as the candidate in 1944 and 1948, though the Taft wing of the party has manifested a stronghold in congress and once again is feeling its oats in the current controversy over sending American troops to Europe and how much of a say congress should have in that decision.

Aside from General Eisenhower, the outsider, the present battle in congress has opened the opportunity for an insider who, though by no means a new figure in national Republican politics, has come forward at this time to assure a position of leadership that may bring him into 1952 Republican calculations.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge (R, Mass.) is still among the younger men of his party—he will be 50 in July and is four months younger than Tom Dewey. He has had long political experience, comes from a family distinguished in American politics, served in the Army during the second World War, and is known to have higher ambitions than the senate. This may have some bearing on his publication now of a pamphlet of his speeches over the last four years, along with favorable comments thereon. They reveal his strong internationalist leanings and his advocacy of a firm and sure role of leadership by the United States in the combat with Soviet Russian totalitarianism. He is strategically situated as a member of the foreign relations committee.

Whether the issues of now and 1952 be so easily resolved in compromise remains to be seen. The young man from Massachusetts seems to be gambling on it.

"To the editor:
I'm afraid that Mr. Bransdorfer needs his American history, his mathematics, or both refreshed. The Mr. Washington of whom he wrote was born in 1732 according to most references; this being 1951 I believe the difference is 219 years. It could have been a typographical error I guess, but since the mistake was repeated I have my doubts. For shame!" That literary analysis was signed Jesse Thornhill.

"To the editor:
I suppose you have received several letters (nope, just two) informing you that George Washington was born 219 years ago, not 119. Just add mine to the pile. Otherwise a very good editorial." Elvin Tuttle penned that one.

Now to answer these obvious slams at my historical and mathematical ability.

First, I could surprise those who thought I made an error by pointing out my calculations were based on the lunar calendar. This lunar observation might have been thought to be more valid for the purposes of that article because of an apparent relation between Washington's philosophy of state and the cult of Zoroaster practiced thousands of years ago in the middle east before our calendar was invented. But that wouldn't be true.

Second, there is a definite possibility that the George Washington I referred to was not the famous George Washington who was the first president of the United States. This George Washington could have been born exactly 100 years after the first and advanced many of the same ideas of his namesake. And only after deep research had I dug this man's history up, and I alone commemorated his birth while the rest of the country observed George the first's entrance into the globe. But maybe that wouldn't go over so big either.

Lastly I could claim that because of Einstein's Theory of Relativity the world actually has been pushed ahead 100 years. Therefore, although George Washington was born in 1732 according to history books, according to the application of modern relativity theorems, Washington actually started kicking in 1832. But someone in the physics department might write in, so that's out.

Therefore, there remains but one course to take. I cannot tell a lie. I made a mistake. Pardon me, George.

Letter To The Editor: Few Questions Raised About Hockey Team

TO THE EDITOR:
We have heard through papers and by word of mouth that the material for State's hockey team is of an inferior quality and that the team, such as it is, lacks spirit.

It has been stated that nothing more can be expected of the team for a few years to come.

Is this because of lack of material? Is this because of lack of experience? Are the players to be blamed or is it the lack of adequate coaching?

We would like to defend the material, both present and past. They would be accepted on any college team. What is wrong here? First and second year hockey clubs have been and are experiencing winning seasons.

This is State's third year. Example: North Dakota, in their first season had 11 wins and 5 losses. Denver had victories over Michigan, Toronto and other top clubs.

Why did State have such a tough schedule last year and this year turn to the Ontario Aggies? What are the causes of lack of spirit?

State has the same material on their basketball team, this year as last, but look at the comparative records. Why? We are concerned with the future of hockey at State.

'Gee' Headin' South... Former Tigers Fine In Cockfighting Scene

PONTIAC (AP)—Fines of $25, plus $25 court costs, were here yesterday against 85 persons, including two league baseball players, arrested as spectators at a cockfight here Sunday night.

James D. Spencer, of Lake Orion, was fined $85 and sent to jail on a charge of permitting the cockfights to be staged over which he had control.

Brothers Gerald (Gee) and Harvey W. (Huh) Walker of Detroit Tiger players, were fined. The group also included women.

The spectators all pleaded guilty to simple charges of being in the cockfights. Illegal in Michigan, deputy and humane society officers said they found 75 cocks and 150 hens.

After his court appearance, Walker commented on the lead and the living roosters belonging to him, adding: "I'm going to pack up my 80 birds and take them to Florida, where the game is legal."

Hockey Team To Meet Denver Tonight

By STAN KUREMAN
Michigan State's hockey team will open its last series of the season, hoping to regain their winning ways, tonight against the University of Denver at the MSC ice arena.

Pocrnich

This year they have played in 17 contests and won 8 while tying one. Included in their victories are impressive conquests of the highly vaunted University of Toronto six and the powerful University of Michigan squad.

They topped the former by a 4-1 score while beating Michigan 5-3.

The Pioneers have been idle since Feb 7 when they beat the Wolverines because of their mid-term vacation.

Leading the Denver squad is the outstanding sophomore goalie, Walt Morin. Morin started playing goal for the first time last year when he led the Denver frosh sextet to an undefeated season which included a victory over the varsity.

In the 17 games he has tended goal for the Pioneers this year, Forin has turned aside 445 shots by opponents. He has been scored on 88 times.

Leading the defense for Denver is 215-pound Doug McKinnon. He is the defensive specialist for the Pioneers and his play has been outstanding this year.

Eddie Miller, who centers Denver's top line, is a lightning fast skater and an adept scorer. At three different times this season he has performed the "hat-trick." He leads his team in the scoring column this season.

Miller is a sophomore, as are his linemates, Jack Salo and Tony Pocrnich. Pocrnich tops Denver in assists and is second in scoring.

Salo has garnered enough points this year to rate him as the number four scorer.

The Pioneers' second line is centered by Craig Robertson and has Ben Wylie and Willis O'Leary at the wings.

This is another all-sophomore line that has proven its ability this year. The Denver team is a young but experienced outfit. Included on their roster of 16 men are but three juniors and the rest sophomores.

The Michigan State team will probably have no changes in their line-up. Goalie Del Reid, whose play has been exceptional in the last few games, will start in his usual position.

The Spartans' top-scoring line of Bill McCormick at center and co-capt. Bill Blair and Neil Bristol at the wings.

Center Dick Lord will be the pivot man on the second line between Bob Hansen and Bob Gorman. Connie Buck, Bob Revou and Ray Brooks compose the third.

Co-capt. Jim Doyle, Gus Carlson, Dick Northey, Joe Saurer and Al Mack will share defensive duties. Bill Finneran will be available for duty as a utility forward.

They will travel to College Park, Md., to engage the sluggers, who are unbeaten in their first three matches.

The Spartans are shooting for their third win of the season and their second win over Maryland. In the four times that the two schools have met, the Terps have walked away with the Spartan belt three times.

WON LAST YEAR In their meeting last year, State walloped them 5 1/2 to 2 1/2.

The Michigan State mittmen emerged from their win over Gonzaga last week with few bad after-effects, and should be ready to go Saturday.

Leon Hamilton, who fought Gonzaga's national champ Eli Thomas to a draw, suffered a slightly damaged right eye, but will be in top form when he faces Maryland's veteran 165 pounder, Don Oliver.

The Quantico Marines were the first ones to fall to Maryland, 5-3. The Leathernecks bowed to the Spartans 6-2 in the first match here but the State squad has altered its lineup since then and comparative scores are of little value.

One thing is certain, Maryland will be sending a powerful group of leather-tossers against State Saturday and the battle will be a rough one.

Michigan State's badminton club has been formally organized and will meet every Friday at 7 p.m. in Jensen gym.

Records Tumble As State Tankers Win Indiana Swimmers Sunk In Dual Meet, 56-37

Michigan State's swimming team, sparked by Bert McLachlan and Clarke Scholes, smashed or bettered 14 records as it downed Indiana university, 56-37, in Jensen pool, Saturday.

Included among the marks bettered in the "warm-up" for the conference championships in March were three Big Ten records.

Scholes, national 100 yard champ, bettered the 51.3 record in the century with a 50.6 clocking.

This stroking set new pool, varsity and dual meet records. Conference records can be officially set only in the conference meet.

More Records Another Big Ten record was eclipsed by McLachlan in the 1500 meter free style when he glided the distance in 18:41.8.

The lanky sophomore came within 3.5 seconds of shattering the National Collegiate record, and shattered the existing pool, varsity, and dual meet marks.

MSC Coach Charles McCaffree hailed high praise for the free style duo.

Top in First Try "Clarke and Bert were really terrific. And just think, that was the first time he (McLachlan) ever swam the 1,500 meter event," declared McCaffree.

The Spartan 400 yard relay quartet of Dave Hoffman, Jim Quigley, Scholes, and George Houghenyst had the Big Ten

Twenty New Faces Yanks Look At Rookies

NEW YORK (AP)—One reason why the New York Yankees win so many pennants is that they never stand pat.

Despite capturing the world's championship last October, the bombers are calling up 20 recruits for inspection. This includes pitcher Bob Muncief who at 34

The player likely to get most attention at the Yanks Phoenix, Ariz., spring training camp is a 19-year-old "kid" who is not even listed on the roster. He is Mickey Mantle, the Joplin, (Mo.) jolter and the apple of Manager Casey Stengel's eye.

Draft Exempt Mantle, a shortstop sensation at Joplin last year where he hit .383 to lead the Western association, has been moved up to Binghamton, N. Y. However, the kid recently has been classified 4F by his Miami, Okla., draft board because of a bone disease in his left ankle and has been invited to drill with the present club.

Other Rookies Jerry Snider, a .285-hitting shortstop at Kansas City Gene Markland, third baseman drafted from Buffalo, and first baseman Fenton Mole, back for a third trial from Portland, are the other rookies infielders.

Muncief heads a list of seven speedy pitchers. The veteran right-hander, who saw service with the St. Louis Browns, Cleveland, and Pittsburgh, won 15 and lost 17 homers and driving in 134 runs. Not bad for a youngster in his first year in organized baseball.

Mantle will share the spotlight with freshman infielders Jim Brideweser, and Gil McDougald, Brideweser, up with a 310 batting mark at Binghamton, is the former University of Southern California collegian shortstop who made such a tremendous impression in camp last spring. McDougald, 22, was voted the most valuable player in the Texas league last season. A second baseman, McDougald batted .336 and drove in 115 runs for Beaumont. He led the loop in hits. Lake Mantle, McDougald has been asked to report to the Yankee camp although officially he is not on the roster.

There isn't a single outfielder in the group. Hank Workman, who performed in the outie garden at Kansas City, has been converted into a first baseman. He hit only .267 for the blues but it was his long distance hitting that has caught the eye of Yankee officials. His high total included 23 home runs.

Illini Climb To Sixth In AP Cage Ratings

NEW YORK (AP)—Illinois, battling for the Big Ten championship, made the largest strides this week in the Associated Press basketball poll which is still dominated by mighty Kentucky.

The Illini, who took over the conference lead with a 71-65 victory over Indiana last Monday, jumped from tenth place to sixth, replacing St. Louis, which fell four notches.

Kentucky, loser of only one game in 25, held firm to the No. 1 position, followed again by Oklahoma A and M (25-1) and Columbia (19-0), the only major unbeaten team in the country.

Indiana seventh Then in order came Kansas State (18-3), Bradley (24-2), Illinois (17-3), Indiana (16-3), North Carolina State (25-4), St. Johns (20-3) and St. Louis (20-6).

The final poll will be conducted next week, when most of the regular season schedules are completed. Bradley was No. 1 in the final poll last year.

Kentucky, which has clinched a spot in the NCAA tournament opening March 20 by taking the Southeastern conference crown, drew 75 first place votes from the 165 sports writers and broadcasters who participated in the latest poll.

The Oklahoma Aggies, who clinch a tie for the Missouri valley championship with one more victory, drew 28 first place votes and total of 954 points.

Kansas State Climbs Kansas State, leader of the big seven conference, moved up one notch from last week. Bradley climbed two, apparently on the strength of its 96-65 walloping of St. Louis last Tuesday.

St. Louis has clung doggedly to the top ten despite six defeats. Voters remember that it was St. Louis which gave Kentucky its only setback—a 43-42 overtime defeat at New Orleans' sugar bowl back in December.

The top ten: 1 Kentucky (75) (24-1) 1,221 2 Oklahoma A and M (28) (25-1) 954 3 Columbia (11) (19-0) 801 4 Kansas State (3) (18-3) 661 5 Bradley (2) (26-4) 492 6 Illinois (3) (17-3) 454 7 Indiana (8) (16-3) 461 8 North Carolina State (3) (25-4) 396 9 St. Johns (2) (20-3) 354 10 St. Louis (20-6) 298

Spartan Thinclads, Cagers Bow To Wisconsin Squads

Badgers Edge Track Squad In Final Event

By ALEX LAGGIN

An inch proved to be just as wide a margin as a mile Saturday, as the Spartan thinclads dropped a heart-breaking 57 to 56, decision to Wisconsin in a hectic dual clash. . . .

After missing twice, Wisconsin's Dick Kellman cleared the bar at 11 in his final try. The Spartan's high jumper sophomore, Alex Andriulis, almost made it on his second try, as he barely topped the bar to make it topple Kellman's win. . . .

As expected, the Western conference top middle distance runner, LeRoy Collins, won the 440 with a 52.4 run, with Spartan Bill Williams taking second. . . .

Capitol Comments Hearing Gives Death Penalty Bill Little Hope

By JOHN SCAMERORN
STATE NEWS Capitol Reporter
A house bill to establish capital punishment as the penalty for first degree murder in Michigan seems to have little chance of passing the legislature this year. This opinion was voiced last week, based on the arguments presented at a public hearing on the capital punishment bill conducted by the house state affairs committee. The bill would apply to all persons over 17 years of age convicted of first degree murder. It would replace life at hard labor with electrocution.

Several speakers at the hearing suggested an improved educational program to prevent crime. Appropriations to study criminal behavior and rehabilitate criminals were also proposed.

Answers Statement
Answering the statement that capital punishment would reduce expenses to taxpayers, Prof. Frank Hartung, Wayne university instructor and secretary of the Michigan Correction association, said electrocution may cost more than life imprisonment.

Cost of trials would rise considerably, he said, because they are harder fought when a life is at stake. Administration and prison costs would also increase, because closer watches are needed in a "death prison" than in one where there is no capital punishment.

New Cell Block
A new cell block, probably costing $500,000, would be needed at Jackson prison, the state penitentiary, Hartung continued. He said no present cell block in the prison is suitable for a death house, and a new block and an execution chamber would have to be constructed.

Hartung also said capital punishment is not, as claimed, a deterrent to murder. A nation-wide FBI report, he said, showed that the six states in the country with life as the maximum sentence for murder have a homicide rate less than one-half the national average.

Follows Urges
Rev. William Lyles, chairman of the legislative committee of the Baptist Ministers Conference of Detroit, said a murderer usually follows one of three urges—sex, greed or hatred.
"It is not wrong for a man to have any of these urges," Rev. Lyles said. "Murder results when these urges are misdirected."
He continued, "We should start with the youth and teach them how to control these urges before someone teaches them the wrong way."

Rev. Lyles' closing statement might well be used to sum up the whole question of capital punishment.
"We don't need capital punishment; we need capitol education."

MSC Wins Top Debate Honors

Sheets, Steele Picked As Best Tourney Team

By NALLY COLLINS
Gaylord Sheets, Lansing junior, and Robert Steele, Lansing sophomore, took top honors in the 12 team Michigan intercollegiate debate tourney held in Berkey hall last Saturday afternoon.

Sheets and Steele won gold keys for their debate on the subject: "Resolved, that the non-communist nations should form a new international organization."
Two Divisions
The debate was divided into two divisions, league and tournament. Each school entered their best affirmative and negative teams in the league division and all other debaters were entered in the tournament division.

Other than Sheets and Steele there were four undefeated league division teams. Second place silver keys went to Brook Stevens and John Katsoulos of Wayne University and Edsel Granger and James Morrison of Alma college took third place honors.

West Male Debater
First place award for the best male debater went to Guy Vander Gagt of Hope college. Roy Lumsden, also of Hope college, took second place and John Katsoulos of Wayne University took third.

Jan La Blanc of Kalamazoo won first prize as the best female debator. Delores Ostrowski, also of Western, took second and Peg Patterson, East Lansing senior, representing MSC took third.

The emphasis was not on winning but on doing a good job according to Hugo David, assistant professor of speech dramatics and radio education.

Truman Urges Compromise

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman yesterday urged a compromise to end the treasury-federal reserve fight over government financial policy.

The president showed willingness to give the federal reserve strong additional powers to curb inflationary credit expansion if it will, in return, continue to buy government securities in support of their prices, as the president and treasury want.

Bradley Testifies Before Committee

Bradley was unable to give the committee any assurance that the need for military manpower would decline in the foreseeable future. "Despite the peace talk going around, we're in just as much of an emergency now as we were six months ago," he said. "We mustn't be lulled into false security."

Urges 27 Months
The general urged 27 months of active service for inductees. (The committee is thinking in terms of 26 months.) He told the committee that of the 21 months now required about eight are taken up with basic training, leave, travel and service processes like induction. Any extension of the 13 months left for training with a unit, he said, would aid materially.

One principal aim now, the general said, was a method of troop rotation to relieve battle-weary fighters in Korea. He added a scheme would be put into effect as soon as manpower requirements are met.

Puerto Rican's Jury Chosen

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A jury finally was chosen yesterday to decide the life-or-death fate of Oscar Collazo, charged with killing a White House guard during an attempt to assassinate President Truman.

It took almost the whole day—and 180 prospective jurors—to choose the 10 women and two men who will judge the small, 37-year-old Puerto Rican. Collazo, a member of the Nationalist party which hates the U.S., sat seemingly unconcerned throughout the proceedings. In a neat brown suit and rimless glasses, he was one of the most inconspicuous persons in the court room.

German Reds Hit By Crisis

FRANKFURT, Germany — (AP) — The worst crisis since the end of the war burst upon the West German Communist party today. Three of 11 state party chairmen have been fired. A good sized purification of party ranks is in the offing following a Munich conference of "Bolshevik criticism and self criticism" this week.

More heads will roll in the wake of the conference, allied intelligence officers said.
The West German party's woes are symptomatic of a growing European-wide communist ailment which is causing an apparently continuous purge.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation was created in 1908.

Red China Leaders May Start Purge

WASHINGTON — (AP) — State department officials believe China's communist leaders are about to undertake large-scale, bloody purges to consolidate their iron hold over the country.
[That was the interpretation generally placed in Washington yesterday on a Peiping announcement broadcast Thursday. The broadcast, as picked up in Hong Kong, disclosed that Red leaders had ordered the death penalty for any acts which might be construed as "opposition" to the regime.]

License Sales End March 1

Dog owners on campus have until Thursday to get dog licenses from the East Lansing city treasurer's office, John Patriarche, city manager, announced yesterday.

The sale of the licenses in East Lansing is a special service to dog owners, Patriarche said.
"After Thursday, dog licenses can be purchased only at Mason, and the charge will be doubled," he explained.

Licenses for male and unsexed dogs are $1, and for females $2, if bought from the treasurer's office at the city hall.

Reading the stories were Marietta Bull, East Lansing senior, and Marilyn Dressel, Ann Arbor junior.
