Editorially Forgotten Day

Yesterday was observed as Armistice Day, a holiday set aside to commemorate the end of the "war of wars."

Armistice Day crept by without much flag waving this year. There were speeches, bands and a few parades in scattered towns, perhaps; but not the to-do that has taken place on Nov. 11 in years past.

The apparent neglect of Armistice Day this year rates comment, for with the future standing on such uncertain terms with the present, the importance of the 1918 conflict seems to lose its significance.

This war was only the beginning of an era of uncertainty. It marked the start of a critical period that has not yet been concluded.

And yet we should not neglect the men who died in that war, for however ironic their deaths may seem today, the value of human life was just as high in '18 as it is now.

It must be a basic truth, that to preserve the freedom we Americans have become accustomed to, we must leave our feather-lined nests every once in a while, and go out and fight for them.

It has taken us a long time to face this fact, for after World War I, a wave of peaceful optimism swept the country like a hurricane.

The peaceful optimism is gone now, and in its place there is a hope for a future better than the past, gained through peaceful means if possible, through war as a last resort.

If Americans can maintain constant vigilance of their freedom, without going off the deep end and into a non-committal admission of inevitable war, the future will come out as rosy as the past.

So it would seem the toned-down Armistice Day is not with irreverence to the price paid by the men who fought in the conflict to which it is dedicated.

Inconsistent Policy of News Criticized

TO THE EDITOR: From your paper of Monday, Sept. 24, 1951, in which was a column expressing the aims of the Michigan State News, we quote the following passage: "Being a student newspaper, it gets a bit playful at times as students occasionally do. However, it strives to serve its primary function first, and by so doing, retain its bearing as a newspaper and keep away from running full-page headlines: 'BEAT U of M.' as some of our more playful students suggest. This sort of thing may be great for student spirit, but it makes the State News much less of a newspaper."

The most significant single sentence from that passage we would like to quote again: "... keep away from running full-page headlines: 'BEAT U of M.' as some of our more playful students suggest."

From your paper of Friday, Nov. 9, 1951, a headline reads: "OD STATE, BEAT NOTRE DAME." This is only one glaring example of the inconsistent policy as exhibited by your paper both editorially and policy-wise.

J. M. Roberts Jr. Korean Mistake Repeated?

By J. M. ROBERTS JR. Associated Press News Analyst. The Allied statement of principles regarding the formation of a middle east command immediately suggests a very serious question.

Is the same mistake being made with regard to Iran which was made by Secretary Acheson two years ago when he omitted Korea and Formosa from his outline of the American defense line in the Pacific?

The British and, indirectly, the United States, have just been forced to retreat before Iranian nationalism. One reason was the fear that any sort of harshness in dealing with Tehran would have brought a balancing degree of Russian intervention, carrying with it the possibility of war.

Will the omission of Iran from middle eastern defense plans be taken by Moscow, as the omission of Korea from Pacific defense plans was taken, as an invitation and a notice that Iran will not be defended?

Probably not. Russia is undoubtedly just as well aware as anyone else of the dangers. Korea has probably taught her that, previous plans and calculations notwithstanding, infringement of actual interests will produce concrete reaction. Nevertheless, all talk of defending one area to the exclusion of another heightens the danger at that latter point. As pressure on Iran to compose its differences with Britain, of course, the project has some

Abbot 15 Cops IM All-Dorm Grid Title

Score Decisive 48-13 Rout Over East Shaw 1 Grid Squad

Abbot 15 came through with a crushing 48-13 trouncing over East Shaw 1 last night in Jenison Fieldhouse to walk away with the 1951 all-dormitory football championship.

Paced by Jack Risch and John Krogman, the Abbot crew broke a three way tie for the title, with Snyder 14 ending up in second place.

The winners scored at will in every period, racking up two TD's in each of the final three quarters.

Risch put Abbot ahead in the first quarter by racing 28 yards down the sideline for a 6-0 lead. Wally Mawerger added the extra point. Later in the same stanza, Ed Truets jumped the score to 9-0 by scoring a safety.

A two touchdown spree in the second quarter put the ball game out of reach of the East Shaw team as Abbot raced to a commanding 22-0 first half lead.

Pete Marino passed to Krogman who passed to Duane Franskovink for the first TD. The other score was also tallied via the air route with Al Dorris on the receiving end of another three way affair.

Krogman scored his first of three TD's by taking a pass from Phil Harrison. Risch added his second touchdown of the frame minutes later on a ten-yard pass play from Marino.

East Shaw's scoring attack opened up in the third quarter with Dick Vreeland tossing to John Hannah who passed to Dean Ewing. Ewing flipped the ball to John Keniston who crossed the goal stripe.

The East Shaw eleven completed their scoring with Vreeland again doing the throwing, this time hitting Julian Ross, who threw to Hannah for the TD.

Meanwhile Abbot continued their fast scoring pace and hit pay dirt twice in the final quarter, the first on a 25-yard pass play from Risch to Krogman and the second on another Krogman scoring play, with Dick Robinson doing the tossing.

Hoosiers Next Stop for Spartan Eleven

There was no armistice yesterday for Michigan State's football warriors.

Coach Biggie Munn, still glowing following the 35-0 rout of Notre Dame Saturday, called for practice as usual.

Michigan State's aim now is an undefeated season. Bowl bids have been definitely ruled out by MSC President Dr. John A. Hannah. Only Indiana and Colorado remain on the schedule.

It's been 38 years since Michigan State last went unbeaten. That was in 1912 when the Spartans won seven and lost none under Coach John F. Macklin.

The longest Michigan State victory string extended from early 1912 to mid-season in 1914. If Michigan State wins these last two, it will tie the string of 15 wins made in those years just prior to World War I.

An indoor workout was scheduled yesterday afternoon due to a chilly drizzle. The regulars who worked against Notre Dame were excused early while the second string and junior varsity studied Indiana tactics as gleaned from the scouting report by end coach Earle Edwards.

What does Munn think about the Indiana game?

In the dressing room minutes after his Notre Dame victory Munn was asked if he was afraid of a letdown this week. "A letdown," he said, "Not these kids. They'll never have a letdown."

Today, Munn was a little more cautious.
"Any team that could beat Ohio State 32-0 is very, very dangerous," he said. "We're aware of their potential. Every game is a challenge until its played. We can't let up now."

MSC's razor-sharp offense now has cut through the opposition at a rate of better than five yards a play. The Spartan total offense is 2,781 yards to 1,698 for the opposition. MSC has run off 528 plays for a 5.2 yard per play average with 11 backs contributing to the total.

Quarterback Al Derow is far in the lead with 770 yards to his credit. He completed 54 of 93 pass tries for 768 yards of the total and six touchdowns.

Fullback Dick Pann of Detroit was the only serious casualty of the battle with the Irish. "Pann suffered a painfully broken nose but will be able to play against Indiana wearing a nose guard."

Mary McEadden, first string offensive tackle from Lansing, was undergoing treatment for an ankle sprain. McEadden played most of the game but the ankle ballooned up over the weekend.

Young Play of Gridders

Before the American Quarterback Michigan State's 35-0 victory over Notre Dame was extolled by the Directors of both teams.

Director Ralph Young of Michigan State said the Spartans in one those days when they play on the offensive have platoons were All-American against Notre Dame. Dame simply came up with a team that could do no harm, said, adding that the coaching effect was a peak against the MSC unbeaten season bowl plans. He joined the Big Ten conference that beyond the question and we'll have with that rule," he said.

His first Big Ten game schedule in 1953 first will be eligible for Bowl. That year, the meet six conference foes.

of Oregon State and an All-American yet to be named.

Coach Athletic Director Homer Krause offered the Spartans should go to the state and that "it's offensive should play its defense as a Rose Bowl na-

Ridgway Mum on Korean Peace

Truce Talks Bogged in Bitter Accusations by Reds, Allies

MUNSAN, Korea—(AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway today warned that the outcome of the Korean armistice talks cannot "be accurately foretold."

Meanwhile Allied and Communist truce negotiators bitterly accused each other of delaying a settlement.

A new Communist charge that Allied planes violated the security area over Panmunjom on Sunday and Monday added fuel to the growing dispute. An Allied spokesman confirmed that the U.N. command was investigating the charge.

Tokyo headquarters of the Allied commander in chief released Ridgway's statement a few hours before the 50th meeting of subcommittee members was scheduled to open at 11 a.m. (8 p.m. Monday CST) at Panmunjom.

Ridgway's statement declared it would also be difficult to predict what would follow the "success or failure of these discussions." His message was sent to a meeting of the National Association of Radio News Directors in Chicago.

A semi-official Communist commentary, broadcast by the Peiping radio, lashed at the United Nations command for failing to accept a Communist proposal for drawing a buffer zone across Korea immediately.

The Red broadcast said Allied "persistence in postponing this task to an unpredictable future date when the armistice agreement will be signed... could only mean premeditated delay on this point indefinitely."

A seven-line UN communique Monday night said settlement of the buffer zone issue was "not near solution" after a 4-hour 15-minute session during the day.

Future prospects of the negotiations brought non-committal comments from the UN command spokesman, Brig. Gen. William F. Nuckols.

"What's in the wind I do not know; what may be suggested, I will not prophesy," he told correspondents.

Seemingly close together on where to draw a buffer zone across Korea to stop the fighting, the Reds and Allies were at loggerheads on when to do so.

Nuckols said, "We shall continue to press for a line and zone to be established at the time of an armistice."

The Reds want the cease fire line established right now.

Rayburn Asks Loyal South in '52

'Beat Truman' Revolt Set, Says Talmadge

HOT SPRINGS, Ark.—(AP)—House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas pleaded with Southern governors last night to remain loyal to the Democratic nominee in next year's presidential election—or see the South's position crumble in Congress.

The Texan fired a hard-hitting broadside against states righters who have been talking of revolt if Mr. Truman is the party's presidential nominee.

"I'm going to support the Democratic nominee whoever he is," Rayburn declared.

He said a Southern revolt would only elect a Republican president and could not elect an independent candidate.

Then he added: "And every Southern man who holds a responsible place in Congress will lose his position."

Rayburn added: "I don't have great patience with those people who go around trying to create a lack of faith in the honesty, integrity and efficiency of our legislative and executive branches of government in days like these."

Rayburn first outlined the theme of his address at a news conference shortly before he carried his plea to the Southern governors' conference where there has been talk of a Dixie revolt against Mr. Truman.

Talmadge made it clear that the states rights Democrat forces will not use the governors' conference as a launching site for a Southern revolt in next year's presidential election.

Talmadge, one of Truman's chief political foes in the South, told reporters that it would be premature for the anti-Truman forces to organize a campaign before they know who the presidential candidate will be.

Some states rights leaders say privately that if Mr. Truman is the Democratic nominee and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio the Republican choice then they will revolt, organize a Southern convention, and name a presidential candidate of their own.

Between 1940 and 1950 the domestic trunk airlines increased their business about 640 per cent.

First MSC Telecast to Show Educational Series Program

MSC's television development program will soon show its colors—or tones of gray and black—when the first of an educational series will be televised by WJBK-TV, Nov. 17. Showtime is 10 a.m., channel two, every Saturday.

Earlier, Gov. Herman Talmadge of Georgia said the Southern anti-Truman leaders could organize a "beat Truman campaign" within 60 hours—but this was not the time to do it.

Among the first of the quarter-hour public service programs will be agricultural extension films on landscaping and the home followed by a group of home economics contributions. This is the start of MSC's long-term campaign scheduled until the end of April.

The college's part in production is all-inclusive, ranging from subject matter to actual camera rehearsal. Shows are planned, rehearsed, and "packaged" on campus.

Ideas are supplied by members of the television staff and heads of departments who combine in program setups. Studio work such as setting, lighting, timing and camera shots is done by the campus TV staff.

Final camera rehearsals are arranged as live shows with crews made up of programing and production.
