

Merchants Petition

Trial Two-Hour Lot Marking Requested

Merchants Association of East Lansing petitioned the Council last night to restrict part of the city parking Albert street to two hours parking on a trial basis.

Before deciding on the question the Council voted to take a survey of users of the lot and find out how the businessmen in the area feel about the question.

At present 24-hour parking is permitted at five cents for two hours. The petition asked that the cost of two hour parking be left at five cents.

Suggested by the Association was a 60-day trial period beginning Dec. 1. It proposed that the meters in the row next to the alley be changed to two-hour meters while the remaining 12-hour meters be left in operation.

"It would be practically impossible to get new meter heads by Dec. 1," Mayor Cornelius Wagenvoort said. Alderman Max Hrother questioned whether driving could be "educated" to the meter change in part of the parking spaces.

Mayor Wagenvoort pointed out that since the lot was put into operation July 12 it has opened street parking spaces in the vicinity of the lot. The 64-car lot had netted the city $862 through October.

Councilmen voted to refer a request for reopening a lot off West Michigan Avenue adjoining the Plets and Son gas station to the city attorney. They asked that an ordinance be drawn up changing the lot from a one-family residential zone to a multiple dwelling area.

Frederick and Harold Pletz had asked that the lot be changed to a residential district to permit use of the lot. See COUNCIL, Page 4

China Students Plan Dinner on Thanksgiving

Traditional Stuffing Changed to Rice

Chinese students will swing into the Thanksgiving Day spirit by preparing a turkey dinner at 5 p.m. Thursday at the International Center. About 25 foreign students will attend and participate.

Chief cook Shue Shan Kwong, graduate student, will be assisted by Mrs. Chng Chee Loo, unclassified student. Dr. Shao Lee, the Center's director, claimed a 100 per cent American turkey dinner, but the kitchen staff will make one change—rice stuffing.

Decorations are in charge of Joseph Campbell, Neakotom, Canada, senior, whose assistant is Yuhie Higa, Chinese student, and Lenore Ho, Hanchong freshman. Cecil E. Purdy, Jr., Texas graduate student, will decide the entertainment program.

Clean-up committee includes Evan Popoulis, Greece; Eliot Wong, Hawaiian freshman; and Matsin Yonamine, Okinawa junior.

Dr. Lee asserted that the center seemed the logical place for foreign students, who are too occupied to leave or too far from home, to spend the holidays.

Most foreign students will either spend the vacation with roommates or are invited for dinner to Lansing and East Lansing homes.

Out-of-state and foreign students who will be on campus Wednesday night are especially invited to the International Center's Thanksgiving Eve Social at 8. About 50 or 60 are expected, Dr. Lee stated.

Spinster Escapes Hunter's Bullet

RUPERT, Idaho (AP)—Miss Norma Smith, 52, told friends at church Sunday that she had narrowly escaped death.

She said that as she stepped into her car, en route to church, a bullet passed over her head. She said it apparently was fired by a hunter.

This convinced her, said Miss Smith, of the advisability of being prepared to die.

Then she fell to the floor with a heart attack.

Miss Smith died in a Rupert hospital yesterday.

Shaw Boosts Spartan Spirit With Posters

West Shaw Hall is contributing to Spartan spirit this year by posting large "Go Spartans" signs in their windows before each football game.

The idea was originated last year, by individual students, but favorable interest on the part of the residents caused the Shaw Social Committee to adopt it as an all-dormitory project this year.

Before each game, most of the outer windows in West Shaw are covered with large signs. Any money necessary for the lettering is appropriated by the Social Committee.

Although the project began last year, the first signs for fall term weren't posted until the Homecoming game, according to Social Committee Chairman James Lovell.

More Dorms List Freshman Council Bids

Students Will Vote on Slate Nov. 27

Nineteen more petitions have been turned in to Student Congress for the Freshman Affairs Committee election. Students will vote on the candidates Nov. 27.

Candidates from Williams are Sylvia Alexander, Dorothy Hlavac, Marjorie Andersen, Mimi Cummins, Barbara Hofheins, Lorraine Kurth and Paula Underhill.

Gilchrist candidates are Carole Cowles, Betty Gase, Bennie Lou Owens, and Barbara Ruffan. Abbott Hall will be represented by John Vredenburg and Kies Hagadorn.

East Mayo representatives in the coming freshman election are Edith Briegel, Joyce Wade, Mary Braamse, Marilyn McBride and Laurie Gilson. The last two candidates handed in their petitions Monday.

Shaw Hall candidates are Dave Trump, Wayne Wiswedel, Burt Olsen and Charles Rein.

Winning candidates will become members of the Freshman Affairs Committee from which class officers will be elected. Members of the committee are also delegates to the Fresh-Soph Council. Candidates represent the various living units.

The purpose of this decentralization of freshman elections is to enable freshmen to know their candidates. Ted Eck, chairman of the elections committee, stated.

Weatherman Sees Last of Chilly Spell

Warmer weather was predicted for today after an expected low of 15 degrees last night in the East Lansing area.

Lansing weather bureau officials reported a low early Monday morning of 19. But Ingham County was not alone in its shivering.

Above freezing temperatures were not reported anywhere in the state Sunday night. The cold is expected to last for several days. The Associated Press reported a cold-air mass moving slowly eastward from the Mississippi. Southerly winds in the wake of the cold mass are expected to bring higher temperatures in several days.

MSC Represented at Wellesley

Students Present Gifts in East

By BILL GINSBURG
The walls of Mary Lloyd-Rees' room at Wellesley College may be covered with pennants from Princeton, Yale and Harvard, but on her bed lies a Michigan State blanket and on her dresser sits an MSC pouch.

After reading a story in Life Magazine which showed Miss Lloyd-Rees receiving pennants from different eastern colleges, Jerry Burke, Birmingham junior, and his roommate, George Cornell, South Wales, N.Y., freshman, decided to send her something different. Long hours of debating resulted in the decision to go themselves.

They collected a crew of five, purchased the dog and blanket, and left for Massachusetts. A telegram was sent to Wellesley saying that they were coming from MSC bearing gifts. Burke took a wire recorder along to get an interview.

In Troy, N.Y., a second wire was sent stating they would arrive at 4 Saturday afternoon.

After getting lost for an hour in the mountains, and losing another hour trying to find her dorm, they arrived at 5. Miss Lloyd-Rees showed them six banners she had received from Princeton and then draped her bed with the Spartan blanket.

Several coeds came from their rooms to talk to the boys and found they had mutual friends. They talked for about

Local Talent

Camille Williams plays the part of Cho-Cho San in the opera 'Madama Butterfly,' produced by the New York Opera Company in the Auditorium last night. On the right is Janet Aho, who was seen as Trouble in the production. Janet is the daughter of Prof. and Mrs. William Aho, 623 Cherry Lane. Aho is in the MSC post-try department.

Up in Flames Irate Greeks Avenge Slap at Spartans

Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity members, displeased with Free Press sports writer Tommy Devine's story about the MSC Indiana game, burned Devine in effigy last night in front of their house at 315 Albert.

They also sent a telegram to Lyall Smith, Free Press Sports Editor, requesting that the Free Press apologize to the Spartans.

"We didn't think the story did us justice, especially when we were called 'gumchums,'" Jim Gilbert, Birmingham junior, explained.

Four members of the fraternity worked nearly two hours constructing the nine-foot effigy which was fully clothed. A copy of the issue containing the controversial article was stuck in one of the pockets.

Scholarship Deadline Set

Dec. 1 has been set as the deadline for applications for graduate scholarships, foreign student graduate scholarships, or partial maintenance foreign student scholarships in the Graduate School.

This applies only to applications for winter term 1952. Thomas H. Osgood, dean of the School of Graduate Studies, explained. No guarantee can be given that there will be time to consider any application received after Dec. 1, he explained.

Packed House Sees 'Madama Butterfly'

By J. HERBERT SWANSON
Associate Professor of Music

The New York Center Opera Company gave the first of two performances in the College Auditorium last night. They played Puccini's "Madama Butterfly" to a packed house. Opera has become increasingly popular in this community during these past few years with the very fine performances that have been offered each season on the College Lecture-Concert Series.

College Heads Decide Sports Need Clean-Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Seven college presidents agreed yesterday that "something has to be done" to remove whatever evils there are in the intercollegiate sports program.

The college presidents are members of a special committee set up by the American Council on Education, the first time in history such a high ranking group ever was named to look into sports.

The college presidents met behind closed doors with sports writers and athletic commissioners. Their views were given in news conferences held by the committee chairman, Dr. John A. Hannah of MSC.

Hannah told reporters: "We start with the assumption that there is much good in college sports. We want to preserve what's good and take the evil out."

Were the presidents agreed that sports must be de-emphasized? "The general tenor," Hannah replied, "was that something has to be done."

Usually the role of coeds serves to lighten the general effort with a bit of humor but Katharine Spinzerna played it straight.

The orchestra under Laszlo Hertz was up to its usually excellent standard. Mr. Halasz deserves a good round of applause for the splendid things he has done with this company—an organization that has firmly established itself as one of the world's foremost opera groups.

His extraordinary combination of artistic and administrative talents coupled with kindness and wisdom has built an organization that will long endure. The audience went home satisfied if not thrilled. We look forward to tonight's performance of Prokofiev's "The Love for Three Oranges" with honest pleasure.

After sleeping beside the road, they went to a gas station the next morning for directions on how to pass the hill. They arrived at Shaw early Monday morning.

Congress Calls Special Meeting on Student Tax

Board Suggests Moving Ballot to Spring Term

Student Congress will meet this evening in an attempt to clarify all aspects of the proposed student tax. The meeting is a result of advice by President Gaylord Sheets' executive board, and approval by 75 per cent of the congressmen.

The group will meet in Union room 33. The meeting is open to all students, Sheets declared.

At present, the tax would be voted on by students at winter term registration. Some members of the executive board have suggested that Student Government take winter term to explain the issue fully to the student voters, and hold the vote at spring registration.

If the latter plan should be adopted, the present Student Government would not be in office long enough to employ the funds.

In order for the amendment to become valid at all, a majority of the students must vote, and a majority of those voting must signify approval.

Under the requirements of the proposal, each MSC student would pay no more than 25 cents per term to Student Government.

The executive board "advised and advised" the president of Student Government, and meets at least once a month. It is provided for in the Student Government constitution.

Student Congress speaker, executive officers of each class, chairmen of some student congressional committees, and presidents of major governing bodies on campus make up the executive board.

Special meetings of the Student Congress require written request of 25 per cent of the voting members.

Specialist to Talk on Gas Turbines

E. W. Burstadt, district turbine specialist for General Electric of Detroit, will speak to members of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers tonight.

His talk on "Gas Turbines for Mechanical Drives and Power Application" will start at 7 p.m. in the Union's Old College Hall.

Students Injured in Auto Crash

Three Bully Hurt Near Battle Creek

Three students and two faculty members were involved in a fatal automobile accident near Battle Creek Sunday morning.

The party was returning from the wedding of the former State student in Chicago when their car struck a bus driven by a farmer 13 miles south of Battle Creek between Marshall and Olive on M-27.

Taken to Leila Post Hospital here for treatment.

Jack Leary, Howell, Wis. junior, who suffered a severe brain concussion, shock, and skin lacerations; Robert L. Hart, June 1950 graduate from Birmingham, who is suffering from severe brain concussion, sprained right shoulder, and lacerations; and Miss Joyce Alber, former MSC student from Ann Arbor, who suffered a double fractured pelvis, and severe facial lacerations.

Dianne Davies, Park Ridge, Ill., sophomore, was shaken up but uninjured and released from the hospital immediately.

L Eaton County Sheriff's department officials said Leary was driving Hart's car when an unidentified farmer pulled up to the highway, stopped momentarily, and pulled out on the highway in the path of the oncoming vehicle. Both cars were demolished.

A doctor, who happened to be driving by the accident, took Leary to the hospital and summoned an ambulance for the others.

The foursome was returning from the wedding of Robert Auger, winter 1950 graduate, and Caryl Paulson, former MSC student.

June Graduation

As things stand now, seniors will be guests of the college at a Saturday commencement next June.

As guests, the seniors are grateful for this chance to gather their friends and relatives together for the ceremony which means so much to them.

But it's going to be hard for those friends and relatives, especially the ones who live some distance from MSC, to get here for a Saturday afternoon commencement. It would be of much more convenience for them to come on a Sunday.

As host to the seniors, it is the college's duty to do everything possible to insure their enjoyment and participation in commencement. The seniors, we know, would rather have graduation on Sunday.

Last year the commencement committee changed its decision to have commencement on Saturday after it was realized that Alumni Day had been scheduled for the same date. At that time it said the 1952 graduation would be held on a Saturday because certain church groups had filed severe protests with the college against Sunday commencement.

Last week the State News polled the pastors of 30 churches in the Lansing area, asking them if there had been any pro or con discussion among their congregations concerning Sunday commencement.

The results showed an approximate 50-50 split on discussion of the subject. Most of the groups didn't mind Sunday commencement as long as it didn't interfere with church services in the morning.

There were only four ministers who objected to Sunday graduation on religious grounds. None said they had protested to the college administration.

We can understand that members of the faculty would not like to see their Sundays disrupted by a commencement which they must attend year in and year out.

However, it is a very important occasion to the seniors who are graduating. For the faculty, commencement attendance could be considered as one of the duties of good teachers to their students.

Commencement this fall will be held Wednesday, Nov. 28, because it was the only time the committee could schedule a larger quarters it was too late to quibble over dates.

But it is not too late to start thinking about the date of next June's commencement, or the date of commencement at the end of winter term.

Sunday is the best graduation day for seniors, no matter what time of year. They should be accommodated.

Letter To The Editor:

Graduation Date Irks Senior

TO THE EDITOR:

Being one of the MSC fall graduates of 1951, I am very grateful for having an opportunity to participate in State's first fall term commencement. Congrats to Prof. Runnells and his committee or who ever is responsible for promoting the idea. But why in the world has such a memorable occasion as this been planned for a Wednesday?

Many of us have relatives who couldn't possibly make it to the campus in the middle of the week. Then worse yet, the date is so early that we must return to classes the following morning, then write finals the following week.

Like all other fall graduates, I received a card asking me if I was planning on participating and how many guests I planned on. Why wouldn't it have been just as easy to list possible dates on these cards and let us vote on them so that we would at least have some voice in the matter.

I agree with Mr. Kline in his letter in the State News Monday where he suggests a Saturday or Sunday. However, it probably is too late to change the day or the date but in the future, fall term graduates ought to consider the day selected by the committee to see that it doesn't fall on as poor a day as a Wednesday!

Footballers vs. Footnoters

TO THE EDITOR:

The debate between the footballers and footnoters is not as hopeless as it might be. Both sides agreed that their's was an important question: What is the purpose of college, and how do we attain that purpose?

This, I submit, is no small area of agreement. There was, however, one trend of opinion that I found confusing: the argument that because future job opportunities are best for students from famous colleges (which is true), and because the Minnemen were putting East Lansing on the map, that therefore Mr. Munn is the head of the Placement Bureau. For he should be if good jobs and fame for State is all the team is for.

Are there not two confusions of means for ends in the argument? Is college training mainly to get better jobs? Some "good jobs" make people happy, some don't. Isn't college training to make us more intelligent, and hence happier? (I define the intelligent man as he who has mastered the social virtues of living creatively and letting live.)

Secondly, I doubt if Bob Carey et al give a darn about our job opportunities. I suspect they who just see the game forget that. We see competitive sports, because we like to see them, and also because they relieve tensions built up in complex modern society.

But there is another side to this story. It is perhaps more important to understand the footnoter's side, since his abilities are important, and, moreover, most State people, I take it, are footballers. The footnoter's biggest mistake, I think, is in thinking that his scholarly books are any more valuable, intrinsically, than the referee's rule book. Books, it seems to me, are valuable only in their results. In that sense Shakespeare and a folder of Munn's latest creations are to be judged by how they satisfy human needs. Shakespeare has been number one on most polls than AP and UP, but Munn seems to be doing a fine job from Saturday to Saturday, too.

The footnoters incline to stick up their noses too quickly when football is mentioned. The footballers are too quick to think that it is impossible to develop, within the same head, a competence in both poetry and single-wings.

Both are making the same error: All things are but means to the single end of increasing the number of intelligent, hence happy, people in society. The split between brains and brawn in modern America is bad, because power without plan is brutal, and plan without power is idle reverie.

So whether you divide your day into chapters or quarters, the important question is how college is making you better prepared to lead an intelligent and happy life. Neither slide-rules nor first-down markers will do the job alone.

We need both energy and analysis, brawn and brains. Finally, only by results shall we know who is more valuable to American society, footballers or Ph.D.'s. For example, who, footballers or footnoters, were more disturbed about that letter in yesterday's State News which announced that we had too much interest in doing away with race discrimination?

The administration argued that the program of the Committee to End Discrimination was too vague. Which is more vague, shovelling the snow out of Macklin or taking steps to clean up America's major mess? Which is more important? Who, footballers or footnoters, will help most?

Free Press Writer Criticized

Open-Minded Position Asked

TO THE EDITOR:

(An open letter to Mr. Tommy Devine, Detroit Free Press sports writer.)

During the current football season, we have observed with amused interest your endeavors as a sports writer. Those of us who appreciate a great football team feel that your "unbiased" reports have been somewhat misguided. We have been discontented with your writings for some time, but have limited our comments only to the field of our private conversations. We now feel that it is high time that someone said something more about our team than referring to them as "stumble-bums" staggering to a sloppy victory.

As our esteemed coach, Diggie Munn, had recently said, "Any team that has won 14 ball games in a row does not deserve to be called stumble-bums."

Please note, Mr. Devine, that we have defeated quite decisively our worthy rivals from Ann Arbor twice in succession, not to mention the still mightier Notre Dame, and other great teams. Granted that the performance against Indiana last week was not that of a perfect team, we would like to call your attention to the fact that we did win.

Although our team is not a world-beater every week, at least we can take pride in a winning team every week. We feel that you should take an open-minded view of the sports picture in general rather than

Urge Students to Write Papers

TO THE EDITOR:

We have a football team that has won 14 straight games. While playing some great football, while compiling this record, they have further developed "comeback spirit" that is a liability.

Tommy Devine, sports writer for the Detroit Free Press, referring to the Spartan team "stumblebums" (stumblebums) punch-drunk prizefighters, insulted both our team and college itself. Mr. Devine's "national" brand of criticism has also belittled Michigan and Big Ten football in general.

Indiana's athletic official called this "Indiana's best loss of the season." Quite a compliment since they slaughtered the State 32-10, earlier this year.

If college football is necessary because of pressures put on by alumni sportswriters, just the thing should be avoided. Against Indiana the MSC football satisfied their requirements in game. They won.

In order to show that students of Michigan State behind the team whether sportswriters are or not, let drop a card or letter to the Press voicing our disapproval and asking for a letter writer cover Spartan athletes and a fairer interpretation.

Write to Dale Stafford, Spring Editor, Detroit Free Press, Detroit, Michigan.

It might be added that a student who writes a letter to the Press should be given a special award.

Remaining hurdle stands between the Spartan grid and the first undefeated campaign in 37 years, when Colorado Buffaloes invade the Macklin Field stronghold.

'MURAL SIDELIGHTS'

Anyone interested in entering the All-College wrestling tourney to be held November 29 and 30 must do so by 5 p.m. Wednesday. Entries must be handed in to any member of the wrestling coaching staff or the intramural office. The wrestling room will be open to contestants between 7 and 8:30 p.m. with varsity men on hand to help with workouts.

THE gymnastics tourney will be held on Nov. 27 and 28, and the same deadline as for wrestling will hold for entries to this tourney. Gymnastic equipment will be available to contestants during and following varsity practice from 4 to 6 p.m.

All contestants are urged to work out as often as possible in order to insure better performance, as well as to minimize the chances for injuries.

THESE matches were lined up in the handball quarter-finals and should be played off this week, if possible: Ken Russell and Ken Stuart vs. Don LaPointe and Jim Blakemore, Rick Ayala and Art Mittelmark vs. Vince Magi and Ed Nagle.

WHEN ATO and Abbot 13 clashed in the All-College final for the 'Mural Football' championship last week, they represented the highest scoring teams in the season's play. Abbot 13 paced all contenders with an amazing total of 284 points in 10 games, for an average of 28.4 per game. The all-victorious ATO aggregation did even better, averaging 29.6 markers per contest, on a total of 266 points in nine games.

ATO, in winning their fourth consecutive IFC crown and their second straight All-College championship, won each of their nine games. Abbot won nine in a row before losing in the deciding tilt.

But Joe is one of the exceptions to this rule. He has the power to make him a dependable defensive guard or tackle, and possesses the speed to give him the call at those positions on offense occasionally. The 22-year-old junior enjoys either of these chores equally well.

His high school sports included football, basketball, and track. While on the New Kensington, Pa., high school grid squad, Joe was a teammate of five other present-day Spartans. They are Bill Horrell, Vince Pizano, Willie Thrower, and the Tamburones.

When the cross-country-type race is over, there will be a new team champion for West Shaw, last year's winners, are not listed among today's entries.

Klein in Two Line Positions on Grid Squad

By JOHN CORRELLI

Two years ago Joe Klein won a varsity letter in football, but was inactive last year because of a spine operation.

After that operation the doctors told him that he would never play football again, but when he appeared on the starting line-up against the Wolverines of Michigan on Sept. 29, he proved to them how wrong they were.

A 5'10", 205-pounder, he was named to the first string defensive right tackle slot when Jake Morgan suffered an ankle injury and has performed at that position.

In these days of two-plate football, all-around linemen run very few. Almost without exception a lineman will play just one position, and only on either offense or defense.

But Joe is one of the exceptions to this rule. He has the power to make him a dependable defensive guard or tackle, and possesses the speed to give him the call at those positions on offense occasionally. The 22-year-old junior enjoys either of these chores equally well.

His high school sports included football, basketball, and track. While on the New Kensington, Pa., high school grid squad, Joe was a teammate of five other present-day Spartans. They are Bill Horrell, Vince Pizano, Willie Thrower, and the Tamburones.

When the cross-country-type race is over, there will be a new team champion for West Shaw, last year's winners, are not listed among today's entries.

State Harriers Fourth in IC4A Spartan Course Slated for NCAA Championship

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Michigan State cross country squad finished in fourth place for the second straight year in the annual IC4A championships held in New York City yesterday afternoon.

Coach Karl Schlademan's runners, who won the Big Ten title Friday in Chicago, scored a total of 146 points, 15 better than fifth place Manhattan College.

Dick Shea of Army, a 24-year-old ex-GI won the individual title for the third straight year and Penn State barely squeaked through to a successful defense of its team crown in the meet.

Except for the first mile of the five-mile grid over the hills and dunes of Van Cortlandt Park, the race was all Shea—just as eight previous harrier runs this season have been.

In the team search, though, it was a different story. Penn State had 67 points in 40 harrier runs, and it was a long time before the scores decided on an official count. To make matters worse in the freezing cold, one of the runners got cold, wrong, which necessitated more checking.

Syracuse finished third with 91 points followed by the Spartans in fourth place and Manhattan in fifth with 161. These five teams pretty well dominated the proceedings and were the only ones to score less than 200 points, something of an oddity. Shea was lost in the park when the bulky field of 212 harriers got off the mark, and Bill Ashenfelter of Penn State took over the lead for the first mile.

Ashenfelter began to fade, and he finished sixth. Nine seconds behind him, in eighth place, was Army's Louis Davis. Had the positions been reversed, the title would have gone to Army and its 69-year-old coach, Nate Cartmel, who was making his first try for the title as Cadet mentor. He won it in 1926, 1927, 1928 and 1930 as Penn State coach.

It was the 18-year-old Smith who brought the victory in Dick Tracy's charges by his surprising fourth-place finish. Other Penn State runners, in addition to Ashenfelter, were Bob Holland, 15th; Jacobson, 20th and Bradley Foster, 22nd.

Penn State will try for the NCAA championship at East Lansing, next week, but Army will bypass it.

Bob Stevens of Yale led the Ells to the Freshman title. He got home first in the three-mile yearling event in 16:05.8, outdistancing John Schafer of Lafayette by about 75 yards.

Yale notched 71 points in winning four, less than second-place Dartmouth.

DETROIT—Halfback Bob Smith of the Detroit Lions in the National Football League is his team's driving champion in golf for 1951. Smith, on the No. 9 hole at Bloomfield Hills, drove his golf ball to within eight feet of the pin, 180 yards away.

Biggie Blasts Back Answers 'Stumblebum' Charge

Head Football Coach Biggie Munn leveled his guns in reply to Free Press sports writer Tommy Devine's reference to the Spartans' "stumblebum" performance last Saturday against Indiana University.

Devine's statements were made public in his account of the contest, in which Munn said: "I can't let this pass without raising my voice. Even though the reference might have been made in a figurative sense to describe a group of as fine as college boys I know these Michigan State players to be as 'stumblebum' is not only bad taste but is a cruel injustice."

"For anyone to hold them up to such scorn is to do a wrong wrong, and while I am rarely critical of what is written about any team of mine, the use of the word 'stumblebum' in describing them forces me to express strongest resentment."

Munn feels that "there is clearly an abuse of editorial license. If anybody can sit up there and describe a squad of football players knowing they were on their backs and call them by as derogatory a term as that, in taking advantage of the immunity he seems to have, I am sure that the equal would fall on my charge if I did not come to their defense."

"They had proved their ability earlier in leading Ohio State 32-0, had outplayed Wisconsin and lost in the last few weeks of the game, 6-0, and gave Illinois strong opposition. These Hoosiers were down last Saturday! But we won 30-0!"

In reference to the events during the season, Munn said he recalled a "stumblebum" fight.

"I wonder if it is forgotten that Michigan State has defeated Michigan and Notre Dame twice each in two years, has won 10 games in succession, and ranked in the record in six consecutive victories over the two teams. These have this year defeated Michigan and Ohio State on consecutive Saturdays. I wish somebody would look up and see how long it has been since that happened. These players have brought glory to Michigan State. They have represented their school in a noble, wholesome way. Anyone describing them as 'stumblebums' will find me going to step up and at least challenge the statement."

In the face of the writer's remarks, Munn charged an unbecomingly expression.

Ministers Use Recess to Set Sterner Demands

TOKYO (AP)—High level political maneuvers by the foreign ministers of North Korea and Communist China thoroughly confused the Korean armistice outlook yesterday while truce negotiators were in recess.

Potentially the situation could result in a breakdown of the four-months old talks at a time when agreement had seemed closer than ever before.

The impending Allied plan called for an armistice before Christmas.

The statements of the North Korean and Chinese foreign ministers set forth sterner conditions for a cease-fire than their truce negotiators had been making recently in the Panmun-jom talks.

They differed in part, but the extreme demands of the two Communist countries in effect carried the Reds back to their stand prior to the first truce talk on July 10.

One of both again insisted upon removal of foreign troops, a cease-fire along the 38th parallel and an immediate stop to the fighting as pre-requisites to peace.

All these points were included in a proposal made by Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky in Paris Nov. 8 before the U.N. general assembly.

None of these proposals was acceptable to the U.N. command in Korea.

The latest North Korean proposal, a four-point plan, was announced last Monday night by the Pyongyang radio. It was addressed by North Korean Foreign Minister Pak Hong Wung to the chairman of the U.N. security council and U.N. general assembly.

The Pyongyang broadcast listed these North Korean proposals to end the war:

1. Cessation of hostilities as the first step to achieve a peaceful settlement of the Korean question.
2. Acceptance of the "just and reasonable" proposals made by the North Korean and Chinese Red army to withdraw each of the opposing forces two kilometers (1.24 miles) from the battle line and establish a buffer zone.
3. Withdrawal of all foreign troops from Korea.
4. Severe punishment of those responsible for the atrocities committed against the Koreans opposing the prolongation of the Korean war and against "peace-loving" Korean residents.

It was a little more growny than the Baby A-bomb of a month ago but not as awesomely adult as the later mountain-shakers.

Sending up a flaming tower like a great skyrocket, it apparently was detonated at the ground surface at 9 a.m. (PST). Subsequently an Army statement said that "very effective results are indicated."

Troops participated. Also technical experts and 250 military observers representing the armed forces.

The detonation was in the "radio-isot" category because the AEC declined to disclose "the method of discovery."

There was no indication that the bomb, or weapon, was dropped from a plane, as were previous bombs in the earlier fall series of five between Oct. 22 and Nov. 5.

There had been speculation among newsmen that this would be the world's first known underground atomic blast.

WESTERN FRONT, Korea (AP)—A mysterious woman in black, brandishing a pistol, led a fanatical Chinese charge through nine fields and machine gun fire on this front Saturday, a renewed British soldier reported yesterday.

Truce Set by Britons in Ismailia

CAIRO (AP)—The British command and Egyptian government in the Suez Canal Zone declared a truce in Ismailia yesterday after a week-end battle there killed 17 British troops, Egyptian policemen and civilians. More than 30 persons were wounded.

The provincial government agreed to disarm its police and the British promised to remove its remaining military families as far as possible from the bloody highway city on the canal.

Ismailia was the scene of the first outbreak of violence in mid-October when Egypt told the British they must get out of the canal zone. Now it is reduced from its normal 100,000 population to about 40,000, as a result of Egyptian families fleeing.

The truce was arranged at a canal station between Ismailia and Port Said in the interests of public security, British Lt. Gen. Sir George Erskine told reporters at Ismailia.

The Egyptian Ministry of the Interior in Cairo in a communique tonight said Ismailia was "perfectly calm" throughout the day.

Rains Push Crests Higher as Italian Flood Toll Hits 100

ROVIGO, Italy (AP)—Heavy rains pushed crests of the Po River and its tributaries higher yesterday, posing new threats for refuge-jammed towns on the rim of the worst Italian flood in this century. The death toll has climbed to more than 100, with most of the figures two days old.

Calls went out for the emergency evacuation of Villadose, midway between this almost deserted city and flooded Adria. The town's normal population of 5,000 is swollen by hundreds of refugees.

Two U.S. Army Flying Boxcars and other aircraft dropped food and supplies into Adria while a huge fleet of small boats battled swirling currents and rescued thousands of beleaguered there.

An Italian News Agency photographer telephoned over the city's only remaining line that two "paratroop" American officers landed their helicopter in the city time after time to ferry in supplies and take out refugees.

Detroit's First Union-busting Suit Begun by Auto Workers

DETROIT (AP)—Five men—two of them star Kefauver senate crime committee witnesses—were named defendants yesterday in the first union-busting charges ever issued in this labor capital.

At the same time police disclosed that the two Kefauver figures have been "temporarily absent" from their homes and business quarters for three weeks.

The two are Sam (Sam) Wilson, an ex-convict who heads a $40,000-a-year setup through contract with the Detroit Motor Vehicle Co., and Walter (Walt) Stove Co., and Walter (Walt) Stove Co., owner of a bowling alley—restaurant-bar near police headquarters that is frequented by racketeers, judges and lawyers.

The CIO United Auto Workers has charged a "reign of terror" for years at the three companies to prevent union organization. The UAW won a recent national labor relations board election at the plant by a narrow margin, however, and now is negotiating with a contract.

Specifically, the warrant charges the five with conspiracy to invade Detroit Michigan Stove Co. employees, to prevent them from "fight pursuit of their labor" and to interfere with the labor organization to which they belong.

Stratoljet Crashes at California Base

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—A four-engine jet bomber crashed shortly after a takeoff at this base yesterday and the three crew members were killed, the Air Force announced.

The huge B-47 Stratoljet, which altitude and high speed bomber, crashed to the ground a matter of a mile west of the runway just after it got into the air. It exploded after the crash.

Officials at this base in the desert, an Air Force spokesman yesterday, said the six-engine craft was beginning a routine test flight.

Infantry Attacks on All Fronts

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—United Nations and Communist infantry grappled in a series of bitter hill battles clear across the Korean front Monday.

American jet pilots roared up and down "MIG alley" over North Korea, looking for a fight. They saw only eight Russian-made MIG jets, and all of them stayed over Manchuria, where the Allied fliers are forbidden to pursue.

Chinese Communist infantry made three vain counterattacks Monday against the positions taken on the central front by a beefed-up South Korean division Saturday and Sunday. Instead, the Reds lost another hill in the area.

That two-day surprise drive, dubbed "Operation Vulture," straightened a 3-mile sag in the Allied line on the Pukhan river front. An Allied briefing officer said 1,679 Chinese bodies had been counted so far and the hills "are still littered with bodies."

The Eighth Army today identified the successful Allied division as the South Korean Sixth, one of the best of the Korean Republic units. Previously, identification had been a closely-kept secret.

Monday the Chinese tried to reconquer, attacking first with a platoon, then with a company and finally with a battalion—first 40, then 200, and finally 800 men—but each time they failed.

Lt. Gen. William M. Hodge, U.S. Ninth Corps commander, said Operation Vulture "was splendidly conceived and executed with a maximum of surprise and aggressiveness."

"The ROK troops took all their objectives either on time or ahead of schedule, with a minimum of casualties on our sides and maximum enemy casualties."

Majority in NCAA Approves Tighter Control of Sports

CHICAGO (AP)—Hugh Willett, president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, said yesterday "a substantial majority" of the group's 320 members were in support of a 12-point program to fix tighter controls on collegiate athletics.

Willett reported after the opening session of a two-day meeting of the NCAA's policy-making council that by tomorrow a definite program will have been drafted for presentation to the annual convention in Cincinnati Jan. 9-12.

Willett said that later he would have comment on a proposal by the New York judge that the NCAA should be reorganized to cope with collegiate evils. The proposal came as bribe-taking basketball players were sentenced.

Eden Doubts Sudden Lift in World Strain

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons yesterday the chasm between East and West was so deep, wide and alarming that he did not believe any "sudden or spectacular move" would lessen the tension.

Eden proposed that East and West try to settle some of their little differences before tackling the big ones.

Making his first statement in a full foreign policy debate since the new Conservative government took office, Eden ranged all the chief trouble spots of the world, from Korea to Germany, Iran, and Egypt.

There is now virtually no diplomatic contact between East and West, between either side of the Iron Curtain, Eden said in his opening report.

Sears to Market Low-Priced Auto

CHICAGO (AP)—Sears, Roebuck and Co. announced today it will begin selling a low-priced passenger automobile to be built by Kaiser-Frazer Corp.

The new car, named the "Allstate," will be sold in 17 cities in the South and Southwest before Christmas.

Holiday Theme, Too

Band Plans Salute for Munn, Team

Coch Clarence "Biggie" Munn, the team, and the holiday season will be featured by the MSC band during half-time at the Colorado game Saturday.

A formation and the playing of the new MSC march will pay tribute to Coach Munn and the Spartan team.

In line with the holiday season, the band will next play "Now Thank We All Our God" while they form a church on the field.

A turkey will be formed by the band to the tune of "Turkey in the Straw" to carry out the Thanksgiving theme.

With Christmas just around the corner, the band will remind football fans with "The First Noel," while they form a star.

In bidding goodbye to the 1951 football season, the band will play "Auld Lang Syne," forming a huge bell on the field at this time.

The University of Colorado, guests of the Spartans for the day, will be saluted by the band who will play "Gloria, Gloria, Colorado" and spell U-C on the field.
