

Clear Skies Predicted For Tonight's Swingout

Coat of Feathers

Fred Harper, editor of the University of California's yearbook, marched down a street near the campus in Los Angeles Thursday, accompanied by unidentified students after he was dubbed with molasses and feathers, reportedly because of sarcastic remarks in the yearbook against a fraternity.

Includes Symposium Series

MacLeish to Speak at 10 This Morning

The second of two lectures on "The American Way" will be in a Symposium this morning at 10 by Archibald MacLeish, Pulitzer prize winning poet and former government official. The Symposium will be in the Auditorium.

Through classes are not fully dismissed for the symposium, Lloyd C. Emery, dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, urged students to attend the symposium in the early morning and dismiss their classes. Students could attend lectures in a body.

... Resurrection

The 11 p.m. movie feature shown Saturday by a local video station still has a number of TV viewers a night confused. No one is sure if the four sequences of the somewhat antiquated film were shown in the right order or not, but the air was full of World War I type aircraft, the ground was littered with dying pilots, and people who died in scene two seemed to be up and flying around in scene three. Maybe they were short of talent.

... Down the Drain

Somewhere in the waterways of this campus are five newborn ducklings who fell through a sewer grate Friday. Mama, papa and six brothers and sisters are still looking for the missing family members, but campus cops and students gave up after a couple of fruitless hours of effort. The little ducks fell through while following Mrs. Duck from the Arts Building to the river.

American Way Symposium

Domestic and foreign affairs will be broadcasted over the stations WKAR and WJLB this week.

Archibald MacLeish will be heard today at 10 a.m. in the last Symposium.

Band under the Band under the leadership of Leonard Falcone, will perform at WKAR Wednesday. The program will include "The Meditation" from the Massenet, the "Miss Galsworthy" by Dr. Owen Reed and the "The Primal" by George Gershwin.

Procession To Start At Ag Hall

Election of Officers To Highlight Event

Fair and warmer weather is predicted tonight for seniors who will don caps and gowns at 7:30 for the 42nd annual Swingout ceremonies.

Led by senior officers, council members and the MSC marching band, the parade will start at Ag Hall and pick up seniors under the arches of then schools and move to Fairchild Theater.

Highlight of the indoor ceremonies will be the election of alumni officers for the class of '32 and the nomination of the "most valuable instructor of 1932" by a write-in vote.

President Hannah, Staff Keesler, director of alumni relations, and Senior Class president Gene McDermott are slated to speak. Fifty seniors who will form the core of the alumni association will also be announced as '32 club members.

Bill Cass, chairman of Swingout, asks that seniors be in front of their respective schools by 7:30. Seniors not having gowns may join their schools in the parade after the gown members have entered it, he added.

Swingout, as it will be observed tonight, was originated in 1910 when the graduates of that class held the first gown parade of seniors.

Alumni officers for the class of '32 to be elected tonight include a president, vice-president and a secretary-treasurer combined.

Running for president are Carl Eicher, Newberry, and Ward Ouradnik, Ann Arbor.

Candidates for vice-president include John Buxton, East Lansing; Dick Goodrow, Saginaw; and Howard Ellis, Trenton; Jaleen Rogers, Fulton; and Willard Sawney, Lansing.

On the ballot for the combined offices of Secretary-Treasurer are Rosemary Corcoran, Saginaw; Hadley Heckel, Spring Lake; and Marian Reason, Lansing.

The voting will take place as the seniors enter Fairchild Theater. The winners will be announced at the close of the program by Chris Jennings, chairman.

Williams Escapes Injury in Wreck

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen Williams, a favorite presidential nomination, was shaken up in an auto accident yesterday. He escaped serious injury.

His car collided with another on Middle Belt between Five and Six Mile roads near here, State Police said. Both cars were damaged badly.

Book Distribution Set for Tuesday

Wolverine distribution will begin tomorrow at 1 p.m. in the Union Bookstore.

Students are asked to present either Wolverine receipts or student identification in order to obtain books.

Writer's Cramp—Order of the Day

Hannah, McDonel Start Signing Marathon

By SARA MURRAY

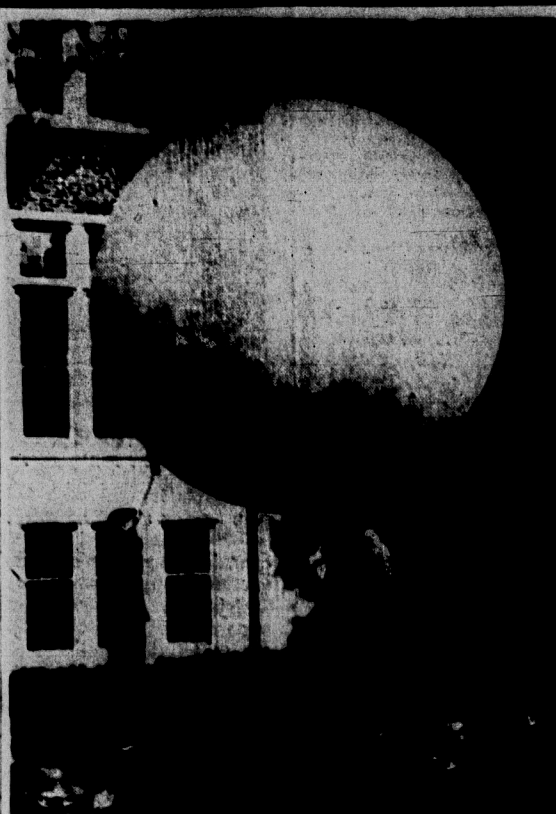

Writer's cramp is the order of the day in the Offices of the President and the Secretary at MSC this week.

Both Karl H. McDonel, college secretary, and Pres. John A. Hannah have begun a diploma-signing marathon which will probably last until just before graduation.

President Hannah has signed every degree since he became College Secretary in 1933. That adds up to 23,957 signatures at the end of winter term. There are 1,921 degrees to be signed this spring.

Since McDonel became Secretary in 1941 he has signed 21,323 degrees. The total number of degrees given by Michigan State since its founding is 35,414—a significant commentary on the College's growth during the last few years.

The diplomas are signed with India ink so a fountain pen cannot be used. One dip is good for about eight signatures.

Bill Hessler, Detroit sophomore, head balloon keeper for the ill-fated Water Carnival publicity project, inflates one of the two balloons that stayed up during the filling ceremony yesterday. Don Cornwell, Detroit sophomore, holds the balloon. The balloons were filled with helium and with air from a vacuum cleaner.

Keeper Finally Found

Sad Balloon Story Ends With Two Aloft

The sad story of the balloons is at an end—with partial success.

As witness, two balloons are now flying calmly above the campus. The rest of them? Well, that takes a little more telling.

The balloons were being used by the Water Carnival Publicity Committee to advertise the show. There were nine balloons to start with. One of them was 30 feet in diameter, a lot of balloon.

Last weekend, the man in charge of the Carnival's balloon committee disappeared. But he finally showed up this weekend, all prepared to inflate the balloons with helium and send them soaring.

But first they had to be painted with Water Carnival signs. And the conclusion was that to paint a balloon, it has to be inflated. The 30-foot balloon was inflated. But it was partly blown up indoors. And after the paint was on, it was discovered that it wouldn't go out the door. So it was deflated.

At the mooring site in front of the Union the 30-foot job was blown up again. It was sent into the air, the mooring broke, the balloon drifted away. It hit a tree, it exploded. That took care of one.

A second one was inflated. It broke away during the process. It went up. It went out of sight. That took care of two.

Three more were broken in test runs—they never got off the ground. That took care of five. Then the helium ran out. That took care of all of them.

At last count, the two balloons were still flying, doing their job of publicizing the Carnival.

And one more thing, Bill Hessler, Detroit sophomore, the missing keeper of balloons, explained his absence. He leaves for the Army tomorrow.

Nominations To Open for Congress

Members to Elect Officers Wednesday

By JOHN BARNES JR.

The Student Congress will open nominations for the four top Government posts at the new Congressmen's third meeting tomorrow night.

Nominees for President, Speaker, Speaker Pro Tem and Secretary will be selected from the members of the Congress as specified by the Constitution. Former experience in the Student Congress is usually an unwritten requisite for the four positions which will be decided in a secret ballot Wednesday night.

After the election, the new President will appoint an eight-member Cabinet with the approval of the Congress.

Officers of Secretary of State Affairs, Treasurer of Student Government, Chairman of the Campus Chest, Secretary of High School Co-operation, Secretary of Organizations, Student Government Attorney, Director of Public Relations, and the three offices of the All-College Judiciary are open to any qualified student who has interest in governmental affairs.

In addition to office requirements, students seeking these positions must meet the conditions of the Congress eligibility ordinance. Under these rules Cabinet Members must have at least an all-college two point before and after assuming offices.

The three justices of the All-College Judiciary have a specifically stated prerequisite for office in the Constitution. They must serve at least two terms on a Student Government board before consideration for office.

The President appoints one justice every fall, winter and spring term. Each serves for one year which leaves three justices serving at all times. In his third term of office, excluding summer term, the justice automatically becomes chairman of the Judiciary. The President names the summer Judiciary chairman.

Counselor for Men, Lyle Thorburn, Counselor for Women, Mrs. Maurice Gonon, and one person from both the Men's and Women's Judiciary serve as justices on the All-College Judiciary along with the three appointed members.

For the first time, the Student Government will have an attorney for consultation in matters of law.

Persons seeking further information concerning these appointive offices may consult the Student Government Office staff on the third floor of the Union, officials said.

Idaho Prison Riot Quelled By Tear Gas

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—A six-hour uprising at the Idaho State Penitentiary was quelled late Saturday when tear gas was used to rout 300 angry convicts from a barricaded building.

Before the riot was controlled, the convicts set fire to two penitentiary buildings, broke out numerous windows, flooded the recreation hall and smashed furniture, causing several thousand dollars damage.

No concessions were made to the surly prisoners, who had demanded a hearing for two convicts placed in "the hole," prison parlance for a four by eight foot solitary confinement cell.

The riot was touched off when four inmates were locked up yesterday morning for agitating the grievance committee. Two were placed in "the hole" and the other two given hearings by the state board of corrections and placed in their cells.

Glad Rags

Police arrested Clifford L. Daubin, 30, in Cleveland, O. last Friday but admitted they had nothing on him—except that his clothes were a trifle out of the ordinary. They say they were holding him for investigation. They stopped him walking down Euclid Avenue in a coonskin cap with red visor, white dinner jacket, zebra-striped shirt, luminous green tie, red plaid pants, and blue and white tennis shoes. Daubin told reporters the clothes were comfortable and that he had been wearing that kind for five years.

U of M Paper Hits Hatcher In Editorial

ANN ARBOR (AP)—The University of Michigan administration was sharply criticized Friday in a front page editorial in the Michigan Daily, student newspaper.

The editorial, written by senior staff members, attacked the University's ban on speakers, the refusal of the University to grant more funds to the Student Legislature, and the policy of closed meetings by the Board of Regents.

Students said the editorial was written in protest against University Pres. Dr. Harlan Hatcher's veto of a Student Legislature-sponsored measure which would have compelled fraternities and sororities to try to eliminate discriminatory clauses from their constitution.

Dr. Hatcher vetoed the measure, passed 7-3 by the Student Affairs Committee, saying "education and personal group convictions will do more to correct this situation than University coercion."

Members of the Student Legislature termed the vetoed measure "constructive and moderate in tone." It is similar to one also vetoed last year by Alexander.

Student Leaders Consulted

Raid Investigation To Continue Today

Dean of Students Tom King will continue interviewing students arrested in Wednesday's unsuccessful "panty raid" today in order that each of the 47 students arrested may be dealt with individually.

King yesterday vigorously denied the charge made by some students that the raid was touched off by a notice posted on campus bulletin boards giving possible penalties for raiders who were arrested.

Student leaders concurred in the posting of the notice after a conference with King, although they did not actually see it until after it had been published.

Those who signed were Hurt Spurrier, chief justice of the All-College Judiciary; Jean Hatchelder, president of the AWS Judiciary Board; and Dave Wasserman, a member of the All-College Judiciary.

A letter written by three students and published in the State News Friday said the notice offered a "challenge" to attempt the raid. The charge has also been brought up in interviews with raiders which are being conducted by King, Lyle Thorburn, counselor for men, and Nick Pagan, his assistant.

The notice came after signs had been found on bulletin boards in Mason Hall Wednesday morning informing residents of a raid planned that night.

King pointed out that the notice could not have been the cause of the raid because signs were already posted in Mason Hall. Campus Police have also found out that such a raid was discussed three weeks before it was attempted.

The notice sent out by King's office informed students that men participating in a raid were subject to a loss of "good standing" with the College which could mean the loss of draft deferment.

It also said the living units and individuals participating might be placed on probation and that seniors participating might not be allowed to graduate. However, none of these penalties hinged on the simple fact of arrest by Police during a raid.

Participants who request it may take their cases to the All-College Judiciary, King said. After all students have been interviewed, the counselors' conclusions will be coupled with Police reports on each individual and taken into consideration before penalties are decided. This will be done whether the men go to the Judiciary or not, King said.

The All-College Judiciary has power to make recommendations for action to the Dean of Students, but it has no executive power. A penalty of social probation may be given by the Dean.

Of Police and Collies

The killing of one's dog, whether the canine be rowdy or dangerous or not, is likely to bring his master to a rather irrational state of mind.

When the Campus Police shot a Collie belonging to an MSC student recently, the owner wrote a rather hysterical letter to the State News in which he berated the method in which the shooting was carried out. Because of his letter he has been required by College administrators to apologize this week to the Campus Police.

The Police were entirely within the law in shooting the Collie since the animal had bitten three people. Both Police and the Counselor for Men's Office had urged his owner to keep the dog confined. The shooting took place when the Collie got loose and upset a women's gym class.

The dog was shot once with a 22-calibre rifle. Unless it hits a vital point, a 22 slug will not kill anything much larger than a squirrel. The dog lived uncomfortably for 90 minutes after he was shot. The Police took no action to stop his agony.

Nor did they remove the animal to a veterinarian or the humane society.

The Collie's grievous master was not completely logical in his letter-to-the-editor indictment of the Police for their action.

But however hysterical his comments were, the requirement set forth by administrators that he must apologize seems a greater error.

If the student involved owes an apology, it should be made on his own volition, and not because of administrative pressure. An apology of the latter type is utterly worthless and smacks of force which is uncalled for and unpleasant.

It is easy to understand the upset which such an indictment of MSC's normally efficient and usually fair Police organization could cause.

However, lack of humane treatment of the animal, a carelessness which is certainly worth comment, is a point on which the Police could certainly improve their tactics. Might not apologies be forthcoming from both sides?

Reader Raps Sheets-Bolo Clique, Wants Change in Administration

TO THE EDITOR:

I am writing this letter in an attempt to disclose to the student body some of the facts of life of the coming race for the Presidency of the Student Government.

I am one of the many who has been thoroughly disgusted with the recent Congress which has been dominated by President Sheets. I had hoped for a change in administration next year.

At this point that change seems remote with the ascendancy of Bob Bolo. Sheets' hand-picked successor as the principal candidate.

Bolo and Sheets have extended their intimate personal friendship into the realm of practical politics by a process of slandering other candidates for the office of President and promising key committee posts to supporters.

This Sheets-Bolo clique seems well on the road to success.

In order to realize what a continuation of the policies of the present administration would entail, the voter need only recall how the student tax was forced by Sheets to a premature vote before the student body was sufficiently informed as to its merits and faults. The purpose seemed to be to bring prestige to the Sheets administration by allowing him to spend the money collected before he graduated.

I believe that it is time for a change in administration, which won't be forthcoming if Mr. Sheets is able to put Mr. Bolo into office.

Real Culprits Not Caught?

TO THE EDITOR:

There seems to be quite a multitude of non-consistent and illogical attitudes toward the proposed punishment of the 47 students who were arrested Wednesday night.

Students generally consider this particular offense an essential and necessary aspect of college life. Psychologists have opinions ranging from "dangerous" to "sexy." The Administration apparently feels that it is a flagrant act that must be punished severely.

I am not trying to give my opinion as what disciplinary action should be taken, but in view of the fact that I was one of the 47 who were arrested I would like to submit a fact that has been almost entirely overlooked. Virtually all of the 47 arrested were the ones who made no attempt to run away or hide their captors, probably because they had no reason to run away and thought that they were guilty of nothing except minding their own business.

Most of them were either standing all alone or with others were inside their cars taking their dates home or just curious as to what was going on.

Actually the Police used right psychology in breaking the "riot" by nabbing everyone they could reach without extermination, but I sincerely believe that some more effective method could be devised to prevent such future happenings.

Alumni Group Activities Near End for Year

Three meetings this week will complete alumni field work for the year.

Dr. Paul Bagwell, head of Written and Spoken English Department, will speak at the annual spring meeting of the Dearborn Alumni Club tomorrow. John McGoff, assistant director of alumni relations, will accompany him to Dearborn.

Oakland County alumni will meet in Birmingham tomorrow to hear Edgar Hardin, director of the Continuing Education Department. Jack Breslin, field director of the alumni, will also attend the meeting.

A barbecue for members of the Saginaw Alumni Club will be held Wednesday night in Saginaw.

Highlighting Alumni Day will be the dedication of the Alumni Memorial Chapel on Saturday afternoon. Alumni awards for distinguished service will be presented Sunday at the Commencement exercises.

Hear MacLeish Today

"The American Way" is difficult to define because it means different things to different people. Today at 10 a.m. in the Auditorium, Archibald MacLeish, internationally known author, poet, and former government official, will explain what he believes it is.

He will be the fourth outstanding leader to express his ideas at the annual "American Way Symposium."

Assistant Secretary of State in 1944 and 1945, MacLeish served as director of the OWI during the second World War. He was chairman of the American delegation which helped draw up the constitution of the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. In 1946 he served as deputy chairman of the U.S. delegation to the first UNESCO general conference in Paris.

A thorough understanding of the philosophies upon which the United States has been built and the meaning of today's complex society are a vital part of intelligent citizenship. The philosophies of the nation are but the philosophies of its citizens.

Students and faculty will have an opportunity today to hear what one American leader believes. It will be well worth the time of everyone concerned with the future of the nation to hear this address.

Riot Blamed On Warning Of Officials

TO THE EDITOR:

Your assertion to the effect that the riot toward Wednesday's outbreak was only quelled by a totalitarian edict from the office of the Dean of Students received the varied interests of your editorial readers. Aren't you reflecting a little too much credit upon the Administration?

The publishers of that little note of last resort will certainly be satisfied in knowing that it had a tremendous psychological effect on the student body. It is a shameful thing to confess that not only did the notice present a challenge, but there was an immediate desire to effect that challenge through the only avenue open, a demonstration—the very thing the Administration was trying to prevent.

Wouldn't it be just as easy to let the dog sleep than to wake him from his slumber with the jab of a sharp stick?

By DON CAMERON

Michigan State's on-again, off-again baseball team, suffering from a common ailment known as "late starts," received its second loss Friday at the hands of Wisconsin. A scheduled double against Northwestern was rained out. The game against last Wednesday's foe, the Badgers, was postponed a ninth inning, so did not start until 7:30 p.m. The Spartans were trailing 2-0 in the seventh frame when Wisconsin's "hot" bats for three runs, including a ninth-inning homer by Bob Cholek and a double by Mike Tomlinson. The Spartans were unable to score in the seventh frame and were out of the game.

Things looked safe but the game opened up with its base-sprer that didn't end. Lawson was chased from the box. Don Quayle, who had been tagged for a walk, was tagged for a walk. The game was a close one.

Black, Odom Win In Boxing Tourney

Michigan State boxers, Ted Black and Herb Odom, qualified for the Olympic tryout finals scheduled for next month when they won weight division titles at the AAU district tournament at Toledo last Friday and Saturday.

The tourney included Golden Glove winners from six states and several national boxing champions.

Black defeated William Primas of Cincinnati in the quarter-finals, followed up with a win over Larry McCartney, a Great Lakes fighter, and hammered J. W. Wilson of Detroit in the finals for the 147 pound championship.

Odom, competing in the 156 pound class, took the quarter-finals from Leon Stubbs of Toledo. Next he bested Al Hood, boxing for the U.S. Navy, in the semi-finals. He capped the division crown with a victory over Roy Wright of Detroit.

Three other MSC boxers entered in the tourney failed to do as well. Jimmy Evans, fighting in the 132 pound bracket, dropped a split decision to Ples Gilmore of Toledo. Gilmore went on to win the 132 pound crown from John Barnes, former Golden Gloves champion from Detroit.

In the 119 pound class, the Spartans' Lelroy Jeffery outpointed Lelroy Allan of Detroit in the quarter-finals, but lost out to Nate Brooks in the finals.

Brooks was the 1951 district Golden Gloves champion and a national Golden Gloves titleholder in 1950.

Ernie Charbonneau of Detroit, a former MSC boxer participating unattached, was defeated in the quarter-final by Willie DeMeyer of Detroit.

State Netters Rained Out

With rain forcing the cancellation of its final two dual meets, the MSC tennis team will have three days in which to prepare for its defense of the Big Ten crown, starting Thursday at Evanston, Ill.

The Spartans' home finale, scheduled for Friday afternoon against Purdue, was rained out as was their Northwestern meet, slated for Saturday at Evanston.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

No. 41...THE MAGPIE

He's a chatterbox himself — outclassed by no one! But the fancy double-talk of cigarette tests was too fast for him! He knew — before the garbled gobbledygook started — a true test of cigarette mildness is steady smoking. Millions of smokers agree — there's a thorough test of cigarette mildness. It's the sensible test...the 30-day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke — on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments. Once you've tried Camels in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

After all the Mildness Tests...

Wolverines Spank Spartan Golfers, 16-2

After taking a 16-2 drubbing at the hands of the University of Michigan Saturday, the Spartan golf squad returns home for its final meet of the 1952 season today.

The meet will be played at the Walnut Hills course in East Lansing. Doubles are slated to get underway at 9 a.m. and singles matches at 1 in the afternoon. Spectators are welcome and admission is free.

The Spartans next travel to Champaign, Ill. for the Western Conference championships Friday and Saturday.

Four of the Spartan linksmen had never toured the tough University course before, which may have had considerable effect upon the final score.

Senior Jack Zinn was low man for State with an 81 and a 13. The game was a close one.

Pact Will Allow Germany To Form Armed Alliance

BONN, Germany (AP)—A peace contract giving West Germany enough freedom to enter an armed alliance with the West was completed here yesterday. Last-minute French objections were overcome after long hours of negotiation.

Gerald Vandewerf, Grand Rapids senior, won the $25 grand prize with his print of a water scene.

Vandewerf took first and second places in the scenes class and Pierson won first prize in the sports class. Marshall Donato, Baraboo senior, Venezuela junior, took second.

First place winners in the four categories were awarded $10. Runner-ups received $5 gift certificates.

Judges in the contest were A. Cliff Rand, president of the Lansing Camera Club; Charles M. Baldwin, president of the Michigan Photographers Association; and Frank LeClear, Secretary-Treasurer of the MPA.

KAM opened the contest for all MSC students April 15. Approximately 75 entries were received. Plans are being made to exhibit the winning pictures in the Union Concourse.

Four conferences are expected to draw about 300 persons to the Kellogg Center this week.

The CIO-Educational Planning and the Michigan Bell Conference were held today and will continue Wednesday. A Michigan Conference in Co-operative Nursing Schools holds a one-day session tomorrow and the Fair Brokers meet here from Wednesday through Thursday.

Sing

Jackie DeHaas, president of Women's Residence Hall Council and Ashley Simon, president of Men's Inter-Dorm Council, presented the trophies to the winners.

The Tri-State Quartet was also on the program. John George Londonville, N.Y., soprano, acted as master of ceremonies.

North Williams and others won last year's competition.

of Students on his own discretion. A recommendation of disciplinary probation or suspension by either the All-College Judiciary or the Dean of Students must go to the President for approval.

King said that two students, arrested during the demonstration for being drunk and disorderly, face prosecution under East Lansing and state laws. He said the college would not interfere with civil action brought against the men.

The Dean called the demonstration "shameful." "With the war in Korea and the world situation as critical as it is today, students should take a more serious attitude toward their responsibilities as citizens," he said.

He pointed out that many of the men involved in Wednesday's demonstration "would be living in Korean box holes were it not for the fact they are enrolled in college to study."

Activities Carnival Requests Talent

A request for entertainers for next fall's Activities Carnival was made yesterday by Chandler Benton, Milwaukee junior, and entertainment chairman.

Tap dancers, singers, pantomimists, instrumentalists, comedy teams, and jazz pianists should apply by calling 8-9160.

Auditions will be held tomorrow from 7-10 p.m. in the Home Economics Building, Room 301. Participants should bring their own props, Benton said.

Students to Show Art Work in Union

The annual MSC student art show will be on display today in the third floor Union Building Art Gallery. Charles Dinger, Chicago junior, and Barbara Currie, Port Huron senior, will act as guides to explain the exhibit.

Grant Ruthven, former University president. The measure called for the University to deny recognition to any campus group which did not attempt each year to eliminate discriminatory clauses from organizational constitutions.

Commenting on University-student relations, the editorial said "the situation at present is in such a bad state that we believe that the time has come for serious reflection, investigation, and ameliorative action."

University officials had no immediate comment on the editorial.

Faculty Members Attend Conference On Social Work

Three members of the Department of Social Work are attending sessions of the National Conference of Social Work in Chicago this week.

Prof. Bernard Ross is representing the department at the Business Meeting of the American Association of Schools of Social Work to which the College was recently admitted.

Dr. Ernest Harris will preside at the annual meeting of the Association for the Study of Community Organization tomorrow and Wednesday.

Dr. Dorothy Zietz is the third member of the group.
