Fall Term in Retrospect

Michigan State is putting the finishing touches on another term. We are a term older, a term wiser, and a term better known to the world outside of East Lansing. After a few more terms like this one, the public won't say, "Yes, Michigan State, that's at Ann Arbor, isn't it? It's rather easy to point out the great strides we have made in athletics. The national football championship was undisputed and the cross country team took the NGAA, the Big Ten and the IC4A championships. Those are obvious—in black and white. To find the other ways that the college has grown up, we have to dig among the remains of the term, to paw about in the ashes of a nearly dead term.

MSC is ever striving onward-pushing ahead. Much tradition was added this term-tradition that only age can bring to us, dignity that only more experienced students and administrators can put forth.

The college is making great strides in the television field. It hopes to have a TV station in full operation by fall of 1953. A television grant of $100,000 was received from the Ford Fund for Adult Education which moves this dream closer to reality.

The Education Division was taken from the School of Science and Arts and Education. All the while great strides are being made in this field as well as in the others The basic courses have been revised and revamped in order to serve better their purpose. Never is there a time in the life of a living, growing institution like MSC that improvements and revisions are not being inaugurated

Tomorrow 515 will receive degrees from MSC-515 new alums will leave the campus. MSC will be 292 school year quarters older and 515 alumni more powerful when the curtain is brought down' on the fall term, 1952.

Christmas - 1952 Style

Christmas, the oldest of all holidays, has been celebrated in the same way for almost 2,000 years. The spirit always has been the same. Material symbols of the Yule season have varied with industrial, social and economic conditions.

This year Christmas will be marked by church services. family reunions, Christmas trees and the exchange of presents. The external facets of the Christmas season will resemble those of years past, but will be modified to meet 1952 conditions

Many families will find reunions incomplete. Loved ones will be scattered around the world helping to defend world peace.

There will be snow, probably much of it. Relatives will be together for reminiscing, and the children will look just as excited as they always have. The Midnight masses and Christmas, Day church services suggest the same "Peace on earth, good will toward men. note

With all the changes that 1952 will bring to Christmas, one thing will remain outstanding-a feeling of sincer reverence and hope that Nativity has brought for nearly 2,000 years

Educational TV

By PHIL GUNBY -

Two husky financial boosts in recent months have strongly increased MSC's chances to have an ultra-high frequency channel TV program going full blast at this time next year.

Certainly the college's active participation in a significant phase of communication-educational TV-is a wonderful thing: On the other hand, educational telecasting poses some interesting problems.

Back in the spring, the Federal Communications Commission set aside some 242 channels for non-commercial telecasts of the educational variety. Nine colleges have so far applied for construction permits under this set-up. and about 100 more may do so in the near future. This still leaves more than 100 channels to be snapped up by commercial interests if no one applies by the middle of 1953

Alarmed at the possibility of education losing these channels, some have asked that the 242 channels be perset aside for educational use. manently

The FCC has countered by asking educational institutions to form networks. This co-operative venture, the FCC says, would reduce the enormous costs involved. However, the commission adds, something must be done before next June's deadline.

Just what the nation's educational institutions will do is pretty indefinite at present, but it's a pretty good bet they'll take some action. MSC-as it has been doing in many fields seems to

TO THE EDITOR: Well. I see the Student Con-gress has done it again. Wild necusations and rediculous state-ments continued to originate from their meeting. For weeks I have followed the controversy between the Congress and the State News. Until today I had not decided who was right. deciding that the comforts their own room were preferable to those of the library, or that necessary restrictions were too not decided who was right. Yesterday (Dec. 3) the Cen-gress had to decide whether the Campus Chest was to be an inbinding, have cut or torn out specific assigned pages. This practice has been carried out to such an extent that in the case of M. B. Smith's "Survey of Social Science" (required outside reading for basic Social Science) be objective and said that the organization could be efficiently run under either system.
