

East Lansing Alters Parking

Ruling Hits Grand River From Haslett to MAC

"No Parking" signs will be put up on the north side of Grand River Ave. from Haslett to MAC Ave. this week marking the end of a two-year dispute between the city merchants and the state highway department.

A decree banning parking in this area will come from the court by about Jan. 18, East Lansing Mayor Max Strother said. The East Lansing City Council has already amended its schedule to agree with the court decision made Dec. 29, so it can put up the signs without waiting for the decree, he added.

The President of the East Lansing Merchants Association, Harold Garfield, said, "Naturally, we don't like the ruling. The East Lansing Merchants Association has spent a lot of money and effort in a campaign to allow parking on the north side of Grand River."

Garfield said he thought the ruling would not affect business because there is sufficient parking space in the off-street parking lots recently constructed behind the stores in East Lansing. He said there is room for about 250 cars.

The merchants association will not take any more action on the issue, Garfield said, because the decision of the Michigan Supreme Court is final.

In the past two years, the state police commission and highway department attempted to remove all parking on the north side of Grand River from MAC to the east city limits, but a city ordinance permitted one-hour parking.

An appeal was made to the circuit court and granted to the merchants for an injunction against such a ruling.

Following this decision, the highway department and state police commission asked the Supreme Court to reverse the city ordinance in order to abolish all parking in that section.

During the dispute, a group of merchants and the city council established three parking lots adjacent to MAC Ave. to offset the possible threat of no parking on the north side of Grand River.

Comedian To Give Readings

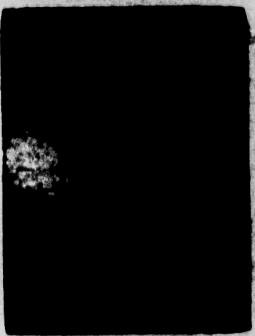

Famed Butler Schedules Talk

Arthur Treacher, famed for his stage, screen and radio portrayals of English butlers, will serve a helping of humor from the lecture stage of the MSC Auditorium Wednesday at 8:30 p.m.

"A Little of This, Something of That, Mostly Humor" is the title of Treacher's lecture, which will consist of readings from humorous literature.

Although movie-goers have seen him in over 80 motion pictures cast as a butler, Treacher said that in his lecture tour, "I'm going to prove I can do something besides play the naive gentleman's gentleman."

American airways have crackled with Treacher's humor in his radio and television appearances with Bob Hope, Milton Berle and Victor Borge.

Treacher played in the 1950 Broadway production of George Bernard Shaw's "Cesar and Cleopatra" with Lilli Palmer and Sir Cedric Hardwicke. Before coming to America in 1956, Treacher appeared in London's Drury Lane Theater production.

Hinting that "Maybe I'll throw in an excerpt or two from P. G. Wodehouse," Treacher may still give MSC a chance to see him in his most widely known characterization.

Get out your knee-socks, colds. This Blue Monday Spartans will be blue with cold as the temperature dives to a frigid low of two degrees and a high of 16. A wind of 15 miles an hour will add to the frozen feeling.

Vets to Meet Club Advisors

Introduction of faculty advisors will highlight the term's first meeting of the MSC Veterans' Association in the Union Parlors at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

The advisors are Dr. Jack Elliott, botany and plant pathology assistant professor, Harold Schlichting, basic natural science instructor, Fremont Shull, general business instructor, and Benjamin Hickok, basic communication skills assistant professor.

Term activities of the club will be discussed and a program planned for the term.

Dr. Barlowe Writes Land Problem Book

Dr. Raleigh Barlowe, MSC farm economist, is co-author of the book "Land Problems and Policies" which came off the presses a week ago.

The book, written in conjunction with Dr. V. Webster Johnson, former head of the U. S. Division of Land Economics, will be used as a college text and for professional persons working on rural land problems and policies.

Voluntary Aid CSF Square Dance Nets $57 for Hedrick Co-op

A Saturday night square dance sponsored by the Christian Student Foundation netted $57, which will be turned over to the men of Hedrick House left homeless by their recent fire, according to Mary Pat Dowell, associate director of CSF.

The money was raised through voluntary contributions, since no admission was charged.

Held in the social hall of Peoples Church, the dance was attended by an estimated 110 people. The donations will be given to the group as a whole, to be divided according to need, Miss Dowell said.

Anyone wishing to donate money, clothing or other items can deposit them at the College House on West Grand River Ave.

Bowl Writers Tab Dohoney Top Lineman

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—All American Don Dohoney and his North teammates provided some good ammunition in Saturday's Senior Bowl football game for those who contend a rugged defense is superior to a good offense.

Dohoney's smashing line play, which won the big Michigan State and acclaim from sports writers as the game's outstanding lineman, upset the South 20-14.

The hard-charging North defensive platoon pushed the South backs so hard they had difficulty getting going. The South punted up only 31 yards by rushing, and in the second half lost a net four yards.

The South had little to offer in the way of offense except Bratkowski's aerials. The Georgia slingshot played the entire game as offensive quarterback and accounted for all 203 of the South's air yardage.

Bratkowski would have had an even better day except for the dodging tactics of Dohoney. The Michigan State end's fast charging plagued the Brat throughout, and several times dumped him before he could get his pitches under way.

Negotiations Preferred Mum in U.N.

Convo Limited To Big Three

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials said Sunday Russia can have its choice, within reason, as to how discussions of President Eisenhower's atomic pool plans may be conducted.

On the eve of preliminary talks on arrangements officials indicated their preference for negotiations that would be:

- 1. Exclusive: Limited to the United States and Russia, or those two plus Britain. 2. Secret: Not moved any time soon to the floodlighted and often controversy-riven arena of the United Nations.

Secretary of State Dulles will begin preliminary talks here Monday with Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin in an effort to discover what arrangements the Soviet government wants and whether it is sincerely interested in more formal atomic negotiations.

Authorities here say the United States, Russia and Britain are the only real atomic powers in the world today.

The coolness in official quarters here toward holding early discussions in the atmosphere of the United Nations is explained by the argument that such negotiations have heretofore all ended in deadlock.

Though this is no fault of the organization, officials say it may have created traditions, attitudes and fixed positions which would work against successful negotiations of the President's plan.

The real key to Dulles' approach to the talks with Zarubin, however, is that he wants to eliminate all obstacles to successful negotiation which might arise out of arrangements. He wants to give the Soviets no excuse for refusing to negotiate.

He is said to feel that the best approach, therefore, is to find out how they want to go about it and to do it their way if at all possible.

The President proposed pooling atomic-for-peace as a first step toward eliminating atom-for-war.

Thurn's Pictures Win Two Magazine Awards

Terry Thurn of the photography laboratory in the department of information services at MSC recently received two awards from a popular photography magazine for pictures submitted in a contest.

Thurn's picture of "Pal" won a $100 award and one of two runs at the beach won a $50 award.

Film Series Offers Both Fun, Drama

Spanish, English Movies Scheduled

Foreign film fare this week will focus on drama and comedy seen through eyes of Spanish and British movie-makers.

"Subida Al Cielo" Mexican Bus Riders is scheduled for Tuesday night and "Tony Drax's Horse" a J. Arthur Rank production, Tuesday. Both will be shown on Fairchild Theater at 8 p.m.

The Spanish film giving language students a chance to test their skills in Spanish was awarded grand prize for Avant-garde film at the 1952 Cannes Festival.

The film, "Subida al Cielo," depicts, symbolically, a man's death, taken by a good son, Esteban Marquez, who meets a young girl, Lilia Parde.

A capable cast headed by Anne Crawford and Cecil Parker, pokes fun at English social custom in Tuesday evening offering "Tony Drax's Horse" is a film adaptation of a 1939 stage play that has enjoyed more success than its "live" predecessor.

Conflicting viewpoints of a father for father, and a rebellious mother over the discipline of their son are the core of the 1939 comedy's plot.

Ethel Arneling to Give Concert in Music Aud

Ethel Arneling, instructor of music, will present a concert at 8 Tuesday night in the Music Auditorium. Miss Arneling, a contralto, will sing selections from Schubert's "Frauenliebe und Leben," Faure's "Melodie de Venise" and several folk songs. Howard Silberg will assist at the piano.

Students Pair Off for Exercises

Speech Service Develops Sound Tests

By DONNA MOONEY

It might look a little crazy at first glance. A dozen students sitting in pairs back-to-back reading lists of words to each other. Some stutter, some lose their rasp—and there's a general buzz that makes hearing difficult.

But it's all part of a carefully planned exercise to help students with speech disorders. Most of these disorders can be permanently improved by these exercises called Speech Efficiency Tests, said John T. Austin, head of the Speech Improvement Service.

Similar back-to-back tests were developed during World War II at Waco Air Force Base in Texas and Pensacola Air Force Base in Florida. They are based on the idea that attention to speech sounds makes one aware of his own habits of speaking and listening. One learns to articulate so that he can be understood by the listener—even when everyone else is talking.

One member of each pair starts by reading words like "stevens, shuffle, and hovel" from a drill sheet while the other has to write down whatever he thinks he hears.

The list is checked. Then the process is reversed. The lists are read from top to bottom—then sideways. A record of improvement is kept.

The teams are rotated so that in time everybody has to listen to everybody else. When a stuttering boy is teamed up with a lisping girl, for example, each helps the other to improve, Austin said.

The effects of this program are permanent and become a habitual part of the student's speech," he continued. In addition, individual exercises in breathing and the practicing of difficult sounds are given.

Since 1946 six per cent of all students entering MSC have been helped by the service, he said. They are referred to the program from Professor Counseling Camp, from the Orientation Tests, and from the department of communication skills.

Students who have taken the Orientation Tests are limited because registration of they have been recommended for speech improvement. An indication they enroll in speech classes held twice a week.

The service has developed 66 per cent of all students within one term or less since 1945. Discharges do not mean a complete cure. They mean that the student has improved enough to get along easily in normal conversations and discussions.

A future teacher or someone suffering in a field that requires higher-than-average speech standards may be continued for two terms or longer. The 34 per cent in this group includes those with emotional problems connected with their speech disorders.

The remaining 36 per cent, the more severe cases, are currently referred to other student services, such as the Student Counseling Service, the Undergraduate Speech Clinic and the Health Service.

Sportotips Got a Question?

As far as we're concerned, Spartan sport fans are the most loyal and rabid west of Houston. So as a service to fans along the banks of the Red Cedar, I'm instituting a question-answer program.

Just drop me a line in care of the State News and I will periodically write a column dealing with your question. Big 10 and NCAA take note—it has become increasingly evident that scholastics come before athletics at MSU.
