Pres. John A. Hannah spoke last week at a club here, his analysis of Russian power and America's bry form painted up some significant aspects. When Pres, John A. Hannah spoke last week at a club meeting here, his analysis of Russian power and America's retailatory form middled to some similation aspects. In singling out he had note of applying billions pres-nure to the point of instigating an economic collapse here, Dr. Russah summed the picture up well and concisely. His containes warning that the U.S. could not have to survive to approximate the picture up well and concisely. His containes warning that the U.S. could not have to survive to approximate the picture up well and concisely. His containes warning that the U.S. could not have to survive to approximate the first provident have what we consider a tactical error in refusing to put his entire speech "in the releved." Since is was based by mearly 300 persons, his dediction to keep the mean from pictuation what had previously been stated to applied by other proverment officials was point added for. The partial "hands off" policy remarking news dissem-ination—although not of major intenses in this instance— nerves to point up a general Washington weakness in its recent press relations. Baghaning with the ill-timed "leak" to five selected news-ment fights Warren judicing appointment last October, administration contact with the working press has been a bit curt.

bit curt. Washington correspondents have asseed the differ-once with the advent of the Einscheurer regime. Be-pite the smooth work of Press Boardary James Eng-prerty, many newsmon have felt that his bodyround briefings were inadequate in comparison with these-affered during Truman's stay in affice. Improvements have been attempted. Officials are taking a little more time to talk to the press. But the difference was still great enough to cause one correspondent to remark: The main difference so far, is that the Trumanites would keep you up until 2 a.m. talking about what they were doing. The Ikeman sees you for 15 minutes in his office."

If the American public fails to granp the full mean-ing of administration policies and plans, partial blame can be hid to the government's astinfaction with what has been termed "packaged press relations." Whether Dr. Hannah's "off the cuff" remarks were withheld in consideration of public morale is not the basic issue. Rather, it is a question of whether the taboo sign was hung out for personal reasons or under administration orders

If the latter is true, it is unfortunate. A man of the tature of Dr. Hannah—In both governmental and educa-tional circles—can do much to aid in making clear just where the U.S. stands. Such a respected voice must not be hushed by a tip-toeing administration.
