In a strategy thrust, Moletov noted that Austrian Foreign Min-ister Leopold Figl had said he was "not authorized" to accept the treaty, whereas British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden went further, saying "we cannot ac-cept."

The Russian diplomat then pro-

Rhee has frequently said that the war must be re-newed and that nothing will be achieved through nego-tiation. This time, however, he has been much more nt in insisting the fighting begin again.

But the ROK is in no position to go it alone. Lacking U.S. aid, it is probable that South Korea would be overrun by the more numerous and better supplied Communist Rhee admits that American gasoline and amunition are essential. To wage a successful offensive war, American air units and combat divisions would have to be recommitted.

If Rhee starts a fight he can't finish, the U. S. will have to decide whether to permit Communists to take over all the U. S. has held at great cost for three years, or to contribute again its men and money.

By starting a war, Rhee may force the U.S. into active participation by resuming the war to unite Korea.

Rhee has taken independent and arbitrary action to achieve his goals before. Last spring, when progress was apparently being made toward a truce, South Korea re-leased 27,000 pro-U. N. prisoners-of-war. The truce negotiations Rhee opposed were almost wrecked.

Deeper involvement to the U. S. may result from Secretary of State Dulles' statement last September that if war breaks out again, the Reds cannot count on a "privileged sanctuary" in China.

Fortunately, some facts indicate Rhee may be simply trying to intimidate the Red negotiators or push the U. S. into a war uniting Korea. In his recent offer to send one or possibly two ROK divisions to Indochina, Rhee didn't act like a man about ready to start a war at home.

Furthermore, the Jan. 27 deadline Rhee imposed for the peace talks to show concrete accomplishments passed with no aggresive South Korean acts.

The U. S. must decide now how to restrain Rhee without strangling the South Koreans' democratic ambitions and reducing the new republic to the status of an American

Well-Earned Triumph

De. Lester F. Wolterink. MSC professor of physiology and pharmacology, will deliver the Junior Award Lecture of the MSC chapter of the Society of Sigma Xi at 3 tonight in 118 Physics and Mathematics Building. The public is invited. Amo Bessone can now verify that old chestnut that

"good things come to he who waits."

And the MSC hockey coach will be keeping his fingers crossed that more of the same lies in store for his Spartan pucksters after their 8-4 victory over Colorado last week snapped a nine-game losing string.

It's been a hard year for Bessone, who has watched his team suffer severe losses of players through injury, in addition to a number of overtime setbacks.

If the ice crew's last showing is any criterion of future events, it will be deserved. Tough luck can't last forever.

What's going on

Male Muddle

About four terms ago I was writing a column under the somewhat cozy title of "Patty's Patter." In this column I kicked around the trials and tribulations of the MSC coeds.

This didn't go over too well with some of the male population, since I trended on soft spots with mighty heavy shoes once in a white. But, I had a lot of fun and there were a few of the students with stronger stomachs that actually said they enjoyed reading the breezy things.

But, then I began the long trail from the neglety de-partment to the night desk and flushly into the front office. Once I arrived here,—I decided that the light name of "Patty's Patter" and the nilly, foundaine topics just dhin't belong on the editorial page, so I adopted a new name, the take-off on my initials, PAYdirt.

Since then, I've been avoiding the controversial topics suitable for "Patty's Patter." But, the other day, a story came over the Associated Press wire that I just can't avoid commenting on.

In this story, Mary Garden, former opera star, listed her personal prescription for joy. She said, and I quote verbatim, "I am absolutely happy because I never married.

Probatim, "I am absolutely nappy because I never married. I had my career and I put all my life and love into it."

So far this assunds a little week. But listen to what else she had to say: "Marriage is all right for opera singers if they want to bother with it. But if you have a great career, why do you want a man trailing you?"

Now, I ask you, could any struggling journalist resist commenting on this?

In the first place, MSC is full of coeds striving for degrees. Some of them, admittedly, are working for the MRS, but there are many that are kicking around the idea of a career with "perhaps plans" for-a man later on.

It would seem that MISS Garden has abot this theory all to beek. After all, if a woman of her repute would advise that we women stick to our careers and not be hothered supporting a man, then it must be worth same serious consideration.

So, let's stop and consider it—

Yeh. It does have its good points; there'd be no one to mess up the house, no one to fill the living room with smake, no one to complain of his day's work at the office.

smoke, no one to complain of his day's work at the office. But then, neither would there be anyone to praise our selection of new curtains for the kitchen, or to zip our zippers, or to praise our cooking or to tell us we look pretty when we are dressed for the evening.

It sounds too good. I'm afraid the unanimous decision for us all will have to be: Men, bless their hearts, are nice to have around the

What kind of a job do YOU want?

If you still haven't made up your mind, here's how to get practical information that may help you decide

All over America there are thousands of young men and women in college who are genuinely uncertain about this question of a Perhaps you are one of them. Perhaps you've talked with your placement bureau about prospects in transportation, in engineering, or in one of the new, fast-growing industries like electronics or plastics.

Only you still find it hard to make up your mind when you've had no personal experience in considering the kind of facts and figures that might decide your whole business future.

As advertising representatives for over 700 college newspapers, we've long been aware of this campus problem. And, since we deal with some of America's biggest companies, we also know that there is a good deal of authentic business data available that would be very helpful to college students conavailable that would be very helpful to college students considering a career.

So if you'd like to be better informed about a particular field, this paper. He'll send it to us.

Let us make it plain that we're not establishing either an
