Firemen prevented the blaze from spreading to 1,200 gallons of gasoline stored beneath the garage floor.

Wendt Stresses Role Of Science In Future

By JIM WHITTAKER

In an informative, factual report Wednesday night entitled "What's New In Science" Dr. Gerald Wendt, director of science education for UNESCO, stressed the important role that education will have to play if science is to take a greater foothold in the future of the nations of the world.

Speaking to a small audience in the Auditorium, Dr. Wendt explained the purposes of UNESCO and how it operates.

He compared the status of science in Europe, Africa and Asia and how the forces of science are working there, with the United States.

He spoke of atomic research and how far it had progressed in the United States and Russia. Interesting highlights were made concerning the amount of money spent on atomic research and government controls on atom supplies and how these eventually will be released for private use.

The possibility of securing energy from the sun and how it might be used to benefit various sections of the earth was explained. An experimental process of raising algae in water tanks to solve some of the world's food problems was noted.

Wendt elaborated further on the tremendous future of electronics and machines that may virtually operate our society. With this would come the growth of greater recreation and Wendt indicated how more money is being spent yearly on recreation because of the growth of the rate of such machines in our daily lives.

Concluding on a rather philosophical note, Wendt spoke of the origin of the earth, the vastness of the universe and how man is merely an infant ready to embark on a glowing future.

Three-Hour Debate Results in Reversal

Hyman Speaks Favorably For Reapportionment Bill

By MYRA MacPHERSON

In a three-hour meeting filled with disagreement, Congress decided Wednesday to favor a bill amendment that would reduce the size of Congress.

This is a reversal of the majority view of Congress members—who two weeks ago voted down a clause in an elections bill that would have reduced the Congress size.

The amendment to the elections bill was introduced in a second attempt to bring this change about. By passing the amending bill favorably Wednesday, Congress members have placed their stamp of approval on cutting the number of members. The final decision will be made next week.

The amending bill states that there would be one representative for every 600 students rather than the procedure of representation which now stands—one representative for every 250 students. Also, no district shall be entitled to more than six representatives regardless of the size of the district. However, this would only affect East Lansing and Lansing districts where population might top 2,000 students.

Added to the amendment was a clause to prevent dragging out Congress spring elections. This clause states that petitions turned in by a district by deadline date, regardless if they are under the allotment number, will be the district legal representation until the next special election. Prior to this clause, Congress members said that petitions were sometimes turned in late resulting in election postponement.

Dave Hyman, Congress president, presented one of the strongest arguments in favor of the Congress reduction. He said he felt that reducing the Congress was the only way to set up an efficient government. He pointed out that backers of the bill were those who had served on Congress for a few years, had seen it operated, and felt that it would stimulate more interest, thus raising the standards of members.

Opposite views pointed mainly to the fact that they thought a smaller governing body would not adequately represent the student body.

Rules were also suspended by Congress to push through four bills for passage that would not have come up until next week.

They include: One to appropriate $50 to be used for chartering one granting a one year provisional charter to Lambda Iota Tau, literary honorary, and another to grant this organization $50. The fourth bill passed in special orders was one to appropriate $50 to be used by Congress to return the hospitality of U of M Congress members who will be entertained at MSC this Saturday.

Congress granted $50 to help finance the International Phonetic Association and appropriated $50 to STUN for administration of the used book program until next year.

By passing a resolution to pledge their support of "Michigan Week," Congress placed the first college in favor of observance.

Other resolutions passed included one to support the "Michigan Week" and another to support the "Michigan Week."

The resolutions were passed by a vote of 10-2.

Blood Donation Costly to Thinclade Gosper Out of Conference Meet

By BOB SMITH
The loss of quarter-miler Evan Gosper because of sickness has hurt the Michigan State track team's chances of coping the Big 10 title jockey at Champaign, Ill. However, State is still aiming to turn its dark horse position into a nightmare for favorites of Illinois and Ohio State. Gosper missed last week's meet with Indiana because of sickness and after a week of jockeying him, Karl Schladerman's truck coach, has announced that he will be unable to compete this weekend. Gosper began his career after he gave a part of last week in the College Drive. Schladerman had been planning to use Gosper in either the 300 or 600-yard runs as well as the mile relay. A little consolation can be derived from the running of Len Varga, another quarter-miler. Varga came up with a bad leg in the Michigan State Relay three weeks ago and just started working out Tuesday night. Schladerman said that he was going to take another look at Varga Wednesday night to see if he will be able to compete in the conference. However, even if he is complete he won't be any better than top condition and he is expected to turn in a performance. Schladerman expects his Spartans to hold a third or fourth place but he doesn't count them out of the running for the title. The Spartan coach has named a tentative squad of 24 to make the Michigan State will send a sophomore studded squad to the meet. The Spartans' top two are the Spartans' top sprinters with Brabham's 100 and 200 yard dash among the best in the conference. Varga's best time is only a fraction behind that. Brabham might also run the 400 with Varga, Jim Linder and Art Ingram. In the 440, Dave Hoke and Dick Stutsman will carry the Spartan colors. These two will be joined by Lyle Garbe in the 600. Half miler Dick Jarrett, John Cook and Garbe will also run the 1000-yard run along with Bob Baird and Ken Barley. Probable entrants in the mile will be Cook, Barley, and Garbe. This is also the list of starters for State in the two-mile. State will send four good hurdlers to the meet. They are John Corbett, Henry Gills, Joe Savoldi, and Martin Benjamin. In the field events it will be Dave Goodell and Don Schladerman in the shot put; Don Hillmer, Savoldi, Bill Postula, and Ray Eggleston in the high jump; Chuck Coykendall in the pole vault; and Eggleston, Savoldi, and Brabham in the broad jump. Schladerman will choose his mile relay team from Brabham, Stutsman, Hoke, Cook, Jarrett and Varga.

Storm Blows Main Highways, Closes Schools

High Winds Expected to Strike Area Two Deaths Attributed To 10-Inch Snowfall

According To Associated Press

A heavy snow storm, whipped across southern Michigan by high winds Wednesday, claimed the lives of at least two persons, blocked main highways, closed schools, and isolated houses in rural areas.

The storm, general from the Michigan-Indiana-Ohio border to a line from Benton Harbor to Saginaw, piled up to 10 inches of new snow.

For many areas in the southern part of the state the storm was the second half of a 1-2 punch. Southeastern Michigan communities were still digging out of Monday's heavy snowfall when Wednesday's storm struck.

The weather bureau said winds up to 50 miles an hour were expected to drift the new snow in all areas.

Metropolitan Detroit was blanketed by six inches of snow and experienced its worst traffic jam in many years Wednesday when the city's snow removal crews were unable to complete their job ahead of the morning rush hour traffic.

Benton Harbor, Flint, Lansing, Port Huron, Monroe, Jackson, Pontiac and Saginaw reported the heaviest snow fall.

State Highway Department road crews struggled to keep open a single lane of traffic on US-112 between Detroit and Jackson and on US-16 between Detroit and Lansing.

Airports at Detroit, Flint, Jackson, and Windsor, Ont., also felt the impact of the storm. Only outboard flights were reported leaving Detroit's Windsor Willow Run airport. The others were closed.

Two deaths attributed to the storm were both caused by heart attacks while shoveling snow.

Rural schools in eleven counties were closed. For many schools it was the second snow-incurved
