Churchill Says No Troops

GENEVA (AP)—Britain is offering France in an effort to obtain a cease fire as the first step at the Geneva conference toward solving the impasse in Indochina, a source said Tuesday night. The 18-nation conference began Tuesday but the negotiations foreshadowed the efforts to unite and pacify the country.

Indochina Prime Minister Phibul said Britain had refused to commit troops to fight there while the conference was in progress. In the House of Commons at London, he held the hope that the conference would work out a cease fire.

widely circulated report here that Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov and Red China's Peking government had planned to propose a cease fire within the next few days. A French spokesman rejected it as untrue.

The conference source said an agreement to back up French in seeking quickly a cease fire was followed by negotiations with the Communist-led North.

The position of the United States is that while a halt in fighting is desirable, it should not be at the price of a situation which would ultimately prove of high cost to the free powers.

Nixon Revives Indochina Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice-President Nixon sought Tuesday to divert American's attention from the possible political fallout of the war in Indochina by talking about sending U. S. troops to Indochina. ## Audience Rejects Mambo Show

By CYNTHIA SCHEER
State News Feature Editor

If over-orchestration, pop taste and undue repetition don't put an end to the mambo, the dance rhythm must be a whole lot sturdier than Tuesday night's "Mambo Festival" indicated.

For with the "Festival," which rocked Fairchild Theater for more than two hours, "Biggest Show" producers Cress Courtney and J. T. Gale certainly have lost sight of their previously successful formula for packaging and presenting talent.

The mambo has been around for about seven years, and its predecessor, the rumba, for approximately 10. In winning a fair share of appreciation by dancers in America, the rhythms have gone through various stages, which the "Mambo Rumba Festival" attempted to recapture.

Dancers, big bands, bongos, congas, a small combo, and an enco, Papi Campo, favoring with a coed from the audience and a mechanical monkey, failed to make the mambo more than a boisterous curiosity. Fairchild Theater's echo made matters worse—although not much—by giving four conga drums on stage the quality of a delayed-action octet.

House Ovation Greets Bentley Upon Return

WASHINGTON (AP)—A standing ovation greeted Rep. Bentley (R-Mich.) upon his return to the House Tuesday for the first time since he and four other Congressmen were shot down by Puerto Rican fanatics March 1.

Bentley responded with a speech in which he declared, "I consider myself a living example of what prayer can do if it is sincere enough."

Lekenta Bound Over to County Circuit Court

Gene Lekenta, who has been suspended from MSC for spring term, was bound over to the Ingham County Circuit Court Tuesday on the charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm less than murder.

East Lansing Justice Henry L. Schram said arraignment was set for May 10. Lekenta, 22-year-old former football player from Grand Rapids, was released after his attorney, Leland W. Carr Jr., promised to post $1,000 bond today.

The case of Thomas B. Svingen, 19-year-old Detroit freshman who was examined for similar charges, was dismissed.

Lekenta has been charged by State Police with assaulting Gerald Cunningham, East Lansing graduate student, Feb. 28 following an argument at a tavern.

This is because no new member of either Tower Guard, the sophomore honorary, or Mortar Board is supposed to know of her election until the actual ceremony. Yet, she must be there to be tapped.

French Set Last Ditch Fortification

Indochina Rain Cripples Attacks

HANOI, Indochina (AP)—Under pelting rains and despite heavy rebel mortar and artillery fire the French flung up new "last ditch" fortifications Tuesday in the heart of Dien Bien Phu.

The long-awaited big seasonal monsoon rains turned the north-west Indochina fortress area into lakes of red mud and crippled French air strikes at the Communist-led Vietnamese besiegers.

But the French carved out more trenches and flung up thick mounds of barbed wire barricades in their main defense area, now reduced to a little less than a mile in diameter. They exchanged artillery blows with the Vietnamese but there was no sign as yet of any mass rebel infantry assault.

For the French the task was to tighten the defense bulwark as much as possible. All around the main defense area the Vietnamese were chipping slowly away at key spots. The French operational headquarters of Brig. Gen. Christian de Castries were less than 600 yards from advanced positions of strong Vietnamese forces.

On the rim of the fortress the Vietnamese set up more machine gun nests and anti-aircraft batteries to try to shoot down the planes which parachute men and material into the fortress.

As long as the narrow "dropping zone" is held in the heart of the fortress it can go on living and resisting. But a fresh big push from any of the encircling points held by the Vietnamese could put them virtually in the dropping area. If that happens the lifeline of the fortress would be gone and the final chapter would be written in bloody hand-to-hand combat.

Mexico City College President Honored

Dr. Paul V. Murray, founder and president of Mexico City College, was honored at a reception by Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity Tuesday evening.

Dr. Murray and his wife have been touring and lecturing at prominent colleges throughout the country to interest students in courses offered at the college. The school primarily offers a liberal arts course and particularly specializes in anthropology, languages, social work, and fine arts.

Mexico City College is the only school of its kind in Latin America and offers courses for both bachelor and master of arts degrees. According to Dr. Murray, the school attempts to combine in its curriculum unique courses not offered elsewhere.

The entire program offers an American educational environment and provides a personal contact with the Mexican people, he said.

The college replaces the usual dormitory system with lodging in approved houses to facilitate learning of languages and about people.

Besides the regular three terms the college also offers a summer workshop designed for teachers or any student interested in Latin American problems.

Fraternity Sing Entries Due Today

The entry and song-choosing deadline for the annual Fraternity Sing is 8:30 tonight, according to Bob Hall, publicity chairman.

A meeting will be held at that time in 35 Union. Representatives from fraternities wishing to enter, withdraw or choose songs must be present, he said.

Each fraternity will be allowed an eight-minute program composed of two songs. Present plans include broadcasting the Sing over radio stations WJIM and WKAR.

Sixteen fraternities have entered: Delta Sigma Phi, Alpha Gamma Rho, Beta Theta Pi, Psi Upsilon, Sigma Chi, Phi Kappa Tau, Kappa Sigma, Delta Chi and Theta Xi.

Others entered are: FarmHouse, Delta Upsilon, Delta Tau Delta, Alpha Tau Omega, Theta Chi, Pi Kappa Phi and Lambda Chi Alpha.

Three judges, none of them associated with the college, will not be disclosed until the night of the Sing, Hall added.

Coeds Campused After Car Accident

The dean of students office last week reported the camping of two coeds involved in an accident April 17 when the car in which they were riding overturned.

The students were returning from a party in Mason, the office reported.

Two students picked up near the Red Cedar with liquor in their possession were suspended last week, Dean of Students Tom King said.

Former Charge Covers Wrangle

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy accused Secretary of the Army Stevens Tuesday of "not giving us the facts" in their bitter dispute. Stevens heatedly denied it, and the fourth day of televised public hearings opened on that angry note.

At the outset, Stevens' lawyer accused the McCarthy forces of "shamefully doctored" photographs they put into evidence, and the McCarthy forces retorted Stevens ordered the pictures taken to butter up McCarthy and put a damper on his investigation of the Army.

The picture showed that G. David Schuler, the drafted McCarthy aide, with the aide with Stevens. The Army secretary's counsel, Joseph N. Welch Jr., produced an unretouched version showing two other men were standing with Schuler and Stevens when the picture was taken.

Off and on, disputes over these poster-size photographs flared up all day, while TV cameras recorded every maneuver in the fast-shifting probe by the Senate investigations subcommittee.

Then, to cap it all, McCarthy tangled with Stevens over a report the Army made last month accusing the senator and two aides—John and Francis G. McCarthy—of bringing "irresponsible persons" to get special treatment for drafted soldiers.

This is where McCarthy charged Stevens with omission of facts. He said the Army secretaries replied: "It possibly does anything I said here was not the facts, so far as I know."

McCarthy continued Stevens told the charges against the McCarthy aide to halt their hearing on alleged espionage at Ft. Monmouth, N. J. Stevens said that just wasn't so—the Army made its report, he said, in response to a request from Sen. Butler (R-Mich.).

McCarthy also hammered on another point: He proposed that the "irresponsible" charges against McCarthy be thrown out as "unsubstantiated" since Stevens wouldn't quote anything McCarthy said to him by way of setting the record for Schuler.

Stevens asked for and got permission to "think overnight" before saying what charges he personally wants to press against McCarthy. But acting chairman, Mundt (R-SD) said the charges will stand at least until the end of the hearings. There won't be any "piecemeal" disposition of these charges, Mundt declared.

(One new name came into the inquiry—that of newspaper columnist George Sokolsky.)

Stevens named Sokolsky as the hitherto unidentified person reported to have hinted last February that if the Army gave liberal treatment to Schuler, McCarthy would tone down or maybe call off his Ft. Monmouth investigation. The Army secretary said this information was given him by Army counsel John G. Adams.

In the day's other major development, Stevens labeled "completely false" the McCarthy charge that he and associates tried through Schuler to "black-mail" the subcommittee into dropping its troop guide.

Stevens went on to say, one after another, a series of McCarthy allegations against him, and did so after Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) told him somewhat in this case is laying himself open to personal charges.

McCarthy's chief counsel, Ray M. Cohn, denied any attempt to deceive the subcommittee and argued it didn't matter "one iota" whether Stevens and Schuler were along in the picture or not.

Double-Helping

A double helping of current opinion on international problems will be served to Spartans May 9 and 10.

Sen. William Fulbright (D-Ark) will speak on the international outlook on Sunday May 9 at 7:30 p.m. On the following evening the Spartan World Forum will begin with three eminent speakers discussing "Economic Assistance in Answer to World Communism."

The panel members are Stanley Andrews, Samuel Hayes and Dr. Hassan Dawood. Backgrounds of the three provide plenty of evidence that they are well qualified to discuss economic aid.

Andrews is the former director of the Point Four Program which sent aid in machinery and materials to foreign countries. At present he is the executive director of the National Project in Agriculture Communications stationed at MSC.

Hayes formerly directed Economic Aid to Indochina. Now he is the executive director of the Institute of Human Behavior.

Dr. Dawood is a member of the Egyptian Embassy in Washington.

And both programs will be served on a silver platter, free to MSC students.

Fulbright, as a member of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, should give a sharp analysis of the international situation as it exists today.

In contrast to the recent congressional cut in funds for educational exchange programs, Fulbright, as author of the Fulbright Scholarship plan, stands as a champion of international aid through education.

The Fulbright scholarships allow American students to study in Europe for one year and bring European students to America for the same length of time.

Spartan World Forum, copied after the American Forum of the Air, will give students a chance to question well-known authorities on particular phases of economic assistance. Attendance at this program will either kill or insure a future series of forums on other current problems.

All three panel members of the Forum, which is being sponsored by student government, are donating their time and effort, indication enough that the forum idea has high merit.

The Fulbright program is being sponsored in connection with International Week, by student government and the Lecture-Concert Series. Along with the new Forum Series, the sponsorship of this program marks a sharp step in the right direction for the government.

Academic Benefits have finally been accepted as an important aspect of the student's activity.

With war raging in Indochina, statesmen striving desperately for peace at Geneva, and the question of free academic thought continually popping up at American colleges and universities, there can be no reason or excuse for student apathy concerning international problems.

Attendance at these programs should be important to every student. It will decide the fate of similar programs in the future.

A New Idea

Junior Council is planning to hold a coffee hour at which all candidates for senior office will be present to meet the electorate.

This is a fresh idea, and a good one.

Too often in past class elections, students have had little chance to get acquainted with candidates. The only criterion for voters has been the quality and quantity of bright posters displayed on campus, surely an inadequate one.

The coffee hour should be a relaxing and informal means of "knowing your candidates." It would be well if students demonstrated approval of the idea and curiosity about the students who will lead the class through its senior year by showing up.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Pat A. Yaroch

"I somehow managed to ignore his advances last term."

Then I Thought

By Pat A. Yaroch

State News Editor-in-Chief

"A graduating senior," she said, eyeing me as if I'd said "President Eisenhower."

"Yes," I replied in an embarrassed tone. (Even with three weeks of practice I still haven't gotten used to this type of admiration.)

She went on ripping the razor edge over my dripping hair and between slashes went on to explain that she wished she were in my place. "You must be very happy," she said. "I'm just a first term freshman. I got out of the Navy three months ago."

"Oh," was all that I could offer as a reply to that.

During the rest of the hair-cutting episode she explained that she had been stationed at three bases in the southern part of the U. S., spending most of her time in Florida. Now, she was going to major in psychology at State.

I somehow managed to act properly impressed with my important standing in the academic world long enough to get through the entire haircut; but it has been on my mind ever since. Just what is it that happened to a little over 3,000 of us during spring vacation that made us so "special?"

I feel pretty much like the same person. My arms, legs and nose all seem to be in the same place. Test answers don't come to me like a gift from above at the proper time.

Still, I guess I'm supposed to feel different. But for the life of me I can't figure out why.

Just that is so great about being a graduating senior? From what I've heard during these four years of the world outside, I don't think anyone is handing it to us on a gold-plated platter. I've heard rumblings of demons with Irish names and bombs called by letters that could wipe out all of the graduating seniors in the United States without any extended effort.

But, I know whether we move out into this calm little globe or not isn't our choice. We have reached the time when graduating is just 39 days away. Now we will go out and see some of the things that were a part of that awed freshman's life for the past two years.

Don't get me wrong. I'm as filled with ideals and high hopes as any graduate has ever been. But, sometimes, in the dead of night, I do have a tinge of doubt that I'm going to make any bigger dent on the face of world affairs than any other "graduating senior" who walked out of this cozy little world into the hectic one awaiting us.

Mural Muddle

To the Editor:

An open letter to Glen Washburn.

I was amused to read that you had a good laugh about the mural in the Union Grill. I venture to say that I had a better laugh at your spirit of patriotism for volunteering to remove the present mural and replacing it with one of your own.

You profess to be an artist; does this also qualify you to play the role of a hot-headed critic?

It was not possible for me to secure the exact percentage of students who are art majors, but I am sure that they are not a majority group on campus. Of this group how many have to expose themselves to this "middle low brow scrawling?"

As for the rest of us, the mural serves its purpose very well. It not only tells a little of MSC's history, but it gives a collegiate atmosphere to a spot on campus where it is most needed. It portrays very typically many scenes of our campus that will be remembered long after our college days are over.

A Challenge

To the Editor:

Attention sophomore class:

The Frosh-Soph Field Day looms up in the near future. Come forth, wise fools, on that eventful day, with banners in your hearts. Don't get under your beds on that first day of May; the cockroaches are smaller than you.

Face your equals or better, as the case may be, and while you retreat from the ground pole and follow in the path of the Frosh, be convinced that we Frosh are not satisfied at heart.

We shall attempt to alleviate any suffering, and as you face your fate, you will do so with our most profound sympathy.

Plan your strategy for the tug of war; the entire school will look on as the mighty teams strain toward victory. Should your strategy be all wet, never despair; you may find merit in the canoe race.

As you paddle toward victory, we voters will await you. When you arrive at the goal, we Frosh will admire you for your fine sportsmanship and your valiant effort.

Don't let your spirits be dimmed—yet. Accept this challenge in good faith, and just try to prove that the Frosh are better men than the Frosh. We stand ready to meet you and await the event with happy, confident expectation.

Good luck (if luck helps)

Required Courses

To the Editor:

So Governor Williams has decided to add another required subject to the MSC curriculum. The number of required courses is getting to be rather high. There are now required four Basic College subjects, physical education, ROTC, and the courses required by each separate department.

The choice of political science seems to be rather foolish. The third term of social science is devoted mainly to political science—hence the four credits stipulated.

According to Mr. Weidner, in a recent State News, the poli sci would "bridge a serious gap in the education of our future voters."

Maybe a history course might be helpful in giving the "future voters" the background on the questions on which they will be voting.

Communication Skills is just an overlong rehash of high school English; and anyone with three or four years of science in high school is familiar with the subject matter taught in natural science.

Maybe what we need are orientation tests for each required subject, with a certain resulting grade exempting the student from that subject (like the track's physical ed swimming test). Or maybe the college ought to have a stricter entrance requirement, so if these subjects must be taken, they can be offered at a higher level of instruction and information.

Kitchenette Snacks Easy to Fix

Plate Recipes

By CAROL LARSON

With the new cooking facilities, students have a chance to "whip up" simple between-meal snacks. Standbys of fudge, hot coffee plus the new recipes for chocolate cream puddings and burgers can all be made on the hot plate.

Only things needed are the hot plate, a pan, a spoon, knife and the necessary ingredients.

With the exception of Mennonite and Abbot, all future cooking facilities are kitchenettes equipped with hot plate, sink and cupboards for cooking utensils.

For most "easy-to-fix" meals, chocolate cream pudding is a good bet. To prepare, melt chocolate in a pan, add milk and stir until smooth.

This Is Living

By JEAN GREGORY

Spring term—it's great. The trees are budding, boys are meeting girls, days are getting longer and vacation is only seven weeks away.

I hate to interrupt the reverie, but I feel it's my duty to remind students of a practical view of this lovely scene.

1. Old Sol looks inviting but he can play havoc with the complexion. For the first week or two of sunbathing, it's wise to take it easy. After all, what's the point of getting a burn, having it peel and then starting all over again?

2. The grass is green now but won't stay that way unless pedestrians heed the SOG signs.

3. Canoe rides are fun but a dunking in the cold, dirty Red Cedar isn't. Besides, it costs a buck if you overturn a canoe.

4. In case you've given the furniture in your room harder use than is normal, you had better get handy with a patch-up kit. That 10-dollar room refund could come in handy.

5. I do hate to mention this, but think of the expenses this term. There will be Mother's Day, Father's Day, graduation and wedding gifts to buy. It will probably take you all summer to get out of debt.

6. Then there's that job you really should get this summer. This is a good time to get in applications for employment. (Isn't there something awfully distasteful about that word "employment"?)

Now I could completely ruin the day by mentioning studying—but I won't.

Fraternity Review

Publications Included In Greek Traditions

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a weekly series of articles dealing with the activities and histories of fraternities on the MSU campus.)

By MARILYN MINION

What makes each fraternity so different? Traditions, members' vocations and the group's activities all contribute to give each one a somewhat "individualistic air."

Highlighting Alpha Chi Sigma's yearly program is an annual athletic contest with the U of M chapter. Each year the two chapters meet in football, basketball and softball. A traveling trophy is awarded to the winner of two out of the three games.

Alpha Chi Sigma was founded nationally in 1902 and locally in 1928. Its 56 members all plan to go into vocations dealing with chemistry or have taken two years of college chemistry.

Included in the fraternity's activities are a party for underprivileged children, a faculty and graduate student picnic for the chemistry department and a newspaper which is published once a year. The men also participate in the Alpha Chi Sigma national program for industry and laboratory safety.

The David Dewey Smith award is given annually to the senior who has done the most for the fraternity scholastically and in campus activities.

Interesting features of the Alpha Gamma Rho house are its private barber and house combo. The combo has played not only for fraternity parties but for local high school dances as well.

Tau chapter of Alpha Gamma Rho, which was founded on campus in 1922, has 63 members. The national fraternity was established in 1904 at Ohio State.

University and the University of Illinois.

The AGR's hold a Christmas party for underprivileged children every year. Another annual activity is the publication of a paper for 540 alumni.

Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity claims men who major in everything from wood industrialization to history. One member plays interior decorator for the house by drawing pictures for the men's rooms.

The fraternity was founded nationally in 1913 at New York University and locally in 1934.

The 40 members of Alpha Epsilon Pi participate in baseball and basketball games with the Zeta Beta Tau every year. They also publish a newspaper every term.

Sorority to Hold Chapter State Day

Alpha Omicron Pi will play host to representatives from four other chapters at its annual State Day Saturday.

University of Michigan, Western Michigan College, University of Toronto and University of Toledo delegates will be entertained at Luncheon in Union Auditorium and at tea Saturday afternoon.

Illini Nine to Undergo Shuffle

By ED SLOBODNIK
After a double loss to Minnesota Saturday, word from Champaign has it that the University of Illinois baseball team, Big 10 defending co-champions, will undergo a thorough lineup reshuffling for their game with the Spartans here Friday.

Illini Coach Lee Ellbracht's objective is additional hitting power. "Our pitching is good enough to make up a winning team," Ellbracht said, "but we must come up with better hitting if we want to stay in running for the title."

The Illini managed only 10 hits in 25 innings against Iowa and Minnesota last weekend.

Captain Ron Ultes, regular outfielder for two seasons, may be moved to second base, and first baseman Steve Sibons shifted to the outfield.

Ron West is expected to remain in rightfield. The other outfield slot will be filled by either Mike Malsud or Danny Dudas.

Joe Fitzgerald, who has been tried at third and second, may get the nod at shortstop Friday. Ellbracht, reportedly disappointed with veteran shortstop Vince Feigenbutz' performance, is expected to nominate Fitzgerald because of his occasional heavy hitting.

John Sabalskey, a right-hander, has been elected to pitch against the Spartans. Sabalskey, who dubs as an outfielder, got credit for the Illini's victory over Iowa Friday after relieving lefty-starter Gerry Smith.

Last year, Sabalskey led all Illinois hitters with a .297 batting average, playing leftfield and only occasionally called upon for relief.

This will be the fourth meeting between these two teams since 1952, and their only scheduled encounter this season. The Illini hold a 2-1 edge, winning 12 to 1 in the first of two games, and 2 to 1 last year. The Spartans took the second 1952 game 1 to 0.

MSC football next fall may well turn into an aerial circus.

All of the five Spartan quarterbacks have one thing in common: they can pass.

Long passes, short passes, running passes, fast passes or slow passes, they can throw any kind that is needed.

The squad also possesses the other prerequisite for filling the air with footballs, successfully: someone to catch them.

But, most important, they have the passers.

Nick Gavrilu Heads Weight-lifting Team

Nick Gavrilu, 165-pound North American weight-lifting champion and 1953 Junior National A.A.U. champion, will lead Michigan State's weight-lifting team Saturday when it meets Notre Dame and University of Kentucky in the Tri-State meet at South Bend, Ind.

Winner of the Junior National A.A.U. team title in 1953, the Spartans will be in the "favorite" role for the three-way duel.

Representing the Spartans, in addition to Gavrilu, will be Ned Blakken, 152 pounds, Dave Austin, 148 pounds, Emmanuel H. H. 142 pounds, Raymond Smith, 141 pounds, and Harry E. Smith, 141 pounds.

Three Olympic lifts, the two hand military press, two hand snatch and the two hand clean and jerk, will be used in the competition.

The two hand military press is a test of shoulder strength while the two hand snatch and the two hand clean and jerk is a test of agility and co-ordination.

Each lifter will be allowed three attempts on each of the lifts.

Bevo, Oliver Turn Pro, Sign With Saperstein

NEW YORK (P) — Bevo Francis, the fabulous basketball record breaker of Little Rio Grande College of Ohio, has signed as a professional along with his coach, Newt Oliver, for a package deal of approximately $30,000.

Al Saperstein, promoter of the Harlem Globetrotters and other enterprises, engaged Francis and Oliver on behalf of his Boston Whirlwinds, an independent team. Their contract, signed Monday, is for one year with an option for the second.

Francis was expelled from Rio Grande April 12 for scholarship reasons shortly after he declared "the bills are piling up" and that he might need to go to work. Oliver then resigned as basketball coach and athletic director.

Saperstein, the rotund mastermind of the touring Globetrotters, announced his deal with Francis and Oliver at a press luncheon and to make it dramatic, presented a bushel basket containing $4,000 in one dollar bills to the pair.

Last season Francis made 1,255 points in 27 games for a 46.5 average—a new record for small college players.

Injured 'Campy' To Catch Brooklyn Ace

Brooklyn Ace Has Bad Hand

NEW YORK (P) — Roy Campanella, Brooklyn's slugger, has been playing for the first two weeks of the season with a broken left hand, it was learned Monday.

E. J. Ravan, Dodgers vice-president, admitted the injury when asked but added, "It isn't as serious as it sounds."

In St. Louis, where the Dodgers opened their first Western swing of the season Tuesday night, Campanella said he'd continue to play everyday, but that if the hand didn't get better "maybe they'll call in a doctor and put it in a cast or something."

Campanella, the National League's most valuable player for 1953, has caught every inning of the 11 Dodger games played this season. But he is hitting only .163 with only one hit in his last 20 times at bat.

Campanella was hit by a pitched ball during the early exhibition season but did not believe he had been seriously injured.

Herbert Shaw of Bell Telephone Co. shows one of the new phone number lists to Bill Frizzell, Grosse Pointe Junior.

Bell Telephone To List Most Used Numbers

Somebody's got your number! He is Herbert Shaw, assistant manager of Bell Telephone Co. who is in charge of placing cards listing the most frequently called numbers on campus in 350 local telephone booths.

The cards, containing all dormitory, fraternity and sorority house numbers, are being provided to give better service to the students, Shaw said.

He expects every telephone booth in East Lansing to be equipped with the cards in a glass case within 40 days.

International Convo

Barry to Address Student Conference

Bill Barry, Syracuse junior, will give the keynote address at the opening session of the International Students Executive Congress in Lake Placid, N. Y., Friday.

Barry, director of Academic Benefits for the student government, will be Michigan State's representative at the Congress which he helped originate two years ago.

Representatives from about 50 schools throughout the world are expected to attend, Barry said. Student government leaders from Niagara, West Africa, Cambridge University in England, Mexico City College, and several Canadian schools are expected, he said.

Barry's subject at the general session will be "Comparative Self-government Techniques: Large and Small Universities." Other features of the conference include four student panel discussions and two faculty panels Saturday, a dinner-dance Saturday night and a closing general session Sunday afternoon.

Copies of the State News, Wolverine, and Heloi will be taken to the Congress for judging in open competition.

As president of the student government at Paul Smith's College, Paul Smith, N. Y., Barry got the idea for and planned the first conference two years ago. Approximately 30 schools were represented then, he said.

The Congress is sponsored by Paul Smith's College and the Lake Placid Club Educational Foundation. Special speakers will be Dr. Chester L. Buxton, president of Paul Smith's College, and Dr. Godfrey Dewey, president of the Lake Placid Foundation.

Campus Driving Student Wins Decision on Sheriff's Ticket

ANN ARBOR (AP)—Washtenaw sheriff deputies do not have the authority to enforce the University of Michigan's ban on driving on campus, Washtenaw County Prosecutor Edmund D. Devine said Sunday.

The decision arose after Richard Phillips Jr., a U of M junior, protested a ticket given him by a deputy for driving without a special permit. He contended that since he did not violate any county or state law, the deputy had no right to stop him.
