McCarthy To Attend Hearings

Denies Boycott Over Ike's Order

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy said Thursday night he will be on hand Monday when the Senate investigations subcommittee resumes its televised hearing on his row with Army officials. But he added that he could "make no promises" as to other steps he might take in protest against a presidential secrecy order which, the senator contends, "stacks the deck" against him.

There had been speculation McCarthy might boycott the hearing in view of President Eisenhower's refusal to modify an order forbidding White House aides and other high officials to testify about a Jan. 21 meeting in which they discussed the Army's troubles with McCarthy and assistants.

McCarthy contends this forced him in an attempt to inquire into Army charges that he and aides brought improper pressure in behalf of favors for Pvt. G. David Schine.

Secretary of the Army Stevens said that he did not act on orders from any higher-ups, but on his own responsibility in bringing the charges.

Late Thursday, Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.), acting chairman of the subcommittee said Stevens would be called back to the witness stand Monday and invited to repeat this statement under oath.

At the time Mundt talked to reporters, he had received no information from McCarthy as to the latter's plans.

Mundt did say the investigators have every expectation the investigation now will be continued with out any lengthy delays such as the one this week.

Mundt said Stevens will be required to testify on one matter only—the question of responsibility for the Army's charge that McCarthy and aides sought by proper means to get favored treatment for Schine, a former subcommittee aide.

The Army secretary then will be subject to questioning on this point, Mundt said. Then the plan is that he will turn the witness chair back to Army Counsel John G. Adams, who occupied it when the hearings recessed three days ago.

Stevens spent all or part of 14 days on the stand before he was excused for treatment of a sinus infection.

The McCarthy camp charges the Army used Schine as a "hostage" in an attempt to choke off an investigation of alleged Communist infiltration in the Army.

Arnold Warren as Leontes, Nancy Lou Parker as Hermione, and Patricia Davies as Paulina go through a part of "The Winter's Tale," which opened Thursday.

Smooth Performance 'The Winter's Tale' Called Magical

Superb integration of acting, costumes and setting, sound and lighting effects produced a magical quality in the telling of Shakespeare's "The Winter's Tale" at Thursday night's Fairchild opening.

Prof. Nevil Coghill, distinguished visiting lecturer and the play's director, succeeded in bringing out not only the best in the actors, but in combining all the phases of production into a delightful and beautiful whole.

Except for the few expected opening night line muffins and technical difficulties, like an echoing microphone during the first part of the play, "Winter's Tale" proved extremely smooth-running.

Arnold Warren Jr., as King Leontes, and his queen, Hermione, Nancy Lou Parker, were among the majority who gave outstanding performances.

Warren's performance as the jealous monarch carried great conviction, especially notable being the scenes in which he is stricken with grief and remorse.

Miss Parker gave a quietly performance in reality as well as fantasy scenes.

Polyxenes, king of Bohemia, portrayed by Stan Willis, was properly grave and convincing as the wronged friend, and later as the wrathful father who finds his son, the prince, in love with a shepherdess.

The young lovers, Perdita and Florizel, proved tender without overdoing it, as acted by Bill Galarno and Marion Sump.

A surprising performance was turned in by the youngest member of the cast, David Lawson, son of natural science department head Chester A. Lawson. See REVIEW, Page 4

Wiley Calls For Parley On Arms

Monroe Doctrine Use Advocated

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nicaragua raised the possibility Thursday of invoking Western Hemisphere mutual defense and anti-Communist pacts against a "well-conceived Communist-type plan" in Central America.

Nicaraguan Ambassador Guillermo Sevilla Sacasa advanced the idea in a formal statement that mentioned among other events an arms shipment from Red Poland to leftist Guatemala which has brought expressions of concern from President Eisenhower, the U. S. State Department, and members of Congress.

Chairman Wiley (R-Wis.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee again called for "immediate consultation" among all the American nations on the arms shipment.

Sen. Smathers (D-Fla.) proposed in a Senate speech that this country invoke the Monroe Doctrine against the shipment and "Communist infiltration into other Latin American countries." He, too, recommended conferences with our neighbors "on prosperity and development as well as mutual defense."

The doctrine set up by President Monroe warns nations outside this hemisphere against attempts to colonize or extend their political system to North or South America.

Wiley said that so far as he has heard, the cargo of Communist arms Guatemala got from Poland is the "greatest ever to arrive at any port anywhere in the Americas."

Sevilla Sacasa said the shipment described by other diplomatic informants as including at least 30 carloads of fighting gear and ammunition is "excessive" for Guatemalan needs and "threatens the peace of Central America and the security of the hemisphere." His view that the shipment is excessive coincides with that of some U. S. officials.

Nicaragua cut off diplomatic relations with Guatemala Wednesday, charging that Guatemala used its Managua embassy to distribute Red propaganda and helped Communist infiltration in other ways.

Both the Nicaraguan ambassador and the U. S. State Department reportedly are trying out the idea of bringing into play the 1947 Mutual Defense Treaty of Rio de Janeiro and the anti-Communist declaration adopted in an inter-American conference at Caracas, Venezuela, in March.

These provide not only for consultation but also for definite action, if the American republics wish to take it, against threats from overseas or from internal Communism.

Sevilla Sacasa conferred with Secretary of State Dulles for 20 minutes Thursday.

The ambassador told reporters he didn't refer to invoking the Rio pact or Caracas resolution but spoke in general of the Communist threat as a "very grave" menace to Central America and the entire hemisphere.

The State Department withheld comment on the break between Nicaragua and Guatemala.

But it did ask the Swedish government to investigate use of the Swedish freighter Alfhelm to haul the arms cargo from Stettin in Communist-dominated Poland to the Guatemalan port of Puerto Barrios.

The Rio mutual defense pact can be invoked only by a majority of the 21 American nations and its enforcement provisions can be put into effect only by the consent of two-thirds.

Golf Team To Play U of D

The Michigan State golf team will go out after its first win in the last three starts, Saturday, when they meet the University of Detroit at Detroit.

The linksters dropped a triangular meet to Michigan and Ohio State last Saturday and a dual meet to Michigan Monday, for their first defeats of the regular season.

The two teams show promise of a good, even match since they both list among their victories, a win over the Notre Dame squad.

Coach Ben Van Alstyne, in an effort to bring his charges back into the win column, has announced a slight shift in the lineup. Replacing regular Bob Rivest will be Dave Humes.

Thinlads Meet Wolves In Warm-Up for Finals

Michigan State's track team will meet Michigan this afternoon at Ann Arbor in a dual meet designed to give both teams a good workout before the Big 10 meet next weekend.

There will be no team score taken in the four relay and nine individual event meet. Both Karl Schlademan, Spartan mentor, and Don Carhart have arranged the events according to experimental needs in a hope of getting a better look at what they will have ready for the conference test a week from Saturday at Purdue.

Today's meet will also give Schlademan a chance to see how 440-man Lou Vargha's leg has responded to treatment. Vargha has been sidelined most of the indoor and outdoor season.

Kevan Gosper's leg also has recovered well enough to allow him to run both today and next Saturday.

MSC Team To Debate With Indiana

A Big 10 series debate with the University of Indiana will be held at 4 this afternoon in 146 Auditorium.

Roger Needham, Lansing sophomore, and Jack Subar, East Lansing junior, will argue the statement "Investigations of subversives should be turned over to the FBI" with two Indiana debaters.

This is the second of four debates in the Big 10 series for MSC. Each year two Big 10 contests are held here and MSC debaters travel to two other Big 10 schools.

Illinois debaters already have visited MSC in the series. Meets with Purdue and Ohio University at these schools are coming up, said Frederick G. Alexander, instructor of speech.

The purpose of these debates is to get away from tournament debating without audiences and to encourage more people to hear important questions discussed, Alexander said.
