Exam week will end Friday bringing relief to the students, and the weatherman predicts a simultaneous relief of the cold weather which has settled over East Lansing this week. Although it will be partly cloudy, the temperature will hover at about 80 degrees. Slickers can be packed away and Bermudas donned, for no rain is expected.

Museum Director Succumbs

Stack Noted For Zoological Works

Professor Joseph William Stack, 61-year-old director of the MSC museum, died Tuesday morning, after an extended illness. He had entered a local hospital on Aug. 7, suffering from a stomach ailment. Prof. Stack was graduated from Notre Dame University with a B. S. degree in 1915 and returned to obtain his M. S. degree in 1918. Associated with MSC since 1915, he had taught zoology, physiology, geology and ornithology, and he became curator of the then tiny museum in 1924.

Prof. Stack took over the directorship of the museum in 1941.

Over the past three years Stack had been working on a section within the main museum which will depict Michigan's progress in agriculture.

Nationally known for his zoological work, he was the founder of one of the nation's first bird-banding stations here in 1924. Prof. Stack was a past president of the Inland Bird-Banding Association and also of the Wilson Ornithological club, the Central Michigan Notre Dame club and was on the advisory board of the Michigan Audubon society.

He was a member of the American Association of Museums, Midwest Museums Conference, and the American Association for Advancement of Science.

Prof. Stack leaves his widow, a son and a daughter, four grandchildren, a brother and three sisters.

Cockrell Attends Industrial Seminar

James L. Cockrell, assistant professor of electrical engineering, is attending a Westinghouse seminar which started Monday in Pittsburgh, Pa.

He is one of 37 guest educators—college professors and instructors from all over the country, who will tour several plants in the Pittsburgh area and discuss problems of present day engineering developments.

Many of the 37 have been working since mid-June at plants of Westinghouse Electric Corporation as part of an annual industrial experience program. The theme of the seventh annual seminar is "New Horizons."

Summer Program Rated Top

Over 75 Skaters In All-Star Cast

By GINNY SOBOTKA

"Ice Time" is here again. The annual summer ice show will open at 8:30 tonight at the Ice Arena in Demonstration Hall. Performances will also be given Friday and Saturday nights. The ice show is sponsored by the Lansing Skating Club.

Seventy-five skaters from the United States and Canada have spent the summer practicing in make this one of the biggest and best shows to be shown here, according to Norris Wold, arena manager.

Raymond Blommer, the Mid-Western Senior Men's Champion, will be the star of this year's show. Blommer will display the skating form which secured the figure skating championship for him.

The program, composed of 15 scenes, will start with a Salute to the Armed Forces, featuring Sue Ingers, Elaine Gezer, Betty Edwards and Gail Kizer.

Thirty-two skaters between the ages of five and 17 will skate in "Cinderella." Patsy Edwards and Frank Mackian are the featured skaters in this production.

After a short intermission, a Southern number, including a "Plantation Party" scene, will make up the third production.

Skating duo Karen Olson and Frank Chad, Cleveland, Ohio, junior, will dance on ice to "Slaughter on Tenth Avenue."

The Eastern Senior Men's Champion, Bradley Lord, of Boston, Mass., will show his skill in a solo number.

"Carnival in Venice" featuring Raymond Blommer and Tony Hoonhout, backed by a cast of 32, will be the finale.

Michael Kirby, Montgomery, Wilson, Ansa, McLachlan and Marilyn Thomsen, four of the nation's top professionals aided the skaters in pointing up the finer points in skating.

Featured in the cast of more than 75 skaters are nine MSC students. They are Margaret Manchester, Ypsilanti, junior; Lee Timmer, Muskegon, 1954 graduate; Robert Van Wesemael, Detroit, junior; James Russell, Lakewood, Ohio, senior; Ned Jones, Ann Arbor, junior; Claire Waters, East Lansing, sophomore; William Mercer, Glen Haven, junior; Jan Howell, Lansing, sophomore and Chad.

Direction of "Ice Time" is handled by Miss Jean Allen, a former ice revue star and now proprietor of an ice arena in Dallas, Texas.

Tickets for the ice show are on sale at the ice arena ticket office.

Art Exhibitions To Open in Fall

Art lovers will find a full program of exhibits and a lecture available at MSC this fall.

Paintings done by students at the Leelanau Summer Art School will be shown from Sept. 15 to Oct. 8.

During the same time period, an exhibition by the American Federation of Arts called "Approaches to Drawing" will be shown in the Art Building on South Campus. These drawings and prints are by American art students.

Dr. J. S. Dela Fajle from the Netherlands will present a lecture on Oct. 27. The topic of his talk will be Vincent Van Gogh.

Legislature Gives OK to Prison Project

The Michigan Legislature voted Wednesday to appropriate $400,000 to build an outside dormitory for Ionia Reformatory.

The House and Senate, working on emergency measures, voted for a special one-day session, voted for less than the $600,000 that Gov. Williams originally requested, but it is well above the quarter of a million he asked for a few weeks ago.

However, Williams' request for $219,000 to pay 116 additional guards and probation personnel was ignored by the legislature.

The proposed dormitory will contain 150 beds for Ionia inmates on outside assignments. A compromise was reached over the question of whether the dormitory would be built on a single-cell pattern when the House added the provision that at least 78 be individual and the rest be subject to conversion.

Two other proposals were acted upon favorably by the lawmakers.

Both houses gave unanimous approval to a change in the employment security law, revised during the regular session. The correction was made to include "spouses" among beneficiaries if the family wage earner is jobless.

A third act permits the State Health Department to bring to the public the benefits of a new antibiotic drug just developed for typhoid, called "synematin."

The act allows the department to enter contracts with private concerns for the manufacture, sale and further research on the drug. The contracts are subject to Administration Board approval, however.

Crowe Elected NACM Veep

Dean Stanley E. Crowe, director of the MSC lecture-concert series, has been elected as one of two vice presidents of the National Association of Concert Managers.

Other officers chosen for 1954 at the sixth annual convention in New York were: William K. Huff, president; Roland E. Chesley, vice president; Emma Feldman, treasurer; and Julius Bloom, secretary.

Registration Heavy For Ad Meeting

Sales Promotion Draws Most Interest

Leaders in the advertising field in Michigan and the mid-west have been secured to serve as workshop aides for the third annual Advertising Management Conference which promises to draw a record group to MSC, Sept. 25 and 26. Advance registrations have been heavy and the conference should top the 1953 total of 100.

Registrants have checked "sales promotion" as the topic they are most interested in discussing. The group has been pulled on its interests, and leaders have been obtained for those sessions. William Aaron, merchandising director of George H. Hartman Company, Chicago, will lead the sales promotion session.

Wilfred A. Peterson, of the Jaqua Company, Grand Rapids, will direct a much-requested seminar on "How to Get Advertising Ideas." E. M. Cray, assistant sales manager of the Dux-Therm Division, Motor Wheel Corporation, Lansing, will head the session on merchandising; Herbert Kaslow, of the A. C. Nielsen Company, Chicago, on market research; and L. J. Purcell, vice-president, Director of Marketing and Research, Batten, Barton, Durstine, and Osborn, New York, on advertising evaluation.

The two-day conference will also cover graphic arts production, departmental management, publicity, budgeting, direct mail, and media.

The conference is designed for officials and employees of advertising firms, business and industrial advertising departments, newspapers, and allied firms. Registration blanks and additional information may be obtained from Continuing Education Service.

ROTCCourse Scheduled At Kellogg

Instructors Meet For Orientation

MSC has been selected as the site for a Fifth Army ROTC Instructor Orientation Course this summer. Sixty-five instructors of college and high school ROTC units in Michigan will enroll at Kellogg Center, August 30 for the one-week course.

ROTC instructors who have been with the program for less than a year and those who will begin their first instructor duties this fall will be required to attend.

The course is for the ROTC instructors at Central Michigan College, Western Michigan College, State Normal Colleges, University of Detroit, University of Michigan, Michigan State College, and the Detroit and Grand Rapids high school systems.

Col. Harry W. Gorman, head of the Army ROTC at MSC, will be in charge.

The course will cover 40 hours of classroom work, including 25 hours of methods of instruction to help the men with the techniques of teaching. The balance of the work will cover various phases of ROTC operation.

Men from this area were sent to Camp Carson, Colo., for this course last year.

Preview "Frosh" Issue Clears Air

If freshmen don't stand out on campus this fall, it's because they have again been "clued in" by the special Freshman Edition of the State News.

Containing most of the why's, where's, do's and don'ts at MSC, the 32-page paper is sent to all prospective freshmen and transfer students.

Seven thousand copies will be run off the press this year and mailed to the incoming students who are designated on mailing lists obtained from the Registrar's Office.

The paper is divided into four sections, each of which has eight pages. Features cover everything from new coffee cups in the Union Grill to the traditions of Beaumont Tower. The society section tells coeds what type of wearing apparel to pack in their suitcases, and also explains sorority and fraternity activities on campus.

This year general news will contain several articles about the centennial year, and a helpful guide to steer freshmen through the throngs at registration.

Sports will feature many pictures of various athletic activities, plus a schedule of fall football games.

Edited by Jack Kole, editor-in-chief of the State News, and Bob Herman, managing editor, the paper will be dated Friday, Sept. 3.

Regular staffers contributed much of the copy before leaving for summer vacation.

According to Kole, the main purpose of the edition is to give students a personal glimpse of life at MSC and to give helpful hints that will make things run smoother for them once they arrive.

The special issue was regular size before the war, but was later cut down to a 5-column tabloid size due to the paper shortage.

In the fall of 1947 it was returned to the present size.

Due to the limited press run, the issue will not be available to students already enrolled at MSC or to the general public.

229 Seniors Complete Work For Diplomas

The end of the undergraduate trail will come to 229 MSC seniors this Friday.

Although most of them went through graduation ceremonies on June 6, they did not receive their diplomas at that time. According to registration officials, these 229 will have fulfilled the requirements for graduation and their diplomas will be mailed to them, along with their grade sheet, and a photostatic copy of their MSC record.

There are 267 candidates for advanced degrees. These diplomas will also be mailed to the students, said John Corbin of the seniors office.

If the candidate has filled the requirements for a teacher's certificate, he will find that enclosed in his diploma envelope, too, said Corbin.

Corbin said that the grading process should be complete by Aug. 27 and the diplomas will then be sent to President John A. Hannah's office for his signature.

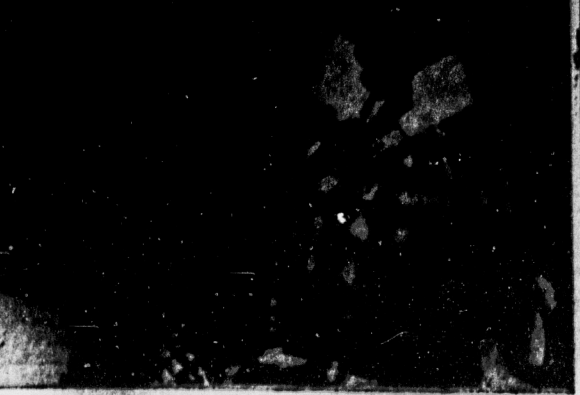

Corbin estimated that the diplomas will be in the mail sometime during the week of Aug. 30.

Farm Calendar Slates 3 Events

On the Michigan farm calendar, the annual Poultry Association Conference ends today at MSC.

Future Farmers of America are preparing for the Swine Sale to be held Aug. 20 at St. Johns.

The State Plowing Matches and Conservation Field Day are scheduled for Aug. 21 at Constantine. Beginning Aug. 31 the annual State 4-H Show will be held at MSC. It will end on Sept. 3.

Holiday Safety Saves Lives

With Governor Williams launching an all out drive to cut traffic deaths over the coming Labor Day weekend, it might be a good idea to look at Michigan's record and the national record in holiday death statistics.

According to the National Safety Council the national traffic death rate went down five percent the first four months of this year, but statistics soon to be released will show that the six month total is rapidly approaching the danger point and may soon exceed last year's gruesome record.

The governor in his message calling for the use of National Guard MP's to patrol the state's highways over Labor Day said, "Michigan led the nation with 35 traffic deaths on the July Fourth weekend." He also pointed out that 107 persons have met death on Michigan's highways the last four Labor Day weekends.

"This is an emergency just the same as a flood or anything that threatens the safety of the people of Michigan." Think twice about your holiday trip. Once for you and Think twice a bout your holiday trip. Once for you and once for "that crazy guy" driving the other car. A car doesn't go out of control. The driver loses his control over it.

Over 40 million cars are expected to crowd the nation's roads from Aug. 4 through 6. Even with all the National Guard outfits in all the states and all the police organizations of every type, law enforcements officers are going to be vastly outnumbered.

Every accident the available few have to police means one more speeder gets away to threaten the rest of us, one more drunk wobbles on his merry way to spread potential death over a greater area.

Don't become next year's statistic. The National Safety Council in connection with 160 local and regional groups offers five points that, if remembered, may save your life ... or mine:

- 1. Don't drive after drinking—even a little.
2. Cut your usual cruising speed 10 miles an hour.
3. Double check before passing or changing lanes.
4. Don't follow the car ahead too closely.
5. Don't compete in traffic — let the other guy go first.

A couple of Do's to be added to this list from all of us to all of you: Do drive carefully. Do have a good time and Do be around next fall when football starts.

Remember a heel at the wheel often gets by because other drivers give him the margin of safety he fails to give himself. But, with the highways packed, this margin is going to be cut very thin so don't be a heel at the wheel.

BUCKET o' Trivia

By Marie Buck

When you sit down to write the last words of yours which will ever be printed in a S'News, it's pretty hard to pick and choose the memories to include.

Thoughts rush through your brain of the time during freshman year when you and your roommate kept a package of liversausage hung out your dorm window, and how scared you were when the housemother walked in the room one day just as you had hauled it up and fixed a sandwich. . . or the time you unwittingly walked into the Smokeshop to get a magazine—this was when it was exclusively a male hangout. . . and sitting through a football game even though it was pouring rain and you couldn't have been wetter if you'd gone swimming (that night you lost your voice from cheering so loudly). . . and the big thrill of seeing your first by-line in the State News. . . and the time you cheered the Lushwells on to another defeat. . . or even better, the November night it was announced that MSC was going to the Rose Bowl. All these and many other zany recollections pass through your head and you wonder if anyone else could have had such a joyous college career.

Somehow all the hours you spent burning the midnight oil before exams, and all the time consumed on re-research for term papers, or the times you stayed up most of the night helping to put out the S'News—they pass into the mist of your memory and enrich your recollections, too.

All this is sort of dedicated to those 14,000 Spartans who will once more invade East Acres in four weeks. The wide-eyed freshmen who will be scrambling around trying to find the Hort. Bldg. or Dem. Hall; the sophomores, wise in their knowledge of "what goes," who will be renewing acquaintances with their friends; and the sophisticated juniors and seniors, who will happily return, little knowing how fast these fun-filled years pass.

Seems impossible when looking out on the empty campus sidewalks and on entering the deserted Grill that soon jostling, laughing crowds will be there. But sure enough it'll come true.

And I like to think that there's an incoming freshman who is destined to follow in the faint footsteps I've left and that maybe someday she'll get a kick out of reading this when she sits down to write her swansong.

So long and thanks to all the summer Spartans who have endured the efforts of one Buck.

The Sports Mike

See You Around

By Mike Carr
Summer Sports Editor

Dazed after a summer of missed deadlines and general confusion in our suite of offices in the Union, I shall attempt to write my "Swan Song" to use a trite cliché.

It has been the custom for people who retire from positions such as mine to write a long dissertation on the great fun and wonderful times that they have had in directing the world's news into the eager hands of you, our reading public.

However, when the office holders change around as much as they do on a paper like the S'News, these goodbyes can get pretty boring.

So, here is my frank farewell message. It's been rough. But after all, a guy needs something to keep his mind off the books.

In reply to my request in the first column of the term for comments—helpful, complimentary or derogatory—I received a phone call this past week from some local track fans. It seems that they had read my column on John Landy's sportsmanship in the British Empire Games and they didn't notice anything in it about Michigan State's own band of representatives.

After a little investigation into the matter, I discovered that the only Spartan that placed in any event was Kevin Gosper, captain and middle-distance star of the track club. Gosper won his specialty, the 110, in the surprising time of :17.1. This was a new record for the Empire Games and for Gosper. Although State had a large number of athletes that were eligible to compete, the tall Australian was the only one to go any honors. That is the best I can do for you, fans, but thanks for the call anyway. Now I know that somebody reads my little efforts.

Zeroing in on Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, seems to be one of the most popular pastimes with the nation's sport-writers these days.

It seems, in case you are not up on the argument, that Ward has been making a few nasty comments on the coaching staff of the All-Star squad, which lost a 3-1 decision to the Detroit Lions last Friday.

In answering back, the sportwriters have, in some cases, gotten quite nasty—but in a subtle way. I don't like to be nasty and I haven't got the talent to be subtle, but I would like to add a few comments to the fray just the same.

Comments have already been made from various sources that Ward hand-picked the coaching staff and so has no kicks coming, that the Lions are the world's professional champions and a great football team and other such statements, but one important factor has been left out.

Not one player in the whole host of All Stars came from any of Michigan's universities. That includes not only State, but the University of Michigan, which does develop some very good players from time to time, and any of the smaller schools.

In an earlier column, for those of you who joined us late, I explained why Don Dohoney was not playing, but there seems to be no explanation why some other stars did not even get an invitation. Players like State's Billy Wells and Michigan's Ted Kress certainly could have added a little to the collegians' efforts.

Of course, it may be a little presumptuous to assume that players like these two could have beaten the champion Lions but it also seems like a slight insult that our Mr. Ward so completely smudged the Wolverine state.

Perhaps this would be a good time to stop all this blah and leave these hallowed pages to more competent writers. But before I go, have you heard about the three girls on the State News summer staff who thought that Early Wynn was a race horse?

Trojans Hold 1st Place With 7 Game to Play

Walling's Trojans fought off determined efforts of the runners-up in the Married Housing and Barracks Apartments Summer Softball league and held their lead for the third straight week.

With seven games left to play in the schedule, the second-place Kerr's Superiors and the third-place Milary's Tigers are fighting to stay within striking distance of the Trojans, but as yet no one has been able to upset the leaders.

In the big game of the week, the Tigers built up a five run lead over the Trojans only to see it disappear in the last inning as the Trojans put together a six-man rally to win, 7-6. The win was the fifth straight for the Trojans and for pitcher Frank Gordon.

Abel Resigns From Chicago Coaching Post

Sam Abel, longtime star center of the Detroit Red Wings hockey team, and recently the coach of the Chicago Blackhawks, announced his resignation from the Chicago club, Wednesday.

Although the official announcement from the Chicago front office is that the reason for the resignation is too much pressure from other fans, Abel declined to say because of "contract" difficulties.

Abel, who guided the club into the playoffs in the first season as coach, will be replaced by Frankie Edholz. The announcement came through General Manager Tommy Ivan, who was Abel's coach at Detroit.

Labor Day Safety Drive Ordered by Williams

Gov. Williams told the state police Wednesday to begin an intensive safety drive for the Labor Day weekend.

He said he will mobilize the military police units of the Michigan National Guard for traffic duty over the long weekend to reduce the heavy holiday accident toll.

The governor met with representatives of state police, the office of civil defense and county sheriffs.

"I have given you fellows two weeks to develop a program," Williams told the meeting. "We do not have anything operating yet."

"Progress has not been too great, but it will be rapid from now on," he said. He then ordered the officials to speed up plans.

"Michigan led the Nation with 25 traffic deaths on the July 4 weekend," Williams said. "We want to see how much safety can be added to Michigan's highways."

"This is an emergency just the same as a flood or anything that threatens the safety of the people of Michigan," he said.

"I plan to order out sections of the national guard," he continued. "They would get regular pay and be under the usual insurance protection."

The state police were told to get busy organizing an overall plan for intensive traffic patrols throughout the state over the holiday. They were told to limit the utilization of the national guard policemen and the military police of the office of civil defense to augment their regular personnel.

The national guard officials were absent from the meeting because they were at the annual encampment at Camp Grading.

"The National Guard understands this to be a voluntary effort," he said. "But the military battalions at Cadillac and Lansing will be ordered into duty unless there is some constitutional barrier against such action."

Big Jack Johnson, heavyweight boxing champion from 1906 to 1915, was inducted into the Hall of Fame.

Old Landmark To House Students Again Fall Term

The three-story landmark recently removed from the corner of Grand River and MAC will soon become an apartment house for MSC students.

George B. Barnes, proprietor of Palmer Drug Store and original owner of the old boarding house, reports that it has been sold to his son-in-law, David A. Coffey.

Now located on the corner of MAC and Elizabeth Streets, next to the Michigan Division of security police, the building is being completely renovated.

The plans expected to be finished by the beginning of fall term, Barnes said.

Hoover Jr. Accepts Post as Dulles Aide

Herbert Hoover, Jr. 51-year-old son of the former president, took over the position of under secretary of state Wednesday. His appointment was announced by the White House Tuesday night.

Ice Arena Is Converted Fieldhouse

Rink Construction Completed in 1949

By LAURETTA PATERNOSTER

Skaters using the MSC Ice Arena in Demonstration Hall are gliding over what was once a basketball court, military drill floor and horse show room.

According to Fred W. Stabley of the department of information services, the 24-year-old structure was once a fieldhouse.

Since that time the arena has expanded into one of the most modern indoor rinks in the country.

After almost 10 months of construction, it was completed in February, 1949.

Twelve miles of piping are used to freeze the ice—a process which takes eight hours. The ice surface measures 200 feet by 87 feet, and is well-lighted by 40 lamps of 1,000 watts each.

When the ice is melted, the all-purpose floor is suitable for use as an auditorium, and several indoor tennis matches have been played there.

Seating capacity is approximately 4,500 for ice shows and hockey games.

Besides providing quarters for special summer skating classes, the rink is used for regular physical education skating classes during the school year.

When used for public skating, the arena can accommodate between 500 to 600 skaters.

The United States Figure Skating Association tests are held at the arena during the summer, and two ice shows are presented under the sponsorship of the Lansing Skating Club.

Besides the rink, Demonstration Hall houses Army ROTC offices, skate rental booth, check room and grill.

Michigan State's intramural athletic program includes 22 sports ranging from archery to weight lifting.

New U.S. Open golf champion El Furez missed only two greens on his final 18 holes.

Jockey Jimmy Stout won nine stakes during the 1953 season at Morphouth Park.

Jim Greengrass, Cincinnati Redlegs' outfielder, played third base and pitched in the minor leagues.

The appointment was quickly confirmed by the Senate early Wednesday. Hoover succeeded Walter Bedell Smith, who is retiring from the military diplomatic career on which he embarked 43 years ago. Smith, who is right hand man to Secretary of State Dulles, will retire as of Oct. 1.

Hoover, a petroleum engineer, has been an advisor to Dulles for about a year. He recently won worldwide attention and praise for his work as a troubleshooter and for his part in settling the three-year-old British-Iranian oil dispute.

Hoover was born in London in 1903, and is a 1925 graduate of Stanford. He took his master's degree at Harvard in 1928. For years he has been a special consultant to such oil-rich countries as Venezuela and Iran.

During World War II he served as chief of staff to President Eisenhower, then European Commander of the Armies.

The appointment caught many off guard. As recently as last weekend he had been saying he would not accept the position, giving the reason that he did not like a job that would confine him to a desk and a lot of paper work.

Also contributing to the surprise was a basic disagreement over tariffs that was reported between Hoover, President Eisenhower and Dulles.

The President and secretary have said that tariffs must not be allowed to hamper the flow of imports from trade hungry nations lest those countries be forced to turn to the Soviet bloc to sell their goods. Hoover was understood to have felt duties should be high enough to reflect the difference between wage rates paid American workers and those paid foreign workers producing the same articles.

Apparently, however, whatever the differences may have been on the point, they were not strong enough to bar Hoover's appointment to the important job.

U. S. Post Office May Issue Stamp For Centennial

There may be a commemorative three-cent postage stamp in honor of MSC's Centennial next year.

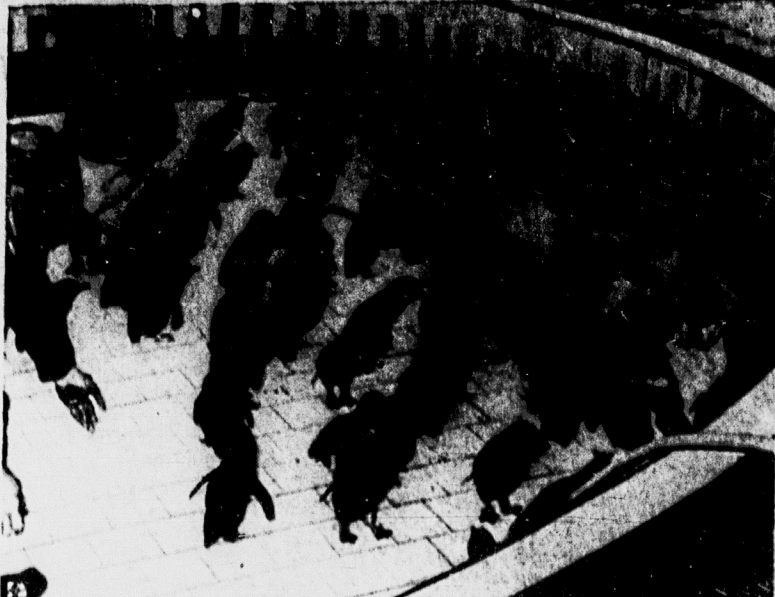

Centennial Director Alvie Smith announced Wednesday that he had received optimistic reports from top U.S. post office officials Monday and Tuesday in Washington, D. C.

Smith conferred with Albert J. Robertson, assistant postmaster general, who expressed optimism for final approval of the stamp.

If approved, the stamp would honor two Centennials—MSC's and Post Office's. But it would be issued for the first time in East Lansing on Feb. 12, 1955—the date of MSC's Founders' Day celebration.

Smith said that final approval must come from Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield. The decision is expected within 30 days.

Smokes Match Colored 'Fags' Make Hit With Coeds

Colored cigarettes are fast becoming an essential to the MSC coed who really wants her color combinations to match.

The gold-tipped cigarettes of Havana-blend tobacco are "going like hotcakes," according to clerks in an East Lansing women's store.

They come in many pastel shades designed to harmonize with the smoker's clothing, and even in a choice of lengths.

There is a catch to the new "fag fad." Though they are priced at 40 cents a package, each of which contains 10 cigarettes.

Jewelry Fashions Feature 'Ropes', Dangly Earrings

New York jewelry experts report that new autumn jewelry for coeds, as well as businesswomen, falls into four distinct categories.

The Chanel look introduces ropes of pearls and colored beads, the lavish look shows the glittering necklace.

The woman who likes jewelry with a delicate air would prefer the understated look. A textured gold look features gold bracelets, large gold earrings and necklaces in a new and longer length.

"Ropes" are the biggest news in the jewelry field this year, and designers have produced everything from the twisted type to those made of brilliant beads and pearls.
