

ONLY 87 PINTS DONATED IN BLOOD CAMPAIGN

Red Cross Disappointed By Turnout

Record Low Set On Opening Day

"We sure were disappointed," was the only way Red Cross officials could describe Monday's meager total of 87 pints collected in the opening day of the fall term blood drive in the Union ping pong room.

After checking past records, the Red Cross officials revealed that the 87 pints was the lowest single day total in any MSC blood drive.

Remembering the tremendous spirit of Michigan State students in responding to blood drives last winter and spring terms, the Lansing Red Cross Center sent nurses and equipment to handle 600 donations Monday.

Instead, the nurses sat around most of the day and as the closing time neared, six of the Red Cross women gave blood to boost the sagging total.

Last winter the blood drive at MSC, sponsored by the MSC Veterans Association, set a Michigan collegiate record with a total of 2,106 pints collected.

Spring term an ROTC sponsored drive topped that mark with 2,129 pints collected. The ROTC mark is the second largest ever collected in a collegiate drive, topped only by Stanford's 4,000 pint drive two years ago.

Of the 81 students who contributed, the coed donors outnumbered the males by "about three to one" according to the Red Cross nurses. "And even the fellows who did show up looked kind of leary," one nurse stated.

Outlooks for today are not much brighter, the Red Cross officials said. About 140 people are signed up to give, but past records indicate that they won't all show up.

Mrs. Ken Kolka, head of the nurses working the drive, said, "We'll stay here for 12 hours if enough people will come up here to keep us busy for that period."

The Lansing Regional Blood Center has gained nationwide fame from the two previous drives. At one time, following the winter term drive, the Lansing center was one of two centers in the entire country that were caught up with their defense quota.

As in the past, Red Cross officials stressed that almost anyone is able to give blood. Everyone is tested to make sure they are physically able to donate before their blood is taken. Dr. Joseph Venier, head of the Lansing Center said,

In the two record producing drives, the rejection rate for the students was so low it was described as "amazing" by Dr. Venier. Less than 10 per cent of the donors were turned away during the two drives.

Dr. Venier revealed that, following the last two drives, the Lansing center had committed

Corey Scores Hit In Caine Mutiny

By CYNTHIA SCHEER

The typhoon-swept crew of the U.S.S. Caine took the stage of the Auditorium Monday night and once again proved that a fictional modern-day mutiny is as absorbing as the exploits of a Capt. Bligh.

Top acting honors in Herman Wouk's adaptation of his novel, "The Caine Mutiny," went to Wendell Corey, Corey, as Lt. Barney Greenwald, ably conveyed the keen insight and shrewdness that marked the lawyer's defense and summation of the "mutiny."

Although the small audience which saw this year's "Court-Martial Scene" may have been disappointed in Corey's early tendency to swallow his lines, Corey quickly developed the role into the central one of the play — crystallizing author Wouk's contention that one pseudo-intellectual can spoil the authority of command.

Paul Douglas, as the petty tyrant Lt. Queeg, gave a surprisingly sensitive performance in view of the movie stereotyping which usually casts him as an individual capable of only the grossest of emotions. Douglas' performance, however, did not match the finesse of the "Queeg" which Lloyd Nolan brought to MSC last November when the "Caine Mutiny Court-Martial" first toured as a stage vehicle.

At every important point in the play the hand of Director Charles Laughlin was evident — in the comedy relief of the bewildered Signalman Urban, played by Jerry Crews; in the machine-gun delivery of Judge Advocate Challee, played by Robert Anderson, and in the effective pauses in the testimony of defendant Mark, portrayed by Steve Brodie.

In other important roles the supporting cast acquitted themselves well. Fay Roope played the president of the court; Robert Lowery appeared as the villain, Lt. Keefer; Scott Elliot portrayed fellow "mutineer" Lt. Keith, and John Parrish and William Cottrell played a pair of psychiatrists.

Group Opens Petitioning

Fall petitioning for Blue Key, national junior-senior men's service honorary, will be open today through Friday at the Centennial Wolverine booth in the Union Concourse.

Members are selected on a basis of character, service to the college, campus leadership and scholarship, said Dan Webster, president. Candidates must have at least a junior academic standing equalling the all-college men's average.

Blue Key projects include co-sponsorship of The Helot, selection of MSC's representative to the Miss Big 10 contest, cooperation in Campus Chest fund-raising drives and informal forums discussing problems.

'Old Guard'

Alumni to Take Part In Centennial Plans

Hundreds of the MSC "old guard" will return to the campus in 1965 for the Centennial celebration. They will join in 25 major events, from Founder's Day on Feb. 12, to an October convocation in Macklin Stadium.

Those graduates who do not make the trek to East Lansing will not be forgotten, however.

An Alumni Advisory Council, together with Starr Keesler, alumni director; Alvie Smith, Centennial director, and Leslie Scott, a member of the all-college Centennial committee, have set up plans for all alumni.

During Founder's Month, Feb. 12 to March 12, the 107 alumni clubs will sponsor special programs honoring the college.

Plans also are underway for programs dedicated to MSC by Michigan cities and towns.

It is hoped that many will sponsor an "MSC Day," Keesler said.

Speakers from the college will be sent to various alumni activities during the year.

A Centennial movie, "The Second Hundred," will be used in out-of-state programs, he said.

On June 4, the annual Alumni Day activities will be expanded to include a luncheon for all MSC graduates. In addition, the traditional class luncheons will be scheduled during the weekend, with 12 groups holding reunions.

Alumni activities also are scheduled for the Homecoming weekend, Keesler said.

The Alumni Council is composed of 18 representatives from alumni clubs. Twelve are from Michigan groups, and six from outside areas. On Jan. 1, Hazen Stephens, of Saginaw, will replace Harold Gasser, of Birmingham, as chairman. Keesler is an ex-officio member of the Council.

Milford School Seeks to Stop Racial Injunction

MILFORD, Del. (AP)—A spokesman for the Milford Board of Education said Monday the board would seek to stop issuance of an injunction to permit 10 Negro pupils to return to the all-white high school.

The spokesman, declining use of his name, said the board would ask Delaware Vice-Chancellor William O. Marvel today to hold back on the injunction until an appeal can be taken to the Delaware Supreme Court on his ruling that the pupils have the right to attend the school.

Soph Job Open

Sophomores may apply today for a vacancy on the executive council, advisory group to the Frash-Soph Council.

Petitions are available in the student government office. The vacancy was created when Judy Harper, of Detroit, resigned due to pressure of other duties, according to Howard James, sophomore class president.

Brake Sees Passage of Vet Bonus

'Guesses' Public Will Favor Issue

By WALT OLEKSY
State News Associate Editor

Michigan Treasurer D. Hale Brake told the State News Monday night he "guessed" the public would approve the Michigan Korean veteran bonus issue in the November elections.

Brake, seeking his seventh term as state treasurer, spoke before a meeting of the Pre-Law Club in the Union.

He said he expected the public would vote favorably for the bill which would grant a $15 a month bonus to Michigan vets who served overseas during the Korean hostilities, and a $10 a month bonus to vets who served state-wide.

The quiet-speaking ex-Grand Rapids lawyer is serving his twelfth year as state treasurer.

Brake said that since the Michigan treasury now has a surplus, there are more problems than when there was a treasury deficit. He explained that naturally, with a surplus, there would be many demands on it.

Speaking to approximately 25 members of the Pre-Law Club, which included three coeds, Brake said law students are "up against a tough profession."

He said the practice of law is a changing thing, and law students can look forward to hard work and great responsibility in the field.

Brake suggested law students stay out of politics until they have had a good deal of experience after graduation from law school.

Unsuccessful in gaining the Republican bid for governor in August, Brake compared uncertain jurors with the recent election. "Jurors are queer people," he said, "as unpredictable as voters."

Student Shivers To Shift Into Lower Gear

Good news for all the Spartans who still have their winter coats at home — today is not supposed to be as cold as Monday.

Fair skies will also greet the enterprising who rise to greet the day.

21 Campus Groups Fail To Register

Twenty-one campus organizations who have failed to register with the Student Government Bureau of Organizations will be given until 5 p.m. Wednesday to bring their bureau records up to date.

An extension of the registration date will allow the delinquent organizations to be included in the College Organizations List which will be printed this week, said Bureau Head Andy Foeller.

Unregistered organizations will also lose the privilege of college facilities, college discounts and the use of the college auditing system said Mary Beauregard, head of the Bureau's department of new organizations.

The 21 groups are: Agronomy Club, American Society for Metals, Floriculture Club of the Floriculture Forum, Indian Student Association, Iranian Student Club, Pi Sigma Alpha, Phi Lambda Tau, Phi Zeta, Pi Mu Epsilon, Psychology Club, Pomology Forum, MSC Riding Club, Rifle and Pistol Club Sigma Delta Pi, Scimitar, Pi Tau Sigma, Student Organization Guild, MSC Society of Automotive Engineers, Women's Glee Club and Inter Faith Council.

Horse Kicks, Cow Slings Mud

'Dumb' Animals Outfox Humans

By The Associated Press
The animal kingdom beat the human race hands down last week.

As politics warmed up and the air was filled with verbal missiles Sen. Burke (D-Ohio) was literally the victim of mud-slinging. This was accomplished not by an elephant but by a non-political cow.

Burke was discussing agricultural problems with a farmer before television cameras when the cow yanked at a cornstalk and splashed Burke from head to toe with barnyard mud.

In Atlanta, a youth fired a blast of buckshot at a squirrel and bagged an airplane. The small light plane landed safely with riddled wings. The young hunter claimed he didn't see it. The squirrel got away.

Speaking of squirrels, their social status was immeasurably improved when the Georgia Supreme Court ruled they are not vermin.

It all came about because some squirrels chewed up somebody's furniture and an insurance policy did not cover damage by vermin. It was assumed that Georgia squirrels were greatly pleased.

In another stirring case the New Jersey Supreme Court ruled if you feed a policeman's horse and it kicks you, it's your own fault.

A lady in Newark fed candy to a policeman's horse and when she turned away the horse kicked her. The court upheld the horse.

Bees have been sharing the home of a farm couple near St. Paul, Neb., for seven years. Gassing, smoking and poisoning have failed to convince them they're unwanted guests.

Last week one bee delivered one sting too many. The family moved out to the wash house. Housewreckers are tearing down the home.

Despite these setbacks the human race struck back here and there, showing it still had a bit of the old fight.

In Cincinnati a man turned in a false alarm and offered the police this simple explanation: "I just wanted to get the kids away from in front of my house."

And in Iola, Kan., a man who will be 100 years old next May was granted a divorce and told he must not get married again within the next six months.

MSC May Cancel Stringfellow Talk

Utah Politician Admits Posing as War Hero

Republican Congressman Douglas Stringfellow of Utah, who admitted Saturday night that he lived as a phony war hero for years, will probably be cancelled from MSC's Lecture Concert Series.

That was the opinion expressed Monday by Dean Stanley E. Crowe, director of the series.

"If his confession stands as reported, chances are that we will cancel his appearance," Crowe said. Stringfellow is scheduled to speak in the Auditorium next Feb. 21.

Crowe said that he expected word from Stringfellow soon, but that MSC would make the initial move, if necessary.

In a surprise speech in Salt Lake City Saturday night, Stringfellow said it was "the most difficult statement of my lifetime" as he admitted to a Utah radio and television audience that he was never an OSS agent or hero in World War II.

Stringfellow withdrew from active participation in his bid for re-election to Congress pending a decision by the state central committee.

The 125-member group was to meet late Monday night to decide whether to leave Stringfellow's name on the ballot as a candidate from Utah's 1st District or name a substitute.

Although the hoax admission was a blow to Utah Republicans, many leaders felt that sympathy for the 32-year-old war veteran, who still walks with a cane because of injuries suffered in a German land mine explosion, was strong enough to permit him to remain a candidate.

Stringfellow's hand was forced by publication of a story in the Army Times, an unofficial Washington newspaper, which questioned the truth of his tale of wartime espionage.

"Like many other persons suddenly thrust into the limelight I rather thrived on the adulation and new-found popularity," he told the TV audience with tears running down his cheeks.

"I fell into the trap which in part had been laid by my own glib tongue."

Final toll was expected much higher, as more bodies were recovered and retrieved from isolated areas.

Organizational Cure—SOPC

Groups with six vice-presidents, companies that become corporations and clubs that try for wide-spread operation find plenty of trouble with organization.

And Michigan State, with its approximately 180 campus organizations is no exception. Reaching for the 200 mark in clubs and activities, the college has, in some ways, become a confused jumble of organizational unorganization.

Any Spartan who has ever tried to contact a club president, find out about a policy change or discover what meets for what purpose can testify to that. Chances are they've wound up with a complex and no information at all.

Now perhaps a solution to the problem of organizational contact has been found. The newly-established Student Organization Planning Committee has the ear marks of a cure for the jumble.

SOPC has been set up for the specific purpose of acting as an advisory group to the student government department of organizations and the Dean of Students Office. Its job will be to get to know the groups in various interest areas and keep them informed.

Campus organizations have been divided into 10 interest areas for this purpose, with students selected to act as representatives in each area.

The Administration is so convinced of the worth of the group that it is supplying half the funds for a monthly luncheon at which committee members will hash over organizational ideas. Student government will pick up the other half of the check.

Student government's department of organizations won't completely drop out of the picture either. It will still be in charge of organization records.

But maybe now with the SOPC behind them that group won't have quite as much trouble keeping their records up to date. Maybe they won't have to issue threats to get organizations to comply with rules involving eligibility lists, officers and charter renewals.

The change in responsibility has possibilities of making MSC an even healthier spot for extra-curricular activities.

With the new SOPC the by-word should now be closer cooperation. It is the aim of the group to help the organizations, rather than act as a stumbling block to them.

SOPC should be able to meet that aim provided it doesn't fall into more red tape and become a victim of the jumble it is seeking to destroy.

SOPC Could Untangle This . . .

Letters to the Editor

A Sarcastic Touch To Congratulations

To the Editor:

Congratulations, Spartans. Once again you've proved your tremendous spirit by the reception with which you welcomed our valiant Spartan team back from South Bend Saturday night.

You have proved conclusively to one and all that what spirit we once might have had is fast disappearing.

I'll wager that there is not one among you that heard the game that will not agree that our Spartans should have had a hearty welcome home.

The Spartans were welcomed by 22 Spartans that didn't have to have a student government to prod and cajole them with an organized rally complete with all the trimmings and come ons. Just 22 Spartans who wanted to show their team that they were still with them 100 per cent.

The one thing that has made our great university stand out from all the others is that we have always been "The big school with the small school atmosphere." Lets hang on to it.

For those of you who regard this as a lot of college rah-rah, all I can say is that I feel sorry for you. For you're missing more than you can possibly realize. Ask the few fellows and girls of Bryan and South Williams who were there. To the rest of you I can only say that I wish you could have seen our downhearted team.

You let them down, the excuse. Wake up, get with it, going to Michigan member?

The "big team" took it easy Monday night's open practice as the third and fourth roughhoused with a dedicated crew of freshmen.

In a rough two-hour session running in his old form, LeRoy ran through the red line for gains of from five to 10. The Flint speedster looked like the Beldie of old as he led the fresh line and showed little evidence of the in- that have virtually kept out of the lineup for the past weeks.

Moreback Clarence who was badly shaken and received a sprained in the Notre Dame game, and to be in fair condition.

Linebacker Bill Ross, who spent most of the season injured, twisted his ankle right ankle about half through the scrimmage and the field.

Quarterback Wayne Lange- who received a leg injury was forced to leave the field.

Standing on defense for the squad, big Karl Perryman raked up the center line and showed both speed and power on defense against end.

Man on the reserve squad and working Rudy Gaddini, more halfback, who swept his way through the on long runs and several broke through on what have been touchdown runs.

Four New Grid Teams Earn Top 10 Berths

The Associated Press

Oklahoma, Wisconsin, UCLA and Ohio State, the big four of the Associated Press nationwide football poll last week, remained on top of the college football pinnacle in that order again Monday, but four other teams tumbled from the top 10.

Leaders Give OK to Baseball In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Enthusiasm of fans in Kansas City for baseball, whether it is minor or major league caliber, will probably remain unchanged by the decision to keep the Athletics in Philadelphia.

That was the opinion expressed Monday by Ernie Mehl, sports editor of the Kansas City Star, and L. P. Cookingham, city manager.

Mehl said that Kansas City would continue to seek a major league club, but that he believed interest in the Kansas City Blues would be unchanged as long as they remained here.

"We will continue to support the Blues as we have always done," Mehl said. There may be some slackening of interest in the American Association Club right now, but I'm sure that interest will be renewed as the ball club resumes its play next year."

City Manager Cookingham expressed a similar belief that baseball fans here would continue to support a winning baseball team, whether it was a major or a minor league club.

Ohio State, Badger Game Rated Toss Up

COLUMBUS, Ohio, (AP)—The oddsfellows are having a tough time picking a favorite for Saturday's Wisconsin-Ohio State grid game.

Only one thing is certain about the contest, which shapes up as one of the year's dandiest duels. The certainty is that at least 23,400 fans will fill the big Buckeye horseshoe for the torrid tussle.

Both the Badgers and Bucks are unbeten. Both are in the top 5 nationally. Both are in the Big 10. Both want to go to the Rose Bowl.

The Bucks will rely on two fleet-footed halfbacks, Bobby Watkins and red-haired, "Hop-along" Cassidy. The big gun for Wisconsin will be fullback Alan "The Horse" Ameche. Each of the three has scored five touchdowns in four starts.

Coach Ivy Williamson of Wisconsin, in five cracks at Ohio State, has lost four and tied one. But Ohio State scout Esco Sarkkinen said Monday:

"This is the best team Ivy's had up there. It has poise and courage, and a great defense. This should be the game of the season, with practically everything riding on the result."

Philadelphia Starts New Era

A's Await League OK

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics, starting a new era under syndicate control after 54 years of rule by the Connie Mack family, played a waiting game Monday night, with little to do but accept congratulations.

The old owners asked the American League for approval of the new owners, and until the league acts, there's nothing for both sides to do but sit back and iron out a thousand and one details.

Among the felicitations were telephone calls from Arnold Johnson, the Chicago businessman, who sought to buy the franchise and transfer to Kansas City.

"I've talked with Roy and Earle Mack and extended my best wishes," Johnson said. He expected to leave at 5 p.m. for Chicago. "But," he continued, "I'm still puzzled about the whole thing."

Johnson had offered close to $3,375,000 to take over the franchise, its debts and assets and to move it to Kansas City. He had received American League approval last Tuesday to buy the club.

Roy said Monday he had sent a telegram to American League President Will Harridge, asking for league approval of the new owners.

$114,807 In Grants Accepted

Gifts and grants totaling $114,807.76 for research and educational purposes at MSC were accepted by the State Board of Agriculture, governing body of MSC, at its meeting Friday.

The Ordnance Corps of the Detroit Ordnance district offered the largest single grant, $35,790, accepted by the board. The grant will be used under the direction of J.W. Cornell of the School of Engineering in setting up a card-index abstracting system on armor and kinetic energy armor defeating ammunition.

A grant of $15,000 from the Kellogg Company of Battle Creek will be used for work with the corn foundation. It will be used under the direction of Dean Emeritus Ernest L. Anthony.

Research work by J. A. Garraty of the history department was aided by a grant of $12,600 from the social science research council.

R. V. Byerrum and C. D. Ball, chemistry department, will study transmethylation reactions in plants under a $8,625 grant from the atomic energy commission.

Dr. Margaret Olson in food and nutrition will direct the work in connection with the grant of $5,500 from the Dow Chemical Company of Midland.

A grant of $5,000 from a National Fertilizer association will be used by R.L. Cook, soil science; G. L. Johnson, and C. R. Hoglund, agricultural economics, to determine the economic optimum in fertilizing selected crops under selected conditions and varying prices.

R. J. Coleman will direct the work for broadcasting out-of-town athletic contests. A grant of $5,570 from the Michigan agricultural conference was accepted for this work.

MSC Republicans To Fete Ferguson

Sen. Ferguson will be the guest of the club at a breakfast Saturday morning and at the Homecoming Football game with Purdue.

Members are requested to bring their activities books to the meeting tonight so arrangements may be made for the club to sit in a group with Sen. Ferguson Saturday.

Coeds Given Probation After Illegal Party

Two East London coeds were put on disciplinary probation for attending an unregistered and unchaperoned party, the Dean of Students Office announced Monday.

Social probation was meted out to 13 other coeds who attended the same party. The difference in punishment, according to Tom King, dean of students, was due to the fact that this was the first offense for the 13.

Two of the coeds were from Mason, one from Lansing, seven from sororities, two from South Williams and one from South Campbell.

"Unless we get a better showing soon, that move will be a very bad one," Dr. Venier said. "However, remembering those other two drives, I refuse to sell these students short on spirit," he added.

The drive is being sponsored by the Spartan Women's League and Alpha Phi Omega. The sponsoring groups have set a goal of 2,600 pints for the drive.

The two groups have challenged the U of M to a blood drive battle, with a trophy to be given to the winning school, percentage wise.

'Moon Is Blue' Slated Tonight

"The Moon Is Blue," Otto Preminger's movie version of the situation comedy stage hit, will be shown tonight at 7 and 9 in Fairchild Theater.

Witness Balks In Graft Trial

DETROIT (AP)—The star witness against 18 Detroit policemen accused of taking gambling bribes refused Monday to repeat in open court the testimony he reportedly had already given Recorder's (Criminal) Judge John P. O'Hara's Grand Jury.

As a result, the examinations of six of the accused patrolmen were postponed until Oct. 27.

William Ryans, the balky witness, was ordered to appear again before the Grand Jury today in advance of court examinations of 10 more policemen.

Ryans pleaded loss of memory or refused to answer on the constitutional ground that he might incriminate himself when asked about his Grand Jury testimony in which he allegedly told of having made repeated payoffs to the police.

The Grand Jury indicted the 18 patrolmen Oct. 9 saying Ryans had admitted paying them from $10 to $15 a week in return for protection for his numbers ring.

Ryans, who was granted immunity from prosecution for his testimony before the Grand Jury, said today:

"I was under a nervous collapse and near breakdown if I said those things."

"I've been suffering a nervous collapse ever since the beginning of the Grand Jury because of the Gestapo tactics used on me."

Stringfellow Hoax

His phony story brought him national renown and made him much in demand as an inspirational speaker.

Last year, his story was cited by the National Junior Chamber of Commerce when it named him one of the 10 top young men in the country.

For several years he told in speeches from coast to coast a tale of how he led 30 OSS agents in a daring parachute raid behind German lines to capture a nuclear scientist and slow up the Nazi A-bomb effort.

In confessing that his OSS story was a hoax, Stringfellow said his war record consisted of training with an armored infantry division and a short time in France not in combat, before he was wounded by the German land mine.
