H-Bomb Explosion Described by AEC

Blast Contaminates Area As Large as New Jersey

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission, in a new warning of the horrors of atomic war, said Tuesday its H-bomb blast in the Pacific last March seriously contaminated 7,000 square miles.

The area affected was almost as great as the 7,536 square miles covered by the state of New Jersey.

AEC Chairman Lewis L. Strauss discussed "radioactive fallout" in a report which included information that has been secret up until now.

"Since nuclear weapons are in possession of the U.S.S.R.," Strauss said, "the commission believes the American people wish to be informed regarding the danger of nuclear explosions and the measures which individuals can take to protect themselves if an atomic attack should ever occur."

"In the event of war involving the use of atomic weapons, the fallout from large nuclear bombs exploded on or near the surface of the earth would create serious hazard to civilian populations in large areas outside the target zones."

"The Atomic Energy Commission hopes that these dangers will never be experienced by mankind."

Tuesday's report dealt largely with radioactive perils far beyond the point of explosion. The commission has, in earlier reports, given details on the devastation to be expected close to target points.

On the basis of test data from "the very large thermonuclear device" set off at Bikini Atoll last March and other information, the commission made the following estimates:

"Following the March 1, 1954 explosion, there was sufficient radioactivity in a downwind belt about 150 miles in length and of varying width up to 20 miles to have seriously threatened the lives of nearly all persons in the area who took no protective measures."

"Some distance farther from the point of detonation, at about 160 miles downwind and along the axis of the ellipse, the amount of radioactivity would have seriously threatened the lives of about one half of the persons in the area who took no protection measures."

"Near the outer edge of the ellipse, or approximately 190 miles downwind, it is estimated that the level of radioactivity would have been sufficient to have seriously threatened the lives of five to 10 percent of any persons who might have remained exposed out of doors for all of the first 36 hours."

"Thus, about 7,000 square miles of territory downwind from the point of burst was so contaminated that survival might have depended upon taking shelter and other protective measures."

These estimates assumed the worst possible conditions — the people would ignore the most elementary precautions, stay out of doors completely exposed for about 36 hours and thus receive the maximum exposures.

"Exposure can be reduced by taking shelter and by simple decontamination measures," the AEC said.

UN Action In Formosa Defended

Dulles Calls Body 'Essential Buffer'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles Tuesday warmly defended the United Nations against charges of failure in negotiations for a Formosa cease-fire and for release of 15 American fliers held by Red China.

The world organization, Dulles said, operates as "an almost essential buffer" between nations which otherwise would deal directly in rough "and perhaps in war-making terms."

Sen. Knowland of California, Republican leader, had told the Senate only a short time before that "the conscience of the United Nations should be deeply troubled" by its failure to free the American fliers. In the case of Formosa he said the U. N. apparently has not become as "impotent and futile" as the old League of Nations but it is not prepared to take the necessary steps to resist aggression by the Chinese Communists.

Knowland demanded that the American fliers should not become "the forgotten men" as the U. N. concentrates on Formosa negotiations.

Dulles spoke at a meeting of the United States Committee for the United Nations. He praised the work of the group in supporting the U. N., which he said engages in many very useful but unpublicized projects.

Earlier a State Department spokesman announced that Dulles will clarify U. S. Formosa policy with special reference to the Quemoy and Matsu coastal islands in a speech in New York Wednesday night.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.) disclosed that he had written Dulles asking clarification of "the precise position and policy" of the U. S. government on defense of the Quemoy and Matsu.

Press officer Henry Suydam said "it is safe to assume" that the questions raised by Humphrey UN ACTION, Page 6

Stirs Up Blizzard Navy Helicopter Makes Surprise Landing

By JOAN BRENNAN

Can you imagine anyone standing in the midst of a blizzard for the fun of it?

A score of Spartans did just that Tuesday noon while watching the landing and take-off of a navy helicopter on the women's athletic field. Wind stirring up the twin rotors created a miniature snow storm lasting several minutes.

The Piasecki 'copter, designated HUP-2 by the Navy, is stationed with two others at Grosse Ile Naval Air Station and came to campus in connection with a week-long visit of an information team on Naval aviation training.

The landing of the craft caused some students to bolt their lunch down in order to take a look before a 1 o'clock class. Two London coeds hurried to the field to watch it land a second time after making sure the first landing didn't take place on their dorm roof.

Features of the craft which most interested students were the sling and winch, which is used in rescue operations, and the crank door through which the sling is lowered. One fellow whistled about the "wrap-around windshield," while a coed thought the radio whisker antenna was a curb feeler.

Students weren't the only ones attracted by the helicopter. Several children, ranging in age from 4 to 7, carefully examined it. One boy, after listening to an explanation on the operation of the sling and winch, said, "Oh, I already knew that. I saw it on the Dave Garraway program."

The craft, called a retriever, is used for training and stand-by rescue for the Great Lakes region. AIC Ken Milburn, the pilot, said there had been no lake rescue calls this winter but there would probably be some when the thaw begins. ADL Morris Bertsch accompanied Milburn on the flight from Grosse Ile.

The six-passenger 'copter flies at an average speed of 85 miles per hour and can land on any open area. Rescue operations can be done at a height of about 50 feet.

The information team, consisting of Com. Cook Cleland and Lt. Com. George Orange, will remain at State the remainder of this week. Their stand is set up in the Union concourse.

Armed Band Demands Prisoners

Chauffeur Killed For Resisting

BERN (AP) — A desperate band of Romanian anti-Communists seized the Romanian legation Tuesday in an attack that cost the life of the legation chauffeur and dragged traditionally neutral Switzerland deep into a cold war incident.

The band of five or six well-armed men seized the Swiss police hour after noon and demanded release of the resistance leader imprisoned in their Red-ruled homeland.

The barricaded police, armed with rifles, frantically fired Tuesday night over the snow-covered grounds that up to now considered Romanian territory. The Swiss Government declared an emergency meeting the police should try persuasion rather than force.

The barricaded anti-Communists, packing tommyguns, grenades, knives and gas masks, said they would never surrender until they achieved their aim.

We have nothing to lose but our lives," said the leader, speaking in German from the porch under cover of the weapons of two of his companions.

The band, which police said evidently slipped across the Swiss border, struck about 10 p.m. Monday. They rounded up some Communist staff members and their families. These were later freed. The chauffeur, Aurel Sedu, was killed and shot when he resisted. Unfettered for hours, he finally was borne from the legation grounds by police. He died in the hospital at noon.

One of the invaders was caught trying to get away in the darkness before dawn. Describing himself only as a member of the Romanian resistance movement, he carried a tommygun, hand grenades and documents. The leader told police later two other members of the group had escaped with documents from the legation files.

The extraterritorial status of the legation was a factor in both police caution and in a blistering note which Romania fired to Switzerland accusing the Swiss of responsibility for what it called a violation of international law by "a gang of Romanian fascists and other criminal elements."

There was no hint from Bucharest that the Romanian government would open up the five men whose freedom is wanted by the band.

Through police and Radio Free Europe's Romanian Desk, these were identified as: Ionel Aurel Aldes, who was sentenced Nov. 18, 1945, to life imprisonment on a charge of plotting against the Red regime; Nestor Niculescu, a United Eastern Catholic churchman imprisoned since 1948; Ilie Lazar, peasant party secretary who was imprisoned in 1947; Ionel Anton-Muresan, manager of the peasant newspaper Ardauul, which was suppressed in 1943; former Supply Minister Constantin Bradina, a leading member of the National Liberal party.

Breslin to Discuss Summer Jobs

Students looking for summer employment are invited to a Summer Job Placement Night, tonight at 7:30 in J1 Union.

Sponsored by the Spartan Women's League, the meeting will feature Jack Breslin, director of the Placement Bureau, and members of the bureau's staff. They will advise students on wages, hours, and how to find summer work.

New catalogs have been prepared, with listings of summer jobs now available.

Longer Hours for Coeds

Honor Plan Sounds Good

Junior and senior women may get a chance to prove they're adult if a proposed coed honor system is approved by administration officials.

The plan would allow upper classmen who have a 3-point all-college average to take an unlimited number of 11:30 p.m. late permissions during the week.

Under the system, students would not be limited in the number of Lansing and East Lansing overnights, and no special permission would be needed for weekend, skiing and after-dance absences.

Parents would still send the blanket permission at the beginning of the year for overnights.

Honor system coeds would still conform to dorm and house standards, such as radio, shower, and typing hours.

Other qualifications, in addition to upper-class status and a 3-point average, would include approval by the dorm or living unit committee.

Good reasons have been put forth in favor of the honor system.

Such a plan would be an incentive for higher scholarship. The extra privileges would be a demonstration of administration approval and a reward to coeds for high grades.

Better morale and less dissatisfaction with current rules may result if the system is approved.

As the rules stand now, there are a number of exceptions.

Special permissions for seniors in the spring, for student government and State News workers, sorority rush, and others demonstrate the need for a broader rule.

Most important, however, the proposed system would give upperclassmen a chance to prove that they are responsible students, a chance to show that they will act in an adult way, if treated in an adult way.

Other colleges, notably Pembroke, Antioch, and Bennington, have an effective honor system.

It is time that MSC began to relax its rules.

The idea originated in a Spartan Roundtable session and was taken over by Mortar Board and Tower Guard.

The groups are to be commended for taking the first step.

Their action should be carried through.

Placement Night

Need a Summer Job? Here's Your Chance

"Summertime, and the livin' is easy..." Remote as it may seem during February freezes, the prospect of summer vacation brings to most Spartan minds visions of sunny beaches, picnics, and lovelies clad in bathing suits.

But to the average MSC student, the breathing period between spring term exams and fall term registration has a more serious side—summer employment.

Most students do find it necessary to work regularly during vacation, either to save up for next year's schooling, to get experience in their chosen field, or just to make some extra spending money.

And the livin' isn't always easy, either, as any student can tell you who has spent a summer working in a job he dislikes or isn't fitted for. Or who can't even find a job, of any kind.

It needn't be that way, however. An early start is an important factor in finding suitable summer employment. And this year, the Spartan Women's League will try to help students solve their problem.

The League is sponsoring a Summer Job Placement Night, tonight at 7:30 in 31 Union. Members of the College Placement Bureau will be there with new catalogs of listings of available summer jobs. They will talk to visitors about job opportunities.

It's a good idea, and we hope that students hunting for summer work will at least go up to the Union and take a look.

It might make a lot of difference when June 18 rolls around.

Pink Picking Up

On Color and Sex

Both sexes out at Tufts College in Massachusetts agree that red is the "sexiest" color.

With few exceptions, the women voted for "fiery, brazen and active" red as the most sexy color in a poll taken by the college weekly.

Men, although giving a 66 per cent nod to red, had a couple of other prominent choices. "Slinky black" picked up 25 per cent of their votes, while lavender received 9 per cent.

These men might be surprised at an announcement by a Grand Rapids clothing manufacturer that they're making pink shorts for men nowadays.

A sales official of the company claims they're getting "lots of orders" for them.

There are alternatives for those who just can't stomach pink. They can choose from the other masculine colors in the new line—mint, baby blue and yellow.

The KOLEMINE
Denver Greeks Carry
Paint Antics Too Far

by JACK KOLE
State News Editor-in-Chief

Kappa Sigma fraternity members out at Denver University are feeling "terribly sorry" these days, but it's probably for themselves.

They had quite a time last week, and now they're paying for their iniquities. Even if it was "all in the nature of good fun," as one member put it.

It all started when the Kappa Sigs decided that the Alpha Chi Omegas knew something about the theft of the fraternity's symbol and a memorial plaque.

So they tried 10 of the gals over to the Kappa Sig house with serenades to stand trial before a kangaroo court.

It all ended when things got a little out of hand as the brothers stood one of the coeds on her head and stenciled the fraternity emblem on her panties.

When the university put the pressure on, the Kappa Sigs were real nice about everything.

They even agreed to pay for the unidentified coed's damaged clothing.

The fraternity had to pay more than the price of a pair of panties, however.

There were some pretty heavy penalties for an affair that had started as an innocent "spontaneous incident."

The second vice president claimed that the missing symbol had become a campus joke and the brothers were getting pretty sick of it.

So they decided to do something about it.

Original sentence from the kangaroo court wasn't so rough.

When the girls were "convicted," the court ordered them to line up to have the stolen symbol painted on their foreheads.

"The girls didn't complain when the court found them guilty," one member testified. "In fact, they seemed to be having a ball."

It wasn't so much of a ball when the boys got tired of painting foreheads, however.

All heck broke loose after they put this coed on her head and started to perform their art work on her panties, a member testified.

The sorority girls finally decided to get out and dashed home unscathed.

Came the penalties.

The inter-fraternity council ruled that Kappa Sigma used "inexcusable bad taste" and slapped the fraternity under strenuous restrictions for the remainder of the school year.

Not only that, but there won't be any more parties for the Kappa Sigs this year because all campus and social functions were ordered canceled.

The officers aren't around anymore, either. They were told to resign immediately.

Furthermore, fraternity membership will be closely watched for misbehavior until June 30, 1957—more than two years from now.

Despite the written apology from the fraternity to each one of the girls involved, the Alpha Chi Omegas "age pretty unhappy with the Kappa Sigs," according to the sorority house mother.

Even the unidentified coed with a beautiful souvenir—a pair of panties emblazoned with the Kappa Sigma crescent and star—was feeling a little out of spirits about the whole thing.

East Shaw Holds Dancing Classes

Recruited Coeds Help
With Weekly Instructions

By SUE ANDERSON
Residents of East Shaw have organized a weekly dance instruction class complete with coed partners.

Classes are held Monday nights from 7 to 8 in the game room of East Shaw Hall. Records provide dance music for the 44 class members.

Pat Paone, Niagara Falls, N.Y., freshman who is the instructor for the group said, "Six basic ballroom dances are taught. These are the fox trot, waltz, samba, tango, rumba, and mambo."

College authorities granted permission to allow 10 coeds to participate, and arrangements are being made to fill the quota. Coed partners now participating are: Prudence Romine, Monroe freshman; Peggy Blau, Detroit sophomore; Lois Schoenfeld, Northbrook, Ill., freshman; Marilyn Manocchio, Fort Wayne, Ind., freshman; Jan Borsum, Reed City freshman, and Sue Ravin, Detroit freshman.

"It was Paone's idea to have the dances, and the idea received the support of East Shaw residents," said Mrs. Lucy McAlpin, resident hostess of East Shaw and dance supervisor.

Members of the class have attended three sessions and were reported by Paone as "progressing rapidly." Since the dance sessions started enrollment has been temporarily closed. Shaw Hall residents plan to hold the class next term.

Council Plans Panhell Day, Cancels Week

Panhell Council announced that plans for Panhellene Week have been canceled, but the Council is planning a Panhellene Day, Feb. 24.

According to Rhonan Dobben, Jackson junior and member of Panhell Council, a letter asking sororities to send representatives to the various groups which will meet will be sent to all sorority presidents. They will also be asked to submit questions on problems to be discussed.

A Junior Panhell co., consisting of a pledge from each sorority, has been formed. The Junior Council will meet every Wednesday afternoon at 5 in the Union. A faculty adviser will be selected, and the council will petition to Student Government for a charter.

A Panhell committee headed by Mary Lou Morse, Central Lake junior, will revise the constitution's rushing rules and procedures.

An attempt is being made to have a national Panhell adviser as guest speaker at the installation of Panhell officers in April.

6-19 Win

By JOHN LORNGREN

The Terrapins, last year's dependent League champions, continued their winning ways by romping over the Brewers, 16-19, Tuesday night.

Combining the talents of Joe Smith, Larry Williams, and Larry Williams, the victors rolled to a straight triumph.

Leading the attack of the Terps was the rangy Bysko, who counted 14 points. Adding equally in the defense were the elusive Smith and Bilodeau with 10 and 12 respectively.

The previously unbeaten Brewers proved to be little match for the Terps. Numerous attempts at driving lay-ups were blocked by the superior reach of the Terps.

Wings 41, Fresno 33

Effective zone defense enabled the Terps to edge the Fresno 41-33. Dave McCullough's 14-point performance was the key to the winning margin, as he scored the twines for 17 points.

Leading an early 11-10 lead, the Terps gradually folded their defense, spattered to a 14-13 lead in the third quarter.

After jumping into an early 14-13 lead, the Terps held the lead, preventing an early rout.

Main attractions were featured in the assault. George Hane, Harold Benson. The latter whole show in the first half was counted 11 of his 12 points.

Hane was the center of attention in the second half as he scored eight of his game-leading 10 points.

The Terps netted 10 for the first time from around the three-point line.

After Court 5, 42; Gilchrist 22; 27.

Commencement of speed and a score of any basketball team is desirable. Such was the case with the fast Heather Court 3 and a now-working Gilchrist.

At Madison, Court 5 forward net poured in 22 points, equaling the entire score of the Bus Boys' total. Myer of the winners, chipped in 12 markers.

Contract-Jumping
Riles Marshall

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two star tackles who formerly played at the University of Maryland jumped the Washington Redskins Tuesday and signed contracts with the Calgary club of the Canadian Football League.

George Preston Marshall, Redskins owner, said he hadn't decided yet whether to bring any legal action against the players. Dick Latta, Redskins general manager, said he had this to say of them:

"Both obviously have no respect for their agreements. Evidently, the University of Maryland has no course in contractual relations."

Mostrelewski said in a telephone interview that he will get much more than he has been getting.

Marshall said he had signed his contract with the Redskins and the club had an option for next season on Mostrelewski's services.

Their departure opened a new wound in the feud that has simmered despite peace talks between the National Football League and some Canadian clubs.

The Redskins signed by Calgary's Jack Henneberry, until recently a coach at Maryland. Mostrelewski said Henneberry is a coach and an ex-Redskins player, including with the Redskins and two with the Chicago Cardinals.

Marshall said the other two ex-Marshallers with the Redskins, quarterback Jack Scarbath and fullback Ralph Felton, definitely won't go to Canada.

Henneberry meanwhile was reported as working in center field for the Chicago Black Hawks and moving them into first place in the National Hockey League.

The win gave Detroit 72 points in the standings, one more than the Montreal Canadiens, who were idle tonight. The Red Wings, however, have played two more games than the Canadiens, whom they meet Thursday night in Montreal.

EDDIE ERDELATZ to speak at grid clinic

Football Clinic To Feature Top Coaches

Navy's Erdelatz
Joins Cal's Waldorf

California Coach Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf and Navy Coach Eddie Erdelatz will headline the annual football coaching clinic to be held at Michigan State this spring.

The dates for the event are Thursday, Mar. 3, through Saturday, Mar. 5. The clinic will be climaxed by the annual Green and White football game between picked squads of the Michigan State varsity. This game, which will be played in Macklin Field Stadium, concludes the spring training period.

Waldorf and Erdelatz will be joined on the clinic instructional staff by Spartan Coach Duffy Daugherty and his staff. Also due to lecture are three school mentors: Joe Rogers, of Benton Harbor; Johnny Hackett, of Detroit Catholic Central; and Roman Yatchak, of Wakefield.

Last year's clinic, which featured Red Sanders of UCLA and Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma as clinic lecturers, was attended by more than 400 high school and college coaches from Michigan and other Mid-Western, Eastern and Southern states.

College coaches are coming to regard an invitation to instruct at the Michigan State football clinic a major good luck omen, says Duffy. "Sanders and Wilkinson didn't lose a game last fall after working our coaching clinic. I wish some of that would rub off on me."

Tabbed 'Sensation' in AAU

Maekawa Lauds College Boxing

By JIM EVANS

"College boxing is tops—not only because safety and conditioning are stressed, but also because competition is of the highest caliber."

This is the opinion of one of Michigan State's top boxers, Hawaiian sensation Choken "Mike" Maekawa.

Maekawa began his boxing career in 1951 as a novice featherweight in his hometown of Kohala, Hawaii. He was coached by his older brother, Haruo, who won the Hawaiian championship in 1950.

Following in his brother's footsteps, Mike copied the novice featherweight title in 1951, and repeated as bantamweight champion in 1952.

Mike got his first glimpse of the United States that year when he represented Hawaii in the National AAU Tournament at Boston.

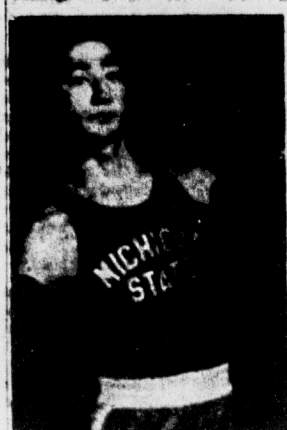

"The huge block of city lights and the vast expanse of the country stands out vividly in my mind," Mike said when he recalled flying across the continent from San Francisco to Boston.

"I was also surprised to find everyone in such a big hurry; in Hawaii the people don't rush around so much."

In the tournament at Boston, Mike won three bouts before losing the first of his career in the finals to Davey Moore on a split decision. Moore went on to win the 1952 Olympic bantamweight crown for the United States.

Maekawa was tabbed the "Hawaiian sensation" by sports writers and he decided to enroll at Michigan State after hearing about the college's fine boxing squad.

Ineligible to compete as a freshman, Mike lived up to pre-season expectations in 1954 when he won five bouts, lost one and was held to one draw.

This summer Mike spent his vacation in Hawaii, and returned with his wife, Aki, and baby daughter, Colleen, in September. Another baby is expected in April, and Mike says, "I'm expecting a boy; we already have a girl."

Maekawa is a junior majoring in physical education and is planning a coaching career in Hawaii after he graduates.

"I realize it's a long way off," says Mike, "but someday I hope to coach the University of Hawaii's boxing team. When I get home, I'll start out as a high school coach."

Mike still prefers Hawaiian foods, listing poi (Hawaiian equivalent to the potato), raw fish, chop suey, rice, pineapples and coconuts as his favorites.

Besides boxing, he played guard on his high school basketball team and was centerfielder on the baseball squad. He also was a halfback in football in the 135-pound barefoot league.

His favorite pastime is spear fishing in the ocean. Mike explained that the swimmer must dive to a depth of 25 feet to spear the Papio fish which weigh as much as 15 pounds.

Maekawa will be seeking his third straight victory of the season Friday night when the boxing team faces the University of Wisconsin. He will meet fellow islander Jopi Tomei.

Ellis Olmstead, 6 feet 10 inch sophomore from Galveston, Tex., is the tallest basketball player in University of Texas history.

Students Must Pay

Big 10 Track Title Tickets Go on Sale

Reserved seat tickets for the finals of the 15th annual Big 10 Indoor Track and Field Championships are now on sale at the athletic ticket office, Jensen Gymnasium, Michigan State.

The spectacles will be held in State's Jensen Fieldhouse Friday and Saturday, March 4 and 5. The arena will accommodate approximately 4,600 fans for track and field shows.

Admission to the preliminaries Friday evening at 7 p.m. will be general admission only at $1. All seats at the finals Saturday afternoon starting at 1:30 o'clock will be reserved at $1.50 each.

Because the meet is a Big 10 event and not a Michigan State-sponsored affair, there will be no special rates for students. The full regular price will be charged to everyone.

Warren Burr, Michigan State's athletic ticket sales manager, says tickets may be purchased in person daily at Jensen Gymnasium or through the mail by check or money order. The checks and money orders should be made payable to Michigan State College.

Meantime, Karl Schladehan, Michigan State track coach and meet director, made plans to have the portable basketball court removed from the fieldhouse in order to run the hurdles and dash events right down the middle of the arena where everyone can see them easily.

Plans also are underway for a major decoration job on the fieldhouse.

3 Teams Added To NIT Field

Louisville, Manhattan, and Niagara have accepted bids for the National Invitational Tournament March 12-19.

Six teams remain to be named for the cage classic. Duquesne, Dayton and Cincinnati have already joined the roster for the Madison Square Garden event.

All six teams have played in the tourney before.

Wings Win On Reibel Goal

DETROIT (AP)—Dutch Reibel, whipped in a screaming 10th-period shot in the final 38 seconds tonight to give the Detroit Red Wings a 3-2 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks and move them into first place in the National Hockey League.

The win gave Detroit 72 points in the standings, one more than the Montreal Canadiens, who were idle tonight. The Red Wings, however, have played two more games than the Canadiens, whom they meet Thursday night in Montreal.

Spartan coach Jim Ward was a three-time captain of his high school hockey team in Portland, Ore.

Group Votes To Continue Christmas City

Students Suggest Project Revisions

Christmas wasn't over for four student leaders Wednesday night as they met to discuss the future of Christmas City.

The group voted to retain the first-time attempt to capture Christmas in outdoor scenes and suggested some revisions for the project.

Seven displays on three islands between Grand River and Abbott Rd. depicted the Christmas story. The students decided to keep the Christmas City figures and eventually maintain permanent displays. Next year they hope to add titles to the projects for better continuity.

Displays will also be constructed on one island until they develop larger displays. Micki McBrine, director of Christmas City, said.

Participation in the project will be expanded to any student group interested in erecting a display. John Van Camp, who represented East Lansing Merchants Assn. in the college-city project, praised the college for their cooperation.

Student attitudes will be sifted at a public meeting to be announced later. Miss McBride said. A panel will explain the revamping of Christmas City.

Students attending the Wednesday meeting were George Chute, 15C, Allen Jones, East Shaw, Marilyn Nuechterlein, Inter-colop League, and Miss McBride.

UN Action

Dulles made no mention of Knowland in his comment Tuesday. On one occasion he rejected Knowland's suggestion for a naval blockade to force Red China to release the American airmen.

Dulles said it is true that in neither the flares case nor the cyase-fire undertaking has the United Nations "achieved a sudden, spectacular and acceptable solution."

"But that does not prove that the U.N. is not playing an important role in these matters," Dulles said.

The United Nations, he said, "is an almost essential buffer" to block "the sharp clash which would occur if nations only dealt with each other in these matters and if there was no intermediate organization such as the U.N."

"It affords," he said, "a possibility of painstaking patient work which I believe will bear results and it provides a form and method of handling matters without which, as I say, nations would be reduced to dealing rather roughly and directly and perhaps in war-making terms with each other."

Winter Term Play

Seven Detroiters Star In 'School for Scandal'

Detroit appears to have a monopoly on acting talent at MSC with seven Detroit students taking the lead roles in "The School for Scandal," winter term play to be presented in Fairchild Theatre Thursday through Saturday.

Four members of the cast have received annual "best performance" awards from Spartan magazine.

Nancy Lou Parker, Detroit junior, who plays Lady Sneerwell in the play, was given an "Oscar" for the best supporting actress in 1952 for her role of Belle in "Ah, Wilderness."

A two-time winner of the best actor award, Frank Serresque, Detroit graduate student, will play the role of Sir Peter Teazle in partial fulfillment for an M.A. degree in speech and drama. He received his awards for acting in the 1953 production of "She Stoops to Conquer," and for the title role in 1954 in "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

Janet Rose, Detroit sophomore, also received a best actress award for her performance in "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

Completing the quartet of "Oscar" winners is Pat Davies, Grand Rapids graduate student, who was given the best supporting actress award last year for her performance in "The Winter's Tale."

Miss Davies will play the role of Crabtree, following the tradition of 18th century actresses who played men's roles.

Actors in the cast from Detroit are Ronald Neubert, who plays Sir Oliver Surface, Pat Jones, senior in the role of Maria, Rodger Birtwell, junior who will play one of the romantic roles, Jennie Pond, also a junior who makes her Fairchild debut as Mrs. Candour.
