Dulles' Talk Draws Fire In England

Formosa Defense Issue Stirs Debate

LONDON (AP)-Secretary of State Dulles' foreign policy speech was viewed critically in Britain Thursday s a spark endangering the Formosan powder keg.

Officials left no doubt they would continue to insist that the Nationalist Chinese turn over the offshore Chinese islands, within easy striking distance from the mainland, to the Chinese Commu-

Student Campaign to Begin

MSU Support Offered

State Senator John Minnema (R-Traverse City) and Rep. John McCune (R-E. Lansing)both said Thursday they would be author. Thursday they would be willing to sponsor a bill in the Legisla-ture to change MSC's name to Michigan State University.

Their announcements came after Student Congress Wednesday night passed a bill favoring such a change.

Student government plans to start an intensive campaign for the name change next week, with the introduction of peti-tions in all living units seeking supporters for the proposed name change when it is intro-duced in the legislature.

Diplomats Confident Despite Rift

Dulles, Eden to Confer Next Week

WASHINGTON (A) - The United States and Britain split publicly Thursday over Nationalist control of Chinese coastal islands like Quemoy and Matsu. Britain argued they should be surrendered to the Reds. But diplomatic officials said this is the only rupture of importance in Washington-London co-operation and that it has not pre-vented close teamwork on the two major aims of British-Amer-

These aims were behind Se cretary of State Dulles' statements on Formosa in his New York speech Wednesday night.

1. To get a period of relative peace and quiet on the Formosa problem so that some of the emo-tional excitement it has aroused in the United States, Red China and elsewhere may be dissipated and the whole issue thereafter be tackled more calmly.

2. To keep Red China and, in secondary sense, Red China's ally, Russia, squarely on the spot on the issue of war or peace in the Formosa Strait. The idea is that if the United States demonstrates every reasonable effort to and world opinion would make it

Off-Campus Living

Age 25 Ruling Fails to Go Far Enough

governing off-campus living was taken by college authorities last week

A ruling which will permit men students over 25 to live in any housing they choose followed by two weeks action which added all of Lansing to the area of homes and apartments eligible for approval.

The two changes have gone a long way toward eliminating a "baby-sitting" maternalism suggested in past college policies toward student selection of housing.

But the changes haven't ended a welfarish state which even through well-intended-underrates the ability of an upperclass university student to take care of himself.

College officials cited two major reasons for maintaining controls over available off-campus housing:

They point to a large amount of sub-standard housing which appeared during the period of rapidly expanding enrollments following World War II. A code protected students by forcing householders to meet minimum standards for sanitation and fire safety.

The officials also point out that the college regulations covering social conduct must be followed. The codes declare that no liquor or women are allowed in men students'

Householder supervision in the approved homes has given some assurance that the social rules will be obeyed. Preventing embarrassing incidents and protecting a good name is a legitimate concern for a university. Unfavorable publicity can be particularly vexing for a public institution. MSC's restrictive code on housing takes good care of students. But also implied in its insistence on restrictions which keep students in dorms or supervised and approved homes is that some students entering MSC are not competent to make judgments for themselves. It's assumed, however, that by the time a student approaches graduation he should be capable of making competent decisions. But most students at graduation will not come under the 25-year minimum. The capped and gowned graduates are in effect being told "We didn't trust you.

And a very small number can't be trusted. But officials have already indicated that individual disciplinary action would be taken against the over-25 people who violate college social rulings. Subjecting violators to stiff penalities, and perhaps denying them the chance to flaunt an MSC diploma, offers the university standards more stature than a code which keeps students in approved housing.

Dealing with individuals is much better than a blanket policy which prescribes for each of them what they should do, and how it should be done.

So much better, in fact, that more people should be included than just those who are still in school at 25.

To contend that people of voting age-old enough to receive a degree in a few months-aren't old enough to choose a place to live is to make a farce of a university's Individual action is needed to protect the school. So is individual selection of something as simple as a place to live. It's much preferable to the spectacle of a mother shielding all her children behind her skirts.

Michigan State's swimmers will launch the weekend sports Series calendar at 5 p.m. today, hosting the Iowa Hawkeyes in the Jenison Fieldhouse pool. The Spartans will endeavor to maintain their unbeaten record in dual meet competition with the visitors. State has won three straight from the lowans.

Illinois, a team beaten by the Spartans, 54-39, meted out a one-point win over Iowa. Victories over Indiana, Minnesota, and Wisconsin complete the lowa record.

Charles McCaffree, State coach, said the meet should prove to be a close affair.

Illinois, Indiana Peril Win Streak

Tonight, MSC's unbeaten gymnasts face Indiana at 7 a dual meet at Jenison Fieldhouse.

The upset minded Hoosier hope to catch the Spartans in a busy weekend as the State men prepare for defending Big 10

However, Coach George Szypula's gymnasts present an equally strong argument in the depth anel feats of Capt. Carl Rintz.
