Dulles Assails Any Soviet Try To Neutralize West Germany

U. S. Keeps Supremacy, Says Wilson

Air Superiority Conflict Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson said Tuesday this country is maintaining a "military capability superior" to that of Russia.

Asst. Air Secretary Robert Lewis also insisted that the United States has "superiority" in terms of planes that can do the job, and that in such planes there is "qualitative as well as quantitative superiority."

These latest pronouncements in a series of "we do, no we don't" official statements on the question of air superiority came Tuesday in a news conference held by Wilson. Lewis was present to join in answers.

Wilson read a formal statement which included reference to President Eisenhower's news conference comment last week that "it is just not true" that the United States has lost air control.

Wilson also included in his statement the first official American tally on new Red planes seen in the Moscow May Day rehearsal show of Russian air power.

A Pentagon announcement about these planes touched off the air superiority debate more than a week ago.

Wilson said Tuesday: "They displayed more than 50 new supersonic day fighters and more than 30 new all-weather fighters, both in operational numbers."

"They displayed more than 40 new medium bombers, shown for the first time last year as a prototype. They showed at least nine new aircraft, powered with turbo-propellers, the first time they have displayed aircraft so powered."

"They displayed 10 or more long range heavy bombers, after showing just one last year. This is comparable to our own B52 which we are producing. It is recognized that the Soviets, through this display, demonstrated an ability to produce longrange aircraft. . . ."

Wilson said the United States is building "an entire family of aircraft capable of delivering all the weapons in our arsenal, both conventional and nuclear. . . ."

He added that "our lead can and must be maintained by aggressive research, proper programming and quantity and quality production."

Barbecued Ox To Mark Ag Group Dinner

The scent of barbecued ox will soon be drifting over parts of south campus.

Wednesday night, the ox for Ag Council's annual all-university Ox Roast will begin cooking for Thursday's dinner.

Members of State's 4-H Club will lead to the all-night roasting. The ox will cook in pits dug outside the Livestock Pavilion on Shaw Lane, where the dinner will be held.

Eating will begin at 5:30 p. m., Bill Klein, Ag Council representative, said.

Beside barbecued ox, the menu will include salad, a vegetable, ice cream and coffee.

The 23 ag clubs forming the council have challenged the School of Agriculture faculty to a baseball game at the Roast. A representative from each club will play on the Ag Council team against a specially picked faculty team at 6 p. m.

Tickets for the Ox Roast can be bought at the Union desk or from Ag Council club representatives. Student and adult tickets are one dollar, children's tickets are 60 cents. A limited number will be on sale at the Pavilion.

presented to Marian Steinbauer and Gerber. Miss Steinbauer, a medical technology major from East Lansing, held a 3.9 all-college average. Gerber, a political science major from Chicago and editor of the 1955 Wolverine, has a 3.938 all-College average.

The two received $100 awards from the State Board of Agriculture, presented by President John A. Hannah.

Officers of the '55 Club elected at Swingout are president, Bill Reid; vice-president, Doug Coulter; treasurer, Marge Price, and secretary, Sheila Harper.

Hyman's award as Senior Man of the Year was accepted by Starr Keesler, senior class adviser and director of alumni relations. Hyman, a winter term graduate, is now in Hawaii.

Miss Petrunick, a music therapy major from Snyder, N. Y., is president of Mortar Board and Delta Omicron. Both Hyman's and Miss Petrunick's names will be inscribed on a permanent plaque in the Union Lounge. Each was presented a trophy.

Swingout ceremonies, after the traditional march around campus to Fairchild led by the Marching Band, began with an address by senior class president Bill Thistle.

Keesler welcomed the seniors as alumni and explained that seniors are entitled to free life membership in the alumni organization.

The value of alumni placement was stressed by Jack Breslin, director of the Placement Bureau.

"This year's graduates have the greatest job opportunities ever," he stated. Breslin assured male graduates that the Placement Bureau will be ready to help them find jobs when they finish military service.

In the major address of the evening Dr. Hannah emphasized the need for leadership to come from this year's graduates.

"Leaders by the hundreds of thousands are needed at every level and in every profession," he said, "leaders who will fight for sound ideas and sound principles."

Members of the '55 Club, alumni association of outstanding seniors, are Marilyn Anderson, Norway; William Barry, Syracuse, N. Y.; Chandler Benton, Milwaukee, Wis.; Mal Bertram, Palmer, Mass.; Dale Blount, St. Clair Shores, and Joan Board, Chicago.

Association With West Emphasized

Clears Up U.S. Policy on 'Buffer'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles, with President Eisenhower's approval, bluntly turned down Tuesday any Soviet move to turn Germany into a neutral in the East-West struggle.

In sharp language, he assailed any such proposal as unrealistic and said no one believes 70 million Germans with their great tradition could play such a neutral role.

Dulles thus stressed this government's insistence that West Germany should remain in alliance with the West. The West Germans have just entered the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance, defense setup of non-Communist powers.

Dulles spoke out at a news conference in an effort to ease some alarm in West Germany over President Eisenhower's comments on neutrality last week.

The President had told reporters at his news conference: "There seems to be developing the thought that there might be built up a series of neutralized states from north to south through Europe."

These remarks aroused speculation that the United States was switching its long-standing policy to favor including Germany as part of this neutral belt of nations.

But Dulles said he has been authorized by Eisenhower to say flatly that no such interpretation should be placed on the President's remarks.

The secretary disclosed he personally assured West German Ambassador Heinz Krehler of this Friday in answer to the envoy's urgent inquiry at a dinner the night before.

Replying to questions, Dulles made it clear American opposition to German neutrality evolved both West Germany and a possibly united Germany which could be offered the role of an armed neutral like Austria.

'55 Football Ticket Sales Start June 1

Ticket sales for the five home and four road games of the 1955 Michigan State football season will begin June 1, according to ticket manager W. F. Buett.

Farm Bureau Supports VHF TV Channel

Michigan State's attempts to get a very high frequency television channel for educational broadcasting got the support of the Michigan Farm Bureau's board of directors Tuesday.

Referring to a legislative proposal which would prevent the university from obtaining a VHF license, the Farm Bureau said it would limit the university's educational program for farmers.

The bureau also criticized a proposed bill to prevent Michigan State and other state educational institutions from starting self-liquidating construction projects without legislative approval.

More than 33 million dollars worth of student housing, the bureau said, has been built within the last 20 years to serve 8,000 Michigan State students. "When paid for from rent and other income," it added, "it becomes the property of the state."

The cost to the state for operating these dormitories, the bureau said, would have provided living quarters for less than 300 students.
