Describes Radio Role

In a special afternoon broadcast on WJZ-TV, the role of the radio in the development of the new communications system was discussed. Cooke said that a new system must do two things: come a success. First, he must decide what facts necessary to maintain an audience. Second, the commentator must decide how far he can go in his particular situation. In other words, a commentator must keep his audience in mind at all times. This differs from the reporter who is only concerned with reporting the facts as they happened, paying little attention to public opinion. In still other words, a commentator's job is to "try to keep the audience in mind of the facts they don't want to know."

Kowalczyk Runs Wild Over Rain-Soaked Field

By JACK BERRY
State News Night Editor

A rainy day did not hamper Michigan State's Spartans Saturday as they struck Wisconsin's Badgers with tornado-like thrusts to demolish any Wisconsin hopes with a 27-0 victory, the 300th win in State's history.

Kowalczyk had the best day any Spartan runner since Grandelius carried for yards against Oregon State.

Kowalczyk gained 172 yards, 10 times the entire Wisconsin offense made by rushing. The Spartans' right halfback scored seven touchdowns on 19 plays, including two touchdowns on 22-yard plays from scrimmage.

Shooting Breaks Out On Border

Egyptian, Israeli Patrols Clash

IRIM-BAERI Sector (AP) — Shooting incidents broke out Sunday in the Irim-Baeri sector east of the Gaza Strip, an Israeli military spokesman announced.

Egyptian positions twice fired mortars and automatic weapons at an Israeli patrol, which escaped without casualties, he said, and Israelis fired on a group of armed Egyptians who had crossed the border in the same area.

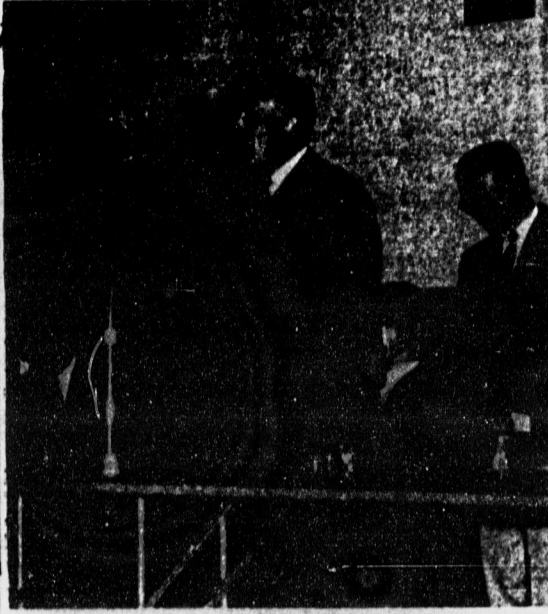

The spokesman reported the Egyptians withdrew across the armistice demarcation line into the Gaza Strip.

Israel's Foreign Ministry protested a new Egyptian report of Egyptian army units in the demilitarized El Aja-Nisnana area farther south.

"Egyptian army units, which began to cross the frontier last Wednesday, still are entrenched in our territory and hold a line in depth in the southern part of the Mianza area," said a Foreign Ministry spokesman.

A UN spokesman here accused Egyptian forces in the demilitarized zone of refusing UN observers on-the-spot permission to inspect their positions.

In Cairo, the Egyptian government-controlled radio broadcast sharp criticism of a UN appeal to halt reprisal actions. It said diplomatic observers in Cairo described the appeal as "an attempt to cover Israel's position" and an effort to protect Israel against the aggression.

President John A. Hannah stresses a point during Sunday night's discussion of the "big move" with residents of Butterfield, Bryan and Rather dormitories.

Hannah Acts To Minimize Grievances

Butterfield Residents Can't Break Contract

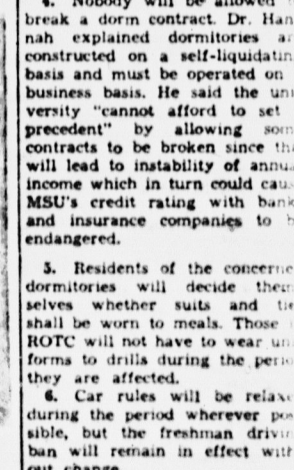

By GENE RITZINGER
State News Night Editor

President John A. Hannah told residents of the Brody group of dormitories Sunday night "nobody regrets more than I" the necessity of asking Butterfield Hall residents to vacate their rooms.

Some 300 Butterfield residents are to share living quarters with Rather and Bryan residents so accommodations will be available for members of the Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities.

Speaking to several hundred students at a two-hour meeting designed to allay resentment generated by the impending move and to clarify misunderstandings, Dr. Hannah made these points clear:

1. Butterfield men will not be out of their rooms any longer than necessary. They will be asked to leave by noon Friday, Nov. 11, and will be able to move back in not later than Friday, Nov. 18.
2. Butterfield residents will not get a refund of dorm fees for the period they live in Bryan and Rather. Dr. Hannah said Association members will be charged a fee and whatever remains aside from the actual "out of pocket" cost will be given to residents of the Brody group to be used as they see fit.
3. When the wing of Butterfield now being used to house the overflow from Kellogg Center is returned to student use Butterfield residents will be given preference in filling the surplus space. This will allow Butterfield residents to be housed two men to a room instead of three to a room as at present.
4. Nobody will be allowed to break a dorm contract. Dr. Hannah explained dormitories are constructed on a self-liquidating basis and must be operated on a business basis. He said the university "cannot afford to set precedent" by allowing some contracts to be broken since this will lead to instability of annual income which in turn could cause MSU's credit rating with banks and insurance companies to be endangered.
5. Residents of the concrete dormitories will decide their own selves whether suits and ties shall be worn to meals. Those in ROTC will not have to wear uniforms to drills during the period they are affected.
6. Car rules will be relaxed during the period wherever possible, but the freshman driver's ban will remain in effect with-out change.

... all the way ...

These are the Colleges of Business and Public Service, Communication Arts, Education, Graduate Studies, Home Economics, and Science and Arts.

Others are the Dean of Students' office, Continuing Education, all-university special groups, secretary's office, and the comptroller's office.

Total contributions and divisional percentages will be computed this week, Mason said.

The Lansing area drive, which began Oct. 25, will run through Nov. 10. The total goal is $285,187.

"Welcome" Sign Thief Fined, Put on Probation

Justice George Hutter, of the Lansing Township Court last week sentenced an Oklaohn, Illinois, freshman to 3 months probation and $10 in fines plus costs.

The MSU student was arrested by the campus police for stealing the Welcome Alumni sign from the Union Building.

The case has been turned over to the Dean of Students.

Israelites, Reds Talk With Dulles

Secretary Protests Soviet Arms Sales

GENEVA (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles conferred Sunday with Russian and Israeli statesmen in a two-way effort to douse flashpoints of possible war in the Middle East.

Dulles protested to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov against Soviet bloc arms sales to Egypt on the ground they might touch off new Arab-Israeli fighting. He emerged from the hour-long meeting apparently with no assurance that the Red arms flow will be halted.

The American next sought to calm the fears of Premier Moshe Sharett that Israel will be left alone and unaided to face Egyptian arms. Dulles promised to consider sympathetically any precise requests for arms that Israel might make for normal defense needs.

160 Tickets on Sale Today

Purdue Train Trip Has Little Response

By DONN SHELTON
State News Managing Editor

Optimistic Spartan Spirit officials will try again today to sell tickets for Saturday's student train to the Purdue-State game.

They will put 160 tickets on sale at 9 a.m. at the Union ticket office.

Judging by sales so far, they would be overdoing things if they only put 60 tickets up.

In four days of sales last week less than 200 tickets were sold—almost half of them the morning of the first day of sales.

Officials of the group are mystified about the total lack of response to the trip.

Last year a similar excursion to Notre Dame filled a train of the same size.

Tickets this year are priced at $12.50—only $2.50 more than the trip to South Bend.

Following today's all-student sales, the tickets will be sold to faculty members as well.

Tickets are also being sold for the train only, for student who already have game seats. The trip tickets are priced at $9.

Plans have also been completed for serving food on the trip. Campus Chest will serve coffee and doughnut breakfasts and sandwiches and soft drinks later. All proceeds will go to the Chest.

The Marching Band isn't going to the game so the majority of the Spartan cheering will come from the train group.

Russia Leads U.S. in Making Of Missiles

McCarthy Fears Total Destruction

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said Sunday night this country is lagging behind Russia in the race to develop an intercontinental ballistic missile. He asked whether Communist subversion might be to blame.

In a speech peppered with jibes at the "spirit of Geneva," McCarthy said that if Russia develops a long-range guided missile before the United States does, "this country will face the alternative of surrender to the Communists, or utter destruction."

He said he must report that on the available evidence the Soviet Union is winning the race and it is possible this is the case "because well-concealed Communists in the United States government are pulling the brakes on our own guided missile program."

McCarthy said a slowdown of the American program to develop an intercontinental guided missile "is the top priority mission of Communist agents in this country."

McCarthy referred to the "spirit of Geneva"—that is, an outward easing of East-West tensions—as the spirit of "illusion, folly and appeasement."

JOHN FOSTER DULLES seeks Middle East peace

... seeks Middle East peace ...

Without committing the United States to any course of action, Dulles said he hoped for quick conferences later with heads of two European governments vitally concerned in Mediterranean stability.

He flies Tuesday to Madrid for talks with Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco and five days later to Britain to meet Yugoslav President Tito. Soviet threats and thrusts in the Mediterranean area doubtless will be discussed.

Sharett told reporters after meeting Dulles he gathered the United States still has to decide just how to deal with the Middle East situation. He said he left Dulles "with no doubt or misconception" about Israeli views on Egypt's arms program.

Centennial Archives Planned

Office to Close for 100 Years

By DEBBY HALL
State News Night Editor

"Out for a hundred years" may well be the sign on the Centennial office door when it closes Jan. 31.

A few leftovers from the Centennial birthday cake still remain for Director A. Westley Rowland to put in order.

A Centennial archives is being prepared for the museum. Scores of documents, collected during the past year will point out the highlights of MSU's Centennial. A scrapbook, containing photographs, news clippings and related articles, will also be included in the archives.

A documentary film in color soon to be released for public use, will also be stored with the Centennial souvenirs. Prepared by the Information Services the movie will retell the story of the Centennial events.

Office to Close for 100 Years

Concluding the birthday festivities with the "March of Memories" Oct. 22, the past year has brought Michigan State University to the foreground of education.

Founder's Day on Feb. 12 lit the first candle on the Centennial cake. Feb. 14 marked the opening symposium in a series of 10, which attracted world renowned authorities in educational, professional and industrial fields.

April 13 heightened the festivities when Michigan's Senate passed a bill to change the name of MSU to Michigan State University of Agriculture and Applied Science.

"Michigan Dream" was celebrated as the Centennial museum ical on May 13 and 14. The story of Michigan in 1870 was produced by faculty and students in an original production.

The student Centennial Commission sponsored a United Nations program on May 18. Representatives from 14 countries participated in two miniature sessions in the Auditorium. They debated "Lesser Developed Areas" and "Admittance of Communist China to the UN."

During the summer the Centennial of Farm Mechanization attracted more than 200,000 people to view the progress of agriculture through technology, modern and historical exhibits and pageants.

During the past year over 100 Centennial awards were presented to outstanding persons in education, industry and agriculture.

Why is it that Phillips Hall is being turned into a girls' dormitory next year against the wishes of the student body, both girls and boys? Why is it that a bridge is in the process of being built opposite the new library when it is most needed opposite Shaw Hall?

Faulty Policies

To the Editor: In reading your newspaper the past few weeks, I have noted something obviously wrong with the administration at MSU. I must assume that the administration sets up the policies carried out at this school.

It cannot be that we have too much money on hand, so I must assume that the administration is less interested in the student than it is in pleasing others. Stephen Will ***

Why Not Cabbies' Course?

To the Editor: In the interest of improving MSU's "mediocre" educational program, may we suggest that a new area of study be added to the curriculum, namely, Taxicab Administration.

First year: T.A. 101, 102, 103, "Taxicab Economics." This sequence would cover such things as computing fares, making change, etc.

Fourth year: T.A. 401, 402, 403, "Taxicab Geography." The location of bus terminals, hotels, bars, etc.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Wes Santee, the nation's greatest miler, Sunday was suspended by the Missouri Valley AAU for accepting excessive expense money for participation in track meets in California last May, it was learned Sunday.

Ohio State swamped hapless Northwestern, 49-0, in a brilliant show of power, and Michigan State took an important decision from Wisconsin, 27-0, to stay in the running for the title.

President Supports Benson

Dems Worried About Future

DENVER (AP) — President Eisenhower's 100 per cent support of Secretary of Agriculture Benson put the Democrats on notice Sunday that they face a 1956 Eisenhower battle for administration policies—whether he runs again or not.

And by backing the besieged Cabinet officer all the way the recuperating President in effect served another notice—that any Republican grumbling about Benson on the politically hot farm price issue isn't likely to move the chief executive.

Those points stood out as Eisenhower made encouraging new progress in recovery from his Sept. 24 heart attack.

The doctors at Fitzsimons Army Hospital reported that the President Sunday morning took the longest unassisted walk of his convalescence—about 30 to 40 feet from the corridor back to his room.

Word that the President is standing by Benson on the administration's highly controversial farm program came out at Benson's news conference late Saturday.

Benson met with newsmen after he and Eisenhower had discussed agriculture problems—mainly declining farm income—for 30 minutes in the President's hospital room.

Eisenhower's discussion of what the White House classified as an "explosive issue" also served to underscore the recovery progress he has made. It was the first time he had tackled a really hot domestic problem during his convalescence.

He said "I hoped we were going to make it clear it was with the utmost regret these people would be discriminated, but somehow a lot of strange notions were given to the media of publicity."

He said he had detected an attitude among students of "we have got to resist this move because if we don't, how do we know they won't do it again next week?"

"Never in the history of this institution," he said, "have we moved people out of dormitories to accommodate guests and discommode students."

The present situation, Dr. Hannah said, was an emergency, and one that had to be met with unusual methods.
