American Winners

Nobel Prizes Awarded

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — American scientists Wednesday won the 1955 Nobel prizes in chemistry and physics.

Vincent du Vigneaud of the University of Michigan will receive the $36,720 prize for work on two amino acids that help in childbirth.

The physics award goes jointly to Dr. Willis E. Lamb of Stanford University and Dr. Polykarp Kusch of Columbia University.

Dr. Lamb will receive $36,720 for work on atomic measurements. Their work corrected an error made by a Briton who previously won the Nobel prize.

The Swedish Academy of Sciences will present the prizes here Dec. 10. The prizes were created by the will of Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite.

3 Students Serve On Panel in N.Y.

Three State students majoring in packaging technology participated in a panel discussion at the 17th Annual Forum of Packaging Institute, which concluded its three-day meeting at the Statler Hotel, New York City, Wednesday.

The discussion, "The University Answers Today's Need for Trained Packaging Personnel," was led by James W. Goff, instructor of forest products.

Students who served on the panel are John O'Hara, Niagara Falls, N.Y., senior; John Reilly, Chicago, Ill., junior; and Fred Barker, London, Eng., graduate student.

Dr. Harold J. Raphael, instructor of forest products, also attended the annual meeting.

Faculty Speakers Group

'Birthday' Bureau to Continue

By DEBBY HALL, State News Night Editor. A Michigan State birthday present for the Centennial has been renewed indefinitely.

The faculty speakers' bureau, originally established to publicize the Centennial, will be taken over by Continuing Education in January. Gordon L. Thomas, assistant professor in the speech department, now directs the bureau from Wells Hall.

The Centennial program service was patterned after the 17-year-old students speakers' bureau, which is directed by the speech department. The public reception of the temporary program was so successful in Michigan that it was permanently organized during the summer, Thomas said.

After the completion of the last lecture on Dec. 31, faculty speakers will have visited 100 Michigan cities and covered approximately 20,000 miles.

Last fall a pamphlet was circulated to 5,000 Michigan organizations outlining the programs available on various topics. Two speakers from every university department were enlisted upon the recommendation of the department head.

From the list of 400 selected subjects organizations specify their particular interest and arrange a definite date to hear the speaker. Some groups sponsor several speakers from the bureau.

Traveling expenses were defrayed by the Centennial bureau.

Topics ranging from "Juvenile Delinquency and the Police" to "Animals in the Museum" indicate the diversity of academic subjects. Each speaker also commented on the Centennial or display MSU traveling exhibits.

Besides creating more of a demand for MSU speakers, the program "secured good will between the people of Michigan and the university," Thomas said.

Previously faculty speakers from Michigan State co-ordinated with the groups through the individual departments. No central source was available for Michigan organizations to contact for lecturers.

Parent Teachers Associations, child study clubs and service groups were among some of the organizations in Michigan that have hosted the MSU lecturers. Many of the speakers provided slides, tape recordings or movies with their talks.

Harold E. Sponberg, assistant director of the university extension department, will head the faculty speakers' bureau in Continuing Education.

Maentz Named Top Lineman

By The Associated Press

Tom Maentz, 220-pound end for the University of Michigan, turned defeat into victory for the Wolverines against Iowa Saturday. He caught a forward pass and went 60 yards for what proved to be the winning touchdown in Michigan's great last-quarter rally.

For his performance that delighted Michigan adherents in the crowd of 72,000 at Ann Arbor and a national television audience, Maentz was selected Wednesday as The Associated Press lineman of the week.

Weightlifters Beat Prison In 1st Meet

In the first competition ever held by a MSU weightlifting team, the Spartans edged Jackson State Prison, 3-2.

State's Richard Berger won individual honors of the day by lifting 695 pounds.

Other Spartan winners were Robert Quessel, 650 pounds, and Le Wright, 698 pounds. Quessel entered in the 198-lb. division, Wright in the heavy-weight class.

In addition to competitive meets, the Weightlifting Club sponsors a body-building program for any interested students. Quessel, president of the club hopes to find a weightlifter in the 123-lb division or lighter to add to the team.

Future plans call for a return match with the prisoners winter term.

Kennedy — Best in the Business

Two weeks ago Henry Kennedy established himself as the top cross country runner in the nation.

Kennedy's success this season has done much to give the Spartans the strongest team in the Big 10 and one of the best in the nation.

The 22-year-old runner was born and raised in Glasgow, Scotland, and it was there that he got his first interest in running. Henry joined the Bellahouston Harriers, one of the top athletic clubs in the British Isles, at the age of 17.

His progress was slow but he kept improving. Trained as a draftsman, Kennedy immigrated to Toronto, Canada, in March, 1953.

After being in the land of the Maple Leaf only two days Kennedy ran against a Canadian long-distance runner by the name of Selwyn Jones, now Michigan State's cross country captain.

While running for Gladstone, Kennedy broke four Canadian cross country and track records.

One of these was set at the 1954 British Empire Games held in Vancouver, B.C., where he set a Canadian record in the three-mile run. Although finishing 13th in the race Kennedy ran against the two world record holders in the event.

During that summer Kennedy decided to come to Michigan State. In his first year here Kennedy established six freshman records and won two Michigan AAU champion the cross country title and two mile crown.

In addition, Kennedy represented the Canadian cross country champion and finished against a highly-touted senior National AAU.

This season found Kennedy bettering the NCAA cross country mark.

Henry is a member of the Co-op along with Jones. He takes most of his time but Kennedy maintains almost average.

Kennedy is working toward his masters degree in physical education and hopes to become a coach.

The Spartan sophomore led for his rigorous schedule. On the average, the Scotsman will run as many miles. He designed his methods after the great runner, Emil Zatopek, and results have paid off.

In the beginning of the season Kennedy claimed he would run the four mile cross country course in 19 minutes.

The remark surprised observers because most thought Charlie Caputo's course record of 19:36.7 was breakable.

Kennedy will go in the national Collegiate as the first and with his steady improvement might be able to accomplish goal and also give Michigan State their first individual champion.

Spartan punters in six games this fall have boomed out kicks to the tune of a 47.7 yard average try, at total which may well be tops in the nation.

A week ago, the MSU team average of 43.6 yards per kick was tops among major-college teams.

State's present average is based on 17 punts for 801 yards.

AF Bomber Hits Amid City Homes

EAST MEADOW, N. Y. (AP) — A twin-engine Air Force bomber crashed amid a row of small private homes here Wednesday, heavily damaging one of them. Miraculously only the two men aboard the plane were killed.

The B-26 bomber was en route to Mitchell Air Force Base after a routine training flight when it went into what was described as a steep climb. It crashed into the right side of a two-story brick house in the middle of a block.

The scene is about a mile east of Mitchell Field.

The cause of the crash, Paul Kowalski, a new pilot, was at work. He said he had been existing for months with his 2-year-old daughter and was on his way home.

A neighbor of children was playing in the street as the bomber plunged out of the night late afternoon sky. Within a few feet of where the bomber hit, a neighbor was taking his lawn.

Despite the neighborhood activity in the path of the descending bomber, no civilians were injured.

The Air Force identified the dead pilot as Capt. Charles S. Fawcett, 26, of Lansing, Mich. The pilot and Sgt. Charles W. Stiles, 24, of Mitchell Field.

Improved vaccine given to 100,000 children in Michigan is a public health problem.
