French Lift Explosives From Ship

Rebel Munitions Bound for Algiers

ORAN, Algeria (AP)—French authorities said Sunday they have seized from a Yugoslav ship more than two million dollars worth of arms and explosives they said were destined for Algerian rebels.

The ship, the passenger-cargo liner Slovenija, had been shadowed by a French plane ever since it left its home port of Rijeka, Yugoslavia, on a voyage to Casablanca. It was intercepted by two French navy ships when it tried to pass through territorial waters off Oran Saturday.

The French forced the 5824-ton vessel into port here Saturday night and unloaded a 130-ton cargo of arms and ammunition packed in 3,286 cases. They said this was enough munitions, shells and light arms to equip five battalions.

Calling it the biggest arms haul they have made since the Algerian rebellion began three years ago, they estimated the cargo value at a billion francs ($230,000,000).

French intelligence heard that the arms were to have been discharged at Casablanca, Morocco, where an intermediary was to ship them on to the rebels.

Announcement of the seizure here coincided with a French announcement in Algiers that national rebels were planning a new powerful offensive in the spring using Soviet weapons.

The French authorities refused to identify the origin of the arms seized aboard the Slovenija.

Authoritative sources said the ship's manifest listed Yemen as the destination of the seized cargo.

The ship and its 30 passengers, most of them Americans, were permitted to sail today toward Casablanca.

Yugoslavs Keep Mum On Seizure

BELGRADE (AP)—Yugoslavia said Sunday on the seizure. Neither the radio nor the official news agency mentioned it and no Yugoslav official was on hand to comment on the affair Sunday.

Foreign diplomatic sources said the French Ambassador to Yugoslavia, Vincent Broustard, will call on Yugoslav Deputy Foreign Minister Mladen Ivkovic Sunday, probably to demand explanation of arms found aboard the Slovenija.

Part authorities at Rijeka said the Slovenija has radiated a full report on the incident but refused to disclose the contents.

There was no indication whether the arms were Yugoslav ships are frequently used by Yugoslavia and Hungary for these exports.

Belts was growing here that Yugoslavia would protest the French action as a violation of sovereignty.

Fashion Tryouts Slated Thursday

Fashion show tryouts will be held Thursday from 7:30-10:00 in the Tower Room of the Union building. Those selected for the fashion show will appear before the Union Board week on March 5.

According to Lee Kwasny, East Lansing sr., general chairman, there have been 23 men models chosen for this fashion show.

Those co-eds who are going to those should wear heels, skirts and sweaters.

Block 'S' Plans Fall Film Show

A Block 'S' coffee hour will be held today 3:30-5:30 in Old College Hall for all members of the block and the junior class. Films of the card section, taken at all five of the home football games fall term, will be shown at 4 and 5 p.m.

George Frink, chairman of block activities, will be present at the meeting to comment on the films.

Tom Hood, Paw Paw soph student chairman, talks with Denis Ruby and Mary-Jane Whitmore, Okemos Jr., about the work being done by the Council for Christian Work at a meeting Sunday night.

'University Under God'

CCW, Baly Begin Religious Series

By JEDI DIXON

The Council for Christian Work sponsored by 11 religious organizations on campus, is presenting a five-day series, "University Under God," with Denis Baly leading the faculty discussions.

Looking at the list of religious organizations on campus—28 groups in existence offering programs to Protestants, Catholics, and Jews.

CCW's question is how do the students react to the opportunities it offers them?

The consensus among those concerned seems to be that while there is strong, healthy attendance at meetings, students are not participating to their best advantage.

Every opportunity should be made to take advantage of the discussions in the "University Under God" series. Replace the superficially often found in religious programs, with honest concern for a spiritual awakening.

The first lecture of the CCW Series, by Denis Baly, was held Sunday night with a near capacity crowd in the Union Ballroom.

Baly began his lecture by mentioning there is power in words, especially from the outside. "We are all absolute naysayers of that power." The question is, are we aware of this power?

Should this power have any bearing on a University student? According to Baly, there is a definite connection between the Christian faith and the educational world.

It was noted that we tend to put God in Heaven and heaven in glory. However, God is here.

God cannot be less than we are. If we see good in us, it is magnified by the "nays" degree in Him he continued.

In order to know the purpose, you have to know what God has said about it—using the

Song Cavalcade Features Variety At Aud Tonight

Ralph Hunter and his "Cavalcade of Song" will appear at the auditorium tonight at 8:15.

Featured in this program is Carol Jones, mezzo soprano, who appeared on Broadway in the musical "My Darling Aida." As soloist with the Robert Shaw Chorale she made three American tours and an eleven-week tour of Europe and the Middle East.

The group will cater to many musical tastes with a varied program including songs of faith by 19th century composers, songs of love by Monteverdi and Schubert and will highlight the first half of their program with Stravinsky's operatic-oratorio, "Oedipus Rex." Mr. Hunter has staged this particular selection making use of the traditional Greek masks.

The choral group will conclude the concert with songs of the American Revolutionary era and a tribute to the late Jerome Kern.

Senate Democrats Propose $2 Billion Defense Increase

New Post In Cabinet Proposed

To Direct Civilian Science Activities

WASHINGTON (AP)—Creation of a new cabinet-level science department was proposed Sunday to centralize and intensify America's effort to meet the Soviet challenge in space.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) and Humphrey (D-Minn.) announced they would introduce a bill establishing a department of science and technology under a secretary who would direct the government's civilian science activities.

The Atomic Energy Commission would be transferred to the new department, along with the National Science Foundation, the National Bureau of Standards, the Patent Office, and other agencies, as part of a sweeping reorganization.

In addition, the measure would authorize direct government loans of 500 million dollars for scientific scholarships and government insurance of one billion dollars worth of private loans to college and graduate students.

Other parts of the bill provide for establishing scientific research centers, collecting scientific and technical information overseas, and replacing the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee with separate Senate and House committees on science and technology.

Various proposals for federal financial scholarships, including the 4-year, billion-dollar program recommended by President Eisenhower, already have been offered and referred to other committees.

Under the McClellan-Humphrey bill loans will not exceed $1,500 a year would be made by the government to students of engineering, mathematics and the physical and biological sciences.

The loans would be repayable only after 10 years after the course of study was completed. During this repayment period, the loans would bear 2 percent interest. Loans of students going to work for the government in their chosen field would be cancelled at the rate of $1,500 a year.

Under the loan insurance part of the bill, the government would guarantee the payment of 90 percent of any losses incurred by universities and colleges or other private sources on scholarship loans in the designated fields of scientific study.

J-Hop Features Morrow, Winding

It's Two Bands for One at the Taj Mahal

The 1958 J-Hop is better than a 2 for 1 sale.

It will spotlight not just one, but two different nationally-known musical ensembles during its two night stand, Feb. 7 and 8.

The main feature of the evening will be "The Big Best" of Buddy Morrow and his orchestra.

An added attraction will be the intermission appearance of Kai Winding and his Septet.

Morrow, who presided over the Sunbelt Spin two years ago, is noted for his recording work, especially his hit numbers, "Night Train" and "One Mint Julep."

He received his early orchestra training from some of the top-ranking leaders in the field. Among them were Eddy Duchin, Paul Whitman and Jimmy Dorsey.

By 1950 he had signed with RCA Victor and was on his way to recording and touring fame.

Morrow's appearances are noted for the variety of musical forms he presents, including Dixieland, rhythm and blues, Rock 'n' Roll, and jazz.

Most important to the couples attending the Hop will be his several on danceable rhythms.

Kai has consistently been among the top three trombonists since 1947, according to annual polls by the Downbeat and Metronome.

Like Morrow, he was associated with some of the great

Klansmen Face Indictment For Inciting Maxton Riot

MAXTON, N.C. (AP)—Sheriff Malcolm McLeod said Sunday he will ask that Klansmen be indicted on charges of inciting a riot after gun-wielding Indians broke up a Klan rally in this Lumbee Indian area Saturday night.

"I'm glad we got out without fatalities," said the sheriff in calling the incident a riot. He said five Indians died and 100 Klansmen were injured, but only four persons were arrested.

'Mr. MSU' Petitioning Begins Today

Petitions will be sent to all men's living units today to elect a "Mr. MSU" to reign over this year's Spunk's Spin, "Mr. East Lad," and during the year until March 1959, according to Leo Harbert, publicity chairman.

Sheduled for Feb. 20, the turn-out, semi-formal affair will feature Woody Herman and his orchestra with the crowning of Mr. MSU by Miss MSU of 1958 during intermission.

To be eligible, candidates must be single, have a 2.0 college grade point average, be enrolled as a student at MSU and be here until March 29.

Two boys will be held for 12 in the Union, whose ten finalists will be chosen. The second is scheduled for the Zeta Tau Alpha house where the final decision will be made.

Personality, appearance, etiquette and previous activities are the qualities on which judging will be based.

Advisors of Tower Guard, Mortar Board and Spartan Women's League, sponsors of the Spin, will act as judges with faculty and committee members.

Several Klansmen were arrested and taken to the hospital. Sheriff's deputies and state highway patrolmen broke up the disturbance with tear gas and escorted the dozen or so Klansmen to their automobiles. The cars moved out of the field where the rally was scheduled as Klansmen hanged upon them with shotgun bullets. Only one of the Klansmen was robbed.

The Indians had been arrested by law enforcement in this area last week attributed to the Ku Klux Klan.

It is said that last Thursday night a Klansman, before the rally, had warned the Rev. James W. Cole, First Methodist minister of Maxton, S.C., and admitted leader of the Klan group, that he would be responsible for the Klan rally.

The sheriff said he would ask indictments for the riot. He said that an indictment on charges of inciting a riot against Klansmen and against Klansmen.

'Devil's General' Shows German W-W-I Fighting

"The Devil's General," a German film based on Carl Zuckmayer's famous play, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. at the Theater Trust and Friday. A feature of the Foreign Film Series, the movie will be shown at 7 and 9 p.m. both evenings.

The play was depicted to Zuckmayer's friends in the German Resistance Movement and was inspired by the life of Ernst Thälmann, World War I era, stunt flyer and adventurer. The last years of Thälmann's life closely resemble those of Zuckmayer's hero.

land, Martin, Randleville, N.C., tobacco plant worker who was the only one arrested after the mob dispersed.

A two-week criminal term of superior court opens in Lumberton Sunday and the solicitor said it could be possible to ask indictments at that time if he thought necessary.

Inciting a riot is a misdemeanor in North Carolina, punishable by up to two years imprisonment upon conviction.

After the disturbance, about 30 Indians gathered in front of the police station at nearby Pembroke, seat of the Indian community, and hung Cole in effigy.

One Klansman told newsmen who tried to find Cole during the excitement that he was in a car parked nearby.

A riot was burned in the driveway of a home at St. Paul's last Monday night, reportedly as a warning to an Indian woman to stop dating a white man. Later in the week another cross was burned at East Lumberton where an Indian family had moved into a white neighborhood.

Indians and whites have been intermingling for decades at Pembroke and attend the same public schools and churches.

Debaters Win In Grand Slam

Michigan State University's debate squad made a clean sweep Saturday at the Ohio State University forensic tournament at Columbus, Ohio. The four-man squad was awarded individual sterling silver medals for winning all debates in which they were entered.

Members of the two teams were: Berry Broughton and Charles Herbert, Lansing freshmen, affirmative; Tom A. Case, Chicago Heights junior, and Bert Sheppard, senior, negative.

Jack M. Carter, of the speech department in the College of Communication Arts, is director of debate and accompanied the team.

This year's national intercollegiate debate subject is, "Resolved: that the requirement of membership in a labor organization as a condition of employment should be illegal."

It was the first time in the history of the Ohio State tournament that one team made such a record and the four-man squad was given an ovation by the audience. Taking part in the tournament were 18 colleges and universities from six states: Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia, Illinois and Michigan.

The Michigan State University debaters placed third in competition for the sweepstakes trophy, missing first place by only four points.

An eight-man squad leaves Friday, Jan. 24, for Muncie, Ind., for a tournament at Ball State College.

Seek Hike In Missile Production

Say Must Keep SAC's Efficiency

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democrats are packaging a defense buildup program that could add as much as two billion dollars to the new military funds requested by President Eisenhower.

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said a proposed single-package amendment to the defense appropriations bill probably will call for increased production of long range bombers, intercontinental and intermediate range missiles, the Navy's underwater fired Polaris missile and the special submarines to launch it.

Jackson said the proposal, now in the formative stage, has yet to be cleared by Democratic leaders. But he said if agreement is reached the increased appropriations "will certainly be more than a billion dollars and may run up to two billion dollars."

The proposed amendment apparently reflects strong Democratic belief that Eisenhower did not ask for sufficient funds in his $1,200,000,000 request for emergency money or his $39,800,000,000 defense budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Jackson, a member of the Senate Armed Services committee, emphasized the Democratic proposal will be directed toward making funds available for long range military programs, rather than for an immediate increase in expenditures beyond those programmed by the administration.

One of the objectives on which he appeared to have staunch Democratic support, would be to keep long range bombers for the Strategic Air Command (SAC) rolling off the production lines while missiles are being perfected.

Sens. Symington (D-Mo.) and Stennis (D-Miss.) said in separate interviews they have become convinced by testimony before the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee that SAC must be kept at a high level of efficiency to maintain U. S. retaliatory power until missiles are fully operational.

Stennis, vice chairman of the subcommittee, said he is interested primarily in seeing to it that the Defense Department doesn't cut down too rapidly on production of bombers because of optimism over missile developments.

The worst error we could make would be to slack off on our maintenance of SAC at this time," he said.

Symington said that while all of the expert testimony isn't in yet, his present position is that nothing should be done to weaken SAC.

"I think for the next five years we have got to be careful not to let our guard down in SAC and try to put all of our reliance on missiles."

Taylor Set For Ag Work

Hal R. Taylor, University of Wyoming director of information and agricultural editor, has been named to the staff of the National Project in Agricultural Communications (NPAC) here.

Taylor is a journalism graduate of the University of Missouri and was on editorial staffs at New Mexico A & M College and Ohio State University before going to the University of Wyoming.

At NPAC, Taylor will direct the development of training courses in writing and visual aids for cooperative extension personnel. The project, which operates under a grant from the Kellogg Foundation, seeks to improve the ability of extension workers to communicate information to farm people and thus shorten the time it takes for an improved practice to reach farm people after laboratory develop-

Ezra's Problems Come From Inside

Poor Ezra! For nearly a month our Secretary of Agriculture had managed to escape the Washington doehouse. By doing so, he had also relinquished his title of "most unpopular man on Capitol Hill" to his State Department counterpart, John Foster Dulles.

But after Friday's performance, when he appeared before Sen. Allen Ellender's Agriculture and Forestry Committee, Ezra Taft Benson looks like a sure bet to reclaim his dubious honors.

Ellender, a Louisiana Democrat, showed no mercy as he laced into the Benson policy. When he had finished, nary a piece of Ezra's pie-in-the-sky program remain unmolested. The 14-point plan, the surplus, the 1957 prospects, the year-by-year comparative statistics — all received a thorough going over.

After observing Bensonism in practice for the past five years, we ask one question. Is Benson, who's stationed in what must be called the Cabinet hot spot position, capable of carrying out a satisfactory farm program?

After hearing Charles Brannan, legal council to the National Farmers' Union and his sidekick, Wesley McCune, author of "Who's Behind the Farm Policy," discussing the situation before a group of MSU Agricultural economists Friday night, one would almost have to say the answer is "No."

EZRA TAFT BENSON

Brannan, you may remember, was himself Sec. of Agriculture from 1948 to 1953, and as a member of "the Truman gang" won no popularity awards for his controversial "Brannan plan."

While Brannan made no outright attempt to question Benson's personal motives — perhaps out of remembrance of his own dark days (in Charlie's words, "I would have been run out of office, if it hadn't been for that wonderful man from Independence"), he did question seriously Ezra's policies on the surplus and flexible price supports.

If Brannan was moderate in any criticism of his successor, his former press agent, Wes McCune, was not.

Though more suited to journalism than agricultural economics when he first worked with Brannan, after following every word that Ezra has uttered during the Benson regime, McCune may be regarded as something of an expert on the present policy. As a Democratic party worker, McCune may not have been exactly impartial in his comments; but he nevertheless raised some interesting points.

Benson's greatest mistake, as McCune sees it, has been to surround himself with businessmen rather than farming people. A combination of the two would be permissible, McCune said, but this never happens.

One important "agricultural" bureau, for instance, is made up of four bankers and three insurance men. And this case is not isolated. The ranks of the Department of Agriculture, according to McCune, are largely represented by Wall Street men, directors of holding companies and large corporations, wealthy industrialists and some professional men.

With only the moneyed classes having their weight felt on these advisory boards, it is no wonder that the Secretary of Agriculture is doing such an inadequate job. Before the farm policy becomes favorable to the farmer, it will be necessary for him to gain representation in the farm bloc. Only then will he gain his long-sought economic stability.

The Hard Way

For Mistakes Can Be Costly

File Your Tax Returns Early

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of eight stories on your income tax, designed to save you time and money in filing your return on 1957 income. Clip and save each of the eight articles for ready reference when you begin calculating your tax.

By G. K. HODENFIELD AP Newfeatures Writer

There's no use trying to ignore it any longer. It's that time again when Uncle Sam expects all his money-making money and neighbors to file their income tax returns.

The deadline isn't until midnight of Tuesday, April 15. However, if you have a refund coming, odds are the sooner you file your return the sooner you'll get your money. Even if you owe Uncle more than he's already taken, it's wise to get started now. Those who wait until the last minute are more apt to make mistakes and mistakes can be costly.

By this time Uncle Sam should have mailed you a copy of the same type of form that you used last year. If he doesn't, or if you are paying income tax for the first time, you can get the forms and instructions sheets from your local bank or post office, or from any Internal Revenue Service office.

Before you start the actual work on your tax returns it might be well to develop the proper mental attitude by repeating slowly several times: "It just isn't true that Uncle Sam wants all my money and the start off my back — it only seems that way."

Millions Refunded A lucky, the tax laws provide numerous ways in which you can reduce the government's annual bill. The tax collectors insist they want only what's due, and not a cent more. They proved that last year by refunding millions of dollars to surprised taxpayers who had made careless mistakes in filing out their forms.

This series of articles is designed primarily to help the vast group of Americans who deal directly with the government on taxes due for salaries and wages earned during 1957.

Who Must File If you are under 65 and had an income of $600 or more during 1957, you must file a return, regardless of whether any tax is due. If you are 65 or over, you must file if your gross income was $1,200 or more.

If your income was below these minimums, you don't owe any tax. So, if your employer or employers withheld any taxes during the year, you must file a return in order to get a refund.

You can fill out your form and mail it in just as soon as your employer (or employers, if you worked for more than one during the year) provides you with his record of how much you were paid and how much was deducted for taxes during the year.

This information will come to you on Form W-2 and a copy (copy B) of this form must be attached to your return when you file it.

There have been no major changes in the tax laws since last year. There has been only one major change in the form 1040 — the addition of a line on the first page for the listing of travel and reimbursed expenses, etc.

printed, the Internal Revenue Service decided that the public hadn't been given enough warning of the details involved, so it ruled that you are not required to use the new line. A later article will explain this new line. This is designed primarily for self-employed persons, but it also applies to other taxpayers who will have income during the year that will not be subject to the withholding tax.

The declaration includes the amount of any such income, and the amount of tax that must be paid on it. Then the taxpayer must make quarterly payments to IRS to cover the difference between the estimated total tax due and the amount paid through withholdings.

The idea is to keep taxpayers on a pay-as-you-go basis. If you find later that you have underestimated your tax, your nearest IRS office can tell you how to file an amended declaration.

After you get your facts and figures together on your 1957 income, the next thing to do is to fill in which of the various forms to use. That will be the subject of the next article.

THE MUCH DISCUSSED but still "Top-secret" Gaither report is rapidly burning up explosive power behind the White House curtain that hides it. Unless it is released, and soon, the price of suppression may far outweigh any damage full public display could possibly create.

That the report may rock the nation with alarming disclosures about our defense position is not its most dangerous potential. That it may call for vastly greater federal expenditures and enormous sacrifices in our living standard is likewise secondary.

These are judgments open to debate once the findings are released; they may turn out to be not as clear as rumor paints them; there is nothing infallible about the authors of the report.

What strikes me as the most frightening aspect about the document is its alleged implication that the only sure way to catch up with the Soviets in the mad race for destructive power is to attack them first in the hope of destroying them before they destroy us.

ASIDE FROM THE TOWERING question of morality involved, and beyond the fact that such madness might well lead to our own destruction as a nation, if not our annihilation as a people, there is this to ponder: What if the Russians believe the rumor?

How would we react if we heard that a "secret" study by high Russian leaders contained even a vague inference that a preventive war is preferable to an unfavorable stalemate?

The longer the Gaither report remains wrapped in official silence, the more the Russians may begin to wonder if we are really plotting a sudden, undeclared onslaught. Given their dark imaginations, the prospect is not one to treat lightly.

In their case, moreover, moral compunctions are, from the record, unlikely to be inhibition. Once they convince themselves our leadership is seriously contemplating such a course, what is to prevent them from taking it first?

The "Balance of terror" could thus be upset overnight by a fatal Kremlin misreading of the news about the Gaither study. For this reason, if for no other, the Gaither report should be released at once, accompanied by a vigorous declaration from the President that the U.S. will under no circumstances undertake a "preventive" war.

WE HAVE NO DOUBT this is President Eisenhower's position; we dare not let the world have any doubt about it, or tolerate any uncertainty as to whether he is in full command on this issue. Too many men in too many places have already placed this grim construction on the story.

Unless the whispers are ended, the report will turn into a time bomb, its fateful ticking more ominous each day. And the tighter the Administration's repression of the story, the faster it will tick.

At many crucial moments the President has been silent when his voice needed to be heard; rarely was there a time as crucial as this.

Wild West Reborn 2 Illinois Gunmen Caught by Manhunt

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP)—A supermarket robbery touched off a sequence of kidnaping, manhunts and gunplay with drama elements of an old-fashioned western movie thriller Saturday.

Two gunmen were captured in separate shooting climaxes and a third man was seized for questioning. Three hostages of one fugitive turned on him to win freedom unharmed today after a 40-mile auto flight ended at a quiet road block in Crawfordville, Ill.

He was identified as Walter Gump, 36, of Muncie, Ind., a former convict.

Later, a gunman identified as Van Duyen, 47, of Plainfield, Ill., was shot in the right shoulder and captured after he attempted to shoot it out with nearly 100 policemen in a rural area north of Danville. Police said each man had about $1,500 of the robbery loot.

One gunman, Gump, walked through an armed police cordon with a pistol at Van Duyen's head after calling to officers, "You shoot, and I'll shoot."

Van Duyen as hostage. Gump pushed into the Bolser house where Bolser, Levin, their wives and five children were sitting in the living room.

The drama started at 9:30 p.m. when an unidentified woman motorist saw Van Duyen forced into a store by one or more gunmen just as he was looking up for the night. She phoned Danville police headquarters.

U. S. Dan Wayne immediately dispatched three radio squads to the store and telephoned the supermarket. Gump answered, and replied: "I'm coming out with a hostage. This guy with me's dead the second anyone shoots."

At Crawfordville, 40 miles east of Danville, police capt. Fred Cunningham spotted Levin's car going slowly east in Main Street, U.S. Rt. 136, and called policeman James Smith and two others manning a road block ahead.

Levin, who was driving, said, "I had to stop as soon as we saw the road block, and Gump told me to get out of the car."

"I said, and the police car came up from behind. They shouted for us to come out. I couldn't move because of Gump's gun."

When the police started shooting, Ted (Bolster) grabbed Gump around the neck, and then I jumped in and took the gun."

Cunningham said Gump had $1,500 in his pockets.

Soloist to Appear For Piano Recital

The MSU Music Department will present Lisa Takacs in a graduate piano recital Jan. 24 at 8 p.m. in the Music Aud.

A student of Ernst Victor Wolf, Miss Takacs won the Young Artist's award of the Youngstown Symphony and appeared as piano soloist with that group. In 1957 she appeared as soloist with the Michigan State Symphony Orchestra in the annual Honors Concert.

The program will open with "Pavane in C minor" by J. S. Bach. Other numbers include music by Prokofiev and "Carnegie" by Schumann.

The Inter-Fraternity Council Scholarship Committee is sponsoring a scholarship pledge meeting for all fraternity pledges tonight at 7:15 p.m. in the Music Aud.

Guest speakers will include Vice-President for Academic Affairs, Thomas Hamilton, Tom King, Dean of Men, Roger Forbach, President of IFC, and Pat Burke, Senior Class President.

Vice-President Hamilton will address the winter term pledges on "What the Administration Expects of Students and Pledges at the Fraternity System in General."

Dean Tom King will speak on "What Employers Expect in College Graduates." Following Dean King, Roger Forbach will tell the pledges, "What the Fraternity System Expects of You."

Pat Burke will speak on "What the Fraternity System Expects of You."

Finally, Pat Burke, President of the Senior Class and captain of the Spartan football team will address the group on the value of the Value of Extra-Curricular Activities in conjunction with Scholarship.

It was Bell who helped erase the disappointment which came to the boys when state and local authorities refused to allow them to launch their rocket in Connecticut.

Bell asked Pentagon approval of a plan to have the Navy provide encouragement to the youngsters.

With Pentagon approval the big Navy Neptune bomber carried the four to and from the test site. Navy rocketry experts at Christchurch, the boys said, did everything possible to make the test a success.

David and his companions, Neil Buckley, 17, Charles Svendsen, 17, and William Payne, 16, were "naturally disappointed" over their failure.

"But," he admitted, today, "we learned a lot." His companions agreed. And they again they will.

And just as they had the sympathetic help of the Navy in their test firing attempt, after state and local police and fire authorities had vetoed it as dangerous, they'll have the Navy's aid in putting together their next project.

Dr. Conrad Joseph Bell, commandant of the Naval Reserve Training center here, told them today they can use facilities there.

Alpha Fizzles Navy Aids Rocketeers In Rocket Launching

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Project Alpha will go forward. Four young Wallingford Rocketeers, whose dreams went up in smoke at Christchurch, Va., Saturday, were firm in that belief.

25,640 Vote for Artists In 2nd Annual Music Contest

The shining horns of J. J. Johnson, the baritone sax of Gerry Mulligan, and the vocalizing of Frank Sinatra are three top favorites of America's jazz fans, according to final tabulation of Playboy magazine's second Annual Jazz Poll.

Thirty outstanding U.S. jazz artists were chosen by a total of 25,640 completed ballots containing more than 500,000 individual votes. More than nine times as many votes are cast in this poll than any other.

The poll is to increase interest in the field of jazz and to give the individuals of outstanding talent recognition.

This year's poll was inaugurated last October when the magazine printed the names of leading musicians. Winners are to be featured in the Playboy Jazz All-Star Album.

Some other well-known winners are Chet Baker, Dizzy Gillespie, Shorty Rogers, all on trumpets; Kai Winding on trombone (Kai is going to play during MSU J-Hop intermission); and Errol Garner on piano.

Wildcats Beaten, 83-74

For 2nd Big 10 Victory

John Green Stars, Scores 22 Points

Cagers Meet the Wisconsin Badgers at Madison Tonight

By LARRY WROBLEWSKI
Special to the State News

EVANSTON, Ill.—Michigan State's cagers held off a late minute desperation burst by Northwestern Saturday afternoon to win their second consecutive conference game.

The victory pushed the Wildcats to second place in the Big Ten league race.

John Green, Michigan State's leading scorer, scored 22 points, including 10 in the final quarter. He also had 11 rebounds and 10 assists.

Green's performance was highlighted by a 10-point run in the fourth quarter, which helped Michigan State overcome a 10-point deficit.

The game was a close contest, with Michigan State leading 65-63 at the end of the third quarter.

Green's 22 points were the most he has scored in a game since his freshman year. He also had 11 rebounds and 10 assists.

Forddy Says—

Pressbox Sidelights

EVANSTON, Ill.—You just cannot relax against this Northwestern team. We did in the last four minutes, when we had a 15 point lead and the Wildcats certainly made it close," said Coach Forddy Anderson after his Spartans had defeated Northwestern Saturday afternoon, 83-74.

The popular coach singled out the brilliant scoring and the rebounding as being key factors in winning the second straight victory. "Every member of the starting unit did his share," declared Anderson. "Greening at the final minutes, the leading scorer, Anderson, Hadden, Green, Quiggle and Rand each hit double figures and when we needed the clutch points, Quiggle was there. The Northwestern team is a fine shooting group, but quite as good as Purdue's team, who was probably the best bunch of shooters we've met this year."

Probably the only phrase that wasn't up to expectations was that we lost control of the ball too many times. Next on the list is the Wisconsin team, which is a surprisingly good basketball squad. Again, we'll be on for a rough time.

The cagers played before the smallest crowd this year. The 6,000 in attendance was attributed to regional television coverage of the game. This was the first TV appearance for the Spartans this year. They will play again before a watching audience on February 15 and March 8 when they host Illinois and Indiana respectively.

The 6,000 figure pushed State's total attendance to 39,692 for 11 games at home and on the road.

When the cagers take on Wisconsin tonight it will mark the 26th meeting between the two teams. The Badgers currently hold a 14-11 advantage. Since Anderson took over the coaching duties his teams have downed Wisconsin four straight times.

Outlets: Saturday's offensive output by State was one point shy of the 84 point total scored up against Colorado and Purdue. The Spartans, presently the top defensive unit in the Big 10, allowed 78 points Saturday, the highest this year.

Pistons Lose To Lakers, Rod Hundley

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—The Minneapolis Lakers, led by Rod Hundley, edged the Detroit Pistons 111-106 Saturday in the first round of the National Basketball Assn. playoffs.

Detroit led most of the way in a close game until George Yardley fouled out with 2:11 left in the contest. At that time Detroit's lead was 98-96.

Dick Gramaker, forward, and Bob Leonard, guard, the Minneapolis Lakers, outscored the Pistons 11-7 and made over the triumph.

Gramaker, led Yardley and sophomore Phil Jordan at Detroit for scoring honors with 31 points, who dazzled the crowd of 4,000 with his play, set all his 22 points in the last three periods.

Jordan passed Detroit in a 67-67 halftime advantage with 17 points in the first two periods. Detroit held a 93-84 lead at the end of the third quarter, but turned it in the last quarter and was outscored 31-19. The Pistons hit only three of their first 20 shots in the last quarter, while the Lakers had 14 out of 27.

Yardley, who scored 21 points, had 11 rebounds and 10 assists. He also had 11 rebounds and 10 assists.

who put in 14 points on six field goals and two free throws, including the balanced scoring of Tom Rand who scored his second Big 10 game as a veteran and netted 10 points, setting four two-pointers and converting a pair of foul shots.

In the opening minutes the Wildcats showed the offensive hand on five occasions. At one interval the Spartans held a 10-7 advantage.

The sharpshooting of Hadden, Green and Rand, however, sent the Spartans ahead 23-16 midway through the first 20 minutes.

Green supplied most of the driving power. The lanky cager fired in five straight baskets during a five-minute intermission, the Spartans a 40-36 intermission margin.

The second session began with both teams showing the offensive hand in a fast first half.

Northwestern, paced by sophomore sensation Willie Jones, who had sunk 13 points at halftime, started to narrow State's lead until with 13:02 playing the Spartans were a scant field goal behind.

But Quiggle, often hailed as a clutch performer, snuffed out the threat by quickly coming up with three important field goals.

Now that the cagers were in command they widened their lead to 22 points with 7:13 left to go. Quiggle's two fielders and Hadden's jump shot boosted the score to 64-41.

Northwestern was far from being idle yet and a pair of foul conversions by Nick Mantis plus Warren's and Jones' field goals slashed the gap to only 10 points.
