Bad Practice Nets Another Bad Result

THAT THE FAIRER SEX is still capable of stopping traffic was proved again Monday when a group of Harrison Road sorority denizens teamed up to halt four campus-bound motorists on U.S. 16, two voluntarily and the others more abruptly.

When the glass and old chrome was picked up it was estimated that damage to the cars totaled around $850, indicating in good, concrete figures the cost that is being paid as a result of condoning hitchhiking in the hills of Grand River Avenue.

The fact that the Greek letter coeds moved off campus of their own motivation is enough to make many a critic feel that they should get to class in like manner, especially when they must hitchhike on a much-traveled road like Grand River which has so many blind spots.

Actually it's not such a long way from the outlying sororities to Berkeley that motorized transportation is a must. People who hitchhike this relatively short distance do it because they are used to having things done for them, not because walking would do them great physical harm.

AT THE TIME of this writing plans were reportedly being made to send a delegation of Harrison Roaders to East Lansing officials in an attempt to find some "suitable" method of coexistence between motorist and ride-seeker.

Unless the city agrees to either cut through the hills to improve driver forward vision or construct special hitchhiker pickup lanes — neither of which would be exactly practical — ride beggars must go.

The city cannot be expected to shell out time and money for the support of such an ignoble institution as hitchhiking, nor can it sit idly by while the property damage — and perhaps personal injury — accidents continue to mount up.

If the hitchhikers can charm their would-be chauffeurs into turning down a side street before taking on passengers or if they can arrange for their rides in advance instead of in the gutters of U. S. 16, there's no harm done.

If, however, traffic accidents continue to be directly attributable to hitchhiking there can be no better solution to the problem than outlawing the practice and enforcing the law. It'll be safer for all concerned.

The Right Perspective

The United States' pseudo-spaceman has concluded his seven days in a "moon rocket" successfully and the only thing standing between Mother Earth and her only child is 240,000 miles. The most impressive feature of the latest space test is not that man can live under simulated moon-journey conditions — everyone figured our scientific achievements would make this possible.

What strikes us as most important is the fact that we found out about it — when it happened. Take it for granted if you like, but it's a privilege — so great a privilege that a large percentage of our population is sure that old Uncle Sam is really an old hypocrite who couldn't out-science the Soviets no matter what.

The Russians don't have any Cape Canaveral messes; they just shoot off Sputniks and score every time. That's the way a lot of disillusioned Americans feel, anyhow. The reason these Americans feel so unsure of their country is that their country put its trust in them.

If we were guarded from Uncle Sam's foibles the way some people in this world are we'd probably be just as much a nation of self-confidence as any other — regardless of how much the self-confidence was worth.

We've got to realize that we're not being treated like children but as people who deserve to know what's going on. The sooner everyone learns this fact the sooner American morale will climb back to the top — where it belongs.

Defense Alteration Suggested

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of four articles discussing the content of the recent Rockefeller Report on the problems of United States defense.

By RICHARD McRANE Among the important factors to consider in the report filed by the Rockefeller Special Studies Project is that of basic changes within the defense organization of the United States. The present Department of Defense was established in 1947, but had certain fundamental revisions made in 1949 and a few additional changes in 1953. For the past four years it has remained unchanged and there is still strong sentiment for maintaining it unchanged.

Our American motto, "In God We Trust," was legislated into being about a hundred years ago. We do not trust in God; we trust in hydrogen bombs, ICBMs and fission-powered submarines. Legislating a motto does not make it valid, and it unfairly represents a minority who hold a contrary, equally tenable and equally constitutional belief.

Our minorities do not need or want the patronizing "love and support" of their religiously-superstitious fellows. Constitutionally-guaranteed equality will quite suffice. Our country's "moral fiber" lies not in dictums and mysticism but in the respect of individual rights. This needs no divine authority for its development or preservation.

Chilly Climate Can't Stop Stolid Spartans

Recent cool weather, though stimulating discussion, occasional oaths, increased walking speeds, and ear trouble, apparently hasn't had much effect on the health of hardy Spartans. Olin hospital reports only one case of frostbite—now recovered—and has treated only three or four victims of icy falls. According to Dr. Clifford Menzies, Olin director, students generally take better care of themselves in nippy weather.

FCC Probe Reaches the White House

Schwartz Airs Views On Papers

Lawyer Allowed Access to Files

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Bernard Schwartz asked for and got Monday House-subcommittee files with which he hopes to prove his charge that a White House clique influences federal regulatory agencies.

The Subcommittee on Legislative Oversight, which first named Schwartz as its chief counsel a week ago Monday night, granted his request for access to records involving among others President Eisenhower's chief aide, Sherman Adams, and Col. Gordon Moore, Mrs. Eisenhower's brother-in-law.

Schwartz returned to the witness stand Monday afternoon to resume testifying, as a voluntary witness, on the basis of documents gathered by the subcommittee staff over the past six months under his direction.

The 34-year-old Schwartz, a New York law professor, said Monday morning there was circumstantial but not direct evidence that White House officials attempted to influence the Federal Communications Commission in a Miami television station case.

This was the hotly contested award of a license for Channel 10 in the Florida city to Public Service Television Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary of National Airlines.

Schwartz said the staff established close ties between Mrs. Eisenhower's brother-in-law and the top officials of the TV-station combination.

The lawyer said Col. Moore is in partnership with two public service TV directors in a Dominican Republic shipyard. And he said the files contained newspaper clippings showing Moore and his wife were house guests for an extended period of Nazario's President, G. T. Baker.

An affidavit read into the record said Col. A. Frank Katzenbach, an unsuccessful applicant for Channel 10, was told that there was engineering the decision in favor of National Airlines.

The affidavits, dated Feb. 1, 1957, said the information was indirectly from two of Moore's best friends, not otherwise identified.

Katzenbach also said in the affidavit that a friend of his told "some powerful Republicans in Washington who said there was no chance (for him to get the license) because I was Democrat."

The names of three Senators named up at the session. Schwartz said at first he thought the affidavit was given him by fellow staff members, but when Chairman Harris (D-Mo.) asked if it didn't come from Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) he witness then said he remembered that it did.

Schwartz said there were indications some parties in the House got in touch with Sen. Island (D-Fla.) and Magnuson (D-Wash.).

SPINSTER'S SPIN

Jane Bingham, president of Junior Panthele, and Marlyn Hollins, a pledge trainer, talk to Dr. Ernest Melby after the pledge convocation in the Music Aud Monday night at which the distinguished Professor spoke.

Biggest Want-Love Melby Enumerates Basic Human Need

The basic problem in our world today is not one of mechanics, or science, or engineering, or of money, but rather one of human relations, according to Dr. Ernest Melby.

The distinguished professor in education, speaking Monday night to sorority pledges, pledge trainers, and pledge advisors in the Music Aud at the second annual Pledge Convocation, explained that "science has put wings on the minds of men, but it has not put love in their hearts. This lack of love in the hearts of men is the greatest single lack in the world today.

Melby stressed to the cords that a college graduate should gain more in his years of university "education" than knowledge or skill.

"He should," Melby said, "learn to feel himself a part of all humanity. We Americans must learn to realize that we are only a part of the whole if we shall be successful in our relations with each other, and if our country is to succeed in its relations with other nations."

Dr. Melby, Springfield, Mass., junior, was Panthele's chairman of the annual convocation.

Matmen Looking Forward to Fine Season Next Year

By CHUCK RICHARDS

That old wrestling nemesis, injuries, is about the only roadblock in the way of a fine season for Michigan State's matmen next season.

No less than five sophomores took part in State's key upset over Illinois last Saturday. A sixth sophomore is sitting in the wings waiting to move in when his turn comes.

All this, of course, is making Coach Fendley Collins happy.

Collins has his fingers crossed waiting for next year. "Next year should be a good one. That is if we don't run into too many injuries."

Not only were five sophomores starting against the Illini, but four of them scored victories.

The fifth, Jerry Annesi, was nipped in a close match.

Starting from the lightest weight on up the scale, these are the first-year men who will be seeing much more action on the mats in the future:

123: Dick Baehert. This grappler sneaked into the starting spot by defeating teammate Jack Koehn in practice. He was bothered by injuries earlier in the season.

137: Jerry Annesi. Although only a sophomore, Annesi has been a good performer this season. He is not the stocky type wrestler, but is tall and lanky.

147: Gordon Johnson. Wrestling in only his second match of the season against Illinois, he scored a 5-0 decision. He is learning fast.

157: Bob Moser. Bob has been a standout performer this season. He was good enough to start at the beginning of the year and has paid off with five victories against only one setback.

177: Tim Woodin. Normally a heavyweight, Woodin has had trouble trimming off the necessary poundage to make the lighter weight. He, too, has considerable experience for a sophomore and is getting better.

Heavyweight: John Baum. He has been relegated to a second-string position because of senior Ken Malldow. Baum performed well in a quadrangular meet early in the season. He will be a fine help next year.

Another sophomore, Jim Conroy, suffered a knee injury but should be ready next season. He is a 157-pounder but has wrestled at 167 (and won).

The rosy situation will be spotted only by the conspicuous absence of a pair of State's finest wrestlers.

Don Stroud, who has yet to taste defeat this season and owns a three-year 20-3 slate, will hang up his trunks. Malldow, a good heavyweight, will also call it quits after three years of spectacular wrestling. The huge 205-pounder won 16 in a row before suffering a setback at the hands of the conference champion last week.

LeRoy Fladseth is the only other departing senior. The 167-pounder was severely handicapped with an injury earlier in the year which prevented him from realizing his potential.

It seems all of the Spartans' problems will vanish for next season if they can escape injury. Collins hopes it's as easy as all that.

Browning, Harley 2nd In Skating Tourney

Jim Browning, Indianapolis, Ind., sophomore and Janet Harley, Huntington Woods freshman, placed second in the Midwestern Figure Skating championship held Saturday in Troy, Ohio.

The second place finish makes the pair eligible for the National Figure Skating championships in Minneapolis, Minn., during March.

Bruins May Sign Swede Defenseman

Patrick to Look Over Amateurs

NEW YORK (AP)—General Manager Lynn Patrick of the Boston Bruins revealed Monday he will attend the World Amateur Ice Hockey championships in Norway next week in an effort to sign at least one player from Sweden's defending titleholders.

Patrick's exploratory trip is the result of his having given an offer out to Sven "Tumba" Johansson, Sweden's leading scorer. Skater Patrick is after, however, is Lars Bjorn, a defenseman. "But because he's one of Sweden's top soccer players, he has some other business going for him, Johansson did not want to come over here for six months."

"Johansen recommended Bjorn, who he said is a stand-out defenseman and one of the big reasons the Swedes beat the Canadians, Russians and Americans last year. He indicated that Bjorn would turn professional if the salary was high enough."

Patrick, who coached the Bruins and the New York Rangers of the National Hockey League before assuming his present position, will be accompanied on his trip to Oslo by Walter Brown, President of Boston Garden.

"I'm also going to look carefully at the players on the Swedish and Norwegian teams," explained Patrick. "I don't think there are any players on the American amateur teams who can make our league. The same goes for the Canadians who will be playing in the National League (Sid Smith of the Toronto Maple Leafs and Jean Paul Lamontagne of the New York Rangers)."

The amateur competition, which will run from Feb. 25 through March 9, will include representatives from Norway, Sweden, Switzerland, the United States, Canada, Russia, Czechoslovakia, Finland and Poland.

"The difference in the amateur rules make it hard for a European player to get accustomed to our style in the United States and Canada," Patrick explained.

"In the amateurs, players are not allowed to bodycheck and shove, but if a guy is young and strong, can skate and stickhandle, we can show him the rest."

Hook Improves

CINCINNATI (AP)—Don Hook, when he was with the Cleveland Cubs in 1956, struck out six times in one game against the New York Giants. In 1957 as a third baseman with Cincinnati, Hook had a field day in one game against the Giants, getting four hits in five attempts. He drove in five runs that day.

OSU Upsets Indiana, 93-83

Iowa Crushes Badgers; Illinois Stuns Minnesota

BLOOMINGTON—Ohio State's Buckeyes inflicted Indiana's first home floor defeat of the Big 10 basketball campaign Monday night, 93-83, with 6-foot-4 Jim Laughlin contributing 26 points.

Laughlin broke up the game for the Indiana down 47-37 at the half, was trailing only 81-78. He gave under for two baskets and shot two free throws while the Hoosiers were standing still as they never recovered.

Archie Dees, the Big 10's leading scorer, hit only six field goals in 20 shots and added seven free throws for 19 points. He was outscored by teammate Pete Benesky, with 24.

All of Ohio State's starters posted in double figures. Larry Brown was next to Laughlin with 18 points and Frank Howard 16 points under the boards, got 10 rebounds.

Indiana's defeat was its fourth in conference games. Ohio State, which plays Indiana again in Columbus Saturday night, is 7-5.

CHAMPAIGN—Illinois' bottled up the basketball cellar with 44-37 victory over Minnesota. The victory lifted the Illini to eighth place ahead of the Badgers who suffered their seventh defeat in 11 games. Illinois now 4-6.

Wisconsin, which lost to Iowa, slipped into last place.

WISCONSIN came close to the Hawks with 5:36 remaining before the final gun, as the score stood at 62-56.

However, Iowa pulled into a 10-point lead and led the game as far as the visitors were concerned.

Iowa had led handily most of the first quarter, although Wisconsin tied the home team twice. The first time was 27-27 with 4:22 remaining in the first half and 29-29 a few seconds later.

Rowing Team Acquires 2 Racing Shells

The rowing team, organized last spring, will discuss the coming season's plans at an open meeting Wednesday night at 7:30 in 208 Jenion.

Two racing shells, built for eight men plus the coxswain, were recently acquired from Cornell. The shells are 81 feet long, 18 inches wide and 3/4 inch thick.

The team plans to host at least one race on the Grand River—a governor's cup regatta. Last spring they raced against Purdue and the Detroit Boat Club.

Until the ice breaks, workouts will be held in Jenion. After that practice will be held every morning. Morning practice is almost necessary because of the calmness of the water and absence of traffic at that hour.

Spartans Move Into 12th Place in Weekly AP Poll

IM Results

After spending six weeks near the bottom of the weekly Associated Press poll the Michigan State Spartans have started to climb. As a reward for their 90-84, 69-56 victories over Iowa and Illinois the sports writers and broadcasters have voted them into 12th place.

Cincinnati climbed within nine points of the number one team, Kansas State. The Bearcats received more first and second place votes than Kansas State but strong support in the third and fourth spots gave the Wildcats a slight edge. West Virginia, beaten only once in 21 starts this season, slid back into third place in the rankings.

After the first three, the top ten order was this: Kansas, San Francisco, Temple, Duke, Oklahoma State, North Carolina State, and Notre Dame. Dayton, winner of its last 12 games barely missed tenth place.

Notre Dame, improving steadily this season, impressed the voters with an 89-70 victory over last year's national champion, North Carolina. The Irish are the only other Mid-West team, outside of the Spartans, to be ranked by the poll.
