Folks in Columbus, Ind., passed the hat to build this $600,000 school rather than raise taxes or ask for outside help.

Reject Taxes, Bond Issues

Donations Build $600,000 Public School

COLUMBUS, Ind. (AP)—Those self-reliant folks here in Bartholomew County have dug down in their jeans again and built themselves another school. They didn't resort to anything as common as raising taxes or floating bond issues.

Everybody just reached in their pockets—and kept reaching until they came up with enough money to erect the 17-room elementary school their kids needed. Built at a cost of about $600,000, the building is being used for the first time this term.

It took just two matter-of-fact meetings with school officials before nine local industrial leaders handed over $264,500 to help out. The rest of the money was borrowed—reluctantly—from the state's veterans' bonus surplus fund at one percent interest.

Passing the hat to meet community needs is nothing new for Columbus, a south-central Indiana factory town of 28,000. In fact local citizens have earned a nationwide reputation for being—as the saying goes around here—"as independent as a hog on ice."

Columbus first tried do-it-yourself school building methods in 1931. They hadn't constructed a new school since 1924, and a rapid population growth since World War II had left teachers submerged in an ever-increasing flood of pupils.

In two weeks, contributions amounted to $375,000—largely from business and industry—and the new grade school was built.

But that drive was like a sneeze in a tornado compared to the one that resulted in the new gymnasium in 1952.

Everybody knows a Hoosier would rather play or watch basketball than be turned loose in Ft. Knox with a wheelbarrow. Columbus made up its civic mind to build a new gymnasium.

Campaigning to raise $750,000 began on Dec. 10, 1952. Everybody worked at it. Rural residents joined right in with city dwellers.

Two weeks after the campaign started on Christmas Eve, the citizens of Bartholomew County found themselves with quite a Xmaslike present—more than one million dollars.

The gym, an impressive edifice of stone, brick and glass, has been in use four seasons now. With 7,300 seats, it's the fourth largest in Indiana.

We don't plan to have a gift drive every time we need a new building, explained Luther Lockwood, Columbus school superintendent.

This has been an emergency stage, and from now on we hope that regular taxes will do the job. But it sure is nice to know people can be counted on if anything does go wrong with ordinary methods.

Small Community Survives Accidental A-Bomb Release

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP)—The first community ever known to survive an atomic bomb drop unscathed got the bad news Wednesday from the Air Force.

The bomb did not get off a nuclear explosion when it drifted into the earth in a sparsely inhabited section 15 miles east of here Tuesday at mid-afternoon. But this A-Bomb charge which triggers the nuclear device damaged six homes and a church and killed six persons, one seriously.

High ranking officers stashed through ankle-deep mud of the Mrs. Bluff community in surviving damage done by the errant A-bomb that dropped accidentally from a B-47 jet bomber.

"A company that plans far ahead gives me the chance to work out my future"

"Pleasing design is no accident," says 32-year-old TV set designer Richard Montmeat. "It takes creative planning. At General Electric, we're constantly developing new product designs—including some for products which won't be on the market for several years. Ever since joining General Electric, I've had the opportunity and challenge of working toward the designs of the future. As I see it, a company which plans ahead gives me the chance to work out my own future, too."

The creative accomplishments of Richard Montmeat have already brought him widespread recognition. He was awarded design patents in 1950 and 1955; he won the Industrial Designers Institute Award in 1955; and his design for the 1958 General Electric 17-inch portable television receiver was selected for showing in an international design exposition in Milan, Italy.

Gymnasts Beat Chips By 88-40

The Spartan gymnasts concluded their 1958 season with an easy 88-40 victory over Central Michigan's Chippewas at Mt. Pleasant Tuesday afternoon.

State won first place in all 7 events and also placed second in 5.

This meet provided an opportunity for all men on the team to work in competition before the Big 10 meet at Iowa March 28-29 and the NCAA meet here April 11 and 12. Coach George Szypula entered 5 or 6 men in nearly all events, but only three men counted in actual competition.

Tuesday's meet also gave the team a chance to work the flying rings, which will be included in the NCAA meet. The same apparatus is used for both flying and still rings, but in the former event the rings must be kept swinging back and forth throughout the entire routine.

Brody Radio Slates All Campus Hookup

Lansing Group Offers Grant; Program Content to Vary

By ROGER WILLIAMS

WBRB, the Brody Radio Service, may soon be broad-casting on a campus-wide basis.

James Denison, administrative assistant to the president in charge of public affairs, stated last week that if he could be assured no Federal Communications Commission regulations would be broken he would have no objections to the proposed extension.

Assistant station manager in charge of public relations, Glenn Hartman, Port Haven sophomore, said that necessary funds had been offered by a Lansing group in the station in the form of a grant.

According to Hartman, the grant, which would have to be reported through the State Board of Agriculture, was to help pay for the purchase of a new transmitter in Lansing.

Denison explained that he thought the WBRB staff had neglected the public relations side of the station. When talking about the station, he said, "Denison said that if the station were to be continued, he would not object."

His own feeling was that since the station would serve the students, the students should pay. This system is now in effect with dormitories receiving WBRB being assessed 25 cents per man annually.

Hartman assumed that WBRB has been proposed previously, but he was making sure that the station would be in compliance with all regulations, including technical regulations, which might involve FCC regulations.

A final answer to the university, said that these regulations must be complied with, so the station could be issued a license and start broadcasting. Actually, if an FCC rule was broken, it might jeopardize all licenses held by that institution at that time or any time in the future, the advertiser continued.

The FCC has established a formula limiting the amount of radiation which radio stations may diffuse. This is to eliminate interference with licensed wireless stations.

A proposal now under study to regulate all radio stations to obtain an FCC license. However, under present conditions, if WBRB plans to extend its service, it would not be considered, the FCC advised.

Hartman said that when final plans were approved by the administration, WBRB would be in a position to start broadcasting. The first step would be to set up the station in a central campus location.

He then went on to say, "If everything goes right, we could be in operation campus wide by next fall." WBRB has been operating since spring of 1937 with the entire Brody group now receiving the station.

Programming includes sports, interviews, music, with popular and classical, and various announcements. Since the station is non-commercial there is no advertising.

The signal is transmitted by an antenna tower into the living units, thereby eliminating static. "Twenty eight stations are operating in Lansing, Michigan, and the University of Michigan has the worst radio signal."

Fashion is a poplin coal
this Spring

Poplin coats—now in at GREEN'S—have abandoned the traditional for their showing this Spring. Luxury ribbed cotton boxcoats, clever chesterfields with velvet collars, iridescent materials strung through with copper threads, sharp Ivy League stripes—now mean that there are all-weather coats to suit any and every personality. And the shades are richer, more vibrant than ever before. Beige has turned to honey, tan to butterscotch. For eye-appealing rain-repelling beauty see the new poplin coats now in at GREEN'S.
