African Race Topic Now at Crisis Point

A MAN CAN MAKE only one great discovery, Gilbert Keith Chesterton once said, namely, that there are other persons in the world besides himself. Nowhere in the world does this message more aptly apply than to the Union of South Africa where Afrikaaner Johannes Strijdom and his white supremacy government rule the roost with an iron fist.

Even in the most decadent district in Dixie there has developed a conscience to bar the excesses of bigotry. Even in Soviet Russia, with its slave labor, the evil is not social inequality, but political suppression.

But in South Africa with its semi-fascist leanings, the non-white has been deprived of the few privileges he once enjoyed and now lives in a state of deject poverty and starvation.

In the Transvaal where conditions are the worst because government policies are the most strictly enforced, one marvels that the Negro population, which far exceeds the whites, has not yet resorted to bloody violence in combatting the Strijdom regime.

THE ALMOST UNBELIEVABLE PACIFISM which has thus far contained the anguish of the oppressed majority shows signs of wearing thin at this point after getting nowhere with quiet pleading tactics. Cape Town and Pretoria, both Transvaal metropolitan areas complete with networks of Shanty town communities, may soon be scenes of a mass protest strike action.

The ideal solution to the South African headache, though, would be to have Strijdom toppled in the general election to be held April 16. Strijdom's opposition, the United Party, has long been planning such an event. Enter Sir de Villiers Graaff.

As the leader of the United Party, Graaff is described as "a barrister, farmer, and sportsman, a man of jolly, easy-going disposition," the exact opposite of austere Johannes Strijdom.

Preceded by a distinguished line of United Party liberals including Boer heroes Gen. Louis Botha and Field Marshall Jan Smuts, Sir de Villiers Graaff inherits the party reins at a time when a social reform campaign could conceivably lead to a victory at the polls.

While Negro voting eligibility is denied, there are a great many Afrikaanners who object strenuously to the present Prime Minister and his cabinet—enough perhaps to elect Graaff.

Their feelings were expressed when white students at the University of Pretoria staged a group protest to banning Negro students, a Strijdom move. Author Alan Paton voices the sentiments of many Afrikaanners in "Cry, the Beloved Country" (Paton was recently imprisoned for conspiracy.)

After having lived in South Africa and grown accustomed to the highhandedness of Prime Minister Strijdom, many Afrikaanners doubt that he will be willing to chance a free election which could result in junking all his die-hard policies. His next move will likely be to discard the election outcome on a technicality or to tamper with the ballots to insure a victory.

Either way it looks as though Graaf has a rough fight on his hands and the best policy will be to fight fire with fire.

Petitioning Starts Thursday AUSG Voting Changes Viewed

Petitioning for All-Union elections will open Thursday, according to Student Government election chairman Herb Harman.

The petitioning period will run for two weeks from April 10-24.

Officers are open for Student Congress, all class officers and Student Government President.

Harman also announced the addition of five new balloting places to serve married and off-campus students.

Voting will be held in Spartan Village, University Village, Cherry Lane, Berkeley Hall and Short Course. The married housing balloting will be held in the laundries of the respective districts.

Harman said the new voting areas should be more convenient for a greater majority of students. He stated, "We want to get as many people out as possible and we are hoping to break voting records with as much as 35 percent of the student population voting."

An additional voting requirement dealing with voter eligibility involves the use of colored cards issued by the Elections Commission.

The newspaper Soviet Fleet, organ of the Russian navy, reported the case of an officer named Tikhonov. It said he has been hitting the bottle with abandon, even going so far as to speak from his job for drinks.

Not long ago he came up with the story for his superior that he had to run out to a drug store to get medicine for his son, who had been bitten by a dog. He actually went out for a quick one, the paper said.

He was found out when his wife accidentally spilled the beans to the wife of a superior officer.

Early this year Nikita Khrushchev kicked off a campaign against alcoholism in the Soviet Union—and the Soviet press has been staunchly in favor of temperance ever since.

Frightened Lion Helps End It All

PALESTINE, Italy (AP)—Giovanni Giuliano, 40, an unemployed laborer, climbed up the bars of an open-topped lion's cage at the Palermo zoo today and dropped down inside.

Apparently Hollywood model Ann Polge views the new neck look with the same disdain as Mrs. Mita Paige recently exhibited her "air conditioned" dress (two braided panels and nothing else) at a Hollywood premiere.

Each voter will be registered by the commission and receive a colored card—according to class standing. This card will be good for four years. As each class graduates, that color card will no longer be valid.

This method will eliminate continuous re-registration if the student retains his card for the four year period. New cards can be obtained from the Elections Commission in Student Services.

Harman stated that the class standing of a student for voting purposes will be determined by either the credit system, or whether he will be in a particular class for two terms.

He said this procedure would keep students from voting out of their respective class elections and that any irregularities would receive a stiff penalty.

Reiter Wrong? More on Dulles

A NATIONWIDE CAMPAIGN, supported by Prime Minister Nehru, is under way in India to honor Paul Robeson on his 60th birthday this month. It is doubtful that Robeson will be there; the State Dept. has refused to give him a passport. This will, of course, give the celebration unique anti-American propaganda value.

Apart from the basic constitutional question involved in the passport issue, the State Department's denial of Robeson's right to travel gives the Communists a worldwide theme-song.

Robeson has long chanted the Communist line. But by keeping him at home, Washington merely increases his usefulness to Moscow.

Nehru, in supporting the birthday festivities, says the singer is a sufferer in "the cause of human dignity." This is a cause in which the U.S. has a special interest. Yet the Indian Communists sparking the campaign now claim it as their own.

Is it necessary to hand these anti-American tunes to the Communists on a long-playing platter? When the State Dept. denies an American a passport because his travel would not be "in the national interest," it is, as the Robeson case illustrates, flagrantly undermining the national interest. How long, Mr. Dulles, how long?

Flyweight Champ in Crash

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—World flyweight boxing champion Pascual Perez spent much of the night in police custody after a car he was driving was involved in a fatal accident.

Miguel Hector Cola, 25, a motorcyclist, died early Sunday after his vehicle and Perez' car were in a collision on the outskirts of the city.

Perez took Cola to a hospital, where he died.

Police quoted Perez that Cola was approaching in the opposite direction when the motorcycle suddenly turned to cross to the other side of the highway. The impact threw Cola to the pavement.

Judge Luis Arguero, who handled the case, said he did not plan any immediate action against Perez. Perez, his wife and trainer were to leave late today for Caracas, where the champion has a bout on April 19.

Palmer Wins Ruling, Takes Masters Crown

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Arnold Palmer, a mighty young man with a golf club or a rule book, made the best use of both Sunday and won the 22nd Masters Tournament in a cavalry charge finish.

Palmer, tied with Sam Snead for first place at the start of the final round, outlasted eleven rivals in one of the greatest mass attacks on the Masters title the colorful Augusta National Course has seen.

The muscular 28-year-old professional from Latrobe, Pa., shot the final round in 73, knocking out the earlier pacesetter, Ken Venturi, in a man-to-man duel. He posted a 72-hole total of 284, four under par for the four rounds.

That score was just barely good enough to win as Doug Ford, who won last year's Masters with a whirlwind finish, and lean Fred Hawkins came up to the last green needing birdies to tie—and missed a couple of difficult downhill putts.

Ford's final round of 70 and Hawkins' 71 gave them a second place tie at 285.

But Palmer had to win an argument over a local rule which applied to the rain-sodden course Sunday. At the par three 12th hole, a one-shooter across a tiny pond, his ball struck the bank and became imbedded in the soft earth.

Palmer claimed he was entitled to lift and drop the embedded ball without penalty. He was told otherwise and played out the hole for a five. Then he went back, dropped a provisional ball at the spot and played it out for a par three.

The tournament rules committee, headed by Ralph Edwards, later upheld his contention that he was entitled to free relief from an embedded ball. This came under a local "wet weather" rule authorized by the U. S. Golf Assn. and put in force Sunday.

The big, 6,980-yard, par 36-36-72 Augusta National course was wet and soggy, as it has been most of the tournament, though bright sunshine and brisk, gusty winds prevailed for the final round. Heavy rains all Saturday night made the special rules necessary.

The ruling was the turning point of the tournament—the first major event Palmer has won as a professional. He won the National Amateur championship four years ago and turned pro a few months afterward.

With the double bogey five, Palmer would have been in trouble and almost any of a half dozen or more players might have overtaken him. With the three, he was out in front and it was up to the others to catch him.

Toothless Tigers Lose 6th in Row

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Boston Red Sox ace right-hander Frank Sullivan and Tim Brewer combined to pitch a 3-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers, who suffered their sixth straight defeat here Sunday.

Sullivan gave up just five hits in six innings and Brewer finished off three runners in the 11th inning to give the Sox a 1-0 triumph in their last 12 starts in a compressed League competition.

Jimmy Piersall double down the third base line and Frank Malzone's single to center accounted for the first run off lower Billy Hoist in the fourth inning. The Sox added another on an error a walk and Dick Gernert's single to left in the sixth to give the Sox a 3-0 lead.

The only player trying out a new position besides Drago is Leo VanDer Horst. He is being switched from the forward line to a halfback post. VanDer Horst played right half two years ago but was converted to a forward for the 1957 campaign.

The practice schedule will end with the annual Green-White intrasquad tilt May 17.

Soccer Team Opens '58 Practice Sessions

Six weeks of spring training for the Spartan soccer team begin this afternoon as Coach Gene Kenney's squad looks toward a third straight undefeated season.

With 12 of 14 lettermen returning from the 1957 squad, which posted a 6-0-2 record, and another dozen new hands expected to report to practice, the Spartans have little, if any, manpower problem to cope with.

Noel Drago, who played on the forward line last year, has been switched to goal with great success, according to Kenney.

He is considered the top prospect to replace A. Sasanki, who paced the Midwest defensively last year, allowing an average of .875 goals per game.

The center halfback position, vacated by the graduating Ray Burdett, will be the most difficult to fill, Kenney said. A pair of sophomores, Pete McKinnon and Paul Winther, are fighting it out for the job.

Forwards Art Southan and Al Sarria, who scored 20 of State's 25 goals, will both be back for another year. Sarria and halfback Angelos Piliadis, another returnee, were named to the 1957 All-America squad.

The only player trying out a new position besides Drago is Leo VanDer Horst. He is being switched from the forward line to a halfback post. VanDer Horst played right half two years ago but was converted to a forward for the 1957 campaign.

The practice schedule will end with the annual Green-White intrasquad tilt May 17.

Ken Maidlow Wins NCAA Mat Title

KEN MAIDLOW

TIM WOODIN

Ken Maidlow is an athlete who just never seemed to reach his potential.

The likeable Michigan State wrestler was held in high esteem by the coaching staff when he came here as a freshman four years ago from Lansing, Mich.

That same year he amazed the experts by grappling his way to the national AAU championship.

His troubles began the next year. A knee injury put Ken on the sidelines for the remainder of his sophomore season. He came back strong the next year despite recurring knee problems and this year ran up eight straight victories before dropping his first dual bout in three years—and once more suffered a knee injury.

All was forgotten last week, though, when Ken became the second Lansing wrestler to capture an NCAA wrestling title against the best competition in the country.

Why did Maidlow suddenly emerge as the best in the country at the 191-pound weight when he couldn't even win the Big 10 title?

Sophomore Tim Woodin settled for second place after losing in the final bout. Jim Ferguson also put on a fine showing in seizing a third-place berth.

Bob Moser and John Baer ran into considerable difficulty and failed to place. Moser dropped his opening match against Mason, who defeated the Pacific Coast Conference champion, and could advance no further than the second round.

The Spartans' fine showing earned them the satisfaction of placing in front of Big 10 champion Iowa. The team title was claimed by Oklahoma State, followed by Iowa State and the University of Oklahoma.

Martin Shifts to Fullback Spot

Daugherty Makes Key Experiment

By CHUCK RICHARDS

Duffy Daugherty is engineering a couple of daring changes on the first day of spring football practice.

The Michigan State head football coach caused a number of raised eyebrows when he announced a proposed switch which would send Blanche Martin from left half to fullback and quarterback Greg Montgomery to end.

Duffy demonstrated why he is generally recognized as one of the country's finest grid mentors by employing sound reasoning in pointing out the reasons for the changes.

"We know Blanche is a good left half but we think he can help us even more at fullback. In our offensive system, we use quick opening plays from fullback. This requires a quick left as well as good power and speed. Martin has this."

"Left half requires power in his system. That's why we're moving Bob Berch to that spot. We can always switch back if it doesn't work out. Spring practice is the best time for experimentation."

Daugherty went on to explain the Montgomery move. "He is strong, and fast and has the ability to do a good job. Greg should be a good defensive cover. We lost all our right ends so far weak at that position. Dan Pollis is moving over on left end and Dave Northness will stay at right end."

Daugherty also feels the changes of Larry Cundiff from tackle and guard Don Wright will strengthen the center position left weak with the loss of American Dan Currie.

The likeable coach revealed one of the reasons why he is

For The Record Simply Superlative

By PETE WALTERS

GEORGE SZYPULA'S THIRD of an office in the physical education department at Jenison Gym is becoming smaller and noisier and busier the closer Friday and Saturday, the days of this year's NCAA gymnastics championships, draw near.

Between teaching assorted phys ed classes, serving in his 11th season as MSU gym coach and performing the hundred and one duties of director and host coach for the collegiate title meet, Szypula scarcely has time to voice his personal enthusiasm over the coming event.

But once you catch him with a minute to spare, ease his ever-jangling telephone off the hook and move the record-breaking number of NCAA entries (some 150 performers from 33 schools) to the back of his desk to allow better vision, it's not at all hard to get him started talking.

"This'll be one of the most talented groups of athletes you'll ever have the chance to see under one roof," says Szypula, who at 36 can still demonstrate the athletic prowess that won him five National Collegiate and AAU tumbling titles during his undergraduate days at Temple.

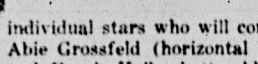

In attendance, he points out, will be Penn State, defending national champ; Illinois, 1957 runnerup and current Big 10 titlist; Army, which defeated Penn State in a dual meet this season, and a half dozen strong dark horse contenders — among them the impressive Spartan squad.

Geographic representation for the meet is "splendid," according to Szypula, with entries coming from such far flung areas as California and Massachusetts, Arizona and Slippery Rock (Pa.). All Big 10 schools except Northwestern and Purdue will send teams.

Included in the long list of individual stars who will compete are 1957 NCAA champs Abie Grossfeld (horizontal bar), John Davis (side horse) and Frank Halland (tumbling) — all Illinois gymnasts. Three other '57 titleholders defending their crowns are Tom Darling of Pitt (flying rings), Garvin Smith of Los Angeles State (rope climb) and Glenn Wilson of Western Illinois (trampoline).

Add to this list a host of regional meet champions—including MSU's Stan Tarshis, who topped Grossfeld on the horizontal bar in the Big 10 meet and scored the highest point total of the contest—and you can see what Szypula has to get worked up about.

Two Games Rained Out Baseball Squad Ends Trip With 5-4 Record

The Spartan baseball nine returned Sunday, from its annual southern training trip with a five win four loss record. The Spartans, handicapped by lack of outdoor drills prior to their trip, dropped three of their first four encounters, but finished strong with four wins in their final five games.

The final game of the trip, against Fort McPherson, was rained out. One other game, against Georgia Teachers College, also was called because of poor weather.

The Spartans split series with the Parris Island Marines, University of Georgia, and Clemson, and won a lone encounter against the University of South Carolina.

They lost their southern trip opener to Clemson, 7-5, but avenged that loss April 3 by a score of 3-2. Defeats also came at the hands of the Marines, 5-3 and 8-9. The Spartans won over Parris Island by scores of 5-3 and 2-0.

Iran's Shah Terminates Marriage

Sorrow Shown As Ruler Signs

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The Shah of Iran tearfully signed Saturday night the final papers officially ending his seven-year marriage to young and beautiful Queen Soraya.

A court announcement said the divorce papers will be delivered to Soraya in Cologne, Germany, today and that the Shah may remarry within 100 days. But a court source said it would be longer than that, because the saddened Shah takes another bride, his third.

The main step in the divorce of the childless couple was taken a month ago in a traditional religious ceremony. The long delay between that and the final signing (registration) had led to speculation that a reconciliation might be in the wind.

But apparently following the word of his royal advisors, the 38-year-old ruler carried through his divorce of the 26-year-old queen because she failed to give him a male heir to the throne. Sources close to the Shah and Soraya said they still love each other but that the Shah was duty bound.

A court source said the Shah was extremely sorry and had tears in his eyes when he signed the papers. The Shah has not hidden his sorrow about the breakup of the marriage. He told his people recently:

"This decision is one of the most difficult I have taken. But I have always forgotten my personal affairs for the sake of the country since I succeeded to the throne."

Under Iranian law Soraya cannot contest the divorce.

WKAR radio has announced an opening for an assistant farm editor which includes some air work and writing.

An agricultural background is not essential, according to Art Fitzmaurice, farm editor.

Idzerda to Air MSU Honors College

The operation of the Honors College at MSU will be detailed at the annual meeting of the National Catholic Educational Association Tuesday in Philadelphia.

Speaking before the group will be Dr. Stanley J. Idzerda, director of the Honors College.

Dr. Idzerda will discuss three problems which the superior student raises for the educators:

1. How can IQ or innate ability be measured reliably?

2. What college environment can best provide the means for student growth?

3. How can the gifted student be motivated to produce his best work?

Superior students are not easier to teach than average students," the director has pointed out. "Educators do not know yet what is the best treatment though it seems probable that individual attention, the opportunity for independent study and a good intellectual climate on campus would be the best way to provide for the superior students."

The Honors College, opened to promising students in September, is a pioneer attempt to provide an honors program on an all-university basis. Students with a B-plus grade average after their freshman year may enter the program. Formal requirements for graduation and advanced courses are waived and, with an advisor, the students work out study programs tailored to their own pace and need.
