Group Begins 3rd Year

Spartan Handbell Ringers Search for New Members

Eight handbells, accomplished musicians, and Wendell Wescott are the only ingredients needed for probably the most beautiful of America's bell-ringing groups. The Spartan Handbell Ringers have been successfully in existence for three years, with many engagements all over the state of Michigan. Special appearances of the group include a performance for President Eisenhower at the annual Christmas party. Television appearances are also in the bag for the group. Actively engaged in the entertainment world, this group of forty-nine English handbells will find themselves playing interesting pieces, tall-tales that suit the needs of bell-ringers. The English handbells were introduced by the Whitechapel Foundry in London, England. This famous foundry has also made London's Big Ben and America's Liberty Bell. The dates back to 1570 in the production of musical instruments.

Wescott, Beaumont Tower director, is along with his own Handbell Ringers leadership. responsible for the concerts of bells pealing from Beaumont Tower every morning at 8 and every evening at 5. Usually after the games the carillon can be heard flowing softly all over campus. He is a member of the National Guild of English Handbell Ringers which keeps him in contact with other organizations similar to the Spartan Handbell Ringers. England is the origin of the handbell ringing interest, dating back to the middle of the 17th century. Now, however, the United States is more actively interested than any other country and Spartan Handbell Ringers are decidedly superior in their calibre of productions. Handbell ringing began in the New England states and has now spread over the entire country. This month Wescott is recruiting new handbell rangers from MSU musicians. Handbell ringing experience is not a prerequisite but a good musical background is desirable. Those interested call IV-9-0663 to arrange for auditions.

Expectant parent classes begin tonight at Olin Memorial Health Center. The series, sponsored by the Health Committee of the Community Services Council, will continue for eight weeks, meeting each Tuesday evening from 7:30-9. Topics for the classes are hygiene of pregnancy, development of the baby, family food habits, labor and delivery, panel discussion by doctors, hospital and infant care. A two dollar registration fee per couple or per person will be charged for the classes.

Remains at Brody WBRB Announces No Signal Change

WBRB manager John MacWhinnie announced recently that the radio station will not change its call signal to WMSR as previously planned. The proposed signal is approximately the same as the probable call signal to be used by WKAR-TV. However, as soon as the station goes across campus to all dorms, the call signal will be changed to something other than WBRB.

MSU Professors Attend Detroit Chem Conference

Three MSU chemists will participate in the annual conference of the Association of Analytical Chemists today and Wednesday in Detroit. Dr. Laurence L. Quill, head of the chemistry department, will chairmen one of the sessions. "Applications of High Resolution Nuclear Magnetic Resonance," a method of studying atomic structures, will be presented by Dr. Max T. Rogers, chemistry professor. A paper on the applications of an instrument for the analysis of changes in composition of acids in solution will be presented by Dr. Andrea Timnik, assistant professor. The paper was authored by R. G. Houser and L. L. Fleck, graduate students, and Dr. Timnik.

MacWhinnie also reported that the proposed space for the station in the Union Building is now occupied by the Communication Arts department. WBRB will remain in Brody for the present, but future plans include a change, possibly to the Student Services Building. Sometime this month, the station expects to have figures on the cost of stringing wire to all dorms. "It is slow progress," MacWhinnie said, "but we are moving steadily towards an all-campus station."

This term, the station received 50 cents per student from the Brody group, which has been receiving WBRB broadcasts for a year. This is an increase of 25 cents per person over last year. Two of the recent WBRB projects were staging the mixer dance at Shaw Hall during registration week and producing the U of M-MSU mixer at Brody Hall. Station announcers and engineers were in charge.

Bike Registration

Students owning bicycles are requested by Campus Police to have them registered. There is no cost to the student, and it aids the police in locating lost or stolen bicycles.

Panel Meeting Slated Tonight

There will be a Panel Meeting Scholarship meeting tonight at 7 in Old College Hall. All security scholarship chairmen and alumni scholarship advisors are invited.

Traffic Court Petitions Due

Michigan Traffic Appeal Court sessions will continue through October 8. Petitions to be obtained in office 309 of the Student Services Building during the hours of 8 and 11:30. A nominating committee will interview prospective candidates and will recommend to the Student Congress for approval. Positions to be filled will call for one male student and two female student and sophomore status. Petitioning requires an average 2.00 grade average.

Fire Prevention Week Observed October 5-11

This week has been declared National Fire Prevention Week and will be observed in all 48 states. Fire Prevention Day was inaugurated Oct. 6, 1911 by the Fire Marshals Association of North America on the 40th anniversary of the great Chicago fire.

In 1912, President Harding designated the week of the 9th as National Fire Prevention Week. Governor General Lord Byng designated the same week that year as Fire Prevention Week in Canada. According to statistics put out by the National Safety Council, every day in the United States there are 1400 home fires, 80 deaths caused by fire, 125 stove fires, 166 factory fires, 110 barn fires, 11 school fires, four hospital fires and nine church fires. The total fire loss in the United States in 1957 was $1,275,000,000, about 2 million more than in 1956.

Mr. Norman V. Steere, assistant director of the Department of Public Safety, has announced that his department will actively campaign for better fire safety at MSU. To preface his campaign, he stressed that fire alarms in the buildings serve the purpose of alerting people in the building. They do not call the fire department.

Below 60 Days U. S. Sub Seawolf Docks After Setting New Mark

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP) — The atomic submarine Seawolf surfaced Monday after a record two months beneath the sea and came home in glory. Her skipper said she could have stayed down twice as long.

One of the first to congratulate her feat was the atomic sub Nautilus from whom she snatches the record with 60 full days underwater, almost twice as long as any vessel ever remained below before.

Newsman aboard the submarine rescue ship Skylark heard Cmdr Dennis Wilkinson, first skipper of the Nautilus, talking by telephone to Cmdr Richard Laming, the Seawolf's skipper.

From the deck of the Skylark, the Seawolf looked no worse for 60 days under water with one minor exception. A section of steel plating on the streamlined outer hull was missing. The superstructure has nothing to do with the watertight hull.

The Seawolf officially surfaced at 10:45 a.m., 60 days to the exact minute since Laming had given the command, "Dive."

Among those on hand to greet Capt. Laming and his Seawolf crew after their historic trip was Rear Adm. H. G. Rickover, "father of the atomic submarine."

For almost an hour before the Seawolf came up, watchers aboard ships and planes had seen her periscope cutting a feather of white water through the waves. Still below and waiting for the long looked-for minute, the Seawolf's crew was checking on position of ships around her.

The Seawolf broke water on the edge of the deep Atlantic, about 40 miles from this, her home port. Then she moved in around her.

Educators to Discuss Engineer Training

John D. Ryder, Dean of the College of Engineering, with Stephen S. Atwood, Dean of the College of Engineering of the University of Michigan will represent education on a panel to discuss the subject, "What is an Adequate Engineering Education?" at the Jackson County Club tonight.

The discussion will begin at 8:00 p.m. following a dinner and short business meeting and is open to the public.

on the surface and tied up alongside her pier.

The Seawolf docked shortly before 4 p.m. accompanied by a band-carrying boat, horns, sirens and fire hoses spouting.

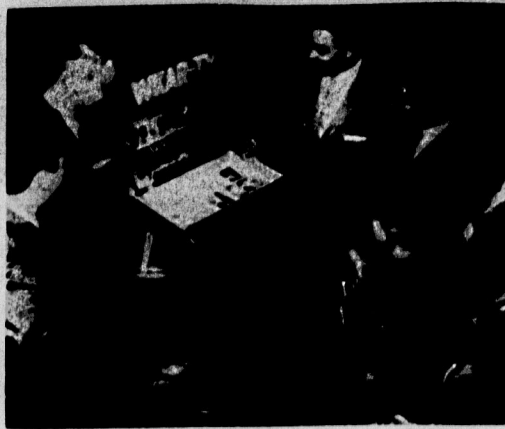

The crew stood on the deck. Four of them sported beards.

Vets Meeting

The second meeting of the Veterans Association will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Room 31, Union. Social activities for the term will be announced, and a special filmed version of the MSU-U of M game will be narrated by the MSU football captain, Sam Williams.

Laming waved from the bridge. He had on a new coat with four stripes flown to him only today so that he could come into port as a newly promoted captain.

Reds Protest CBS-TV Story About Stalin

Ambassador Says
It's Filthy Slander

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Russia's ordinarily hearty ambassador, Mikhail Menshikov, protested bitterly today against an American television show entitled "The Plot To Kill Stalin."

This show, carried by Columbia Broadcasting System Sept. 25, depicted Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev as preventing an aide from giving medicine to Joseph Stalin as the Soviet Dictator lay dying.

Menshikov went to the State Department with his complaint. I voiced a resolute protest against this provocative action, against the Soviet Union and the Soviet Government.

This kind of slanderous attack is incompatible with international standards and inadvisable in normal diplomatic relations.

Menshikov said that it was to be expected that the U. S. government would take steps to prevent such anti-Soviet acts which can only be detrimental to relations.

The State Department took Menshikov's protest under advisement.

Veterinarians Win First Place Trophy

The Junior American Veterinarian Medical Association was awarded a gold trophy for having the best display booth at the Activities Carnival last Thursday night. This was the first time the club had participated in the Carnival.

The display showed the Veterinarians' role in Public Health, Animal Care, and research. A movie was shown on the care of a rabid dog and white mice employed the veterinarians' part in scientific research.

The veterinarians were dressed in white uniforms which are the standard dress for students in the MSU school of Veterinary Medicine.
